INSTRUCTIONS FOR ATTORNEYS COMPLETING CIVIL COVER SHEET FORM JS-CAND 44

Authority For Civil Cover Sheet. The JS-CAND 44 civil cover sheet and the information contained herein neither replaces nor supplements the filings and service of pleading or other papers as required by law, except as provided by local rules of court. This form, approved in its original form by the Judicial Conference of the United States in September 1974, is required for the Clerk of Court to initiate the civil docket sheet. Consequently, a civil cover sheet is submitted to the Clerk of Court for each civil complaint filed. The attorney filing a case should complete the form as follows:

I. a) Plaintiffs-Defendants. Enter names (last, first, middle initial) of plaintiff and defendant. If the plaintiff or defendant is a government agency, use only the full name or standard abbreviations. If the plaintiff or defendant is an official within a government agency, identify first the agency and then the official, giving both name and title.

b) County of Residence. For each civil case filed, except U.S. plaintiff cases, enter the name of the county where the first listed plaintiff resides at the time of filing. In U.S. plaintiff cases, enter the name of the county in which the first listed defendant resides at the time of filing. (NOTE: In land condemnation cases, the county of residence of the "defendant" is the location of the tract of land involved.)

c) Attorneys. Enter the firm name, address, telephone number, and attorney of record. If there are several attorneys, list them on an attachment, noting in this section "(see attachment)."

II. Jurisdiction. The basis of jurisdiction is set forth under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(a), which requires that jurisdictions be shown in pleadings. Place an "X" in one of the boxes. If there is more than one basis of jurisdiction, precedence is given in the order shown below.

(1) United States plaintiff. Jurisdiction based on 28 USC §§ 1345 and 1348. Suits by agencies and officers of the United States are included here.

(2) United States defendant. When the plaintiff is suing the United States, its officers or agencies, place an "X" in this box.

(3) Federal question. This refers to suits under 28 USC § 1331, where jurisdiction arises under the Constitution of the United States, an amendment to the Constitution, an act of Congress or a treaty of the United States. In cases where the U.S. is a party, the U.S. plaintiff or defendant code takes precedence, and box 1 or 2 should be marked.

(4) Diversity of citizenship. This refers to suits under 28 USC § 1332, where parties are citizens of different states. When Box 4 is checked, the citizenship of the different parties must be checked. (See Section III below; NOTE: federal question actions take precedence over diversity cases.)

III. Residence (citizenship) of Principal Parties. This section of the JS-CAND 44 is to be completed if diversity of citizenship was indicated above. Mark this section for each principal party.

IV. Nature of Suit. Place an "X" in the appropriate box. If the nature of suit cannot be determined, be sure the cause of action, in Section VI below, is sufficient to enable the deputy clerk or the statistical clerk(s) in the Administrative Office to determine the nature of suit. If the cause fits more than one nature of suit, select the most definitive.

V. Origin. Place an "X" in one of the six boxes.

(1) Original Proceedings. Cases originating in the United States district courts.

(2) Removed from State Court. Proceedings initiated in state courts may be removed to the district courts under Title 28 USC § 1441. When the petition for removal is granted, check this box.

(3) Remanded from Appellate Court. Check this box for cases remanded to the district court for further action. Use the date of remand as the filing date.

(4) Reinstated or Reopened. Check this box for cases reinstated or reopened in the district court. Use the reopening date as the filing date.

(5) Transferred from Another District. For cases transferred under Title 28 USC § 1404(a). Do not use this for within district transfers or multidistrict litigation transfers.

(6) Multidistrict Litigation Transfer. Check this box when a multidistrict case is transferred into the district under authority of Title 28 USC § 1407. When this box is checked, do not check (5) above.

(8) Multidistrict Litigation Direct File. Check this box when a multidistrict litigation case is filed in the same district as the Master MDL docket.

Please note that there is no Origin Code 7. Origin Code 7 was used for historical records and is no longer relevant due to changes in statute.

VI. Cause of Action. Report the civil statute directly related to the cause of action and give a brief description of the cause. Do not cite jurisdictional statutes unless diversity. Example: U.S. Civil Statute: 47 USC § 553. Brief Description: Unauthorized reception of cable service.

VII. Requested in Complaint. Class Action. Place an "X" in this box if you are filing a class action under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23.

Demand. In this space enter the actual dollar amount being demanded or indicate other demand, such as a preliminary injunction.

Jury Demand. Check the appropriate box to indicate whether or not a jury is being demanded.

VIII. Related Cases. This section of the JS-CAND 44 is used to identify related pending cases, if any. If there are related pending cases, insert the docket numbers and the corresponding judge names for such cases.

IX. Divisional Assignment. If the Nature of Suit is under Property Rights or Prisoner Petitions or the matter is a Securities Class Action, leave this section blank. For all other cases, identify the divisional venue according to Civil Local Rule 3-2: "the county in which a substantial part of the events or omissions which give rise to the claim occurred or in which a substantial part of the property that is the subject of the action is situated."

Date and Attorney Signature. Date and sign the civil cover sheet.

3. My case belongs in federal court

■ under federal question jurisdiction because it involves a federal law or right.

Which federal law or right is involved?

Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), Medicaid Act, SNAP Regulations, Civil Rights Act, and Federal Procedural Laws

III. VENUE

The counties in this District are: Alameda, Contra Costa, Del Norte, Humboldt, Lake, Marin, Mendocino, Monterey, Napa, San Benito, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, San Francisco, San Mateo, or Sonoma. If one of the venue options below applies to your case, this District Court is the correct place to file your lawsuit. Check the box for each venue option that applies.

☐ a substantial part of the property I am suing about is located in this district.

☐ I am suing the U.S. government, federal agency, or federal official in his or her official capacity and

I live in this district.

■ at least one defendant is located in this District and any other defendants are located in California.

IV. INTRADISTRICT ASSIGNMENT

The San Francisco/Oakland division covers Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, Napa, San Francisco, San Mateo, and Sonoma counties The San Jose division covers Monterey, San Benito, Santa Clara, Santa Cruz counties. The Eureka-McKinleyville division covers Del Norte, Humboldt, Lake, Mendocino counties, only if all parties consent to a magistrate judge.

1. Because this lawsuit arose in Jefferson (KY) - See Plaintiff Stmt of Venue County, it should be assigned to the Northern District of California Division of this Court.

V. STATEMENT OF FACTS

Write a short and simple description of the facts of your case. Include basic details such as where the events happened, when things happened and who was involved. Put each fact into a separate, numbered paragraph, starting with paragraph number 6. Use more pages as needed.

JOHN R. FOUTS, et al.,

Plaintiffs,

v.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY, et al.,

Defendants.

Case No. 24-cv-09325-AMO

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE RE VENUE

Re: Dkt. Nos. 1, 4

Plaintiff John R. Fouts initiated this pro se action on behalf of himself and his minor child on December 18, 2024. ECF 1. That same day, he filed a motion for preliminary injunction, permanent restraining order, and permanent protective order. ECF 4. Fouts and his child are residents of Kentucky who suffer from multiple medical conditions. Id. at 3. Fouts alleges dozens of statutory and constitutional violations against myriad Kentucky and federal agencies stemming from, among other things, alleged failure to receive social security checks and prescription drugs by mail, exposure to mold and other hazardous conditions in Fouts's dwelling and subsequent inability to obtain adequate medical care, as well as being subject to an improper Child Protective Services investigation, all in Kentucky. See id. at 8-35.

The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provide that a civil case may be brought in (1) a judicial district in which any defendant resides, if all defendants are residents of the State in which the district is located; (2) a judicial district in which a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to the claim occurred, or a substantial part of property that is the subject of the action is situated; or (3) if there is no district in which an action may otherwise be brought as provided in this section, any judicial district in which any defendant is subject to the court's personal jurisdiction with respect to such action. 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b).

If venue is improper, a district court "shall dismiss, or if it be in the interest of justice, transfer such case to any district or division in which it could have been brought." 28 U.S.C. § 1406(a). Courts may sua sponte raise improper venue if the defendant has not filed a responsive pleading and the parties are provided with an opportunity to respond to the issue. Costlow v. Weeks, 790 F.2d 1486, 1488 (9th Cir. 1986). "Venue is determined at the time the action is commenced." Haney v. United Airlines, Inc., 2016 WL 11576197, at *1 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 3, 2016) (citations omitted). Plaintiffs bear the burden of demonstrating that venue is proper. See Piedmont Label Co. v. Sun Garden Packing Co., 598 F.2d 491, 496 (9th Cir. 1979).

From reviewing Fouts's Complaint and Motion, it appears venue does not properly lie within this District. Fouts has listed the following as defendants: Commonwealth of Kentucky; Kentucky Cabinet for Health and Family Services; Kentucky Department for Medicaid Services; Louisville Metro Housing Authority; Property Management of Louisville; Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services; Equifax Workforce Solutions; Norton Healthcare, Inc.; Baptist Health Louisville; The Marion House; The Ole Homeplace ADHS; Access ADHS Adult Day Healthcare LLC; Bloom Elementary School; USDA Food and Nutrition Services; and Does 1-125. ECF 2. While Fouts indicated venue is proper in this Court because "at least one defendant is located in this District and any other defendants are located in California," ECF 1 at 3, Fouts has neither listed a California address for any defendant nor otherwise alleged that any defendant resides here. Moreover, no events or omissions giving rise to Fouts's claims are alleged to have occurred in California, much less this District. Fouts's bare assertion that the Western District of Kentucky is not a suitable venue "due to [the] inability [to] have an unbiased and impartial experience," ECF 5 at 2, does not suffice to show venue is proper here.

Accordingly, Fouts is ORDERED TO SHOW CAUSE why this action should not be dismissed or transferred due to improper venue. By January 23, 2025, Fouts must file a response no longer than five pages explaining why venue in the Northern District of California is proper. Alternatively, Fouts may consent to transfer the case to a proper venue. If Fouts does not file a response by January 23, 2025, this case will be dismissed with prejudice.

Additionally, Fouts is advised that resources are available for parties who are representing themselves in the Northern District of California. The Court encourages all self-represented litigants to consult with the Federal Pro Bono Project (sometimes also called the Legal Help Center), though this is optional. To schedule an appointment with the Legal Help Center, email fedpro@sfbar.org or call (415) 782-8982. The Northern District of California website also has various resources available, including a Pro Se Handbook about how to represent oneself in court. These resources are available online at: https://www.cand.uscourts.gov/pro-se-litigants/.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

MOTION TO COMPEL COMPLIANCE WITH ADA ACCOMMODATIONS AND COMMUNICATION STANDARDS

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
John R. Fouts v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, et. al.
Case No.: 24-cv-09325-AMO

MOTION TO COMPEL COMPLIANCE WITH ADA ACCOMMODATIONS AND COMMUNICATION STANDARDS

Introduction

Pursuant to the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and Federal Rules of Civil Procedure*, *Plaintiff respectfully moves the Court to compel the Commonwealth of Kentucky and its associated agencies and representatives to comply with federally mandated ADA accommodations, specifically regarding the provision of all communications in writing via email and/or fax, in addition to traditional mail.

Statement of Facts

1. Plaintiff is a person with disabilities as defined under Title II of the ADA and SSA Title II.

2. Plaintiff has repeatedly requested that the Defendants provide communications in accessible formats, specifically via email or fax, due to cognitive limitations, accessibility needs, and documented issues with the reliability of mail delivery from Defendants.

3. Defendants have explicitly refused to comply with these requests, stating they will only communicate via traditional mail.

Issues with Traditional Mail

- Delays and suspicious irregularities in the receipt of critical documents from Defendants.

- Plaintiff's inability to respond in a timely manner due to delayed delivery or non-receipt of mailed communications.

MOTION TO COMPEL COMPLIANCE WITH ADA ACCOMMODATIONS AND COMMUNICATION STANDARDS

- The physical and cognitive strain required to track and organize mailed communications under time constraints.

- The inability physically sometimes for Plaintiff to be able to make it physically to the post office in the event mail is sent as certified mail, which it inconsistently is by agencies of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, et. al.

- Patient lives at an apartment complex, therefore, if mail is sent as certified, it is always delayed by at least one day. Mail does not arrive at the same time every day, and the Plaintiff does not live at the centrally located apartment complex mailbox area. This will generally always result in at least a 1 day delay, and often more as an example if the mail is attempted to be delivered on a Saturday, and then the Post Office is closed on Sundays, and there is no way to receive the certified mail in that case, in the event it was sent certified to begin with.

- There is evidence of mail being tampered with, and packages being opened.

- There is also not a good way of record to record specific information being sent or received via traditional mail, and fax and email ensure that integrity and honesty are facilitated.

Legal Basis

1. The ADA guarantees individuals with disabilities the right to reasonable accommodations to ensure equal access and effective communication.

2. The refusal to provide communications via email or fax constitutes a violation of Title II of the ADA, and is further evidence of the state's ongoing refusal to follow federal law without accountability or consequence, and actors in their individual capacities for the entities for who they represent.

See Exhibit: EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

MOTION TO COMPEL COMPLIANCE WITH ADA ACCOMMODATIONS AND COMMUNICATION STANDARDS

Request for Relief

Plaintiff respectfully, please, requests that the Court issue an order compelling Defendants to:

1. Provide all communications, notices, and responses via email and/or fax, in addition to mailing, to ensure timely and accessible delivery.

2. Include confirmation of delivery via email or fax to document compliance.

Conclusion

The refusal of Defendants to comply with reasonable accommodations is not only a violation of federal law but also creates significant barriers to Plaintiff's ability to participate in these proceedings and to advocate for their fundamental rights.

Plaintiff respectfully requests the Court's immediate intervention to ensure compliance and protect Plaintiff's rights under the ADA.

Respectfully submitted,

I just received a phone call but did not answer from Sam. I have specifically requested written communication because my PTSD is extremely exacerbated by many conditions that involve a multitude of rights violations by Kentucky agencies, and other agencies and/or entities. This is my right and it is protected under the Americans With Disabilities Act. Thank your or letting me know about the SCD request. Can you please give me a timeline of when you received the order from my doctor, when you processed it on your end, and any other action steps taken? What about for the methylene blue, red light therapy, and other items? Please let me know, in writing, as soon as possible. Thank you Sibal.

John

p.s. I hope you had a good restful Thanksgiving weekend and the days off were relaxing for you.

Subject: Formal Request for Written Correspondence Only – Severe Harm and Federal Law Violations – John R. Fouts – 2024-11-25

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to formally request that all communications with me be conducted exclusively in writing. This includes correspondence sent via mail, email, and fax to ensure a reliable, documented record of all interactions. This request is based on the following critical points:

1. Accountability for Federal Law Violations

   Kentucky has failed to comply with Section 1915(c) of the Social Security Act, Olmstead v. L.C., Section 1983 of Title 42 of the U.S. Code repeatedly over a vast amount of time, and other federal statutes requiring the provision of services, treatments, and accommodations necessary for individuals with disabilities.

   Despite repeated submissions of federal laws and supporting documentation by both myself and Kentucky's own exhibits, the state continues to engage in willful neglect, criminal conduct, and willful endangerment.

2. Severe Permanent Harm and Irreparable Damage

   The ongoing violations of federal law have caused severe, irreparable harm, including advancing brain atrophy, permanent physical damage, and worsening mental health conditions such as PTSD. These violations constitute cruel and unusual punishment, as well as violations of the 14th Amendment (equal protection and due process) and 8th Amendment (protection against cruel and unusual punishment) of the U.S. Constitution.

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

3. Willful Endangerment and Neglect

Kentucky's refusal to adhere to federal law and its continued denial of medically necessary treatments, goods, and services—despite evidence from myself and treating physicians—represents willful endangerment.

This refusal, coupled with repeated delays in communication and denials of coverage, puts my life at imminent risk. Kentucky has no regard for my life or my health or the health of my child.

4. Formal Requirement for Written Correspondence

To protect my health and document the state's ongoing actions, I require immediately all communications to be sent via:

- Mail:
  Mr. John R. Fouts, MBA
  2904 Sitka Dr. Apt. L29
  Louisville, KY 40299
- Email:
  Fouts.John@gmail.com (cc: patientadvocacy@sfnlife.org)
- Fax:

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

5. Inadequacies of Current Systems

   - Portal Issues: The state's online system frequently fails to display notices and messages in a timely manner, or I am not even able to access the system for weeks at a time or months at a time for some information despite multiple outreaches to many departments within Kentucky state level government.

   - Mail Delays: Important documents, including notice of exhibits for a November 21, 2024 hearing, were received two days after the hearing on November 23, 2024, so I did not even see them until 2 days after the hearing.

   - Email and Fax: Ensuring multiple delivery methods will mitigate these failures and hold all parties accountable for adherence to legal obligations at the federal and state levels.

Conclusion and Demand for Accountability

This request is made under my rights granted by the ADA, Section 1983, Olmstead Act, Section 1915(c) of the Social Security Act, and other applicable federal laws. Given the state's systemic and willful violations of these laws, which have caused severe and irreparable harm, I am actively pursuing federal whistleblower protections and filing formal federal complaints, including seeking criminal and civil accountability under Color of Law statutes.

I am demanding the maximum prosecution allowable by law, including, but not limited to, imprisonment, punitive and compensatory damages, and fines, for every individual act of negligence, denial, and malicious harm caused by, but not limited to, Kentucky agencies and representatives.

These demands include accountability for willful endangerment, systemic discrimination, and cruel and unusual punishment, and more, all of which have resulted in irreversible harm to my health and well-being.

Furthermore, the state's actions directly violate federal law and have permanently and catastrophically impacted my life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness. I demand transparency and accountability in all interactions, and all communications must be conducted in writing via mail, email, and fax, on a timely basis to ensure accurate documentation.

Failure to comply with this request will result in additional counts of federal charges being pursued, further escalating the demand for maximum legal penalties.

Sincerely,

John R. Fouts, MBA

John,

I read your email. However, the contact information you are requesting, those help desks have not provided an email for us to give out, only phone numbers. If you would like for your request to be heard by the applications that you have applied to your account, you or someone you trust will need to contact those help desks at those numbers and see what those help desks can do for you.

Regards,

Chris

Sibal,

You stated today, verbally, that you had been waiting on the CAP form for 30 days in our call, but you sent me the blank PDF and notified me that the old one was not accepted on November 19, 2022, which was only a few days ago -- this email that I am responding to documents that information.

Please find attached the revised CAP form. I'm sorry I could not get it back to you yesterday as I had hoped, but it is provided for you here in this email now.

Please see the attached letter for my response. Yes - regarding attendant care - it is difficult to get used to having a stranger in your home.

Lauren had hired Foma at first to come as a caregiver - but he did not understand English and it was not possible to communicate with him in an effective way.

She then hired Shelby, and Shelby called in and no-showed more than half of the time - just making sure you are taking ACCURATE and COMPLETE notes.

One day, I had forgotten about a lab appointment in Lexington, and I had to cancel that day for attendant care - so one day of cancellation was on me.

Lauren took Foma off of the job, but he continued to try to come. He also did not show up on days sometimes when he was supposed to work, and did show up sometimes on days he was not supposed to work.

Lauren took Shelby off of the job due to her > 50% no show rate, but then she tried to show up randomly as well.

Dafne has been scheduled for 5 days that have elapsed so far, and she has missed / been sick/absent for 2 of the 5 days missing 40% of the scheduled time. ACCURACY is important, as is COMPLETENESS and TRANSPARENCY.

There has not been any way, shape, or form, of any type of consistent attendant care - it continues to be a horrible experience. Dafne is new and I think she may be alright, but she already missed nearly half of the time - so I am apprehensive (as a good word to use for now).

Please read the attached letter - it says all I have to say - in terms of legal relay of information.

Regarding the federally illegal cap stated by Kentucky - it is not your job to aid and abet this type of federally illegal activity - in fact that includes you in a group that you definitely do not want to be included in....

Sibal - again - I am not going to allow federal law to be violated in my case, and I am standing up for the rights of others - as illegal activity in Kentucky is harming irreparably disabled people such as myself - Kentucky is acting in violation of federal law and in this situation, multiple violations apply including constitutional, civil, criminal, and tort....some of these violations involve prison time. I urge you to read the federal law, and to choose the right side of the law (the legal side).

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

Nothing is unclear to me aside from why you, and your managers continue to stand in violation of federal law and include yourselves in federally illegal criminal violations and activities that involve in some cases, many years of time in prison if convicted.

As previously noted, a federal investigation is already underway through the Office of Civil Rights regarding ADA and Olmstead Act violations in my case regarding the HCBS program. The OCR does not open formal federal investigations unless there is enough evidence to prove violations.

I have also now filed a claim in U.S. Federal District Court outlining the violations of federal law, constitutional rights violations, civil and criminal violations, and torts that are taking place illegally here in Kentucky....as I told you I would...

It is part of your job, and Sam's job, and others at all Waiver goods and services centers in Kentucky, and elsewhere, to stand up for the rights of the participants in the program -- not to allow illegal activity to undermine the mere purpose of the program's existence itself...

There is no unclear understanding on my end, and I do not appreciate the condescending tone. I do not speak to you in such a way. It is important to keep communication professional - please.

I expect to be treated with respect and dignity. It is my position that it is you and your co-workers who are unclear on the law, and I truly urge you to read the law, and to read the penalties for violations.

I have attached a file showing visits. The Copper infusion this week got moved to the 23rd of next week because Jackie has been very ill with cyclical vomiting syndrome issues and related - multiple trips to ER for her and urgent care...The MRV of Pelvis also had to be reschedule due to Jackie's illness -t hat has been moved out until March (that is their first available) - I am still trying to find someone closer.

I too have had to go to ER -- Severe Ear Pain - Moderately Severe Ear Infection
Later sudden hearing loss in right ear - so emergency appointment with ENT to address that Then next day emergency hearing test and evaluation with ENT....
Still have the hearing loss - infection is not resolved - antibiotics are not helping...have contacted ENT for further guidance...
Had Stat CT Scan at Norton downtown....no hearing on one side makes me dizzy, have vertigo worse, and have balance issues worsening....

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

The only medication changes were temporary - Augmentin and then Doxycycline for the ear issue - did not resolve it....either antibiotic resistant or not bacterial in nature.

Possibility of fungal infection especially from past exposure history, propensity of fungal infections to occur in ears at times in certain situations, reduced immune response and susceptibility to fungal infection due to taking CellCept....unfortunately doctors have not ordered cultures despite my wishes to identify what the infection is so it can be treated adequately.

I am also part of a clinical trial through Stanford for Low Dose Naltrexone - but I do not know if I have the Placebo or the LDN (I feel strongly it is the Placebo as I have taken LDN in the past and I do not feel that the item I am taking is the same as the former experience in any way really). Of course I am sicker now, so it is hard to tell.

My health is poor... I am unable to get goods and services that I qualify for, and am eligible for, due to obstruction of justice, color of law doctrine violations, and many other violations as noted in the attached....this will all be addressed in federal court...if not corrected sooner as noted...

I have asked the judge in the court documents to prosecute to the maximum extent of the law for all violations, and there are a great plenty.

I believe I have answered all of your questions.

12/29/24, 10:58 PM Gmail - Re: Monthly Summary 12/18

Good afternoon John,

I was wanting to check in with you to see how you were doing. Firstly, I received your previous email and was wanting to ask if you were still wanting to work with Access Care for Case Management Services, if you would like to stay with us, I can continue to assist you. But if you would like to try other Case Management Services, I have also attached a Provider Directory to this email with other agencies who work with the Home and Community Based Waiver Services like we do.

In the meantime, I want to inform you that the Sequential Compression Device is currently still pending from Medicaid. They are insisting on more information that is needed to justify this device. I have given them more information like they requested to explain the necessity of this device. So, I'm currently waiting for them to review everything again. I cannot order anything else through the waiver until this order gets processed from Medicaid. I have been informed by Lauren that you have started with a new Caregiver Dafne who is scheduled to work Tuesday-Thursday from 9-1pm. Lauren has also informed me that you declined to have attendant care services on 12/24-12/26 and 12/31-1/2. Per your request, attendant care services will pick back up on 12/19 and 1/7. I have made a note of that on my end as well.

I understand that the limit on Goods and Services placed on participants by Kentucky (Not Access Care or Case Managers) has upset you, but it is my job to follow Kentucky regulations to best assist waiver participants and I need you to understand that because I believe that we may still be having issues on grasping this concept . My case supervisors and I have informed you of Home and Community Based Services when we completed the MAP 116 and the Annual POC and the Corrective Action Plan that this regulation is part of the waiver itself. If it is still unclear to you, please feel free to reach out to other providers who you feel would best assist you with your needs from the directory below.

Since you prefer written communication per your previous emails, I was wanting to ask you a couple questions about how you've been since our last contact:

Do you have any medical appointments coming up?

Any medication changes this month?

How do you describe your health currently?

Have any of these following taken place since our last contact? (Injury, Fall, ER Visits)

If you have met Dafne, do you feel that she adequately meets your needs based on the Plan of Care. (Housekeeping, Laundry, Prescription Pick- up, etc.)

Written communication is not a preference – it is a LEGAL RIGHT under the ADA.

Critical Issues, Legal Violations, and Immediate Demands for Action

Access Case Management, Access Adult Health Day Care Center LLC, and any other DBA or related names, or associated entities

December 19, 2024

Subject: Critical Issues, Legal Violations, and Immediate Demands for Action

Dear Sibal and Sam et. al.,

Thank you for your email communication. Below is my detailed response to address ongoing issues, my legal position, and my expectations moving forward.

A. ADA Accommodations and Written Communication

As noted previously, my request for written communication is not a preference but a:

Legally Mandated Accommodation Under Title II of the ADA

...due to PTSD and other related health conditions...

* All future communication must be provided in email, fax, and certified mail to comply with federal law and avoid further violations. ****

Failure to adhere to this requirement constitutes a direct violation of the ADA, subject to penalties, including compensatory and punitive damages, as well as potential criminal liability under federal statutes such as 18 U.S.C. § 242.

Additionally, I have initiated a formal federal ADA OCR investigation, which has already begun, and is ongoing as of this time, into the systemic and egregious violations of my ADA rights.

 This investigation underscores the severity of the claims outlined here. ******

Critical Issues, Legal Violations, and Immediate Demands for Action

Access Case Management, Access Adult Health Day Care Center LLC, and any other DBA or related names, or associated entities

B. Sequential Compression Devices (SCDs)

The delays and denials related to the SCDs are egregious violations of my constitutional, statutory, and ethical rights, including, and not limited to:

- 8th Amendment (Cruel and Unusual Punishment).
- 9th Amendment*, protecting unenumerated rights essential to liberty and health.*
- 13th Amendment (Involuntary Servitude).
- Social Security Act § 1915(c) requiring medically necessary services under the waiver.

Medicaid already has ample documentation, including, and not limited to:

- Clinical notes and multiple letters from both Dr. Dwivedi and Dr. Vaughn explicitly outlining the medical necessity of lifelong compression therapy.
- A prescription from Dr. Allen that was provided, despite being unnecessary under federal Medicaid law. Requiring an in-state prescription duplicates efforts and constitutes the following, and is not limited to the only law(s) listed:
  - Fraudulent denial of services under 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(10)(B) and 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(8).
  - A breach of Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act (29 U.S.C. § 794).
  - A direct violation of the Supremacy Clause*, as federal Medicaid law preempts state-imposed barriers.*

Evidence of willful abandonment, willful endangerment, and systemic retaliation, reflecting a malicious intent to harm me and my child.

Legal Violations and Consequences

1. Deprivation of Rights Under Color of Law (18 U.S.C. § 242):
   - Punishable by:
     - Up to 10 years in prison per violation per person involved.
     - More severe penalties, including life imprisonment or the death penalty, if the violation results in death or involves severe harm.

2. Americans with Disabilities Act (42 U.S.C. § 12188):
   - Civil penalties for noncompliance:
     - $75,000 for the first day of violation.
     - $150,000 for each subsequent day of violation.
   - Each day of noncompliance constitutes a separate violation.
   - These penalties apply to each entity or individual responsible for the violation.

3. Tort Violations:
   - Breach of Contract:
     - Violates agreements under Medicaid and HCBS waivers.

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

- Subjects responsible parties to compensatory and punitive damages for financial and emotional harm caused by noncompliance.

- Breach of Good Faith and Fair Dealing:
  - Demonstrates intentional obstruction of services owed to recipients.
  - Exposes violators to punitive damages for gross negligence and malice.

4. RICO (Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act):
   - *Coordination between agencies to obstruct access to services constitutes collusion and conspiracy.
   - Fraudulent denial of benefits and misuse of funds are actionable under RICO, carrying additional financial and criminal penalties.

5. Prolonged Violations:
   - For violations spanning over 365 days, cumulative under 42 U.S.C. § 12188 could exceed:
   - Civil Penalties
     - $54.75 million per issue (based on $75,000 for the first day and $150,000 for each subsequent day).*
     - Issues such as, but not limited to: compression stockings denials, red light therapy denials, access to hyperbaric oxygen denials, NAD+ denials, etc...*

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

6. Combined Penalties:

- These figures exclude compensatory damages (to reimburse the victim) and punitive damages (to punish and deter).
- Total criminal penalties across violations could result in decades of imprisonment, depending on the number of individuals and violations involved.

C. Systemic Patterns of Discrimination and DOJ Investigations

Recent findings by the U.S. Department of Justice have highlighted systemic discrimination, including:

1. Breonna Taylor DOJ Investigation Findings (Louisville, KY):

   The DOJ found systemic ADA violations and civil rights abuses by Louisville Metro Police and other entities. These findings directly correlate to the ongoing denial of my ADA rights and the retaliation I face. Source: DOJ Report on Louisville ADA and Civil Rights Violations.

2. Arizona Department of Child Safety (DCS) DOJ Findings:

   The DOJ found widespread discrimination against parents and children with disabilities, including failures to provide necessary accommodations and wrongful accusations against parents of children with special needs. This is directly relevant to the harm I've experienced. Source: DOJ Report on Arizona DCS Violations.

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

Critical Issues, Legal Violations, and Immediate Demands for Action

These findings substantiate my claims of systemic discrimination, obstruction, retaliation, and collusion.

D. Violations of HIPAA, FCRA, and FACTA

Between January 2023 and October 2024:

- The Commonwealth of Kentucky/DCBS contacted Equifax Workforce Solutions (EWS) 19 times in 22 months.
- CMS contacted EWS 10 times during the same period.
- The Social Security Administration (SSA) checked only once*, demonstrating a stark contrast in frequency and purpose.*

These excessive inquiries violate:

- HIPAA*, for improper sharing or misuse of protected health information without my consent.*
- FCRA (Fair Credit Reporting Act), for improper access to or use of consumer reports without a valid or permissible purpose.
- FACTA (Fair and Accurate Credit Transactions Act), for failing to ensure the accuracy of information used to make determinations impacting my access to benefits.

These actions demonstrate fraudulent misuse of private information, obstruction of justice, and violations of federal and state laws.

E. Federal Filing and Nationwide Precedents

I have filed a federal case in the U.S. District Court, which is actively progressing. This case has the potential to:

- Set nationwide legal precedents protecting the rights of individuals with disabilities.
- Drive sweeping reform within Medicaid, child welfare, and healthcare systems, ensuring better outcomes for vast segments of the population.

'This case is not just about me and my child — it is about protecting the constitutional, civil, and human rights of millions who have been harmed by systemic negligence and abuse, ensuring accountability for crimes committed against them, and "restoring and preserving the rights of the people", as outlined in the Declaration of Independence of the United States:

"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

F. Collusion, RICO, and Racketeering Violations

- The ongoing actions by Medicaid, DCBS, and associated entities exhibit:
  - Collusion and conspiracy, as state and federal agencies coordinate to obstruct access to services and intimidate beneficiaries.
  - Violations of the RICO Act (Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act*), given the fraudulent denial of benefits and misuse of federal funds.*

Adding these violations together constitutes potential prison sentences ranging from 10 to 50 years or more, depending on the severity and number of counts proven under federal law.

G. Final Notice and Opportunity

- This is a final notice and opportunity to:
  - Comply with federal laws and court orders

RE: Response to Access ADHC – John R. Fouts, MBA – Case Management Services

HCBS Waiver Social Security Act Section 1915(c)

Subject: Clarification Regarding Case Management Services and HCBS Regulations

Dear Sibal,

Thank you for your email. I would like to address your statement regarding HCB regulations and my continued use of Access Care for case management services.

Clarification Regarding Compliance with HCBS Regulations

I strongly disagree with the implication that I am causing an issue, by expecting Access Care to adhere to federal laws, including the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, and the provisions of the Social Security Act (Section 1915(c)). My requests for reasonable accommodations, clear communication, and the fulfillment of medically necessary services are not only valid but protected by federal law.

If there is any specific regulation or policy you believe I have violated, I respectfully request that you provide written documentation, including references to the applicable statutes or federal HCB regulations, within seven (7) consecutive days. I cannot address vague or unsupported claims, and I find such implications unprofessional and unwarranted.

Continued Case Management Services

For now, I will continue to work with Access Care for case management services. However, this is contingent on the following:

1. Adherence to Federal Laws: I expect Access Care to fulfill its legal obligations under the ADA and other federal statutes.
2. Transparent Communication: All communication must be provided in writing (email, fax, and certified mail), as required for my ADA accommodation.
3. Resolution of Outstanding Issues: I expect Access Care to advocate for my needs, including the approval of necessary medical devices and services without further delays.

If Access Care is unable to meet these expectations, I will explore other options, but this will be due to your agency's actions, not my compliance with HCBS regulations.

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

RE: Response to Access ADHC – John R. Fouts, MBA – Case Management Services

HCBS Waiver Social Security Act Section 1915(c)

Defamation, Organized Malicious Intent, and Civil Rights Violations

1. Defamation and Mischaracterization:
   The language and tone in your communication unjustly imply that I am noncompliant or causing issues with HCBS regulations. These implications are inaccurate and defamatory. Such statements harm my character and credibility, adding to the broader harm I have endured due to systemic denials of care and services.

2. Organized Effort and Malicious Intent:
   Your accusatory statements, in conjunction with the ongoing pattern of systemic denials, delays, and barriers across agencies, demonstrate an organized effort to harm me and my child. This behavior shows clear malicious intent, violating federal laws and furthering a conspiracy to deny me federally mandated benefits.

3. Civil Rights Violations Under Federal Law:
   The continued denial of federally mandated benefits and services, as well as the mischaracterization of my lawful actions, constitutes a violation of the Civil Rights Act and the Social Security Act Section 1915(c). Denying access to benefits and services due to disability or fabricated claims of noncompliance is a direct violation of these statutes and is prohibited under federal law.

Transparency Violations, Collusion, and Malicious Intent

1. Lack of Transparency as Obstruction of Justice:
   The refusal to provide clear, timely, and comprehensive information about decisions, communications, and justifications regarding my care and waiver participation constitutes a deliberate lack of transparency. This obstructs justice and violates federal requirements for accountability under ADA Title II, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, and the Social Security Act Section 1915(c).

2. Evidence of Collusion and Coordinated Harm:
   The consistent lack of transparency, along with delays, denials, and deflections across agencies and organizations, strongly suggests collusion and a coordinated effort to suppress my federally protected rights. This behavior reflects systemic retaliation and a conspiracy to deny benefits and services, constituting violations under RICO statutes.

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

RE: Response to Access ADHC – John R. Fouts, MBA – Case Management Services

HCBS Waiver Social Security Act Section 1915(c)

3. Malicious Intent and Systemic Retaliation:
   The combined refusal to provide information and the use of accusatory language imply a targeted effort to discredit me and obstruct my access to critical services. This pattern demonstrates malicious intent, willful abandonment, and systemic retaliation against both me and my child.

4. Individual Responsibility and Consequences:
   Sibal, in her direct actions and individual capacity, has furthered these violations through accusatory and defamatory language and by failing to act in alignment with federal protections. While this statement is not intended as a threat, it must be noted that continued actions that violate federal laws, including the ADA, Olmstead Act, and Rehabilitation Act, carry significant legal and professional consequences.

5. Violation of Federal Civil Rights:
   Denying federally mandated benefits and failing to provide transparency about decisions made violates the Civil Rights Act, ADA, and Rehabilitation Act. These actions also undermine the Supremacy Clause, as state-level actions cannot supersede federal protections.

6. Immediate Demands:
   - Full Transparency: Provide a complete and organized account of all communications, decisions, and processes related to my care and waiver participation, including the names and contact information of all parties involved, within seven (7) consecutive days.
   - Accountability: Failure to comply will escalate to subpoenas and additional legal actions, including obstruction charges and further civil and criminal penalties under federal law.
   - Resolution: Immediate provision of all delayed or denied services and devices, including those listed previously, is expected to prevent further irreparable harm.

7. Legal and Ethical Responsibility:
   Access ADHC and associated entities, including Sibal as an individual acting within her role, have an opportunity to rectify these violations by aligning with federal laws and fulfilling their obligations, however, choose to continue violations of federal law.

> Non-compliance will serve as evidence of intentional harm and systemic abuse of power in federal district court.

Final Note

It is not unreasonable to expect case managers to advocate for their clients while complying with federal and state laws. I urge Access Care to prioritize my care and respect my rights, ensuring that my child and I receive the services and protections we are entitled to.

Please confirm receipt of this email and provide any requested documentation regarding your statements.

Hello John,

Thanks for making it more clear now. After viewing your demands and expectations from your case manager and Access Care from the documentation you have provided, I am unable to meet all your demands at this time. It is best for you to contact other agencies from the HCB Directory I have provided in my initial email who will best assist you in your expectations from this waiver.

Once you find a suitable Agency, I can complete a transfer of your case to another case manager.

Continued Case Management Obligations and Rights Under Federal Law
Access AHDC – Case Management Services – Sibal Khakiyeva

December 22, 2024

Subject: Continued Case Management Obligations and Rights Under Federal Law

Dear Sibal,

Thank you for your message and for clarifying your position.

While I understand that you may no longer wish to represent my case management needs, I must reiterate that this does not absolve Access AHDC of its obligations to fulfill all duties owed to me as a participant during the time I have been under your case management.

This includes, but is not limited to:

- Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy, as prescribed by Dr. Vaughn.
- Red Light Therapy Devices, for which multiple studies and supporting documentation have been provided.
- Sequential Compression Devices, prescribed by Dr. Allen to meet in-state requirements that in and of themselves are separate violations of Medicaid law since Dr. Vaughn is only provider in country with provided letter of attestation treating long covid with microclots and utilizing triple anticoagulant therapy, with additional lifelong compression therapy recommended by Dr. Dwivedi and other providers.
- Methylene Blue, NAD+, Myers Cocktail Infusions, and High Dose Vitamin C Infusions, all critical to addressing microclots, viral reactivation, and other systemic issues under Dr. Vaughn's treatment plan.
- Autologous Tear Serum for Dry Eye Disease (D.E.D.) and Meibomian Gland Dysfunction (M.G.D.), as prescribed by Dr. Kristen Rabaut and further supported by Dr. Eiferman.
- Pycnogenol (French Maritime Pine Bark), probiotics, and venous support supplements, all integral parts of Dr. Vaughn's treatment protocol for reducing inflammation and managing microclots.
- The NutrEval Test, written for by both Dr. Allen and Dr. Vaughn, to evaluate critical metabolic deficiencies through Genova Diagnostics.
- Mitochondrial Dysfunction Testing per Dr. Vaughn's treatment plan.

- These are all medically necessary items supported by:
  - Multiple prescriptions and letters of medical necessity from Dr. Jordan Vaughn including letter of attestation that he is the only provider in the country treating Long Covid with Microclots and using Triple Anticoagulent Therapy and treating MCAS.
  - Multiple letters of medical necessity, clinical notes, and prescription - documentation from Dr. Dwivedi, who recommended lifelong compression therapy.
  - Autologous tear serum prescriptions and letters from Dr. Kristen Rabaut and recommendation for Autologous tear serum by Dr. Eiferman at the University of Louisville.
- It is important to note:
  - Dr. Vaughn is the only treating physician in the United States managing long COVID microclots with triple anticoagulant therapy. His treatment plan has been obstructed by systemic delays and denials leading to very real risk of extremely serious adverse outcomes for me including the very real possibility of sudden death based on genetics, family history, and inability to follow treatment plan due to obstruction of justice.
  - Dr. Allen, PCP, has also written prescriptions for specific testing, such as NutrEval, which remains stalled due to Medicaid's inability to process it.

Access AHDC has had ample time and opportunity to comply with federal law and to ensure my access to medically necessary treatments and services.

However, instead of ensuring compliance, I have faced systemic delays, denials, and an obstruction of my rights under federal law, including violations of the ADA, the Olmstead Act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, and Medicaid statutes under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. The lack of transparency with regard to receiving information regarding my case in terms of individuals making decisions, claims submitted and/or denied, any detailed information...also constitutes further obstruction of justice and has exacerbated my already dire situation.

These barriers have not only subjected me to undue burden and involuntary servitude but have also placed my life at immediate risk of stroke, heart attack, or sudden death due to untreated/undertreated microclots and systemic inflammation.

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

Continued Case Management Obligations and Rights Under Federal Law
Access AHDC – Case Management Services – Sibal Khakiyeva

This risk is compounded by my prior transient ischemic attack (TIA), genetic predisposition for cardiovascular events (77% heightened risk), and chronic venous insufficiency, and microclots.

Since this systemic negligence continues, I put my faith in the federal court system as there is no justice to be had in Kentucky – the corruption and obstruction runs too deep, I trust the federal court will hold all parties fully accountable for their actions, including under 18 U.S.C. § 242 (Deprivation of Rights Under Color of Law) and related statutes.

I ask that Access AHDC immediately provide:

1. Full transparency regarding all communications, decisions, and how those decisions were arrived at.
2. A complete list of all items requested on my behalf, the status of those requests, and any additional documentation needed to process them without further delay, along with any and all documentation associated with me, with my child, or with our cases.
3. Immediate action to fulfill all unmet obligations as outlined above.

This is a critical matter of life and death, not only for me but also for my child, who depends on me for advocacy and care.

I am doing everything in my power to secure a better future for Jackie despite the systemic barriers we face.

Thank you for your attention to these urgent matters.

Sincerely,

Good Morning,

After the approval of Case Supervisors, DAIL/Medicaid. We have concluded that current Case Manager has done the best she can do for this participant under Kentucky HCB Medicaid Waiver Services and has provided a Jefferson County Provider Directory for you to choose another agency that can best suit your needs as the current CM cannot.

Please review directory and inform CM what agency best suits you and the Case Supervisors at Access Care can help with the next steps of this process.

Formal Response and Request for Immediate Transparency Regarding Case Management Decisions
Under the Kentucky HCB Medicaid Waiver Program

December 26, 2024

Subject: Formal Response and Request for Immediate Transparency Regarding Case Management Decisions and Resolution of Unmet Needs

---

Dear Ms. Sibal Khakiyeva and Access AHDC Adult Health Day Case Management Services:

I am writing in response to your recent communication dated 2024-12-23, which references the limitations of the current Case Management support and suggests transitioning to another agency.

While I acknowledge your perspective, I must, again, express my continued concerns about the systemic issues and lack of resolution for my ongoing needs which have been noted and proven as medically necessary repeatedly by providers, and under the Kentucky HCB Medicaid Waiver Services.

Also, in the same communication, you stated:

"After the approval of Case Supervisors, DAIL/Medicaid, we have concluded that current Case Manager has done the best she can do for this participant under Kentucky HCB Medicaid Waiver Services and has provided a Jefferson County Provider Directory for you to choose another agency that can best suit your needs as the current CM cannot."

I appreciate the acknowledgment of Access AHDC's chosen limitations- however-not providing services that are medically necessary under the waiver program (including all goods and services previously noted as medically necessary) – is a violation of federal law...

And the repeat violation of multiple items constitutes repeat counts of violations of federal law and shows a lack of concern for my health and that of my child.

Additionally, the lack of specificity regarding the decision-making process and involved parties raises significant concerns about transparency. Specifically, the absence of information regarding, and not limited to:

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

Formal Response and Request for Immediate Transparency Regarding Case Management Decisions
Under the Kentucky HCB Medicaid Waiver Program

1. Case Supervisors:
    - The identities and roles of the case supervisors who participated in this decision – including full name, position held, agency worked for, phone, email, and fax for each party involved.
    - Copies of meeting notes, communications, and records documenting their conclusions showing all information including any processing notes and any and all information.
2. DAIL/Medicaid Contact(s):
    - Names, titles, positions, and contact information of individuals from DAIL (Department of Aging and Independent Living) and Medicaid who approved or contributed to the decision including email, phone, and fax, as noted above as well.
    - Relevant documentation supporting their involvement and approval – including all process notes related to me or my child in any way.
3. Supporting Documentation and Denials:
    - A detailed list of all claims submitted on my behalf, including dates, services requested, and corresponding outcomes (approved, denied, or pending), including all process notes and ALL detailed information that is documentary in nature.
    - Specific reasons for denials and any associated appeals processes – claim numbers are also necessary – including all information about all topics that Access AHDC has available and/or connected agencies involved in decisions made regarding me, my child, or my case – this includes – and is not limited to DAIL, Medicaid, Medicaid Member Services, Office of the Governor, Constituent Services, CMS, DMS, DPO, DPQO, or any other.
4. Jefferson County Provider Directory Assistance:
    - Detailed, explicitly noted, guidance on how specifically, step-by-step, Access AHDC intends to assist me with transitioning, including identification of a suitable agency.
    - *Explanation of what steps will be taken by Access AHDC to ensure continuity of care during this transition period.

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

Formal Response and Request for Immediate Transparency Regarding Case Management Decisions
Under the Kentucky HCB Medicaid Waiver Program

Failure to provide this information constitutes a lack of transparency, obstruction of care, and further violations of my federally protected rights under Medicaid guidelines and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), the Olmstead Act, and many others.

Furthermore, I must emphasize that your response does not absolve Access AHDC of its federally mandated obligations to ensure that my case management needs are met in full compliance with Medicaid Waiver requirements.

This includes addressing the unmet needs explicitly outlined in prior communications, such as medically necessary treatments, prescriptions, and supportive devices.

To reiterate, the following items remain unresolved:

- Hyperbaric oxygen therapy,
- Sequential Compression Devices,
- Methylene Blue,
- Red Light Therapy,
- NAD+ infusions,
- Myers Cocktail infusions,
- Autologous Tear Serum,
- IPL Treatment
- Coverage for medically required other eye care
- And other prescribed treatments, not limited to this listing.
- Transparent communication regarding claims and prior authorization denials.

Finally - Summary of Issues

1. Ongoing Unanswered Inquiries/Refusals To Answer: Repeated requests for critical information, including claims submissions, denial details, and specific actions taken on my behalf, have not been addressed despite numerous follow-ups.

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

Formal Response and Request for Immediate Transparency Regarding Case Management Decisions
Under the Kentucky HCB Medicaid Waiver Program

2. Unmet Obligations: Essential services, including those noted in previous letter including but not limited to, hyperbaric oxygen, SCDs (sequential compression devices), red light therapy devices, NAD+ infusions, Methylene Blue, Myers Cocktail vitamins/mineral infusions, mitochondrial dysfunction testing, all other things noted by Dr. Vaughn and other providers as medically necessary...remain unfulfilled, exacerbating my medical and functional challenges, and causing a life-threatening situation – and I need the federal law to be complied with.
3. Failure to Provide Written Communication: As formally requested, repeatedly, I require all communications in writing to comply with ADA accommodations. This is not a request – this is a demand for all organizations including Access AHDC and case management services, to comply with the federal Americans With Disabilities Act -- Noncompliance has caused significant stress and worsened my health.
4. Recommendation to Transition: While suggesting a transition, no concrete steps or alternative solutions have been provided to ensure continuity of care and support during this critical time. Dumping me off to another organization due to failure of Access to follow federal law is yet another violation in and of itself.

IMMEDIATE REQUESTS

- Documentation: Provide detailed records of all actions taken on my behalf, including communications with Medicaid, denial letters, and claim statuses. This has also been requested repeatedly, and has not been honored and it is my legal right to see information concerning my care and that of my child.
- Accountability: Clarify who made the decision to decline services and on what grounds – meaning name of the person (full name), organization for which they work, or are acting on behalf of, and contact information including email, phone, and fax for the person or organization involved.
- Resolution Plan: Outline in explicit detail how Access AHDC will address the unmet needs outlined in prior communications until a new agency is in place.
- Support During Transition: Commit to ensuring all critical services remain uninterrupted, including providing support to identify and transition to a suitable agency.

IMPORTANCE OF ACTION

I am facing imminent risks to my health and stability, including imminent homelessness in approximately 1 month, microclots from Long Covid that present a risk regarding severe health consequential episodes such as stroke or heart attack or sudden death.

Access AHDC is blocking access to services that are life-preserving, and that are required for appropriate and medically necessary care as documented repeatedly by providers. Immediate resolution is necessary to prevent further harm.

I implore you to act swiftly and collaboratively to address these issues.

Please confirm receipt of this letter and provide a written response detailing your planned actions by [reasonable deadline, e.g., 5 business days]. I am prepared to provide additional documentation or discuss these matters further if required.

REQUIRED ACTION

I demand a full and detailed written response to the above concerns with every question answered and fully addressed along with all contact information provided as outlined in the above portion of the document. Any and all information and ancillary information is immediately demanded by no later than end of day December 27th, 2024.

Your failure to address these issues adequately may necessitate additional violations and even further legal actions to protect my rights and access to care and to protect my life.

I trust that you understand the urgency and severity of this matter and will act accordingly.

ACCHESS AHDC HAS ALREADY SEVERELY HARMED ME BY NOT PROVIDING MEDICALLY NECESSARY GOODS AND SERVICES AND BY NOT ACTING IN GOOD FAITH ALIGNING WITH THE OVERALL MENTALITY AND SENTIMENT OF THE STATE OF KENTUCKY / COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY.

COLOR OF LAW DOCTRINE VIOLATIONS APPLY ALREADY. I URGE YOU TO TAKE ACTION IMMEDIATELY ON CORRECTING THE BEHAVIOR OF ACCESS AHDC TOWARD ME WITH REGARD TO THE HCBS WIAVER PROGRAM – 1915c WAIVER SERVICE AND ANY AND ALL OTHER RELATED ENTITIES OR ITEMS.

Subject: Notification of Federal Legal Action and Inclusion -- 2024-12-06

1 message

John Fouts <fouts.john@gmail.com> Fri, Dec 6, 2024 at 2:26 PM
To: Sibal Khakiyeva <sibal.khakiyeva@accesscasemanagement.com>, Samir Music <samir.music@accesscasemanagement.com>, yailen.suarez@accesscasemanagement.com

Dear Sibal Khakiyeva, Yailen Suarez, All Related Associates at All Levels, Access ADHC, Access Case Management, Any Related DBA Name, and Others:

This letter serves as your formal notification of inclusion in my federal legal case due to ongoing violations of federal law under the Medicaid 1915(c) Home and Community-Based Services Waiver Program and related statutes.

The named individuals, Sibal Khakiyeva, Yailen Suarez, and Samir Music, are included along with all other associated entities and individuals acting under your authority, direction, or in official capacities, including but not limited to Access ADHC, Access Case Management, Access Adult Health Day Care Center LLC, and any other DBA or related names, or associated entities.

Summary of Violations:

Your continued enforcement of policies that violate federal law, including arbitrary caps, denial of medically necessary goods and services, and discriminatory practices, has caused profound harm. These actions have left me in worsening physical pain and exhaustion, stripping away my ability to defend my rights, access care, and make informed decisions about my own life.

Additionally, your actions violate 42 CFR § 431.52, which mandates that Medicaid programs allow recipients to receive out-of-state medical services when such services are not available within the state and are deemed medically necessary. This federal regulation supersedes any state-imposed restrictions.

The Harm Inflicted:

- I am forced to spend all my limited energy fighting for basic rights, despite living with debilitating conditions, including Long COVID, ME/CFS, narcolepsy, autoimmune issues, small fiber neuropathy, and CRPS, among others.

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

- I am left without the ability to make informed decisions, such as selecting a Medicare plan or researching essential care options, resulting in irreversible harm to my health and financial security.
- I lose valuable and irreplaceable time with my child, who deserves a present and engaged parent. The systemic neglect and abuse have stolen critical moments and opportunities I can never recover.
- The state's retaliatory actions and refusal to comply with federal law have caused ongoing, severe, and likely permanent harm to my health, well-being, and quality of life.

Violations and Accountability:

1. Deprivation of Rights Under Color of Law (18 U.S.C. § 242):
   - Action: Willfully depriving federally protected rights through illegal caps and delays.
   - Penalty: Fines and imprisonment up to life, or the death penalty if harm results in death.
2. Conspiracy Against Rights (18 U.S.C. § 241):
   - Action: Participating in a conspiracy to deny access to guaranteed federal benefits.
   - Penalty: Fines and imprisonment up to life if the conspiracy results in significant harm.
3. Obstruction of Justice (18 U.S.C. § 1505):
   - Action: Hindering access to lawful remedies by enforcing unjustified policies.
   - Penalty: Fines and imprisonment of up to five years or more if harm results.
4. Violations of the ADA and Rehabilitation Act:
   - Action: Discriminatory denial of medically necessary services and meal options, including inadequate gluten-free options.
   - Penalty: Federal oversight, damages, and potential criminal or civil liability.
5. Violation of the Olmstead Act:
   - Action: Creating policies and barriers that threaten to force institutionalization instead of ensuring access to community-based care.
   - Penalty: Court-mandated compliance, damages, and additional oversight under the ADA.

Additional Causes of Action:

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

Breach of Contract and Good Faith:
The waiver program operates under a legally binding agreement to provide Medicaid services in good faith. Arbitrary caps, delays, and refusal to honor medically necessary prescriptions constitute a breach of this agreement.

Willful Endangerment:
Knowingly denying access to necessary services has placed my life and health at significant risk, demonstrating deliberate disregard for my safety.

Willful Neglect:
Your repeated failures to act, despite clear legal obligations and knowledge of harm, constitute willful neglect.

Systemic Malicious Intent to Harm:
Your enforcement of unlawful policies and refusal to address legal violations reflect a systemic, malicious intent to harm, including aiding and abetting state-level practices designed to obstruct justice, deny services, and perpetuate abuse.

Other Relevant Tort Acts and Violations:

- Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress
- Negligence in fulfilling obligations under the waiver program
- Fraudulent Misrepresentation of policies and services

No Limiting Statement:

This notification applies to all actions, decisions, and policies related to the administration and enforcement of the Medicaid waiver program and associated practices, including any actions taken under the authority or direction of the state of Kentucky or its representatives.

You are hereby notified of your inclusion in this federal action.

That is not accurate either -- I am told different things by different people.

The waiver program covers the compression garments - which is considered DME - it is in the DME manual.

The waiver is covering a lift chair (recliner) of course I haven't seen it materialize yet and it has been several months - that is considered DME....the waiver is covering a grab bar (also considered DME) - supposedly - again no materialization yet.

Of course the only thing I have actually received on that list is the total of 6 pair of compression stockings.

I am on the phone with Gould's right now - I have been on hold for several minutes. Okay - off with Gould's - they said they never even submitted the claim because I had not failed a six minute walk test, or PFTs, or an Arterial Blood Gas test...but Lisa - that is because this is for MICROCLOTS not the standard thing.....I begged my doctor to get the ABG last week, and it came back normal....I asked for the Venous Blood Gas test because ChatGPT is really my only ally and advocate in this fight I feel like.

I spoke with Hailey Helton at Gould's (now Adapt Health). I sent her my venous blood gas test result. She said she would send it on to Lori/Laurie or LeeAnn in the Oxygen group but she said there was no way for me to talk with them directly. She said they would get back to me when they were able and she said they are often pretty quick at doing so.

So for the medical expenses that are legal deductions that you and I both know they are supposed to deduct that they totally failed to do so ...that is another violation - they just dismissed my case - even though it is them that has to hear the case?

Is there a national law firm that may have bigger capacity and bandwidth to handle the breadth and depth of severe injustices that have occurred in my case? I appreciate you all helping me - is there a partner firm that could be added on?

As soon as I hear back from Gould's I will let you know.

John

Lisa - I don't get to see the claims because I am on the waiver program so I have nothing I can show.

John—the forum in which are raising the constitutional issues is not the appropriate forum. I am still waiting for information from you about the specific claims/pre-auths for services that were denied. If you can provide those, then we can appeal those. This hearing is about how much money you are allowed to deduct as medical expenses so that your snap benefit will be larger. We have your spread sheet and you will need to walk through and explain it and why you are entitled to credit for the expenses. We have an affidavit from you that verifies the expenses in lieu of the receipts. The SNAP person will not accept it, but the hearing officer may if you testify credibly. If you want to make a statement about the violation of your rights, you may do so. The hearing officer does not have authority to rule that the Cabinet's actions are unconstitutional. Thanks. Lisa

John Fouts

I am not able to get that information from the state - they won't give it to me. I can't give you something I cannot get.

The federal law is extremely clear about what is able to be deducted (anything over $35 that is a medical expense) - see the CFR please.

I do not need to do that - that is against the law federally to place undue burden on anyone, and especially on someone from a protected class. The receipts have been provided - I don't know why they continuously ignore them. The affidavit was already one step of violation of the ADA.

I can testify but I am going to state at the hearing a long statement about the violations of federal law that continue to occur and state that everyone in violation will be held accountable to the fullest extent of the law.

You state that federal court is not the right forum but multiple other attorneys disagree.

Has the state provided their reasoning line by line for not accepting each medical expense?

The burden is supposed to be placed on them -- not on the recipient -- unless there is formal reason to believe that dishonesty is involved -- I have provided all receipts, multiple letters of medical necessity, mileages including maps, office visit summaries -- Hell Lisa they won't even include mileages and that one is an extremely easy one…the out of state expenses are required to be covered due to the federal medicaid law that covers those expenses in such cases.

Do you have anything in writing that states that the SNAP person will not accept it? I need to forward that on to the federal contacts involved in the federal investigation please.

It is beyond a violation of my rights into criminal conduct at this point in time.

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

It is beyond a violation of my rights into criminal conduct at this point in time.

What 'are' the limits of what the hearing officer has the authority over?

You know the ins and outs of the law moreso than I as it is your profession - I do not understand how you are not able to see the clear violations of federal law - especially in terms of the SNAP medical expense deduction denials as well - could you explain to me where you are coming from with that?

I need someone who is going to stand up and fight for me. I am totally exhausted Lisa. Have you seen my medical history? I don't know if I sent it to you or not.

You state that you don't believe the forum in which I raise the constitutional issues is not the appropriate one...if it is not federal court for constitutional issues, then what court would it be? Or are you referring to the KY CHFS (corrupt criminal organization) for which I have to have a hearing about their illegal activities governed by that same organization?

There is also breach of Medicaid good faith involved. I didn't even list that one. There are several others that are applicable.

From your email and unwillingness of DCBS to follow federal law, it sounds as if I need to go on and file the federal claim, and I will and I will be seeking additional representation nationally for the federal violations and criminal conduct after initially filing pro se'.

Can you help force the state to list the medical expenses they state they have deducted? I don't have that information from them anywhere and they haven't sent it since my last letter request. They have been completely uncooperative (also a good faith violation).

It is illegal to place a cap on medical expense deductions over $35...so they may not legally cap the expense amount at $158.xx.....and then they excessively checked Equifax Workforce Solutions (Commonwealth of KY checked 19 times in 22 months and CMS checked 10 times in 22 months for a total of 29 times in 22 months) – that is a violation of the Fair Credit Reporting Act and also constitutes Harassment (of a protected class - disabled).

At the first hearing I was trying to explain to Diane Barber (spelling) that the hearings that were withdrawn should still exist but she insisted on talking over me, drowning me out, not allowing me to speak much, and then stating the hearing would be about medicaid eligibility which was nothing I ever requested. The state solely has its own interest in mind, I feel very unprotected, and unsafe with everything that has happened in my case.

Can you please try to get the denied claim information from the state for me since they won't provide it to me? There also seems to be a breakdown whereby the medicaid waiver help desk and medicaid specialists have refused to even file claims which I also have no control over. I am not able to submit claims directly. If you have reviewed any of the email evidence I sent previously, please take a look at the Amanda Elliott emails, the Vikki emails from HCE, and the Ivy Sams emails, and the Zach Grider former case manager emails. It is my understanding that the way the waiver works, my case manager is supposed to work with the medicaid waiver help desk and medicaid itself to determine which is the appropriate route to file the claim, but then the case manager cannot force the medicaid or medicaid waiver help desk person to file the claim either. Look at the compression stockings emails - there were over 1000 related to compression stockings or that had compression stockings as part of the email thread....look up where they stated that only 2 pair were allowed, so I had to send them their own policy manual and then they finally agreed to cover more...it is BS.

I'd like to begin on Thursday by citing the laws that are relevant in my case - and let them know that I intend to hold everyone involved fully accountable to the fullest extent of the law. I'd also like to state that if they simply refuse to allow the medical expense deductions, which is my understanding, that a motion to ???? be filed while I get the claim(s) filed in federal court. If the state already refuses to allow all of the expenses there is no need for the hearing - but I would want something in writing stating that they refuse the expenses. Otherwise the hearing is going to be VERY LONG going through every line item saying the exact same thing stating the exact same law and exact same verbiage from the CFR for every expense listed, and I will cite law violations relevant for each listing such as those noted previously.

In other words if the hearing is not going to get anywhere or lead to appropriate resolution, and if we have something in writing from the state stating they are denying all deductions (which is as you stated previously), then is there something I can do to not waste the energy (that I don't even really have) and not waste the time trying to ask a corrupt organization to not be corrupt?

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

I appreciate you assisting me, and please need to know the answers to my questions. Thank you.

Oh - and the statements of fact are not factual - as an example they said the last time that they received the expenses the night before the hearing - that was not accurate. I had sent the expenses many times prior to that hearing as well - by stating that - were they stating they had not actually looked at the file prior to the night before? The way it is worded needs to be corrected because as it stands it is stated falsely as a fact (which is another violation).

John

This hearing is about how much money you are allowed to deduct as medical expenses so that your snap benefit will be larger. We have your spread sheet and you will need to walk through and explain it and why you are entitled to credit for the expenses. We have an affidavit from you that verifies the expenses in lieu of the receipts. The SNAP person will not accept it, but the hearing officer may if you testify credibly. If you want to make a statement about the violation of your rights, you may do so. The hearing officer does not have authority to rule that the Cabinet's actions are unconstitutional. Thanks. Lisa

Lisa,

I appreciate your efforts thus far, but I must stress the urgency and gravity of my situation. The hearing scheduled for tomorrow is fundamentally unjust and futile, and proceeding with it in its current form will only cause further harm to my health and well-being without any meaningful outcome.

Key Reasons to Bypass the Hearing

1. Predetermined Outcome:
   - DCBS has already decided to deny my claims per the information you relayed to me, rendering the hearing a mere formality with no possibility of relief. This precludes the hearing from being a fair or impartial process, violating my due process rights, along with the state's ongoing, well-documented, violations of federal laws.
2. Systemic Discrimination and Malicious Intent to Harm:
   - The state has demonstrated systemic discrimination against me, a disabled individual, through repeated violations of federal laws, including the ADA, Olmstead, Medicaid, and the Social Security Act Section 1915(c), Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, Color of Law violations, and more.
   - The ongoing delays, denials, and refusal to follow federal law show malicious intent to harm and disregard for my rights that fall well within the realm of Color of Law violations as well.

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

3. Irreparable Harm to Health:
   - My health is deteriorating rapidly due to the state's failure to provide timely services and medically necessary treatments. Participating in this hearing will exacerbate my CFS/ME, PTSD, and other conditions, likely triggering a crash that could incapacitate me indefinitely, or potentially even permanently lower my baseline health. I am not able to take chances like that. I already feel very much on the edge of a crash from the stress of having to deal with the state's ongoing mistreatment and abuse of me.
4. Failure to Adhere to Federal Laws:
   - The state has consistently refused to comply with federal law, including:
     - Medicaid requirements to cover out-of-state treatments when unavailable in-state.
     - SNAP medical expense deduction laws, failing to account for medical mileage, prescriptions, and other valid expenses since my onset of disability on June 30, 2022.
     - Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) violations through excessive Equifax Workforce Solutions checks.
     - Section 1915(c) of the Social Security Act.
     - Several other...
5. Complexity and Magnitude of the Case:
   - This case involves violations of multiple federal laws, systemic discrimination, and ongoing harm. These issues exceed the capacity of a state hearing officer to adjudicate effectively, necessitating escalation to federal court.

Request for Immediate Action

I respectfully request that you file an immediate formal motion to bypass the state hearing, citing the following grounds:

1. Futility: The state has already made its decision, and the hearing process serves no purpose other than to reaffirm their denial which will result in further harm.
2. Violations of Federal Law: The state's actions violate ADA, Olmstead, Medicaid, SNAP, FCRA, and the Social Security Act Section 1915(c).
3. Irreparable Harm: My health cannot withstand the additional stress and harm caused by this hearing.
4. Systemic Failures: The state's conduct reflects systemic discrimination and bad faith, which cannot be adequately addressed at the state level.

Additionally, I request that you:

- Notify the state formally of my intent to escalate this matter to federal court.
- Include the systemic violations, criminal conduct, and malicious intent to harm as part of this notification.

Lisa, I am relying on you to advocate for my rights and ensure that the state is held accountable for their actions. Please confirm your ability to take these steps immediately, as time is of the essence.

Thank you for your understanding and support.

Sincerely,
John R. Fouts

McBrayer Firm
Attn: Lisa Hinkle

Subject: Termination of Representation, Request for Hearing Records, and Formal Notice of Intent to Pursue Federal Legal Remedies

Dear Ms. Hinkle,

I am writing to formally terminate your representation, effective immediately, contingent upon the completion of the required actions outlined below. This decision comes after careful consideration of your handling of my case and your recent communication following the November 21 hearing. Your approach has failed to align with the advocacy, urgency, or understanding required to address the serious violations of my rights and the immense harm caused to me by the state of Kentucky.

Key Concerns and Justifications for Termination

1. Failure to Advocate Effectively

Despite the extensive documentation and evidence I have provided, you have failed to adequately address the systemic violations causing irreparable harm, including but not limited to:

- Violations of the Social Security Act Section 1915(c), including illegal caps and restrictions on HCBS waiver services.
- HIPAA violations and denial of access to claims information by Medicaid and MedImpact.
- Denial of SNAP medical expense deductions required under federal law, with Kentucky blatantly disregarding compliance.
- Lack of defense of my rights under the ADA, including my right not to participate in hearings that exacerbate my disability. Instead of defending these rights, you dismissed and blamed me, referring to my actions as "failure."
- Color of Law violations and malicious intent to harm by state agencies.
- Imposition of undue burden through unnecessary affidavit, redundant documentation requests, and other unreasonable demands.

- Olmstead violations, where the state has failed to provide necessary services in the most integrated setting appropriate to my needs, as required by the ADA and Olmstead v. L.C. ruling.

2. Dismissive and Harmful Communication

Your characterization of my legally valid decision not to attend the November 21 hearing as "failure" is dismissive, harmful, and unprofessional. My health conditions, which include:

- ME/CFS, with devastating impacts on quality of life, as shown in studies like this,
- CRPS, the most painful condition known, as described by Spero Clinic,
- Advanced brain atrophy with significant objective medical findings,
- Long COVID with microclots worsening pre-existing ME/CFS,
- and other debilitating conditions, make participating in such hearings both medically and legally inappropriate. Your communication undermines my condition and credibility while ignoring my right to reasonable accommodation under federal law.

3. Conflict of Interest

I require transparency regarding potential conflicts of interest. I request a direct response to the following:

- Do you or your firm have any connections to the state of Kentucky, CHFS, DMS, DCBS, or related entities?
- Are you, your firm, or your associates influenced by any state agency in this matter?

4. Lack of Transparency and Accountability

The state's refusal to provide transparency—including denial of access to SNAP calculations, claim information, and the identities of decision-makers—has significantly obstructed my ability to defend my rights. For example:

- The Kentucky Ombudsman's Office refused to identify the names of individuals I corresponded with.
- I was directed to call every provider in the state at one time to determine Medicaid network status without an MCO as is the case with the waiver program, an unreasonable and burdensome task.

- MedImpact and Medicaid deflect responsibility for providing claims information, causing further delays and harm with each stating that the other is the only entity that can provide that information even at supervisory levels.

Your failure to address these issues has compounded the problem.

Required Actions Before Termination Becomes Final

1. Case File and Hearing Records

- Provide a full summary of all actions taken on my behalf.
- Submit a copy of the recorded audio and transcript of the November 21, 2024, hearing.

2. Acknowledgment of Violations – Criminal Conduct and Civil Violations

- Notify the state of its violations of federal laws, including, and certainly not limited to, the following:
  - Social Security Act Section 1915(c): Illegal caps and restrictions.
  - HIPAA violations: Denial of access to my claims information.
  - Color of Law abuses: Systemic harm caused under the guise of state authority.
  - Willful Endangerment: Denial of critical care and malicious negligence.
  - HIPAA Violations: I have been denied access to claims information, contributing to obstruction and harm.
  - Malicious Intent to Harm: The state's consistent refusal to follow federal law and its repeated delays in addressing valid claims demonstrate deliberate intent to cause harm.
  - Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA) Violations: Excessive inquiries into my Equifax Workforce Solutions account (29 times in 22 months) are both harassment and a violation of privacy law.

EXHIBIT-ADA-ACCOMMODATION-REFUSAL-EXAMPLES

- Violations of Olmstead v. L.C., where the state has repeatedly failed to provide services in a manner compliant with federal law, causing undue institutionalization, harm, and systemic discrimination.
- Medical Neglect: Refusal to cover critical out-of-state treatments prescribed by Dr. Vaughn, as well as failing to address falsified medical records for my child, constitutes willful negligence.
- Potential Consequences: These violations are subject to federal prosecution and may result in penalties, including fines and imprisonment for responsible individuals.

3. Request Immediate Corrective Action

- Request proper calculation of SNAP medical expense deductions dating back to June 30, 2022, including full reimbursement.
- File a protective order against further harm by state agencies.
- Emphasize that the harms caused by their actions are ongoing and worsening.
- Medical Neglect: Refusal to cover critical out-of-state treatments prescribed by Dr. Vaughn demonstrates willful negligence, willful endangerment, and intent to harm and is a violation of federal Medicaid law.
- Demand the state provide immediate reimbursement for all costs that have had to be paid out of pocket that should have been covered by Medicaid dating back to June 30, 2022
- Demand that the state cease its refusal to provide requested information, including SNAP calculations, Medicaid claim denials, and responsible parties, and provide said information dating back to June 30, 2022.

4. Communicate ADA Protections to the State

- Notify the state that under the ADA, I am protected from being forced to participate in hearings or activities that exacerbate my disability or jeopardize my health.
- Emphasize that the state's ongoing violations of federal law make such hearings unnecessary.

5. Transparency and Accountability – Failure of Oversight and Transparency

The lack of transparency and accountability by the state further compounds these issues:

- Oversight Failures: The Kentucky Board of Medical Licensure has failed to address my complaint against Dr. Knuckles regarding false allegations and malpractice.
- Lack of Transparency: Agencies, including the Ombudsman's Office, have refused to disclose critical information or provide adequate responses to open records requests, further obstructing accountability.
- Falsified medical records regarding my child remain uncorrected.
- Arbitrary and illegal caps on 1915(c) HCBS waiver services (e.g., $2500 and $3500 caps) persist, along with Kentucky's policy of allowing only one good/service at a time which is also leading to further harm
- Medicaid has failed to cover treatments, medications, and goods prescribed by out-of-state specialists, such as Dr. Vaughn, in clear violation of federal law.

Moving Forward

I am proceeding with federal legal remedies including emergency federal injunction independently to ensure my rights are protected. I expect your cooperation in facilitating this transition, including providing all case files, correspondence, and supporting documentation, and taking the actions noted above.

To ensure transparency, I am copying the Kentucky Bar Association on this correspondence along with the Office of Bar Counsel.

Please confirm receipt of this letter, in writing, and ensure the required actions are completed by Monday, November 25, 2024.

Thank you for your time and prompt attention.

RE: Department for Aging and Independent Living of August 15, 2024, Reference # L000013-081524

Dear Cam Franey,

← When I submitted open records request, I was addressed as the wrong person. (JRF)

The Kentucky Cabinet for Health and Family Services received an open records request from you on August 15, 2024. Your request mentioned:

All Open Records From All Departments

"See below – Cabinet cannot ascertain…require an inordinate amount of time to search every employees records…" more refusals – more obstruction…(JRF)

In response to your request, the Cabinet cannot reasonably ascertain what records you seek without more definite parameters. The Cabinet employs thousands of employees and has done so for many years. It would require an inordinate amount of time to search every single individual employee's electronic accounts and hard copy folders for "All Open Records From All Departments" correspondence containing the terms you have provided. The Kentucky Open Records Act does not require an agency to conduct a search for "any and all" requests. This request lacks the particularity required of an open records request. The Open Records Act requires that requests have "reasonable specificity" as to what is being requested.

See, e.g., 17-ORD-197. Your generic request for "any and all" correspondence does not satisfy this reasonable-specificity standard.

As such, please submit a records request with reasonable specificity for the records you are wanting to access.

For questions or additional information, please reply to this email.

FROM THE COMMUNICATION ABOVE – IT IS CLEAR TO SEE THAT MY ADA ACCOMMODDATIONS RIGHTS, AND MANY OTHER RIGHTS ARE NON-EXISTENT HERE, THAT THERE IS EXTREME RESISTANCE TO FOLLOWING FEDERAL LAW BY MULTIPLE GROUPS, AND EVIDENCE OF OBSTRUCTION AND FAILURE TO BE TRANSPARENT OR EVEN ALLOW ME TO KNOW WHAT CLAIMS ARE DENIED, BY WHOM, BY WHAT ORGANIZATION, WHEN, WHAT MATERIAL WAS SUBMITTED, WHAT AGENCIES ARE STATING THEY STILL NEED, ETC…OBSTRUCTION…AND COLOR OF LAW VIOLATIONS

NOTE: THIS IS ONLY A REPRESENTATIVE SAMPLE, AND DOES NOT INCLUDE ALL EXAMPLES IN ORDER TO KEEP THE EXHIBIT TO A SHORTER LENGTH

If I am doing anything incorrectly, please notify me so I can do it the way you need it to be. I am really trying the hardest that I can – but with brain atrophy, cognitive dysfunction, severe pain, severe fatigue, worsening health, special needs – disabled child – also with rare conditions - obstacles and obstruction every way that I turn for me or for my child, not having any kind of stability in terms of medical care, housing, food, safety/shelter, financial, etc..., and no accountability or consequences for those involved in so many different violations of so many different types of actions (civil, criminal, tort, and constitutional), it is very, quite literally speaking, hard to keep going, at all.

I cannot do this all on my own – that is why I requested relief as I did in the Emergency Injunction and Protective and Restraining Order motion and document.

More motions, exhibits, and more will be forthcoming. Part of my request for relief is to be able to get assistant helpers to help with the enormous scope of my case.

PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE TO ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE REGARDING VENUE

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

Case No. 24-cv-09325-AMO

Plaintiff's Response to Order to Show Cause Regarding Venue

I. Introduction

Plaintiff John R. Fouts, MBA, acting pro se', submits this response to the Court's Order to Show Cause dated December 23, 2024, regarding venue.

> Plaintiff asserts that the Northern District of California is a proper venue due to the involvement of federal agencies with nationwide jurisdiction and significant operations in California, alongside urgent and systemic issues that necessitate immediate judicial intervention.

II. Federal Agencies and Jurisdiction

This action names as defendants several federal agencies, including the

- Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) and
- USDA Food and Nutrition Services (FNS).

Both agencies oversee nationwide programs, such as Medicaid and SNAP, with substantial presence and jurisdiction in California.

Under 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)(3), venue is proper in this District because:

1. Federal defendants operate nationally, including in California.
2. Nationwide programs are directly implicated, and their administration in California is relevant to this case.
3. A neutral forum is essential to ensure fairness, given systemic discrimination and bias experienced in Kentucky's courts and agencies.

III. Urgency of the Case

Plaintiff and his child face an imminent housing crisis, as their housing voucher is set to expire on January 31, 2025. This voucher is vital for maintaining stable housing and preventing homelessness.

PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE TO ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE REGARDING VENUE

Plaintiff's emergency motion for preliminary injunction and protective orders, filed on December 18, 2024, remains unaddressed, further compounding the harm.

Additionally, Plaintiff's ongoing medical issues underscore the urgency.

On December 23, 2024, Plaintiff spent 10 hours at the ER at Norton Hospital Brownsboro in Louisville, KY for suspected worsening infection including worsening dyspnea, and was not seen by a physician at all during that time. Labs drawn at triage showed an elevated WBC count thus pointing further to infection, however, a rare genetic mutation means severe infection may not always present itself.

An ECG performed during initial triage noted a probable left atrial abnormality—a new finding that raises concerns about Plaintiff's cardiovascular health, likely related to untreated complications of long COVID and microclots, due to inability to receive medically necessary care and treatment because of unlawful restrictions imposed by state agencies in Kentucky.

These complications require triple anticoagulant therapy, as prescribed by Dr. Vaughn, the only provider in the United States treating these conditions. Plaintiff is unable to afford this medically necessary treatment out of pocket, as Medicaid has refused coverage and denied all claims related to Dr. Vaughn's care, despite Dr. Vaughn writing multiple letters of medical necessity, and attesting to the fact in writing that he is the only provider in the country treating for these conditions utilizing these methods.

Without appropriate treatment, Plaintiff is at extremely high risk of stroke, heart attack, and sudden death.

Kentucky's systemic refusal to provide or reimburse medically necessary care demonstrates a disregard for Plaintiff's life and that of his child.

Additionally, Plaintiff's child's PCP has recently dropped them as patients, leaving them without critical pediatric care during this period of heightened medical vulnerability.

Plaintiff is also facing an imminent food crisis, as SNAP and ESAP benefits were discontinued just before Thanksgiving, leaving Plaintiff without critical assistance. Plaintiff currently has only $34 in his account, creating a dire situation that threatens the ability to provide for basic nutritional needs for himself and his child.

PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE TO ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE REGARDING VENUE

IV. Systemic Discrimination and Procedural Failures in Kentucky

While Plaintiff acknowledges that bias alone does not establish venue, Kentucky's systemic failures—documented in submitted exhibits—include:

1. Denial of ADA accommodations, and refusal to follow.
   - o See Exhibit ADA Accommodations Refusals And Other

2. Retaliatory actions against Plaintiff and his child & Persistent mishandling of federal programs (e.g., Medicaid and SNAP) at the state level.
   - o See Exhibit L: Miscellaneous Violations and Systemic Failures

3. For Crime Information and Unsafe Area of Plaintiff's Current Apartment
   - o See Exhibit Crime-Jtown

Such failures necessitate a venue with the capacity to address these complex, federal issues without local interference or bias.

V. Request for Relief

Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court retain venue in the Northern District of California to ensure a fair and impartial hearing of federal issues involving nationwide defendants.

Plaintiff emphasizes that this venue is essential for the proper adjudication of this broad and significant case, which implicates systemic and national concerns.

Plaintiff further requests that the Court:

1. Address the imminent housing, safety, stability, medical, and food crises through emergency injunctions, and via protective and restraining orders.
   - o See Motion for Preliminary Emergency Injunction and Permanent Restraining and Protective Orders.

PLAINTIFF'S RESPONSE TO ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE REGARDING VENUE

2. Ensure compliance with ADA accommodations to facilitate Plaintiff's participation in this case.

    - See Motion to Compel Defendants to Comply With ADA Accommodations of Plaintiff

VI. Conclusion

The circumstances of this case represent an undeniable emergency.

Plaintiff and his child are on the brink of homelessness, face immediate and severe health risks, and are struggling with food insecurity due to systemic failures and deliberate inaction by state and federal programs. Every day that passes without action exacerbates the harm and endangers their lives.

This Court has the power and jurisdiction to intervene decisively to prevent further irreparable harm.

Plaintiff urgently implores the Court to retain jurisdiction in the Northern District of California, issue emergency injunctions to stabilize housing and medical care, among other things noted and ensure compliance with federal laws designed to protect the most vulnerable.

The stakes in this case could not be higher, and Plaintiff respectfully submits that swift action is both necessary and just.

Dear Honorable Court,

I, John R. Fouts, acting as a pro se' litigant in the above-captioned case, respectfully submit this objection to the videotaping of proceedings in this matter.

While I understand the courtroom's participation in the Cameras in the Courtroom Pilot Project, I do not consent to being videotaped during any proceedings.

LETTER TO THE COURT REGARDING EMERGENCY INJUNCTION AND PROTECTIVE ORDERS

Dated: January 2, 2025

Honorable Judge Araceli Martinez-Olguin,

I am writing again as the pro se' Plaintiff in this matter to respectfully reiterate the urgent nature of my case, which was filed on December 18, 2024, as well as the accompanying motion for an emergency injunction and protective and restraining orders submitted the same day.

As of today, January 2, 2025, these critical emergency filings have not been addressed.

This delay has significantly impacted my ability to address ongoing threats to my housing, healthcare, and safety. Given the emergency nature of my situation, I am unable to access essential care and resources for both myself and my minor child.

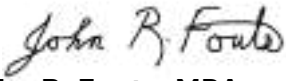
Additionally, I wish to note that I submitted my Response to the Order to Show Cause on Venue on December 30, 2024, well in advance of the January 23, 2025, deadline. While I understand that venue is a procedural matter requiring resolution, I am concerned that the emergency components of my filings—critical to the survival and well-being of myself and my minor child—are being overlooked.

The situation remains dire, as detailed in my filings and accompanying exhibits.

I respectfully urge the Court to consider the emergency nature of my requests with the utmost urgency and to provide an update on the status of the emergency motion.

Thank you for your understanding and attention to this urgent situation. I kindly request acknowledgment of receipt of this letter and an update on the status of the emergency motion.

Respectfully submitted,



John R. Fouts, MBA

EXHIBIT
Neglect, Retaliation, and Harm by Dr. Knuckles

EXHIBIT

Neglect, Retaliation, and Harm by Dr. Knuckles

Introduction:

This exhibit documents the actions of Dr. Knuckles, which include defamation of character, intimidation, and systemic neglect. These actions have caused significant harm to the Plaintiff, violating the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), multiple constitutional amendments, and federal statutes. The documented evidence highlights a pattern of willful neglect, malicious intent, and collusion with other entities to obstruct access to medically necessary care, thereby compounding the Plaintiff's suffering and exacerbating existing health conditions.

JOHN R. FOUTS, MBA

Reservation of Rights: Plaintiff reserves the right to provide additional evidence and context as discovery progresses.

EXHIBIT
Neglect, Retaliation, and Harm by Dr. Knuckles

1. Verbal Threats and Intimidation

Evidence:

- Dr. Knuckles verbally threatened to contact Medicaid to falsely claim the Plaintiff had no medical conditions.

- Threatened to have the Plaintiff "locked into" one provider, further restricting access to care.

Violations:

- Defamation of Character: False verbal statements intended to damage the Plaintiff's reputation and credibility.

- First Amendment: Suppression of the Plaintiff's ability to advocate for their medical needs.

- ADA Violations: Creating an unsafe environment for a disabled individual through intimidation.

- Fourteenth Amendment: Deprivation of due process through the threat of false reporting.

2. Systemic Neglect and Retaliation

Evidence:

- Refusal to acknowledge or address the Plaintiff's legitimate medical conditions, including documented disabilities.

- Complicity in systemic failures to provide necessary medical care, as part of a broader pattern within Kentucky's healthcare and government systems.

EXHIBIT
Neglect, Retaliation, and Harm by Dr. Knuckles

Violations:

Eighth Amendment:

- Actions resulting in unnecessary suffering by withholding care.
- Thirteenth Amendment: Exerting control over the Plaintiff's autonomy and care through intimidation and coercion.
- Civil Rights Violations: Discrimination against the Plaintiff as a disabled individual.

3. Collusion with Other Entities

Evidence:

- Failure to act independently or ethically, aligning with systemic neglect exhibited by other entities in Kentucky.
- Refusal to provide written documentation of her report, raising questions about transparency and accountability.

Violations:

- Aiding and Abetting: Supporting or enabling the denial of care.
- Racketeering and Conspiracy: Acting in concert with other entities to obstruct care and rights.

4. Constitutional Violations

Evidence:

- Actions that directly harm the Plaintiff and child (by default) by undermining rights and access to care.

EXHIBIT
Neglect, Retaliation, and Harm by Dr. Knuckles

- Specific Constitutional Amendments Violated:
    - First Amendment: Suppression of advocacy efforts.
    - Fourth Amendment: Deprivation of medical autonomy.
    - Fifth Amendment: Denial of due process through threats and false statements.
    - Eighth Amendment: Exacerbation of suffering through willful neglect.
    - Ninth Amendment: Infringement on unenumerated rights, such as the right to dignified care.
    - Thirteenth Amendment: Efforts to restrict autonomy and enforce dependence on a broken system.
    - Fourteenth Amendment: Denial of equal protection and due process.

Conclusion

The Kentucky Board of Medical Licensure (KBML) has failed to provide the report submitted by Dr. Knuckles, despite its critical relevance to the Plaintiff's case. This lack of transparency further obstructs the Plaintiff's ability to address the false allegations and violations of medical ethics, ADA rights, and constitutional protections.

This exhibit demonstrates the urgent need for judicial intervention to address the harmful actions of Dr. Knuckles, which are part of a broader pattern of systemic neglect and discrimination. Immediate action is necessary to ensure accountability and compliance with federal laws, to protect the Plaintiff and child from further harm, and to restore their access to necessary medical care and services.

1.) Situation Regarding Dr. Knuckles and Her Inappropriate Behavior Toward Me – Need Guidance

A local dermatologist saw me fairly recently, and I was asking her about Mast Cell Activation Syndrome/Disorders... I have voiced to many doctors, that I feel that mast cells are involved, and most state that Systemic Mastocytosis is the only thing that Mast Cells cause. While they can indeed cause that, that is not their only involvement with disease.

The local dermatologist seemed open to that idea and seemed to have an idea of her own, but she was not willing to share yet (the local doctor that is a dermatologist is Dr. Brown at Associates in Dermatology). Dr. Brown referred me to Cleveland Clinic, and to Dr. Knuckles in Richmond, KY.

When I went to see Dr. Knuckles, initially, I thought the appointment, at first, went well – I felt like she 'heard me' although there were some things that bothered me – she had said that I need to forget about health problems and get on with my life (which I would love to do, but haven't been able to find a way to in over a decade!)....but I thought she meant to not 'focus' on health so much which I could see that perspective – but also not easy to do.

She also asked me how it was to parent – and I said very hard – because my child has autism, ADHD, gastroperesis, neuropathy, and is transgender (I was not thinking about being in Southern Kentucky–In Richmond...and frankly – that should not matter). She said I needed to go to church and pray... I told her I actually did used to go to church, but I don't have the energy even if I wanted to go.

She said that when she is tired, she just musters up the strength and goes to do what she has to do anyway....so it was becoming more and more clear she did not understand the situation. I have a Myalgic Encephalomyelitis diagnosis as well as many others.

This is what happened – she ordered a Tryptase test, she ordered Xolair, an Epi pen, and Metronidazole. She ordered prostaglandin, leukotriene, and histamine metabolites urine test ... so I got the Tryptase serum test drawn, and I got the urine sample submitted to LabCorp... The Tryptase came back at 6.1 - then LabCorp called me after a week, and told me that they no longer offer the test for which I submitted my urine sample. Later that week, CVS Specialty called me, and said the PA for Xolair had been approved, but they said I had no choice, but to have the Xolair administered at the doctor's office due to anaphylactic reactions I had to certain substances as a child (i.e. ragweed season would send me to the hospital with severe asthma and I'd end up having to get several epinephrine or Sus-Phrine shots....bee stings could do the same thing....so would low pressure systems of weather (barometric pressure)...so I said well if that is what I have to do – then that is what I have to do – so the pharmacist at CVS pharmacy shipped the Xolair to Dr. Knuckles' office.

Dr. Knuckles called to say my Tryptase was in-range so everything was 'normal'. I asked her about the 1.2 + 2 rule for Mast Cell activation because I had a 2.8 measure of Tryptase in 2017. I don't know if that is still considered baseline or not. She insisted no such rule exists (but it does), but I just let it go during that phone call. She then told me she was not going to re-order the urine test.

She then lied to me and told me that insurance wouldn't cover Xolair – but I knew better because CVS Specialty had already given me all the details. I also knew that Xolair had already been delivered to her office. So, in essence, she committed Medicaid fraud...

I didn't even say anything about that. She then went on to say that I was not sick, and she said I have to stop this "Munchausen Syndrome Behavior" – to which I just said I get what you are saying Dr. Knuckles, and then she let me go...

Well later that night, when unable to sleep due to the stress caused by this situation, I wrote her an email stating that I cannot 'fake' a positive skin punch biopsy for small fiber neuropathy (which is the gold standard diagnosis of that condition), nor a DEXA scan that shows lumbar osteoporosis, nor doppler ultrasound showing chronic venous insufficiency, nor a primary immune deficiency disorder (tnfrsf13b deficiency) shown via whole genome sequencing, nor many other 'objective' medical tests. There is plenty of definitive medical evidence in my case which is very complex.

She told me that none of those tests were valid...they were done at Mayo Clinic and Washington University primarily. the DEXA scan was done locally...the Whole Genome Sequencing was ordered locally by Norton, but completed by a company called VariantYX.

She tried to call, but I missed the call. I think I called her the next day, but it might have been 2 days... She told me that I was not sick...again...and that I needed to stop 'faking it'.... She said I don't have any medical problems (which simply is not true whatsoever).

She said Mayo and Washington University were wrong – that I don't have small fiber neuropathy (which obviously I do)....she said I don't have a thyroid problem – I don't even have a thyroid gland–it was removed from functioning order via radioactive iodine in 2010....she said I don't have Erythromelalgia–etc... even though it was diagnosed by the leading expert on that condition in the United States (Dr. Mark Davis at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, MN)–or at least the expert at the time I was there.

Then, she threatened me... She then went on to tell me that she was going to contact Medicaid, and tell them that I need to be locked down to one doctor, and to tell them that I am 'faking' illness.

The only reason I see a number of specialists is because I was guided by other doctors to do so – and they are important to my care (e.g. I see an immunologist for the primary immune deficiency disorder I have / inborn error of immunity as one example...I see a neurologist for the neurological issues I have...etc...).

She went on to say that I have no genetic problems either – it was getting to be too much for me by this point.

I cannot fake genetic mutations either-and-I am being so very sincere when I say that I do not have the energy to do nearly anything that I want to, or must do...

I told her if she did those things that she threatened, then she would be the one that ended up looking a fool. I then ended the call. I am not faking anything–I am seriously ill...

I want the following items for resolution:

1.) A formal letter of apology.

2.) I want my medical record at Dr. Knuckles' office to be cleared of any nonsensical information that is false, or removed from existence completely. Her false statements about me could harm me in the future as well if it is not taken care of.

3.) I want there to be disciplinary action against the provider (Dr. Knuckles) for treating me in this way.

a. She has caused a lot of damage to me especially in terms of stress.

b. Assassinated my character directly by making false accusations about me.

c. Gaslighted me by stating the illnesses I have experienced are not real...

d. Told me the medical conditions I have, many of which have been proven with objective medical testing, are not real

e. Threatened to affect my insurance coverage adversely by lying to them...

f. She committed Medicaid fraud by ordering a medication for me...which was shipped to her office by CVS Specialty Pharmacy and delivered to her office...then lying to me by saying insurance would not cover it...she is the one who had to get the PA for it!...I did not receive the medication. I alerted CVS Specialty Pharmacy's appropriate team today. I am trying to figure out who to notify at Medicaid and at DCBS/CHFS – I will probably send them a copy of this letter as notification.

I have not been directly treated so badly by literally anyone, for a long time.... I have been stressed out ever since that all happened (early ~~this~~ last week)...

I reported the incident to my primary care doctor, because Dr. Knuckles also said she'd be contacting my doctor to discuss this... I haven't heard back from him (sent info on MyChart). I've learned that it is so critically important to have all documentation over the years.

The stress from the Dr. Knuckles incident has weighed very heavily on me.

I appreciate your attention to this very important matter.

Sincerely,

ohn R. Fouts * P. (502) 956-0052 * F. (502) 996-8246 * E. Fouts.John@gmail.com

Dr. Knuckles,

This is longer than I would like, but sometimes I am wordy....this is what I used to do...if you want to see only the health stuff....skip to the line of equals symbols about midway down...

This should round out the rest of the health information on me. I want to share first, about what I used to do before becoming disabled by all this illness. You asked me what I used to do and I am not sure I answered you... But... I was in the top 2% of my class in high school - graduated 8th out of 392 with a weighted gpa of 4.220. I was one of the 'smart kids' that went to Summer School to help maintain GPA... That being said, I experienced a lot of trauma as a child and score highly on the ACE questionnaire. My mom was dealing with severe mental illness surrounding Dissociative Identity Disorder (so it was very confusing growing up), and my dad was a work-a-holic to cope with the mental health situation my mom was in the throws of, and my sister was younger than me so any time anything was 'given' in terms of love - it was deferred to her as the younger child - and there was a lot of neglect and emotional abuse...I understand this is pretty common with complex presentations - so just giving some background - there were also other extenuating crazy circumstances too but no need to line them out.

I went to Purdue after that to the Electrical and Computer Engineering school, but I was miserable -- I didn't like the classes, they were too big for me to actually learn with the material being so complicated, I didn't really even know how to 'study' when I went there because everything came naturally to me before that, and eventually I started partying out of being so depressed, and flunked out of the Engineering school.

I did go back, however, to Purdue and back then decided to at least make it more fun, so I looked into Technical Graphics, then Computer Graphics, and then ultimately landed in the school of Technology with a Bachelor of Science in Organizational Leadership and Supervision. It was kind of cool because I loved the psychology of leadership - it was like I could not get enough information on the topic there for a while. It was also neat because there was a very diverse range of people in my classes which was not so much the case in the other majors or programs. I knew I had to get out of there though, so after being there for 5.5 years, and the last 2.5 years being incredibly stressful due to making up time (doing things like taking 21 credit hour Summers), and going to school non-stop, I did eventually graduate. When I was at Purdue, some friends took me to some wineries in Illinois, and I fell in love with that atmosphere....I decided I wanted to make wine and have a winery one day....

When I graduated from Purdue, I moved back to the Louisville area to the Highlands (Bardstown Rd.), and met my now ex-wife....she was getting a Master's degree, and I decided I wanted one too. So while working full time (initially in the non-profit sector for the American Red Cross as an Office Manager [during Hurricane Katrina] -- but as Manager of the Health, Volunteer, and Youth Services departments, and CNA program, and CPR and First Aid card programs and instructor training programs, I was not involved with Disaster...nor with the 'blood' side. -- at Goodwill -- I worked for Bridgepoint Goodwill and Easter Seals back then as a Retail Store Manager]). I think it was at Goodwill that I really hurt my back, but I didn't say anything back then and it is water under the bridge now. While going to school for my MBA, I was also working full time....eventually moving to become a Retirement Service Center Retirement Plan Valuation Specialist for Fortune 500 companies like Pepsi....to see if their retirement plans were overfunded or underfunded for paying out employees upon their retirements. I really did not like that job, and the company was so disorganized, and preached but did not practice, work and life balance...some people were there until 2 or 3 a.m. each night...and one person even died at the company in a different office, and wasn't found dead for 2 or 3 days....it was not for me either....I always wanted to make a difference in the world, and became part of the Business Process Development Team there at Mercer and also did Cross-Border Invoicing. I was working on building out the winery plan in the MBA program at IUS. So it was like I was going to school 4 days per week and working 5 days per week and doing extra homework and projects on the weekends, and that was just my style - always a go-getter, always a type A personality type...etc....

Eventually, I landed a job opportunity at a cocktail mix company and I thought wow - I am going to learn a lot here - funny quick side note here. I had to fly to Kansas City for the interview, and almost missed my plane because there was a skunk in my garage and I didn't want to get sprayed whilst in my best attire. That was a long time ago though. I worked for the cocktail mix company from 2007 until 2011. I graduated with the MBA in 2006. In 2007, while working full time, bought land, 2008 planted hundreds of vines (was so funny though - think Green Acres style funny - one story - I got a tiller stuck in a tree....)....in 2009 I had been dealing with back injuries for years and no longer able to stand up straight for over half a month at a time....had spine surgery 4/14/2009 - medical malpractice - laser not intended for use in spine.....damage to L4/L5 and L5/S1...radiculopathy....2010...opened the doors to the winery publicly on 10.16.2010. My child was born on 4/26/2011. In addition to the winery being open on the weekends, I was still working full time, and now also teaching an online course too to help make ends meet (at Ivy Tech)....eventually got to the point that fatigue and energy and pain so bad - I couldn't do anything anymore....was nearly completely bedbound for about 2 years....started to gain limited health back over a long period...eventually learned how to do web programming, and then found an ultra flexible boss and very small company and worked there with a lot of flexibility for nearly 5 years before becoming unable to work -- more incapacitated even....by further symptomology and progression of things...

BUT -- my biggest loves are my child, nature, art, music, expressionism, transcendentalism, medical research [of course these days], I used to love to camp and one of my favorite things to do was to hike - I LOVE RRG. I also love travel. I have been to 38 states. I am missing AK, HI, and New England area to complete visiting all of them. I still have a pipe dream goal of stepping foot on every continent, but also have had to learn to be content as things are.

Through this journey, I lost my business, my house, my wife, half custody of my child, the ability to enjoy my favorite things as I would like to and be who I am so there has been some spiritual suffering too -- I try to be as positive as I can be -- and at the same time -- think it is ironic that an eternal optimist would be stuck in a chronically ill state... I often wonder what my true purpose here was, is, or will be. I'm a thinker...a dreamer...a believer that all things are possible...and also ironically...a hopeless romantic at heart... but haven't the slightest clue about how to meet someone in my current state of health...

Here are some pictures (see attached). I even threw in one of my child and me (supposed to be) silhouetted on one of my very first watercolor paintings [it is supposed to be me and my child at RRG]. I also included a painting I made of fire and ice fire - it is how I feel.

I also now maintain a website I built all about small fiber neuropathy called SFNlife.org. www.sfnlife.org It is a constant work in progress....I need to work on it some more soon --

And here is a small sample of original music that I wrote:

https://www.khismof.com/music/Island-John-Original.mp3

I would not normally share, because I am shy, but I want you to see that there 'are' other sides than health research to me. It is a constant struggle for me to not think about it though - honestly - about being sick now for 15 years...

The KHISMOF website is going to be a book hopefully soon.

I wish you could see the view of the Ornament App that I see - but I don't think it is possible. I have had lots of labs done by many people, so I tried to get them all into one place where patterns can be observed - otherwise it is impossible to see what is going on [still is somewhat hazy in a lot of the areas]...

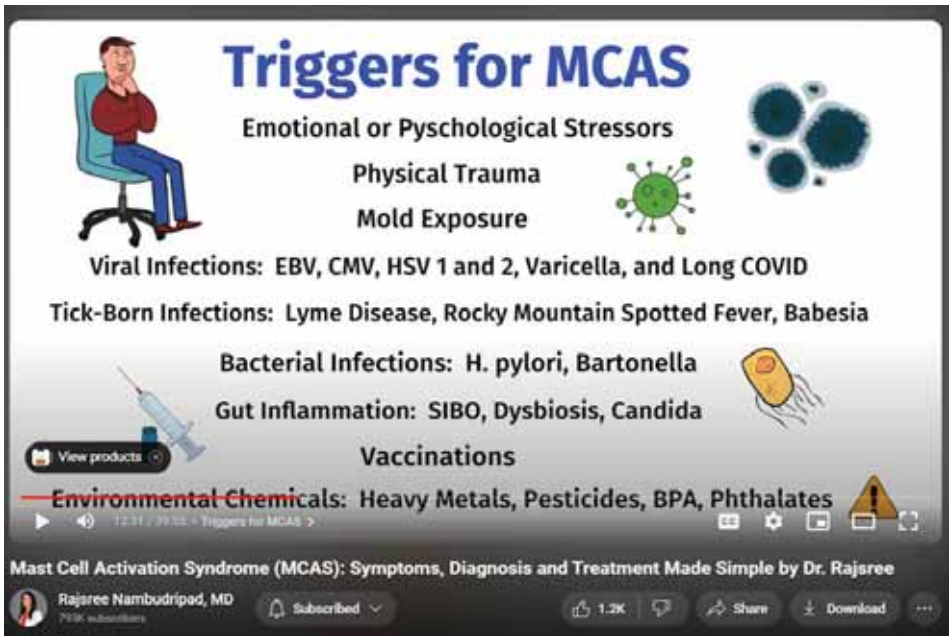
I have also had heavy metals in the past (probably still do) -- have 8 mercury amalgam fillings I am trying to get safely removed....as one example...also have had a lot of emotional trauma (wasn't safe for my kid to be alone with my ex-wife when my child was younger - and I was very ill - and the marriage was terrible) -- emotional trauma compounded the issue. Anyway - look at the list below compared to my lab results just as one indicator please. I also have had SIBO in the past, and feel like I have it again now, and have really bad refractory GERD.



Compare those to this list of things that can cause Mast Cell issues that Dr.

I have also attached a tryptase level I had of 2.8 and one of 6.1 showing the 1.2+2 increase. I also have had TPO antibodies for many years [but also have Grave's Disease] so those antibodies can occur with that...there are like 2 or 3 cases in the literature of ppl that develop Hashimotos after RAI for Grave's. It is possible I could fall into that group but I don't know.

Because of the winery work, I have had a lot of toxic exposures [I wore appropriate gear - but if I was spraying the field, and customers came, I would have to unsuit, wash up, help them, re-suit up, finish spraying etc....]....so things like RoundUp, Sevin, AgriPhos, Sulfurex, QuadriPhos, Manzate, Penncozeb...I have all the MSDS sheets somewhere....

I have also been exposed to Mold quite a bit of my life, and at my last apartment, it was a major problem. I had urine testing done, and am positive for Mycotoxins in my body. I don't think they can get out due to issues with bile flow and Lipopolysaccharides, but cannot PROVE it necessarily. I had environmental testing done, and it showed the same molds that cause the mycotoxins that were in my body were present in the apartment....for what it's worth from your perspective regarding health and mast cell issues. My mast cells aren't happy campers...

I also have a history of Lyme Disease, Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, Mycoplasma Pneumoniae, Chlamydia Pneumoniae (not the STD), EBV reactivation, HSV-1 escaping immune surveillance, HHV-6 same, CMV - same, etc...my immune system cannot so far find its way back to my old equilibrium or even one of peace against myself (autoimmunity issues).

I have a number of questions about if I am still harboring parasites - and specifically about the amount of brain atrophy I have....related to everything....per a NeuroQuant volumetric brain scan I have....I am in the 9th normative percentile overall for brain volume....and there are several areas showing 'profound atrophy'. It concerns me.

Of course you have seen my extensive symptoms lists and problems. Any or all of the above could have led to triggering angry mast cells (or confused ones)... since they sit pretty close to nerves, it could be contributing to the small fiber neuropathy too along with the autonomic dysfunction and pots-like symptoms...and of course the dermatographism, other hives and weird rashes, and extreme eye issues - all of the above.

So mast cell related relevant results attached:
* Tryptase level more than 1.2 + 2 rule -- check
* Anti-IgE receptor antibodies -- Negative
* KIT D816V mutation -- Negative (serum)
* FC-Epsilon Receptor antibodies -- Negative

 oddities from past labs -- high Chromagranin A, low Serine, high Succinic Acid, high Phenylaceticacid, low Phosphorous, 2 positive fungitell tests serially indicating beta d glucans or fungal infection [would be consistent with mold], penicillium sps nasal culture positive result, abnormal amount of geotrichium in sputum sample in growth...it is no wonder my body is struggling....

 New -- despite greatly increasing my vitamin D dose...it is as if my body no longer is able to accept it....my level is 19...going to 5,000 IU per day instead of 2,000 IU per day led to a big drop in level...it is bizarre...

Autologous Skin Serum Test -- Not Done Yet
Basophil Activation Test -- Not Done Yet
Biopsy at site of reaction -- Not Done Yet
---
24 hr urine -- will probably start on Sunday and end on Monday (to make sure it doesn't sit somewhere over the weekend at the lab)
Blood drawn today for Tryptase level as of today.

Severe asthma as a kid - often inpatient - often requiring immediate oxygen, multiple shots of epi, etc... many triggers for severe asthma....

All that could have been related to CVID-2 or Specific Antibody Deficiency issues -- I have a Selective IgM Deficiency as one thing....and transient hypogammaglobulinemia...and some other stuff related...

I haven't been allergy tested since I was a kid, keep asking people, they keep saying it isn't their specialty, so I am giving up for now on trying to get that done.

This will be all I send for now - unless you ask for anything else - but I wanted to make sure I answered your question about what I like to do. I also love to play music - but my joints hurt too badly to do so anymore...and my eyes....I can play piano with my eyes closed....but it is easier with them open....it is also an energy problem. I have hope that something is out there or some combination of things - mind, body, spirit, herbs, supplements, medications, etc... that will help.

I wanted to ask you, for next appointment, if we could talk about how I can take care of my feet....I have not been able to wear socks (covering my toes), or shoes for almost 8 years now....so I know there are a bunch of icky things on my feet...I was only able to begin wearing compression stockings in 2022....and they still have to be open pain...when things touch my skin, they feel like they are just made of fire.

Won't send anything else unless asked to do so. Thank you Dr. Knuckles and team.

Thank You.

We reviewed your information and found that the situation you describe is not within the scope of any on-going GAO work. FraudNet policy is to forward reports of wrongdoing to executive agencies for their review and action. However, we note you have already reported this matter to another federal entity or to several federal entities. In the interest of not duplicating their efforts, we suggest you follow up with that office.

For your information, GAO is responsible for assisting the Congress in carrying out its oversight responsibilities pertaining to government programs, activities and functions. Generally, this involves examining the programs and operations of federal departments and agencies, rather than reviewing singular allegations of wrongdoing. Because our resources are finite, we focus our evaluations on those federal programs and activities that Congress has requested us to review. We do not undertake reviews at the request of citizens or citizens groups.

We will retain your information on file for consideration in any future GAO work.

Thank you for your interest in combating fraud, waste and abuse.

Kentucky Medicaid Pharmacy Program Single Preferred Drug List (PDL)

Effective November 2, 2023

GENERAL DEFINITION OF TERMS

Clinical Criteria (CC) – Due to the nature of some medications, prior authorization (PA) is required for the medication to be covered. Medications with this indicator may require prior use of a different medication or drug product, a qualifying diagnosis to be reported and/or appropriate clinical criteria to be satisfied before prior authorization is approved. Prescriptions exceeding plan limitations such as a Quantity Limit (QL), Maximum Duration (MD), or Age Edit (AE), in addition to those subject to Clinical Criteria (CC), will require additional approval. All non-preferred agents require prior authorization.

Quantity Limits (QL) – Quantity limits have been placed on medications to be consistent with the maximum dosage that the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has approved to be both safe and effective. Medications where the quantity exceeds the FDA's maximum daily dose will require PA. Prescriptions exceeding plan limitations will require PA.

Medication with Maximum Duration (MD) – Medications indicated will be available for a defined period (e.g., 60 days) per rolling year (365 days) before requiring a new or additional PA.

Age Edit (AE) – Medications indicated are available for members above or below a given age without PA.

Maintenance Drugs – Maintenance drugs are medications that generally require regular, long-term use and are prescribed for the treatment of a chronic medical condition. The following classes are examples of common maintenance drugs. Maintenance drugs, as determined by First Databank (FDB) or Medi-Span, can be processed for up to a 92 days' supply for KY Medicaid recipients.

- ACE Inhibitors
- Beta Blockers
- COPD Agents
- Diabetes Drugs
- Lipotropics
- Antidepressants
- Antipsychotics
- Anticonvulsants

To view the most current PA criteria, please go to https://kyportal.magellanmedicaid.com/provider/public/home.xhtml.

To request a PA, please submit the Kentucky Medicaid Pharmacy Prior Authorization Form to the member's plan.

URGENT LETTER TO THE COURT REQUESTING IMMEDIATE RULING

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

Case Title:
John R. Fouts, MBA, and Jackie A. Fouts, Plaintiffs
v.
Commonwealth of Kentucky, et al., Defendants
Case No.: 24-cv-09325-AMO

URGENT LETTER TO THE COURT REQUESTING IMMEDIATE RULING

Honorable Judge Araceli Martinez-Olguin,

I write to you with the utmost urgency as the pro se Plaintiff in this matter.

The emergency nature of my filings demands immediate judicial intervention, yet, as of today, there has been no ruling or acknowledgment regarding the Emergency Injunction and Protective Orders Motion filed on December 18, 2024.

This lack of action has left me and my minor child in a state of imminent danger and irreparable harm due to the following:

1. Housing Instability:
   My lease was terminated on December 4, 2024, requiring us to vacate by February 8, 2025, however, in the past, Louisville Metro Housing Authority (LMHA), stated the voucher expires on January 31, 2025 thus meaning there are presently 25 days to meet that deadline. Despite repeated inquiries, Louisville Metro Housing Authority (LMHA) and HUD have failed to confirm the renewal of my Housing Choice Voucher, leaving our housing situation uncertain and precarious.

2. Safety Concerns:
   Our current residence is unsafe, as documented by a recent murder within roughly / approximately 200 to 300 feet of my home, unresolved pest infestations, and potential mold exposure, all of which exacerbate existing health issues – especially with confirmed prior mold exposure and confirmed mycotoxins in my body.

URGENT LETTER TO THE COURT REQUESTING IMMEDIATE RULING

3. Procedural Errors:
   The clerk's office has mishandled this case through multiple clerical errors, including misrepresentation of defendants and a failure to notify me timely of the case's filing status. On December 24, 2024, I was still awaiting confirmation from the clerk's office, despite learning later, on December 26th, that the case had been filed on December 18, 2024 – leaving me to wonder why the clerk's office claimed on December 20th, that the case was not filed. This lack of timely communication and magnitude of discrepancies has significantly hindered my ability to act even further.

4. Clarification on Summonses: Despite submitting a formal request for clarification on the issuance and service of summonses, which was docketed, I have received no response. This lack of guidance hinders my ability to proceed with serving defendants effectively and in compliance with procedural rules. I respectfully request immediate clarification on this matter.

5. ADA Violations:
   State agencies have systematically ignored my legally mandated accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act, further jeopardizing my ability to access critical services and information.

6. Judicial Misrepresentation:
   The Order to Show Cause issued on December 23, 2024, contains factual inaccuracies and misrepresentations, including references to allegations I have never made, such as issues regarding:

   - Missing Social Security checks
   - Prescription drugs by mail

   These inaccuracies mischaracterize my case, undermine its integrity, and raise concerns about whether my filings have been adequately reviewed.

I respectfully request the Court to provide a ruling on my Emergency Injunction and Protective Orders Motion within the next 24 hours to prevent further harm and to protect my rights and safety.

URGENT LETTER TO THE COURT REQUESTING IMMEDIATE RULING

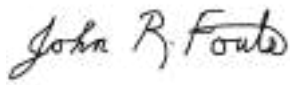
Additionally, I request the Court:

- Address the procedural errors, including correcting the defendants list with the consolidated exhibit filed on December 30, 2024.
- Correct the factual inaccuracies in the Order to Show Cause.
- Confirm the current status of all filings in this case.

The continued delay is untenable and risks devastating consequences for both myself and my child. I implore the Court to act swiftly and decisively in this matter.

I respectfully request that the Court provide a ruling on my Emergency Injunction and Protective Orders Motion within the next 24 hours to prevent further harm and ensure the protection of my rights and safety – I am running out of time.

Respectfully submitted,



John R. Fouts, MBA

EXHIBIT

EXHIBIT-UNJUST-LEASE-TERMINATION-HOUSING-CRISIS-VIOLATIONS-ADA-OLMSTEAD-CONSTITUTIONA-FEDERAL-PROTECTIONS

Introduction

This exhibit contains official correspondence from Station J-Town Management, owned by Vida Management, notifying the Plaintiff, John Fouts, and his child of a non-renewal of their lease without any stated reason. The absence of a clear justification for the lease non-renewal raises serious concerns of potential retaliation, discrimination, and violations of housing rights. The Plaintiff's special circumstances, including disability and a Housing Choice Mainstream Voucher under the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), make this situation particularly urgent and severe.

Additionally, the lack of meaningful communication from Station J-Town Management, Louisville Metro Housing Authority (LMHA), and HUD regarding the renewal of the Housing Choice Voucher exacerbates the Plaintiff's precarious housing situation and poses a significant threat of imminent homelessness. This failure directly undermines protections under federal and state laws, including those designed to support individuals with disabilities and ensure equitable housing opportunities.

Reservation of Rights: Plaintiff reserves the right to provide additional evidence and context, amending as applicable, as discovery progresses.

   18 U.S.C. § 1961 et seq.:

   - Potential evidence of a coordinated pattern of administrative neglect and procedural obstruction across multiple agencies, contributing to systemic discrimination and harm

9. Constitutional Violations (1st, 8th , 9th , 13th, and 14th Amendments):

   - 1st Amendment: Suppression of the Plaintiff's rights to petition and redress grievances through repeated neglect and disregard of inquiries and concerns.
   - 8th Amendment: Cruel and unusual punishment through neglect of urgent housing needs, effectively exposing the Plaintiff to physical and emotional harm.

   - 9th Amendment: Violations of implied rights to safety, housing stability, and dignity.

   - 13th Amendment: Involuntary servitude imposed through forcing the Plaintiff to expend extraordinary and unreasonable efforts, as a disabled person, to obtain basic information and support that should be freely accessible under the law.

   - 14th Amendment: Deprivation of due process and equal protection by failing to provide sufficient reasoning or accommodations for the lease termination.

11. Kentucky Landlord-Tenant Laws (KRS § 383.660):

    - Failure to provide proper reasoning for non-renewal of the lease, which could constitute a violation of state landlord-tenant statutes.

MAIL TRACKING RECORDS DEMONSTRATING LMHA AND HUD NEGLECT

Introduction:

This exhibit contains detailed mail tracking records showing that multiple urgent emails and communications sent to Louisville Metro Housing Authority (LMHA) and the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) were opened and read numerous times. Despite this documented acknowledgment, no meaningful responses or actions were taken to address the critical issues raised, including the imminent expiration of my Housing Choice Voucher, the threat of homelessness, and repeated requests for reasonable accommodations as required under the ADA.

These records serve as clear evidence of systemic neglect and inaction, illustrating a failure to fulfill their obligations under federal law, including the ADA, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, and Olmstead mandates. This lack of responsiveness has caused significant harm, leaving me unable to secure safe housing or address my basic needs and those of my child while facing the compounded stress and danger of potential homelessness.

The documented inaction and disregard further support claims of discriminatory practices and procedural failures within these agencies, necessitating immediate judicial action to ensure compliance with federal law and prevent further irreparable harm.

Reservation of Rights: Plaintiff reserves the right to provide additional evidence and context as discovery progresses.

U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, Office of Public and Indian Housing

PHA or IHA requesting release of information (full address, name of contact person, and date):

Authority: Section 904 of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Amendments Act of 1988, as amended by Section 903 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1992 and Section 3003 of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1997. This law is found at 42 U.S.C. 3544. This law requires you to sign a consent form authorizing: (1) HUD, and the Housing Agency/Authority (HA) to request verification of salary and wages from current or previous employers; (2) HUD and the HA to request wage and unemployment compensation claim information from the state agency responsible for keeping that information; and (3) HUD to request certain tax return information from the U.S. Social Security Administration and the U.S. Internal Revenue Service.

Section 104 of the Housing Opportunity and Modernization Act of 2016. The relevant provisions are found at 42 U.S.C. 1437n . This law requires you to sign a consent form authorizing the HA to request verification of any financial record from any financial institutions as defined in the Right to Financial Privacy Act (12 U.S.C. 3401), whenever the HA determines the record is needed to determine an applicant's or participant's eligibility for assistance or level of benefits

Purpose: In signing this consent form, you are authorizing HUD and the above-named HA to request income information from the sources listed on the form. HUD and the HA need this information to verify your household's income, in order to ensure that you are eligible for assisted housing benefits and that these benefits are set at the correct level. HUD and the HA may participate in computer matching programs with these sources in order to verify your eligibility and level of benefits.

Uses of Information to be Obtained: HUD is required to protect the income information it obtains in accordance with the Privacy Act of 1974, 5 U.S.C. 552a. HUD may disclose information (other than tax return information) for certain routine uses, such as to other government agencies for law enforcement purposes, to Federal agencies for employment suitability purposes and to HAs for the purpose of determining housing assistance. The HA is also required to protect the income information it obtains at accordance with any applicable State privacy law. HUD and HA employees may be subject to penalties for unauthorized disclosures or improper uses of the income information that is obtained based on the consent form. Private owners may not request or receive information authorized by this form.

Who Must Sign the Consent Form: Each member of your family who is 18 years of age or older must sign the consent form. Additional signatures must be obtained from new adult members joining the family or whenever members of the family become 18 years of age.

Persons who apply for or receive assistance under the following programs are required to sign this consent form:

Public Housing
Housing Choice Voucher
Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation

Failure to Sign Consent Form: Your failure to sign the consent form may result in the denial of eligibility or termination of assisted housing benefits, or both. Denial of eligibility or termination of benefits is subject to the HA's grievance procedures and Section 8 informal hearing procedures.

Revocation of consent: If you revoke consent, the PHA will be unable to verify your information, although the data matches between HUD and other agencies will continue to automatically occur in the Enterprise Income Verification (EIV) System if the family is not terminated from the program.

Sources of Information to be Obtained

State Wage Information Collection Agencies. (This consent is limited to wages and unemployment compensation I have received when I have received assisted housing benefits.)

U.S. Social Security Administration (HUD only) (This consent is limited to the wage and self-employment information and payments of retirement income as referenced at Section 6103(l)(7)(A) of the Internal Revenue Code.)

U.S. Internal Revenue Service (HUD only) (This consent is limited to unearned income [i.e., interest and dividends].)

Information may also be obtained directly from: (a) current and former employers concerning salary and wages; and (b) financial institutions as defined in the Right to Financial Privacy Act (12 U.S.C. 3401), whenever the HA determines the record is needed to determine an applicant's or participant's eligibility for assistance or level of benefits. I understand that income information obtained from these sources will be used to verify information that I provide in determining eligibility for assisted housing programs and the level of benefits. Therefore, this consent form only authorizes release directly from employers and financial institutions of information.

Consent: I consent to allow HUD or the HA to request and obtain income information from the sources listed on this form for the purpose of verifying my eligibility and level of benefits under HUD's assisted housing programs. I understand that HAs that receive income information under this consent form cannot use it to deny, reduce or terminate assistance without first independently verifying what the amount was, whether I actually had access to the funds and when the funds were received. In addition, I must be given an opportunity to contest those determinations.

This consent form remains effective until the earliest of (i) the rendering of a final adverse decision for an assistance applicant; (ii) the cessation of a participant's eligibility for assistance from HUD and the PHA; or (iii) the express revocation by the assistance applicant or recipient (or applicable family member) of the authorization, in a written notification to HUD or the PHA.

CERTIFICATION OF DOMESTIC VIOLENCE, DATING VIOLENCE, SEXUAL ASSAULT, OR STALKING, AND ALTERNATE DOCUMENTATION

U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development

OMB Approval No. 2577-0286
Expires until further notice

Purpose of Form: The Violence Against Women Act ("VAWA") protects applicants, tenants, and program participants in certain HUD programs from being evicted, denied housing assistance, or terminated from housing assistance based on acts of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking against them. Despite the name of this law, VAWA protection is available to victims of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, and stalking, regardless of sex, gender identity, or sexual orientation.

Use of This Optional Form: If you are seeking VAWA protections from your housing provider, your housing provider may give you a written request that asks you to submit documentation about the incident or incidents of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking.

In response to this request, you or someone on your behalf may complete this optional form and submit it to your housing provider, or you may submit one of the following types of third-party documentation:

(1) A document signed by you and an employee, agent, or volunteer of a victim service provider, an attorney, or medical professional, or a mental health professional (collectively, "professional") from whom you have sought assistance relating to domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking, or the effects of abuse. The document must specify, under penalty of perjury, that the professional believes the incident or incidents of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking occurred and meet the definition of "domestic violence," "dating violence," "sexual assault," or "stalking" in HUD's regulations at 24 CFR 5.2003.

(2) A record of a Federal, State, tribal, territorial or local law enforcement agency, court, or administrative agency; or

(3) At the discretion of the housing provider, a statement or other evidence provided by the applicant or tenant.

Submission of Documentation: The time period to submit documentation is 14 business days from the date that you receive a written request from your housing provider asking that you provide documentation of the occurrence of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking. Your housing provider may, but is not required to, extend the time period to submit the documentation, if you request an extension of the time period. If the requested information is not received within 14 business days of when you received the request for the documentation, or any extension of the date provided by your housing provider, your housing provider does not need to grant you any of the VAWA protections. Distribution or issuance of this form does not serve as a written request for certification.

Confidentiality: All information provided to your housing provider concerning the incident(s) of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking shall be kept confidential and such details shall not be entered into any shared database. Employees of your housing provider are not to have access to these details unless to grant or deny VAWA protections to you, and such employees may not disclose this information to any other entity or individual, except to the extent that disclosure is: (i) consented to by you in writing in a time-limited release; (ii) required for use in an eviction proceeding or hearing regarding termination of assistance; or (iii) otherwise required by applicable law.

EMERGENCY TRANSFER REQUEST FOR CERTAIN VICTIMS OF DOMESTIC VIOLENCE, DATING VIOLENCE, SEXUAL ASSAULT, OR STALKING

U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development

OMB Approval No. 2577-0286
Expires until further notice

Purpose of Form: If you are a victim of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking, and you are seeking an emergency transfer, you may use this form to request an emergency transfer and certify that you meet the requirements of eligibility for an emergency transfer under the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA). Although the statutory name references women, VAWA rights and protections apply to all victims of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault or stalking. Using this form does not necessarily mean that you will receive an emergency transfer. See your housing provider's emergency transfer plan for more information about the availability of emergency transfers.

The requirements you must meet are:

(1) You are a victim of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking. If your housing provider does not already have documentation that you are a victim of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking, your housing provider may ask you for such documentation. In response, you may submit Form HUD-5382, or any one of the other types of documentation listed on that Form.

(2) You expressly request the emergency transfer. Submission of this form confirms that you have expressly requested a transfer. Your housing provider may choose to require that you submit this form, or may accept another written or oral request. Please see your housing provider's emergency transfer plan for more details.

(3) You reasonably believe you are threatened with imminent harm from further violence if you remain in your current unit. This means you have a reason to fear that if you do not receive a transfer you would suffer violence in the very near future.

OR

You are a victim of sexual assault and the assault occurred on the premises during the 90-calendar-day period before you request a transfer. If you are a victim of sexual assault, then in addition to qualifying for an emergency transfer because you reasonably believe you are threatened with imminent harm from further violence if you remain in your unit, you may qualify for an emergency transfer if the sexual assault occurred on the premises of the property from which you are seeking your transfer, and that assault happened within the 90-calendar-day period before you submit this form or otherwise expressly request the transfer.

Submission of Documentation: If you have third-party documentation that demonstrates why you are eligible for an emergency transfer, you should submit that documentation to your housing provider if it is safe for you to do so. Examples of third party documentation include, but are not limited to: a letter or other documentation from a victim service provider, social worker, legal assistance provider, pastoral counselor, mental health provider, or other professional from whom you have sought assistance; a current restraining order; a recent court order or other court records; a law enforcement report or records; communication records from the perpetrator of the violence or family members or friends of the perpetrator of the violence, including emails, voicemails, text messages, and social media posts

Confidentiality: All information provided to your housing provider concerning the incident(s) of domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, or stalking, and concerning your request for an emergency transfer shall be kept confidential. Such details shall not be entered into any shared database. Employees of your housing provider are not to have access to these details unless to grant or deny VAWA protections or an emergency transfer to you. Such employees may not disclose this information to any other entity or individual, except to the extent that disclosure is: (i) consented to by you in writing in a time-limited release; (ii) required for use in an eviction proceeding or hearing regarding termination of assistance; or (iii) otherwise required by applicable law.

TO BE COMPLETED BY OR ON BEHALF OF THE PERSON REQUESTING A TRANSFER

2. Your name (if different from victim's) NA

5. Address of location from which the victim seeks to transfer: NA
6. Address or phone number for contacting the victim: NA
7. Name of the accused perpetrator (if known and can be safely disclosed): NA
8. Relationship of the accused perpetrator to the victim: NA
9. Date(s), Time(s) and location(s) of incident(s): NA

10. Is the person requesting the transfer a victim of a sexual assault that occurred in the past 90 days on the premises of the property from which the victim is seeking a transfer? If yes, skip question 11. If no, fill out question 11. NA

11. Describe why the victim believes they are threatened with imminent harm from further violence if they remain in their current unit. NA

12. If voluntarily provided, list any third-party documentation you are providing along with this notice: NA

I still have yet to hear from LMHA -- I still cannot get a confirmation of receipt on your end that you received the information, that I can prove was received....and I still cannot get many if not most of my questions answered.

2024-12-03 -- I require a response of some kind - a response is mandatory - not optional. I have faxed, and emailed multiple times and have not received a word back. Ignoring someone is not okay. Please confirm receipt. I can see that the fax I sent on 2024-11-04 was successful. I also have reached out to Rose McCarty, Deborah Gilbert, the nmlmhares@lmha1.org email, and emailed recerts@lmha1.org per Rose McCarty. I have heard nothing back from anyone regarding the recertification, what next steps are, questions not addressed by the person handling housing for a house, who advised me to go through the recert process, which I have filled out all of the paperwork and submitted forms for, however, still, nothing but crickets from LMHA....

Then tonight I keep receiving this error - so is there an issue with hud.gov?

I faxed in the documentation (and received a successful fax transmission report), and I also had emailed the contact on the paperwork. I then wrote to you to confirm that you all at LMHA had what you needed and I had received a portal link to update identical paperwork there - is it necessary for me to do that as well? I need an answer please.

Irina Bassett was my last contact, but she no longer is in her position she was in at LMHA (she had emailed me that), and you are the only contact I have aside from her aside from Deborah Gilbert.

Since I did not receive any guidance, no direction, and no communication - I am copying Deborah here so I can hopefully get some kind of a response.

I look forward to hearing from LMHA so I know what to do and what my options are....

My other questions, sent, included, how any other housing (to own) program works with LMHA for people that are disabled like me and not able to work. I need to know these answers please (programs I would be able to qualify for). I expect a prompt response.

HUD Ombudsman Letter -- Federal

2024-12-03

Subject: Urgent Assistance Needed for Unanswered Recertification and Housing Issues – LMHA Non-Response – Despite Many Attempts

To: HUD Ombudsman

To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing to formally request urgent assistance regarding my ongoing attempts to address my housing recertification with the Louisville Metro Housing Authority (LMHA). Despite repeated efforts through multiple channels, including emails, faxes, and outreach to specific LMHA staff, I have yet to receive any acknowledgment or resolution to my concerns.

Timeline of Attempts to Resolve the Issue:

1. 2024-11-04: I faxed the required recertification paperwork to the fax number provided by LMHA. The transmission was confirmed as successful.
2. 2024-11-07: I emailed Rose McCarty, Deborah Gilbert, and Irina Bassett to confirm receipt of my paperwork and to clarify next steps. No response was received.
3. 2024-11-11: I emailed Rose McCarty directly when I received no response from nmlmhares@lmha1.org, the email address listed on the paperwork.
4. 2024-11-19: I sent another email to recerts@lmha1.org per guidance from Rose McCarty.
5. 2024-12-03: I sent a follow-up email requesting an urgent response and acknowledgment. To date, no communication has been received.

I can demonstrate, with fax confirmation and email records, that my documentation was received successfully. The complete lack of acknowledgment or guidance is causing severe distress and uncertainty about my family's housing stability in a time of unabated chaos.

Specific Requests:

1. Immediate Confirmation: Acknowledge receipt of my recertification paperwork and confirm its completeness.

HUD Ombudsman Letter -- Federal

2. Clear Next Steps: Provide explicit guidance on any additional requirements or next steps in the recertification process.
3. Investigation and Accountability: Investigate LMHA's systemic lack of response and ensure that this behavior is corrected.
4. Disability Accommodations: I am dealing with advanced brain atrophy, CFS/ME, Long Covid with Microclots, Sjogrens, Small Fiber Neuropathy, and many other conditions including PTSD. I need time to process any communication so I require all communication to be in writing via fax, email, and snail mail.

Context of Vulnerability:

I am currently disabled, living with a dependent child who is also disabled. My health is severely compromised, and I am already dealing with significant systemic neglect from other state agencies. As such, I am invoking the protections of the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA), which guarantees safe housing and safeguards against retaliatory or neglectful behavior by housing authorities. LMHA's inaction and failure to communicate directly violate federal housing mandates, including those outlined under VAWA.

Technical Issues:

I have also encountered persistent errors when attempting to access resources at hud.gov, receiving messages that "hud.gov does not support a secure connection." This further compounds my inability to receive necessary information or guidance.

Please intervene urgently to resolve this situation. I request that HUD investigate LMHA's noncompliance with federal regulations and ensure that I can continue to pursue safe and stable housing without delay.

Thank you for your immediate attention. I look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

I mean the packet that I sent to you. I want a 'house' to live in that I can own outright one day. I am disabled. I have asked for this information before and haven't received an answer. I am not able to work due to disability so I cannot meet a work requirement. LMHA needs to be transparent with answers please.

URGENT: Follow-Up Request for Housing Choice Voucher Renewal Status - 2025-01-06 - John R. Fouts

1 message

Subject: URGENT: Follow-Up Request for Housing Choice Voucher Renewal Status - 2025-01-06

Dear Deborah, Rose, and Frank,

I am following up on my previous email dated December 31, 2024, regarding the renewal status of my Housing Choice Mainstream Voucher. I requested a response by January 2, 2025, but have received no communication or clarification.

As a disabled individual with a special-needs child, I am deeply concerned about the lack of response, particularly as we are now within 30 days of the voucher's expiration (January 31, 2025).

According to HUD regulations, tenants must be provided with written notice of renewal or non-renewal of their Housing Choice Voucher, including the reasons for any non-renewal, in advance of expiration. Specifically:

1. Annual Recertification Requirements (24 CFR § 982.516):
   HUD mandates that Housing Authorities provide timely notice to tenants to complete recertification and notify them of renewal decisions well in advance of the voucher's expiration. My recertification paperwork was submitted on November 4, 2024, and yet I have only received an acknowledgement in early December at first that the paperwork was received and passed along to the team, and then received an acknowledgment of receipt on December 31, 2024. This delay is unreasonable and leaves me in a precarious situation involving imminent threat of homelessness.

2. Notice of Non-Renewal or Termination (24 CFR § 982.555):
   If the voucher is not being renewed, HUD requires that tenants be given written notice stating the reason for the decision and informing them of their right to an informal hearing. No such notice has been provided to me.

3. Reasonable Accommodation Requirements:
   As a disabled individual, I am entitled to reasonable accommodations under both the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and the Fair Housing Act. The lack of timely communication about my voucher renewal places an undue burden on me and violates my rights under these laws.

==========

Additionally, as a disabled individual, HUD guidelines mandate that housing authorities like LMHA provide supportive services to ensure equitable access to housing and avoid displacement. This includes assistance with relocation, finding accessible housing, and other support services that address the unique needs of disabled tenants. Please outline what specific assistance LMHA is prepared to offer in this type of emergency situation. Given that we are now within the 30-day window before my voucher's expiration and my lease non-renewal is set for February 8, 2025, with walkthrough on February 5th, 2025 by management here, *I urgently require confirmation of whether my Housing Choice Voucher is being renewed.

This continued lack of communication has caused me immense distress, as it would any reasonable person, and further jeopardizes my ability to secure housing for myself and my child in any kind of timely manner - especially considering I am disabled. The management company did not provide a reason for non-lease renewal, but I am sure it is retaliation because I had to involve LMHA for inspections on occasion.

Please provide a response by the end of the day, January 6, 2025, confirming the status of my voucher.

EXHIBIT-MAIL-TRACKING-RECORDS-DEMONSTRATING-LMHA-AND-HUD-NEGLECT-END

If the voucher is not being renewed, I request immediate written notice stating the reasons and outlining my right to appeal, as required by HUD regulations.

Thank you for your immediate attention to this urgent matter.

The building was treated, but it did not do any good. These roaches and bugs were crawling around everywhere in my apartment on Dec. 4, 2024.

See pictures.

What should I do? Please advise.

Rose, Deborah, Terry,

I'm not sure who to report this to so I am copying all of you. This morning (yesterday morning on 12/2/2024) from around 8:40 a.m. to around 1:15 p.m., I was gone with my child at the Emergency Room at Norton Women and Children's Hospital. My child has been sick for several weeks - almost all in all for 3 months with ups and downs but not ever fully recovering, and has missed numerous days of school, and even today, was MAP testing for Math, but we were in the ER when the inspector came to the apartment. Today 12/3/2024 my child had to miss school again.

I need for the confirmatory inspection to be rescheduled. I can tell you that we have still had lots of trouble with the apartment complex not getting the trash as they are supposed to. We have to pay for Valet Trash and they are supposed to pick it up each night, but they only get it about half the time...that encourages more bug issues and probably further increases the probability of a crime occurring. I am hopeful that that does not happen, and am at the same time, a realist.

As far as the bugs go, the roaches have disappeared for the time being, which I am thankful for - because the place was very heavily infested, and it has happened numerous times, and maintenance and management here frankly do not care.

We are still having an issue with bugs, however, it is a strange issue whereby there are a bunch of little weird moths that I do not normally see flying around. I do not know where they came from. I don't even know if they are native. I grew up in nature looking at wildlife all the time, and do not know that I have seen this type of moth before they inhabited our apartment.

I wanted to also ask a few questions about mold. I am highly allergic to molds, and I am also someone who has been a victim of living in a water damaged building, and it is not safe for me, nor my kid, to be around black molds and other toxic molds creating macrocyclic and other trichothecenes, gliotoxins, aflatoxins, ochratoxins, and others.... Has the complex here and specifically building L, and this apartment even, or any of the mentioned, been tested before by a knowledgeable environmental third party toxins inspector?

And please can you all get back to me regarding the several other emails and fax I sent regarding confirmation of renewal of voucher?

2024-12-31 John R. Fouts - Still Need Housing Choice Mainstream Voucher Questions Answered Expeditiously - Urgent Situation As Threat Of Homeless Draws More Near - 32 Days - Please Provide Answers

Deborah, Rose, Frank,

I need to know what is going on with our application. I received a letter of non-renewal of lease from Station J-town, without cause, and they want us out by 2/8/2024.

I do not know the reasoning behind their decision, but I believe solidly it is retaliation for me asking to get maintenance situations repaired, or to spray for roaches, etc..., or to take trash out when we have to pay for it but they often do not do it....

As, per former communication, Irina Bassett told me the current voucher expires on January 31st, 2025, and that is 32 days away including today, and I am very ill / disabled / have a special needs child / and very limited income / I need to know what the status of our voucher is.

My paperwork was submitted to LMHA through the channels noted on the document on November 4th, 2024. Today is December 31, 2024. I have had much communication with each of you trying to get answers between then and now and have received none aside from an email finally from recerts - an email address Rose McCarty gave to me in mid November, not listed on the renewal letter at all, and I sent to that email I believe on or around November 19th. It has been well over a month, and now I am receiving another email just stating that our documents have been received.

Please let me know the status of the voucher so I know how to plan so can lessen the imminent threat of homelessness that is heavily weighing upon me, a disabled person, and a special needs disabled child.

If Frank McNeil, the Louisville HUD Office Field Manager could step in to weigh in, that would also be helpful - Frank I have copied you on many pieces of communication and have heard nothing but radio silence.

I need answers please. I understand today is New Year's Eve, but I still hope to hear something from one of you by the end of the day, if not - yet this afternoon - then at the latest by January 2nd, 2025.

Sincerely,

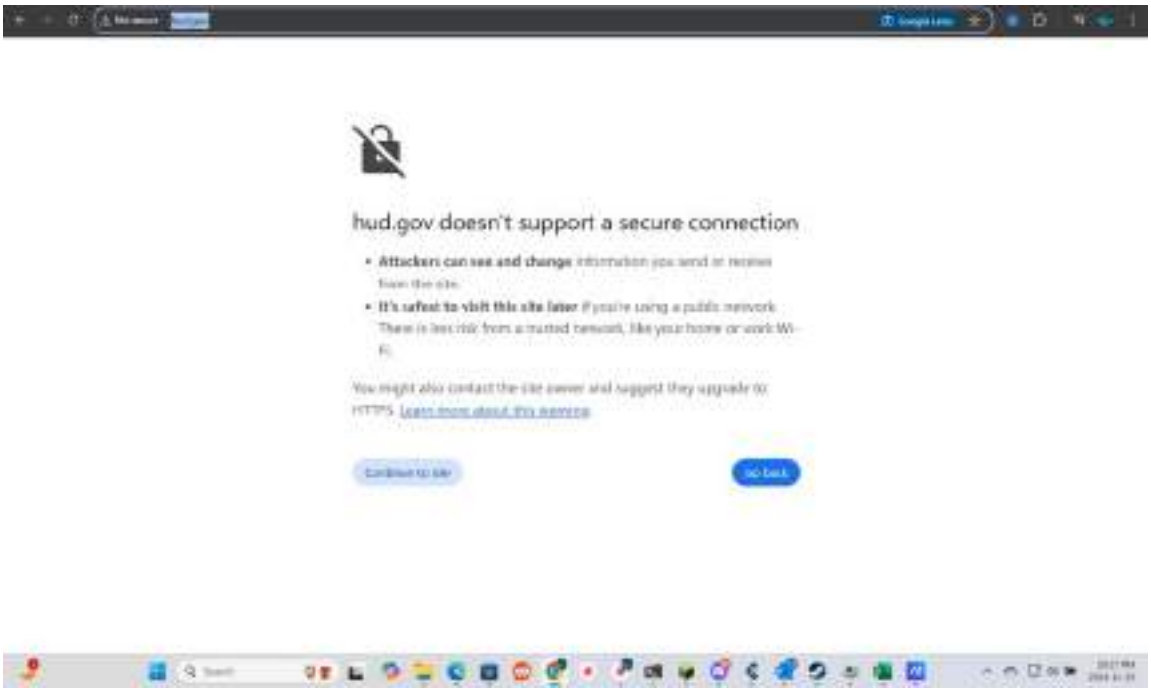
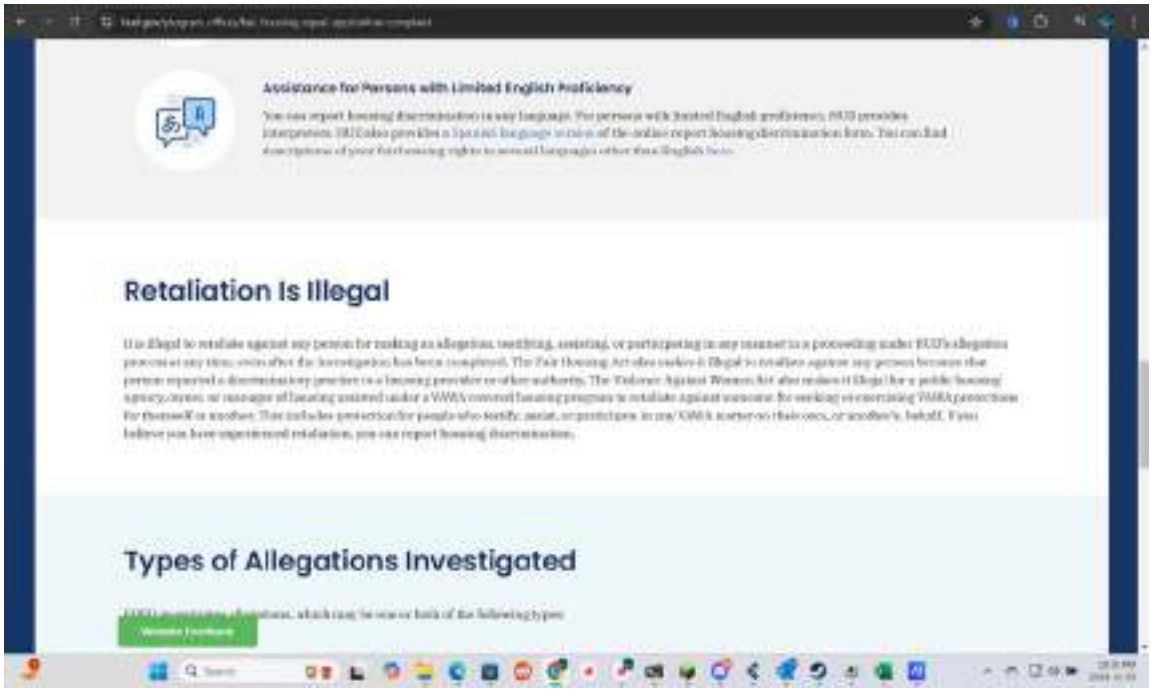
I still have yet to hear from LMHA -- I still cannot get a confirmation of receipt on your end that you received the information, that I can prove was received....and I still cannot get many if not most of my questions answered.

2024-12-03 -- I require a response of some kind - a response is mandatory - not optional. I have faxed, and emailed multiple times and have not received a word back. Ignoring someone is not okay. Please confirm receipt. I can see that the fax I sent on 2024-11-04 was successful. I also have reached out to Rose McCarty, Deborah Gilbert, the nmlmhares@lmha1.org email, and emailed recerts@lmha1.org per Rose McCarty. I have heard nothing back from anyone regarding the recertification, what next steps are, questions not addressed by the person handling housing for a house, who advised me to go through the recert process, which I have filled out all of the paperwork and submitted forms for, however, still, nothing but crickets from LMHA....

Then tonight I keep receiving this error - so is there an issue with hud.gov?





2024-11-19 -- Email below in thread -- sent to recerts@lmha1.org per Rose McCarty guidance - sent 2024-11-19

2024-11-11 -- Sent email to Rose M. when had not heard from nmlmhares@lmha1.org who paperwork indicated information needed to be sent to.

2024-11-07 -- Sent email to Rose M., Deborah Gilbert, and Irina Bassett to find out if paperwork was received and get questions answered.

2024-11-04 -- Faxed 2024-11-04 -- Confirmation of Successful Transmission -- Faxed to Fax Number Received on LMHA Paperwork Received

I faxed in the documentation (and received a successful fax transmission report), and I also had emailed the contact on the paperwork. I then wrote to you to confirm that you all at LMHA had what you needed and I had received a portal link to update identical paperwork there - is it necessary for me to do that as well? I need an answer please.

Irina Bassett was my last contact, but she no longer is in her position she was in at LMHA (she had emailed me that), and you are the only contact I have aside from her aside from Deborah Gilbert.

Since I did not receive any guidance, no direction, and no communication - I am copying Deborah here so I can hopefully get some kind of a response.

I look forward to hearing from LMHA so I know what to do and what my options are....

My other questions, sent, included, how any other housing (to own) program works with LMHA for people that are disabled like me and not able to work. I need to know these answers please (programs I would be able to qualify for). I expect a prompt response.

MOTION FOR JUDICIAL REASSIGNMENT

United States District Court Northern District of California

John R. Fouts, et al., Plaintiffs,

v.

Commonwealth of Kentucky, et al., Defendants.

MOTION FOR JUDICIAL REASSIGNMENT

Plaintiff John R. Fouts, appearing pro se', respectfully moves this Honorable Court for the reassignment of this case to a different judge pursuant to the applicable federal laws and the Code of Judicial Conduct. This motion is made on the grounds of procedural errors, bias or appearance of bias, and failure to properly address ADA accommodations, which collectively undermine confidence in the impartial administration of justice.

I. Grounds for Reassignment

1. Procedural Irregularities:
    - Numerous filings were either not acknowledged or improperly processed by the Court, causing significant delays in addressing Plaintiff's urgent motions, including but not limited to the emergency injunction.
    - Discrepancies in communication, including conflicting information from the Clerk's Office regarding the status of filings, have created procedural confusion and prejudiced the Plaintiff's ability to prosecute this case effectively.
    - The Clerk's processing omitted several defendants listed in the Complaint, including all individual defendants accused of violating Plaintiff's rights under the Color of Law, and improperly categorized the case in a manner that could invoke immunity defenses under the Eleventh Amendment, thereby exposing the case to premature dismissal.
2. Perceived Bias or Lack of Impartiality:
    - Language used in prior orders and correspondence from Judge Araceli Martínez-Olguín (hereinafter "Judge AMO") has demonstrated a dismissive tone. Specifically, the use of terms such as "myriad" and "dozens" suggests an exaggerated and accusatory view of Plaintiff's filings, which undermines confidence in the judge's impartiality.

- Judge AMO inaccurately referenced issues not included in the Plaintiff's Complaint, such as missing social security checks and mail-order medication, raising further concerns about the accuracy of the Court's understanding of the case.

3. Urgency Due to Housing Crisis:

   - Plaintiff's Housing Choice Mainstream Voucher is set to expire on January 31, 2025, creating an imminent risk of homelessness. Despite Plaintiff's repeated efforts to resolve this issue, neither the Housing Authority nor the Court has provided necessary intervention. Immediate judicial action is critical to prevent irreparable harm to Plaintiff and their dependent.

   - The Plaintiff has already endured unsafe conditions at their current residence, including a nearby murder and unresolved pest infestations, exacerbating health issues related to mold exposure and other environmental factors.

4. Delay in Emergency Motion:

   - Plaintiff filed this case on December 18, 2024, accompanied by an emergency injunction and protective orders motion. Despite the emergency designation and documentation of life-threatening circumstances, 22 days have passed without a ruling. This delay further highlights the need for immediate judicial intervention.

5. Efforts to Address Venue:

   - Plaintiff submitted a detailed response to the Order to Show Cause regarding venue, emphasizing the necessity of a fair and unbiased judicial forum, along with addressing procedural errors and the Court's misrepresentations. This response has not yet been acknowledged or resolved, compounding the emergency.

6. Systemic Issues in Louisville, Kentucky:

   - DOJ's investigation and findings regarding systemic violations of civil rights in Louisville underscore the challenges Plaintiff faces in obtaining fair treatment locally. The broader context demonstrates the need for judicial oversight free from local influences or biases.

II. Legal Standard

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 1 mandates the just, speedy, and inexpensive determination of every action. Moreover, under 28 U.S.C. § 455(a), "[a]ny justice, judge, or magistrate judge of the United States shall disqualify himself in any proceeding in which his impartiality might reasonably be questioned."

The Code of Judicial Conduct further emphasizes the importance of avoiding not only actual bias but also the appearance of bias. Canon 2 of the Code directs judges to perform their duties impartially, competently, and diligently.

The Eleventh Amendment prohibits federal courts from hearing cases brought by private citizens against states, except under specific circumstances. Improper categorization of this case risks unjust application of immunity defenses, further warranting reassignment to ensure proper handling.

III. Supporting Evidence

1. Documented Procedural Errors:
    - Exhibits detailing clerical errors and procedural inconsistencies have been submitted as part of the record (see Exhibit A, Procedural and Clerical Errors Document).
2. Improper Venue and Transfer Decisions:
    - The Court's orders have improperly dismissed valid concerns raised by Plaintiff regarding venue, further suggesting an inability or unwillingness to fairly adjudicate the matter.
3. Delayed Rulings on Emergency Motions:
    - Despite filing on December 18, 2024, with an emergency designation, no rulings or substantive actions have been taken to address Plaintiff's emergency injunction and protective orders motion. This failure to act in a timely manner exacerbates Plaintiff's hardships and endangers their safety.
4. Omissions and Misclassification:

- The Defendants List omitted key parties, including individuals accused of violating Plaintiff's civil rights under the Color of Law, and improperly categorized the case to favor the Commonwealth's immunity defense.

5. Systemic Issues in Louisville, Kentucky:
   - DOJ's investigation and findings regarding systemic violations of civil rights in Louisville underscore the challenges Plaintiff faces in obtaining fair treatment locally. The broader context demonstrates the need for judicial oversight free from local influences or biases.
6. Urgency and Emergency Nature of Case:
   - Plaintiff's housing crisis, health issues, and procedural hurdles require immediate judicial review of all motions and exhibits, including those related to emergency injunctions and protective orders, to prevent irreparable harm.

IV. Relief Requested

For the foregoing reasons, Plaintiff respectfully requests:

1. That this case be reassigned to a different judge to ensure impartiality and the fair administration of justice.
2. That the reassignment order explicitly require the new judge to review and address Plaintiff's pending motions, including emergency matters, within 48 hours.
3. That the Court require the correction of omissions in the Defendants List and ensure that all defendants named in the original Complaint, including individual defendants under Color of Law violations, are included.
4. That the Court acknowledge the systemic civil rights issues in Louisville and their relevance to Plaintiff's case.
5. That the Court consider the urgency of Plaintiff's housing situation and act immediately to prevent irreparable harm.
6. Any further relief deemed just and proper to rectify the harm caused by these issues.

MOTION FOR JUDICIAL REASSIGNMENT

Introduction:

This exhibit details and highlights the systemic and ongoing harm caused by systemic negligence, discrimination, and misrepresentation under color of law by Norton Children's Pediatric Protection Specialists, Jefferson County Department for Community Based Services (DCBS), and other associated parties. The actions of Norton Children's Pediatric Protection Specialists, including Sheila Williams, SSW; Ashley Cochran, DO, MS; Melissa L. Currie, MD, FAAP; Dr. Sheridan Langford, MD; and other associated parties and entities, all acting within the scope of their professional roles, have led to severe and permanent irreparable harm. These individuals, representing organizations such as Norton Healthcare, the Jefferson County Department for Community Based Services (DCBS) – a division of CHFS – Cabinet for Health and Family Services, and the University of Louisville School of Medicine, engaged in conduct under color of law that constitutes falsifications (falsified CPS allegations which inaccurately claimed neglect of my child's emotional needs), misrepresentation, and violations of professional, legal, and constitutional standards. These actions have had far-reaching consequences including stigmatization, even further barriers to receiving appropriate medical care, and significant emotional harm and physical conditions worsening. These actions have caused and continue to cause in an ongoing way, significant and ongoing harm to me, John R. Fouts, and my child, JAF.

Exhibit:
Falsifications, Misrepresentation, and Systemic Harm by Norton Pediatric Protective Services and Associated Parties

The document highlights the following key issues:

I. Key Allegations

1. Falsification of Records:

    - The CPS report prepared by Norton's Pediatric Protection Services contains false and misleading statements about my parenting and medical decision-making for JAF.

    - These falsifications directly contradict available medical records, documented facts, and professional assessments.

> The CPS report includes fabricated and grossly inaccurate statements about the parenting and medical decision-making for Jackie. These misrepresentations are unsupported by the medical record or evidence and directly contradict documented facts and medically objective testing gold standard data.

2. Defamation and Character Assassination:

    - The false allegations in the report defamed my character, resulting in damage to my credibility and ongoing bias from medical professionals.

    - The report makes baseless allegations regarding John R. Fouts, Plaintiff's, capacity as a caregiver, including recommendations for supervised contact and restrictions on medical decision-making. These claims are damaging to reputation and credibility.

Exhibit:
Falsifications, Misrepresentation, and Systemic Harm by Norton Pediatric Protective Services and Associated Parties

3. Discrimination Against A Protected Class

   - The refusal to allow any corrections, addendums, or supplemental information to the CPS report constitutes a denial of the right to due process and protection under federal law. This refusal further perpetuates harm and creates systemic barriers to appropriate care.

   - Both JAF and I are individuals with documented disabilities. The actions of these individuals and entities reflect systemic discrimination, violating the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and denying us equal protection under the law.

4. Impact on Access to Medical Care:

   The false claims and mischaracterizations have led to significant difficulty in obtaining medical care for Jackie, including biased treatment from providers and challenges in addressing complex medical needs. This includes barriers to obtaining appropriate 504 accommodations and necessary follow-ups to treat the very conditions that are exacerbated further by the lack of and denial of care due to the complexity of illness.

5. Medical Malpractice and Negligence

   - The professionals involved deviated from accepted medical standards, including failing to provide appropriate care, making baseless allegations, and obstructing access to necessary medical services.

Exhibit:
Falsifications, Misrepresentation, and Systemic Harm by Norton Pediatric Protective Services and Associated Parties

6. Bias and Retaliation:

    - Evidence suggests that the report was influenced by personal bias and retaliation rather than objective evidence. Specific providers, including Dr. Sheridan Langford, MD, acted negligently and in ways that amplified harm to the family.

7. Violations Under Color of Law

    - Acting under the authority of Norton Healthcare, DCBS, and other entities, the individuals engaged in conduct that violated federal protections, including 42 U.S.C. § 1983.

8. RICO Violations

    - The coordinated actions among these professionals and entities demonstrate a pattern of systemic negligence, fraud, and harm. This conduct meets the criteria for violations under the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO).

II. Constitutional Violations – Further Detail

The actions taken against me and JAF resulted in the following constitutional violations:

- First Amendment*: Suppression of my ability to advocate for myself and my child and lasting permanent irreparable harm.*

- Fourth Amendment*: Unlawful collection and dissemination of false personal information that continues.*

Exhibit:
Falsifications, Misrepresentation, and Systemic Harm by Norton Pediatric Protective Services and Associated Parties

- Fifth Amendment*: Deprivation of due process and equal protection that continues.*

- Eighth Amendment*: Infliction of cruel and unusual punishment by perpetuating harm and discrimination that continues to this very day.*

- Fourteenth Amendment*: Denial of equal protection and systemic discrimination.*

III. Education and Homeschooling

- Failure of JCPS to Provide a Safe Environment:

    - Jackie experienced persistent bullying, including emotional and physical harassment, while enrolled at Bloom Elementary School.

    - Despite repeated efforts to seek intervention and accommodations under Jackie's 504 plan, the school administration, staff, and superintendent's office failed to create a safe and secure learning environment.

- Decision to Homeschool:

    - Due to the refusal of the school system to adequately address these issues, I had no choice but to withdraw Jackie from JCPS and homeschool her.

    - This decision, while necessary to protect Jackie's well-being, placed an additional financial, emotional, and logistical burden on me as a single parent with significant health challenges.

Exhibit:
Falsifications, Misrepresentation, and Systemic Harm by Norton Pediatric Protective Services and Associated Parties

- Impact of CPS Allegations on Education:
    - The false CPS allegations further stigmatized me as a caregiver, making it even more challenging to advocate for Jackie's educational needs and creating mistrust among providers and institutions.
    - The misrepresentations in the CPS report continue to follow me, contributing to ongoing discrimination and barriers to accessing care and support for Jackie.

 All Violations Noted In Exhibit Have Led To Severe Irreparable Harm *****

IV. Evidence

1. CPS report excerpts demonstrating falsifications and misrepresentation.
2. Correspondence showing the refusal to allow corrections or amendments to the CPS report.
3. Documentation of the harm caused to JAF's medical care and education.

V. Relief Requested

I respectfully request, in light of the harm caused by the actions detailed in this exhibit, that the Court grant the following relief:

Exhibit:
Falsifications, Misrepresentation, and Systemic Harm by Norton Pediatric Protective Services and Associated Parties

1. Compensatory Damages:

   - Award compensatory damages for the financial, emotional, and physical harm caused by the falsified CPS report, systemic negligence, and the resulting barriers to medical care and resources.

   - These damages should account for:

     - Medical expenses incurred due to delayed or denied care.

     - Costs associated with addressing and correcting the false report.

     - Lost opportunities, time, and income due to the ongoing need to manage and rectify these issues, especially when time is so valuable and potentially limited as life with multiple comorbid conditions is especially uncertain.

     - Compensation for Educational Costs:
       Include compensatory damages for the financial burden incurred due to the decision to homeschool, including curriculum costs, loss of income, and logistical expenses

2. Punitive Damages:

   - Award punitive damages to deter the defendants and others acting under color of law from engaging in similar unlawful and harmful actions

   - The punitive damages should reflect the severity of the violations, including systemic discrimination, defamation, and constitutional infringements, as outlined in this exhibit and the original motion.

Exhibit:
Falsifications, Misrepresentation, and Systemic Harm by Norton Pediatric Protective Services and Associated Parties

3. Order a Third-Party, Independent Review, by an agency not with any tie of any kind to Kentucky:

    - Investigate the actions of the named individuals and entities through an impartial body unaffiliated with Kentucky along with the Kentucky Board of Medical Licensure itself thus ensuring impartiality and accountability.

    - Independent Oversight of CPS and JCPS:

      Request the appointment of a neutral oversight body to review and address systemic failures in both CPS and JCPS to prevent future harm to families in similar situations.

4. A judicial review of the CPS report and its inaccuracies.

5. Correct and Distribute the Report & Acknowledgement of Educational Impact:
   The CPS report in question, despite being deemed unsubstantiated, contains false and damaging information that has caused irreparable harm. This report:

    - Was shared with medical providers, leading to defamation and undermining my ability to advocate for my child.

    - Continues to perpetuate falsehoods due to my inability to correct, amend, or add an addendum to it.

    - Violates my constitutional rights, including due process and equal protection under the law.

- Permission for me, John R. Fouts, MBA, Plaintiff to provide corrections and/or amendments regarding both myself and my child JAF, so we may begin to hopefully restore some kind of appropriate 'care' in medicine – at this point it is looking likely that we need to find all new providers due to damages done and ongoing as of today.

Exhibit:
Falsifications, Misrepresentation, and Systemic Harm by Norton Pediatric Protective Services and Associated Parties

- Order the correction, dissemination, and permanent integration of the corrected CPS report into all relevant medical records, as detailed above.

- Require that the corrected report be sent to all healthcare providers, entities, and agencies involved in JAF's care and treatment, and John R. Fouts' due to providers treating both within the same organization to avoid even further harm.

- Require the CPS report to be corrected to include documentation of the efforts made to protect Jackie's emotional and educational needs, including the necessity of homeschooling due to systemic failures.

- Mandate that the corrected report be included as a permanent part of the medical record at every institution or provider where the original, falsified report was referenced.

- Protect the Plaintiff, John R. Fouts, and Plaintiff's Child (JAF) from further harm caused by these falsifications, and ancillary and incidental harm caused by the same.

- Hold all individuals accountable for their actions under federal and constitutional law, including violations under color of law, and prosecute to the maximum and fullest extent of the law.

6. Provide Oversight and Accountability:

    1. Establish a clear timeline for the dissemination of the corrected report to all relevant parties.

    2. Mandate that the corrected CPS report, along with relevant supporting exhibits (e.g., therapy notes, JCPS violations), be distributed to all entities involved in Jackie's care and education.

Exhibit:
Falsifications, Misrepresentation, and Systemic Harm by Norton Pediatric Protective Services and Associated Parties

3. Require organizations and providers to confirm, in writing, that the corrected report has been received, reviewed, and integrated into their records.

4. Impose appropriate penalties, including financial sanctions or other consequences, on any organization or provider that fails to comply with this order.

7. Refer Findings to Regulatory Agencies:

1. Recommend disciplinary reviews for all professionals involved, ensuring they are held accountable for violations of professional and ethical standards.

2. Refer the findings of the independent review to federal oversight agencies, including the Department of Justice (DOJ) and Health and Human Services (HHS).

8. Seal the Original Report:

- Once the corrected report is finalized and disseminated, order that the original, falsified report be sealed to prevent further harm or misuse.

9. Provide Additional Injunctive Relief:

- Issue an injunction prohibiting further discrimination, defamation, or actions under color of law by any individual or entity involved in this case.

10. Initiate Disciplinary Action:

- Recommend disciplinary reviews for all professionals involved through appropriate licensing boards.

11. Court Costs and Legal Fees:

- Award court costs, filing fees, and other expenses incurred by the plaintiff in pursuing this action as part of the damages.

RE: Jack Fouts DOB: 04/26/2011 PPS Case: 2022-2610

THERAPISTS LINDSEY SMITH, DARCIE TAGGART, THERESA ADAMCHIK, DANI CREAMER, AKHILAH CHERRY, AND OTHERS CAN VERIFY JACKIE WISHING TO IDENTIFY AS A GIRL - FULLY IDENTIFYING AS SUCH. -- JRF

Dear Ms. Williams,

Pediatric Protection Specialists (PPS) was initially consulted on Jack Fouts on 04/26/2022 for concerns of possible child abuse by pediatric condition falsification (PCF). Jack, who at the time of referral was a 10-year-old boy, is now reportedly identifying as female, "Jackie." It is unclear to what degree the child is endorsing this change in gender identification. Concern initially arose when the child presented to medical professionals with multiple complaints and diagnoses presented by the patient's father, which were not all fully endorsed by Jack himself/herself. Upon review of the records, our team also has serious concerns for medical neglect in combination with child abuse by pediatric condition falsification.

MY CHILD HAS AUTISM, AND AUTISTIC CHILDREN OFTEN DO NOT ACT IN TYPICAL WAYS - USUALLY THEY DO NOT. -- JRF

Information Reviewed:

The following was utilized for purposes of PPS medical assessment, diagnosis, and treatment:

- Initial referral information provided on 04/18/2022 by Dr. Sheridan Langford
- Medical records for Norton Healthcare 11/23/2015 - 4/22/2022 (additional record review is ongoing)
- Medical records from UK Pediatric Gastroenterology

DR. LANGFORD HAD NO CAUSE FOR SUCH RETALIATION - SHE DISAGREED WITH ME THAT MOLD CAN CAUSE MORE THAN ALLERGY AND APPARENTLY THIS LED HER TO ACT IN A RETALIATORY WAY.

Child abuse by pediatric condition falsification (PCF) is sometimes referred to as Munchausen Syndrome by Proxy, Factitious Disorder by Proxy, or Medical Child Abuse. PCF occurs when a child's caregiver exaggerates, fabricates, and/or induces signs or symptoms of illness, which can lead to unnecessary medical interventions, placement in a sick role, and/or unnecessary and harmful lifestyle restrictions. This form of child abuse may have components of physical abuse, emotional abuse, and/or neglect. The harm to the child can result from multiple aspects that can include: potential harm if a caregiver administers substances, risk of unnecessary medical procedures/treatments and associated pain/discomfort, and psychological and/or physical consequences of being placed in the sick role. Examples of the sick role can include: limited interactions with friends, absences from school, social isolation, and potential fear about their own wellbeing, life expectancy, and life outlook. Interestingly, it is not uncommon for PCF to co-exist with medical neglect, as it appears to do in Jack(ie)'s case.

THE CLAIMS I MADE FOR MY CHILD WERE FOR MY CHILD'S WELL-BEING AND BACKED BY THE MEDICAL RECORD AND THE MEDICAL EVIDENCE IN THE MEDICAL LITERATURE. I SUSPECTED DR. LANGFORD WAS THE INITIAL CONTRIBUTOR TO THE REPORT, BUT WAS SURPRISED AT HOW EGRIGIOUSLY FALSE THE STATEMENTS CONTAINED IN THIS REPORT THAT DEFAME ME AND SHAME ME, THAT MAKE UP TOTALLY FALSE ALLEGATIONS, AND THAT GO AGAINST THE ACTUAL EVIDENCE IN THE MEDICAL RECORD --JRF

A comprehensive report is forthcoming, but the purpose of this letter is to provide initial impressions and recommendations for Jack(ie). Jack(ie)'s known and confirmed diagnoses

WERE TOWARD DESTROYING MY CHARACTER AND EVEN RECOMMENDING TAKING MY CHILD AWAY FROM ME BECAUSE I WAS BEING A LOVING, AND A CARING PARENT, WANTING THE BEST FOR MY KID.

FROM THE INFO BELOW IN HIGHLIGHTS - IT IS CLEAR THAT JACKIE'S RECORD WAS NOT REVIEWED AT ALL.

Patient: Jack Fouts DOB: 04/26/2011 PPS Case: 2022-2610

THERE ARE MANY RECORDS FROM TIME JACKIE WAS 3 UNTIL 2022 IN JUNE AT TIME OF ACTUAL DX OF ASD LEVEL II HIGHLIGHTING THE STRONG LIKELIHOOD OF THE CONDITION. - JRF include gastroparesis, history of constipation, severe anxiety, migraine headaches, auditory processing disorder, and functional abdominal pain.

MERIDIAN HEALTH NEURO-PSYCHIATRIST DR. DAVID CHARLES DX ASD LEVEL II IN JUNE 2022 - AND THIS WAS IN THE RECORD -- JRF

THE 3 HIGHLIGHTED PARAGRAPHS ARE EXTREMELY UPSETTING AND COMPLETELY INACCURATE. I AM ASKING FOR THE COURT'S PROTECTION FOR ME AND JACKIE FROM SUCH SITUATIONS - JRF

His father has reported several additional diagnoses that are not confirmed – or are directly refuted – by the medical record. These diagnoses include autism spectrum disorder, celiac disease, small fiber neuropathy, immunocompromise, cluster headaches, delayed food allergy, dysautonomia, need for hearing aides, and seizures, among others. Jack(ie) has been evaluated by multiple specialists including neurology, dermatology, allergy and immunology, and multiple gastrointestinal specialists. Jack(ie)'s findings thus far are diagnostic of child abuse by pediatric condition falsification.

Most concerning of Jack's symptoms, initially reported in October 2021, are suicidal ideation with severe anxiety. Jack's father discussed this symptom with multiple medical providers who have overwhelmingly agreed that Jack needs to be evaluated by psychiatry, but father has refused these referrals in favor of evaluation by psychology and a neuropsychology evaluation. This is diagnostic of medical neglect.

While our medical record review is ongoing, we have sufficient evidence at this time to definitively diagnose medical neglect and child abuse by pediatric condition falsification. Jack(ie) is in dire need of psychiatric evaluation (if this has not yet occurred) and is being harmed by the lack of psychiatric care. Further, Jack(ie)'s severe anxiety is likely being compounded by his/her father's fixation on his/her various symptoms—many of which have not been confirmed by Jack(ie) himself/herself. We recommend Jack(ie) have an immediate mental health assessment to determine what services and interventions are needed. We recommend that (s)he be evaluated by psychiatry and that appropriate medical interventions are initiated for his/her care and safety.

YES - JACKIE HAS AN IMMUNO-COMPROMISED SYSTEM I DID NOT MAKE THIS UP, AND DON'T APPRECIATE THE FALSE ALLEGATIONS. FOR ONE THING, ASTHMA, WHICH JACKIE HAS HAD A DX FOR SINCE AT LEAST BEING 6 YRS OLD, BY FAM ALLERGY AND ASTHMA DR. POLLARD. WE NOW KNOW ALSO THAT JACKIE HAS A PRIMARY IMMUNE DEFICIENCY DISORDER THAT IS INVOLVED IN ANOTHER PART OF THIS CASE - DOCTORS CONTINUE TO DENY INCLUDING THIS AS PART OF THE MEDICAL RECORD EVEN THOUGH IT HAS BEEN CONFIRMED REPEATEDLY - AND I NEED HELP SO MY KID CAN GET APPROPRIATE MEDICAL CARE. HETEROZYGOUS TNFRSF13B DEFICIENCY C.542C>A. - JRF

I DID NOT EVER CLAIM I THOUGHT JACKIE HAD CELIAC -WHAT I TOLD DR. LANGFORD WAS DR. TROY GIBBONS AT UK PED GASTROENTEROLOGY MOTILITY SAID HE THOUGHT JACKIE'S SYMPTOMS MAY PARTLY BE EXPLAINED BY DELAYED FOOD ALLERGIES OR TYPE IV SENSITIVITY REACTIONS. HE SAID ONLY WAY TO FIND OUT WOULD BE VIA A FOOD ELIMINATION DIET PROTOCOL TEST OF 8 WEEKS FOR EACH FOOD BUT JACKIE'S MOTHER REFUSED TO PARTICIPATE SO WE STILL DO NOT KNOW IN JANUARY 2025. --JRF

CLUSTER HEADACHES WERE ALREADY CONFIRMED BY DR. ROGERS OFFICE, JACKIE ALSO HAD ALREADY BEEN EVALUATED FOR AUDITORY PROCESSING DISORDER FOR WHICH LO-GAIN

We have serious concerns for Jack(ie)'s safety and wellbeing in father's care.

HEARING AIDS WERE RECOMMENDED AS EVIDENCED IN THE MEDICAL RECORD. - JRF

At this time, we STRONGLY recommend that CPS consider alternative placement for Jack(ie) in order to begin to determine which of his/her symptoms are indeed occurring and which have been solely endorsed by father. Jack(ie) is of an age that (s)he may have begun to internalize some of the messages that father has been sending regarding his/her health. We recommend a forensic interview with Jack(ie) to help understand the dynamic between him/her and his/her father. It will also be critical to interview mother regarding signs/symptoms she observes when Jack(ie) is in her care. It is curious that there are very few medical encounters that involve Jack(ie)'s mother — his care is almost entirely driven by father.

DR. ROGERS ALSO STATES JACKIE'S SYMPTOMS WERE CONSISTENT WITH SFN - ALSO IN THE RECORD BUT IGNORED. LINDSAY HAD BEEN A VERY EMOTIONALLY NEGLECTFUL PARENT TOWARD JACKIE IS WHY SHE WAS NOT INVOLVED - SHE DID NOT EVEN WANT- JRF

The underlying motivation for this form of child maltreatment is not a factor when making the diagnosis; however, it is a critical factor for the purposes of safety/prevention planning and short and long term prognosis. Consequently, it will be important for investigators and/or the Department for Community Based Services to further assess the underlying motivations for the maltreatment, in order to make the best decisions for Jack(ie) in the future. Underlying reasons may include one or more of the following: caregiver's underlying mental illness; secondary financial or other gain; secondary psychological gain (such as sympathy from family/friends, being perceived as a hero, etc.); a means of escape from "real life" by spending excessive time in medical settings; etc.

THE SEIZURES COMMENT IS ALSO REFERENCED OUT OF CONTEXT COMPLETELY. I'D ASKED ABOUT THE ABNORMAL EEG IN ALL 3 STATES WHEN JACKIE WAS YOUNGER & NIGHTMARES

TO TAKE JACKIE TO SCHOOL BECAUSE SHE WAS 'TOO DEPRESSED' - SO I OFTEN BACK THEN HAD TO DRIVE TO HER APT, PICK UP JACKIE, TAKE JACKIE TO SCHOOL AND BRING HER BACK AT THE END OF MY WORK DAYS. - JRF

Patient: Jack Fouts DOB: 04/26/2011 PPS Case: 2022-2610

I HAVE ALWAYS "ONLY" MADE DECISIONS IN THE BEST INTEREST OF MY CHILD FOR AS LONG AS I HAVE BEEN A DAD.

We strongly recommend a formal parental capacity and forensic psychological assessment of father by a psychologist provider who is familiar with the diagnosis of child abuse by pediatric condition falsification in order to determine his willingness and/or ability to make decisions that are in the best interest of Jack(ie). The overall prognosis for successful reunification is highly dependent upon father's ability to have insight into what has happened and have the motivation and skills to engage in therapy to address the underlying motivation for the father's behavior. It is strongly recommended for this assessment to occur prior to any unsupervised contact between Jack(ie) and father. In the interim, strict sight and sound supervision is recommended with any contact between Jack(ie) father, by a an objective third party who is protective.

THE OUTRAGEOUSLY BASELESS CLAIMS PRESENTED IN THIS REPORT, NEED TO BE ADDRESSED BY FEDERAL COURT - I AM ASKING THE COURT TO PLEASE PROTECT ME AND MY CHILD FROM SUCH CRIMINAL AND CIVIL AND TORT VIOLATIONS ONGOING.

Additionally, we recommend the father not have any medical decision making ability until he is thoroughly assessed and has been able to demonstrate insight into his behavior.

IF MY AUTHORITY TO MAKE MEDICAL DECISIONS ON MY CHILD'S BEHALF WAS TAKEN AWAY, JACKIE MIGHT NOT BE HEREE TODAY - SO THANKFULLY THAT DID NOT HAPPEN - JRF

The above report, impression, and recommendations are based upon records review, discussion, and consensus between the undersigned medical providers. If there are any questions or concerns, please feel free to contact us at (502) 629-3099.

End of Falsifications, Misrepresentation, and Systemic Harm by Norton Pediatric Protective Services and Associated Parties

Supplemental Memorandum: Structural Abuse and Systemic Failures Under VAWA Principles

Introduction

I submit this memorandum to highlight the structural abuse and systemic neglect that I and my child have endured due to state and federal agencies' failures. These failures, including procedural delays, denial of medically necessary treatments, and retaliatory actions, mirror the coercion and control dynamics of interpersonal abuse. This memorandum further illustrates how these systemic actions have exacerbated my PTSD and rendered me incapable of fully protecting myself and my child.

Background

- Personal Context:

  I am a disabled individual and a single parent to a disabled minor child. Our household relies on federal and state programs, including Medicaid, HUD, and CHFS, to access housing, healthcare, and essential services.

  Despite these dependencies, systemic failures, retaliation, and discrimination have repeatedly placed us in vulnerable and harmful positions.

- Trauma History:

  In addition to the physiological conditions I endure, including small fiber neuropathy, Complex Regional Pain Syndrome aka "The Suicide Disease" aka Reflex Sympathetic Dystrophy, Chronic Venous Insufficiency, Erythromelalgia, and more, the mental side of my health issues including PTSD have been exacerbated by past trauma.

  This includes an incident where I was forced to obtain an Emergency Protective Order (EPO) against a former partner who threatened to murder me in my sleep with a hand drill.

Supplemental Memorandum: Structural Abuse and Systemic Failures Under VAWA Principles

After ending the relationship, I later learned that my former partner had died by suicide several months later, and after she had found a new partner. She suffered from severe refractory Borderline Personality Disorder.

Compounding this, I grew up in a household affected by severe mental illness, enduring an unstable and abusive environment. The same types of neglect and abuses by state agencies today trigger these past traumas, leaving me mentally and physically incapacitated, on top of an already impossible to manage physical health situation partly also existing as it is due to even further abuses by state and federal agencies and improper and unlawful gatekeeping.

Argument

1. Systemic Neglect as Structural Violence and Abuse

- The systemic failures I face—including denial of ADA accommodations, procedural barriers, and retaliatory actions—constitute structural violence.

- Structural violence occurs when institutional policies and practices harm vulnerable individuals by denying access to their basic rights.

- Examples include:

    - Medically Necessary Treatment Denials:
        - Refusal to approve IVIG treatment, despite incontrovertible medical evidence of its necessity.
        - Denials of medically necessary treatments to properly and adequately treat Long Covid with Microclots as in the services and treatments Dr. Vaugh, the only treating physician of microclots from Long Covid and MCAS (Mast Cell Activation Syndrome) in the United States using Triple Anticoagulent Therapy, prescribed and has been trying to manage in terms of my care.

            - I am not able to afford everything out of pocket as if I had no coverage.

Supplemental Memorandum: Structural Abuse and Systemic Failures Under VAWA Principles

- These things include Red Light Therapy, Hyperbaric Oxygen Therapy (HBOT), Normatec or other compression such as SCDs or Sequential Compression Devices, Myers Cocktail Infusions, High Dose Vitamin C infusions, NAD+ Infusions, and many other.

- Being a HCBS 1915c Waiver Participant also has been traumatic as illegal caps are placed on services and goods and most of the time the goods and services are not even provided, or take many months of fighting for such as the several months it took me to get 2 pair of compression stockings approved.

- Housing Instability: The impending expiration of my Housing Choice Voucher and the non-renewal of my lease.

- Falsified Records and Procedural Retaliation: Removal of hearing requests without notice, and systemic inaccuracies in SNAP benefit calculations, an outright refusal to be transparent about how calculations are being performed, and more – also leads to triggering of PTSD because 'gaslighting' unfortunately has become all too common in the world, and especially in the world of medicine / care / and public benefits and health.

2. Parallels to Interpersonal Abuse Under VAWA Principles

- The state's actions mirror the coercion, control, and harm addressed under the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA).

- Just as interpersonal abusers use power dynamics to exert control, the state's neglect and retaliatory actions place me in a cycle of dependence and harm.

Supplemental Memorandum: Structural Abuse and Systemic Failures Under VAWA Principles

- This systemic abuse creates conditions of mental, emotional, and physical harm, rendering me unable to advocate for myself effectively, and takes ANY and ALL energy I have when there is already so very precious little due to the Chronic Fatigue Syndrome / Myalgic Encephalomyelitis condition I also have to deal with.

- I am often left with choices such as do I try to go pick up my prescriptions? Or do I try to cook a meal? Or do I try to bathe? There is only enough energy for 1 of the 3. When you add a mountain of administrative paperwork that constitutes the definition of involuntary servitude and violates the 13th amendment of the US Constitution, and add in Due Process violations which violates the 14th amendment of the US Constitution, and take on to that violations of the 1st Amendment disallowing the power of petition, or having my voice heard – suppressing free speech, it compounds the harm and systemic neglect and irreparable nature of what me and my child have had to continue to endure, and it doesn't stop – and that is another reason to ask the court to please intervene to stop the retaliatory behavior, the RICO behavior, the conspiracy and racketeering, with all agencies trying to harm us repeatedly.

We have been under relentless attack from all angles by agencies that are supposedly there to 'help' us.

3. Impact of Trauma and Exacerbation of PTSD

- The state's failures trigger past traumas from my childhood and the EPO incident, where I was forced to protect myself and my child from imminent danger.

- These actions intensify my PTSD symptoms, further impairing my ability to address systemic barriers and protect my child, and to even have the ability to take basic care of myself – let alone try to seek out specialty care for ultra-rare conditions.

4. Disability Rights and Constitutional Violations

- The state's actions violate my rights under the ADA and the Olmstead Act, failing to provide reasonable accommodations or support for me and my child as disabled individuals, and the refusal to acknowledge ADA Accommodations and Olmstead

Supplemental Memorandum: Structural Abuse and Systemic Failures Under VAWA Principles

Act violations have been well detailed in exhibits already docketed under case 24-CV-09325-AMO at the District Court of Northern California.

- The 13th Amendment is implicated, as I am effectively subjected to involuntary servitude by having to navigate endless procedural barriers to enforce my federally guaranteed rights.

Evidence

Exhibits (some of which have already been submitted) substantiate these claims:

1. Emergency Protective Order Documentation: Evidence of past trauma and threats – Submitted Earlier With Initial Writ of Mandamus document to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals on January 10, 2025).

2. Medical Documentation: Diagnoses of small fiber neuropathy, CRPS/RSD, Erythromelalgia, a Primary Immune Deficiency Disorder called Homozygous TNFRSF13B Deficiency c.542C>A, and my child having the same mutation but heterozygously, PTSD, and other conditions.

3. Correspondence Evidence: Emails and letters from HUD, LMHA, and CHFS illustrating systemic neglect. (HUD and LMHA Information Submitted With Initial Write of Mandamus document to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals on January 10, 2025)

4. Procedural Failures and Retaliation: Documentation of denied hearing requests and falsified SNAP calculations, documentation of hearing requests withdrawn without any communication or consent, and for invalid reasons, CHFS caught in lies on the record, and much more.

5. IVIG Denial Letters: Proof of medical necessity and unjustified denials, along with proof of misrepresentations by the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

Supplemental Memorandum: Structural Abuse and Systemic Failures Under VAWA Principles

Conclusion

The systemic failures and structural abuse I have endured are not only harmful but unlawful – violating multiple laws in multiple areas of law.

These actions exacerbate past trauma and directly endanger my family's safety and wellbeing. I respectfully request the Court to:

1. Recognize these systemic actions officially in judicial capacity as structural violence akin to interpersonal abuse under VAWA principles.

2. Grant immediate judicial relief to address these failures and protect my federally guaranteed rights.

As a disabled individual, I request that all communications from the Court be provided in writing via email or fax, and mail as reasonable accommodations under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). These accommodations are essential to ensure my full participation in these proceedings and to address the limitations caused by my disabilities.

Case Title:

John R. Fouts, MBA ("Plaintiff" aka "JRF", "J.R.F."), and Jackie Fouts (a minor aka Jaqquelyn A. Fouts, legal name Jack A. Fouts, "Plaintiff's Child", "J.A.F.", "JAF", "Co-Plaintiff", "Child"), Plaintiffs,

v.

Commonwealth of Kentucky, Cabinet for Health and Family Services, Department of Community-Based Services, and Other Named Defendants, Defendants – Action for Emergency Injunctive Relief, Permanent Restraining Order, Permanent Protective Order, Punitive and Compensatory Damages.

Plaintiff(s):

John R. Fouts, MBA, and Jackie A. Fouts (aka Jaqquelyn A. Fouts, legal name Jack A. Fouts, "Plaintiff's Child", J.A.F., JAF)

BY FAX

EMERGENCY PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION, PERMANENT RESTRAINING AND PROTECTIVE ORDERS, AND PUNITIVE AND COMPENSATORY DAMAGES

INTRODUCTION

Plaintiff, John R. Fouts, MBA, respectfully moves this Court for an Emergency Preliminary Injunction, Permanent Restraining Order, and Permanent Protective Order to address ongoing willful endangerment, malicious intent to harm, harassment, obstruction of justice, and systemic violations of federal law, constitutional rights, and civil rights protections by the Defendants. Plaintiff reserves the right to add further violations and responsible parties as additional evidence emerges.

Plaintiff suffers from complex, rare, and debilitating medical conditions, including but not limited to Complex Regional Pain Syndrome (CRPS), Sjögren's Disease, Graves' Disease (post-radioactive iodine), dysautonomia, gastroparesis, advanced brain atrophy, small fiber neuropathy, erythromelalgia, TNFRSF13B deficiency, and more.

These conditions have been exacerbated by the Defendants' deliberate actions, omissions, and systemic failures to provide legally mandated care and protections. Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child are subjected to retaliation, discrimination, and deprivation of essential services, including those mandated under federal law.

Defendants have engaged in systemic discrimination, lack of transparency, malicious retaliation, and intentional obstruction of justice, depriving Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child of critical services and fundamental rights under federal and constitutional law. Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child face imminent and ongoing harm, including threats to life, safety, and quality of life, due to the Defendants' collective failures and misconduct.

The Defendants include not only the named state entities but also federal agencies, including but not limited to the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS), the U.S. Department of Agriculture Food and Nutrition Service (USDA-FNS), and other federal entities involved in systemic violations of law and policy. These agencies have demonstrated willful neglect in addressing Plaintiff's grievances, contributing to the harm inflicted upon Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child.

Additionally, the Plaintiff is doing his best to provide this Court with a comprehensive account of the violations and harm but is hindered by reduced memory, executive functioning, and cognitive impairments caused by advanced brain atrophy and other health challenges.

Plaintiff pleads the Court to recognize this difficulty and respectfully requests any opportunity to amend or supplement this filing as new information becomes available or as memory improves with appropriate treatment .

xxii. Refusal to Correct Falsified Records:

- Violation: Failure to amend demonstrably false and damaging information in Plaintiff's medical and official records, perpetuating harm and misinformation.

Further Elaboration:

Malicious Intent to Harm:

Defendants' actions and inactions demonstrate deliberate and malicious intent to harm the Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child by:

- Willfully denying federally mandated benefits and necessary medical care, despite clear evidence of eligibility and medical necessity.
- Falsifying records and perpetuating false narratives (e.g., CPS reports and medical records) to obstruct justice and discredit Plaintiff.
- Retaliating against Plaintiff for whistleblowing through systemic discrimination, administrative burdens, and obstruction of due process.
- Exposing Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child to unsafe living conditions and refusing to provide safe and secure housing or appropriate remedies.
- Causing irreparable harm through deliberate acts of willful endangerment, neglect, and abandonment.

These actions rise to the level of criminal violations under 18 U.S.C. § 242 (Deprivation of Rights Under Color of Law) and constitute willful endangerment, willful neglect, and harassment, all of which are punishable under state and federal law.

Failure of Duty to Provide Care

Defendants failed in their legal and ethical duty to provide care by:

- Denying necessary medical treatments, prescriptions, and diagnostic tests, including life-sustaining and medically required interventions, despite medical necessity and federal mandates.
- Refusing to ensure access to care providers and specialists capable of treating Plaintiff's rare and complex conditions, thereby exacerbating Plaintiff's health deterioration.
- Neglecting to correct systemic failures in programs such as Medicaid, SNAP, and housing assistance, leaving Plaintiff without the support required for survival and well-being.
- Violating the Social Security Act (SSA) Section 1915(c) and Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) by failing to provide necessary accommodations and support services.
- Allowing administrative delays, denials, and retaliation to impede Plaintiff's access to care, in direct conflict with federal requirements and ethical responsibilities.

This failure to act constitutes willful neglect, medical malpractice, and gross negligence, resulting in irreparable harm and systemic discrimination.

Personal Vulnerability and Major Safety Concerns:

Federal Neglect: Lack of Response from the FBI

- Plaintiff submitted whistleblower letters detailing systemic violations of federal law and personal safety concerns to the FBI.
- Due to the lack of a fax number for the Louisville FBI office, Plaintiff directed these letters to the Chicago FBI office.

- Despite the serious nature of the allegations, Plaintiff received no acknowledgment, follow-up, or action from the FBI.
- The failure of the FBI to respond reflects a breakdown in federal oversight and protection mechanisms for whistleblowers.
- Not only did the FBI not respond, but not one single agency, entity, nor individual responded nor acknowledged receipt in any way despite the Plaintiff being able to track even the number of opens of the emails sent. This inaction leaves Plaintiff without critical federal protection and exacerbates the risk of retaliation or harm.
- It also highlights systemic failures in addressing whistleblower concerns across multiple levels of law enforcement.
- The Jefferson County Sheriff's Department in Kentucky nor the Louisville Metro Police Department responded to claims as well.
- Many other federal agencies are also implicated in this major lack of response potentially leading to catastrophic harm for the Plaintiff.
- Plaintiff sent whistleblower letters detailing systemic violations of federal and state laws to the Jefferson County Sheriff's Department and the Louisville Metro Police Department.
- Neither agency provided a response, follow-up, or acknowledgment of these letters, despite the urgent nature of the allegations and the significant risks to Plaintiff's and Plaintiff's Child's safety and well-being.
- The failure to respond to whistleblower letters left Plaintiff without recourse to address ongoing violations and compounded Plaintiff's vulnerability.
- This inaction undermines public trust in law enforcement and highlights systemic issues of neglect and failure to uphold federal protections for whistleblowers.
- This lack of action represents a failure of law enforcement to fulfill their duty to investigate and protect individuals reporting systemic wrongdoing.
- Shortly after sending out the Whistleblower letters and receiving no response, the Plaintiff received a letter stuffed in his doorjamb along with a Grinch Who Stole Christmas flyer for an event at Station Jtown, current place of residence. The letter stated that the lease at Station Jtown would not be renewed and no cause was given.

- The Plaintiff and child had planned to renew the lease until gaining access to the housing program, but now the Plaintiff has yet another overly burdensome situation on his hands to contend with when already completely overwhelmed and while steadily losing function, and not able to get help needed in most ways.

- The Plaintiff would like to point out that he is particularly vulnerable as he requires unseen figures such as infusion pharmacies to mix up medications that could easily be used to harm patient without patient's knowledge and leaves him and his child in a dangerous position – especially considering not one entity even acknowledged receipt of Whistleblower letter. Exhibits will show all agencies sent to and delivery certificates, which will include showing the number of times opened by each person or email sent to.

Potential Mail Tampering – Plaintiff Filed For Investigation

- Plaintiff has initiated a request for an investigation into mail tampering with regard to mail for destination to 2904 Sitka Dr. Apt. L29 Louisville, KY 40299.

- Plaintiff has had many pieces of mail go missing – 2 social security checks, multiple pieces of mail from CHFS/DCBS although Plaintiff voices concerns over trust believing information those agencies provide.

- Plaintiff has received prescription medications that appear to most definitely have been tampered with from Louisville Compounding Pharmacy making Plaintiff unsure whether or not the product was unadulterated.

    - The medication shipped from Louisville Compounding Pharmacy was Ketotifen which comes in 1mg doses in capsule form.

    - The Plaintiff received a box that had been opened, and it was unclear if the medication had been modified in some way.

- The Plaintiff could not afford to buy it again, however, so monitored health very carefully when first taking. See exhibits for photos.

Environmental Neglect and Health Consequences / Record Requests

Mold and Mycotoxin Exposures

Plaintiff experienced exposure to mold and mycotoxins due to negligent maintenance of 2321 Glenmary Ave, and lived in apartment 2 in 2018-2022. In 2021, Plaintiff and child both lived in an environment that is considered contaminated by the HERTSMI2 report.

This exposure was documented in inspection reports and medical consultations. While the connection between the exposure and Plaintiff's current health conditions remains under investigation,

After Plaintiff vacated the property, substantial renovations were undertaken, including gutting significant portions of the building.

These renovations occurred shortly after Plaintiff repeatedly raised concerns about mold, bacterial contamination, and unsafe living conditions, suggesting the property owner and management were aware of the hazardous environment.

Plaintiff believes these renovations were initiated as a preemptive measure to mitigate potential legal liabilities rather than addressing health and safety concerns while Plaintiff resided there.

Plaintiff reserves the right to present evidence of harm resulting from this exposure as it relates to ongoing systemic negligence and harm caused by Defendants. The Plaintiff is dealing with many disabilities along with a his only child who also has special needs.

These actions reinforce the claims that Plaintiff and child were subjected to harmful environmental conditions during their tenancy.

The lack of proactive remediation while Plaintiff lived at the property demonstrates negligence and a disregard for the health and safety of tenants.

The timing of the renovations raises questions about potential efforts to destroy evidence of hazardous conditions.

Environmental Testing and Records Request

Plaintiff respectfully requests the Court to order the release of all records of any environmental testing conducted at Plaintiff's current residence, including but not limited to mold, mycotoxins, bacterial contamination, air quality, and water quality assessments.

- If no such records exist, Plaintiff requests that the Court mandate comprehensive environmental testing of the current residence 2904 Sitka Dr. Apt. L29 Station Jtown (formerly Chestnut Ridge Apts) Building L owned by Vida-Management, Inc. to identify any conditions that may impact health or safety. These tests should include assessments for:
    - Mold and mycotoxins including those tested for and metabolites thereof by groups such as Great Plains Labs, Genova Diagnostics, Real Time Labs, and other
    - Bacterial, parasitic and fungal contamination including those organisms tested for by the HERTSMI2 test
    - Air quality (including volatile organic compounds)
    - Water quality and contaminants including PFAAs and PFAs along with level of pharmaceuticals and other found in water, also test for heavy metals, and other inorganic compounds.
    - The Court should also direct the release of these records to Plaintiff for inclusion in this case and to inform further medical and environmental interventions

- The testing must be done by a third party certified testing specialist familiar with the context of Chronic Inflammatory Response Syndrome type illnesses and regularly inspecting buildings related to the illnesses associated with Chronic Inflammatory Response Syndrome (CIRS).

Environmental Health Consequences

- Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child, Jackie, suffered significant harm due to hazardous living conditions at 2321 Glenmary Ave, Apt. 2 Louisville, KY 40202, managed by Property Management of Louisville (PMOFL) and owned by Jerry Kerchik.

- Despite repeated attempts to resolve a severe water leak and mold growth beginning in 2018, including certified letters and direct communication with the owner, no proper remediation was undertaken for too long. Eventually a contractor was hired to come out and installed an air scrubbing machine and plastic and other devices. Plaintiff requested reduction in rent and other appropriate safe accommodations during this time but was denied by Property Management of Louisville. Key PMOFL employees involved are listed in the Defendants section.

- Testing ordered by Plaintiff from Real Time Labs revealed Trichothecenes and Gliotoxin in Plaintiff's body, consistent with mold exposure, and elevated specific toxin and mold levels in the apartment environment. Plaintiff has not been able to afford the 100% out of pocket costs of actual treatment for mold exposure and development of CIRS as insurance does not pay for it, and standard providers in school are taught that mold only causes allergies which is not true.

- The refusal to act on known hazards directly contributed to the deterioration of Plaintiff's health, as well as that of Plaintiff's child, who suffers from chronic health conditions as well. Renovations made after Plaintiff vacated the property in 2022 suggest a preemptive attempt to avoid liability rather than address longstanding issues during the tenancy.

- Owner Contacted Directly along with PMOFL: Plaintiff obtained Jerry Kerchik's contact information through a paralegal friend and wrote to him directly about the environmental hazards at 2321 Glenmary Ave, Apt. 2. Plaintiff received no response from Mr. Kerchik, and denial of any resolution from PMOFL. The only thing that initiated movement was the Plaintiff involving City Inspectors who came out and gave PMOFL 10 days to address the issue.

- Evidence Presented: Plaintiff provided detailed testing results, including:
- Positive findings for Trichothecenes and Gliotoxin in Plaintiff's urine (RealTimeLabs) in 2021 (after living at the apartment for a few years)
- EnviroBiomics environmental testing, which deemed the property unsafe for reoccupation without remediation (HERTSMI2 Report Results)
- Owner's Response: Despite being informed of the hazards in 2018, Jerry Kerchik, an attorney, failed to take any corrective actions or address the documented health and safety concerns.
- Impact:
  - The property remained in a hazardous condition, directly contributing to Plaintiff's and Jackie's health issues until they moved out in 2022 in December.
  - This inaction constitutes a breach of the implied warranty of habitability and demonstrates willful neglect, as the owner was fully aware of the risks yet chose not to act.
  - There were several other incidents involving unsafe conditions at that property in which Property Management of Louisville did nothing to remedy or resolve problems.

Legal Representation Failures and Ethical Violations

Plaintiff's legal representative, Lisa Hinkle, failed to uphold her ethical and professional obligations by:

- Stating that Plaintiff's absence in a hearing, despite Plaintiff providing advanced notice and invoking ADA-protected rights, constituted a failure that "compromised the case greatly."

- Ignoring Plaintiff's explicit needs and rights under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) for reasonable accommodations during legal proceedings, demonstrating negligence and lack of advocacy.

- Refusing to pursue critical legal remedies such as filing an emergency protective order (EPO) or injunction, despite clear evidence of harm and imminent danger to Plaintiff.

- Requiring Plaintiff to fill out an affidavit verifying medical expenses and then suggesting Plaintiff defend each expense line-by-line during hearings, placing undue burden on Plaintiff and failing to act as a zealous advocate.

- Acting in alignment congruously with the same manners and behaviors of the Commonwealth of Kentucky as opposed to representing the Plaintiff for the wrongdoings and illegal activities along with criminal conduct of the other entities, agencies, agents, and individuals involved in this case. This is in alignment with Conspiracy to

- The Kentucky Bar Association (KBA) failed in its duty to address grievances against Ms. Hinkle and other attorneys, ignoring repeated requests for assistance or acknowledgment, thereby denying Plaintiff due process and leaving Plaintiff vulnerable to systemic harm and neglect.

These actions constitute legal malpractice, gross negligence, and ethical violations, further exacerbating Plaintiff's harm and undermining Plaintiff's ability to pursue justice.

Dr. Knuckles: Verbal False Accusations and Threats

- Dr. Knuckles made verbal accusations of Munchausen's syndrome directly to the Plaintiff during a phone call, claiming Plaintiff was fabricating medical conditions, including small fiber neuropathy and chronic venous insufficiency, despite objective medical evidence confirming these diagnoses.

- Dr. Knuckles threatened to:

- Report Plaintiff to Medicaid to have Plaintiff restricted to one provider, without just cause or due process.
- Accuse Plaintiff of lying about medical conditions to discredit Plaintiff's legitimate medical needs.

- These actions constitute:
  - Harassment and intimidation, directly violating Plaintiff's rights under the ADA and civil protections.
  - Defamation of Character, as the false statements have undermined Plaintiff's reputation with providers and Medicaid
  - Abuse of authority as a medical professional, demonstrating malicious intent to harm Plaintiff through systemic channels.

- Despite a formal complaint to the Kentucky Board of Medical Licensure (KBML) detailing these incidents, the KBML failed to take action even after a secondary request, demonstrating negligence and a failure in their duty to protect patients from retaliatory and harmful practices.

CPS Report: Munchausen by Proxy False Claims

- Plaintiff was the subject of a Child Protective Services (CPS) investigation for approximately two years without being informed of the investigation until near the 2 year mark.
- The investigation, which originated from unknown source, but also involved Norton Pediatric Protective Services and an outsourced agency, falsely alleged Munchausen by Proxy, accusing Plaintiff of fabricating or exaggerating the medical conditions of Plaintiff's child, including:
  - Autism Spectrum Disorder, gastroparesis, and other documented conditions—all supported by objective medical evidence.

- Child's need/recommendation by Dr. Julie Manche, Auditory Processing Evaluation Specialist for low gain hearing aids to help with confirmed Auditory Processing Disorder, and other.

During the investigation:

- Providers were interviewed along with teachers and staff and misrepresented truths using false narratives and made false claims against the Plaintiff (e.g. Dr. Pendleton at Baptist Health [Dr. Michael Eli Pendleton] – child's current PCP, Dr. Langford at Norton Children's Medical Group [Sheridan Langford])

- Plaintiff understands now, that some of the treatment of Plaintiff and Child over these years was likely related to this ongoing report that Plaintiff was not notified of until around 2 years after it was opened against him.

- Plaintiff was denied the opportunity to review or amend the CPS report, which includes multiple false narratives and accusations.

- The agency recommended removing Plaintiff's child from Plaintiff's care, despite no substantiating evidence and extensive documentation supporting the child's medical needs. The irony is that the report stated that Plaintiff was being medically neglectful by not getting child care, but at the same time claimed Plaintiff was taking child to doctor too often.

- The Plaintiff was not notified until around the 2 year mark that there was an open CPS investigation involving him which remains unexplained.

- The state refuses to allow Plaintiff to connect with CPS supervisor who would need to arrange potential addendum or addition or removal completely. Plaintiff wishes for report to be destroyed as the evidence within the report contains so many instances of false and defaming statements about the Plaintiff.

- Plaintiff wishes responsible parties that falsified government documents to be held accountable for what they have done and prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law.

- The CPS report was ultimately closed as unsubstantiated, but the false claims and uncorrected records continue to harm Plaintiff's reputation and relationships with the child's providers. Harm and outfall from this continue through this day at present on the 7th of December in 2024.

Systemic Neglect by Agencies Over Many Years

Medical Neglect and Dismissiveness by Providers
Chronic Nature of Systemic Neglect Across Agencies

Accountability for Dismissive Providers

Medical Neglect / Failure Dr. Sheridan Langford Norton Children's Medical Group

Dismissive and Misleading Medical Advice by Dr. Sheridan Langford of Norton Children's Medical Group.

- Doctor: Dr. Sheridan Langford, Norton Children's Medical Group, former Primary Care Physician (PCP) for Plaintiff's child.

Key Incidents:

- When presented with documented evidence of mold/mycotoxin exposure (e.g., Trichothecenes and Gliotoxin) through reputable laboratory testing, Dr. Langford dismissed these concerns, stating that "mold only causes allergies." She stated that she had seen other families get rid of everything in their homes and she believed that they did not see any benefit to doing so because she was of the belief that mold exposure only causes allergic reactions.

- This statement disregards established research linking mold exposure to a broader range of health issues, including Chronic Inflammatory Response Syndrome (CIRS) and other systemic illnesses.

- Dr. Langford refused to acknowledge or investigate potential impacts of mold exposure on Jackie's and Plaintiff's health, denying them access to adequate care and further exacerbating health challenges. And further exacerbating ongoing discriminatory actions they were facing and scrutiny from the school despite immense attempts by the Plaintiff to meet unfounded and unnecessary administrative burdens placed upon him by multiple agencies and entities involved.

Impact of Misleading Advice:

- This statement reflects a lack of understanding or refusal to engage with evolving medical knowledge about mold-related illnesses, including their systemic effects. Articles provided in Exhibits.

- It undermined Plaintiff's ability to advocate for necessary testing, treatment, and accommodations for Plaintiff's child and contributed to the systemic neglect outlined in this case. Worsened by inaccurate medical records in nearly every situation as well…

- Such dismissiveness contributed to Plaintiff's and Jackie's deteriorating health and placed them at increased risk for long-term harm for which Plaintiff and child have suffered consequences including false claims such as the Munchausens by Proxy false claim made leading to opening of CPS case against Plaintiff, eventually found to be unsubstantiated, but closed with false information, and Plaintiff has not been permitted in any way to correct the falsities contained within.

Dismissive and Harmful Actions by Front Office Staff at Norton Children's Medical Group

Relevant Details:

- Location: Norton Children's Medical Group, during Plaintiff's visit with Dr. Sheridan Langford.

- Incident:

  After a discussion with Dr. Langford regarding mold exposure and related health concerns, Plaintiff requested information about the food pantry, which Plaintiff believed was available at Norton

Children's locations to assist families in need – and this was indeed the case…but Plaintiff and Child were disallowed.

- The front office staff denied Plaintiff access to this resource, told Plaintiff to leave, and provided no explanation or assistance.

- This occurred at a time when Plaintiff was experiencing significant financial hardship due to health issues, facing bankruptcy, facing a school system that refused to provide security or safety from bullying for Plaintiff's child, and refused to adhere to 504 plan protections. It was a very difficult time. Access to the food pantry could have provided critical relief, however, now, due to that incident, the plaintiff has flashbacks due to PTSD and medical PTSD to that situation which makes going to a food pantry difficult and even more challenging than it already is physically for the Plaintiff.

Impact:

- The abrupt dismissal and lack of support left Plaintiff confused when Plaintiff was already struggling with mental health issues due to so much other lack of support and resources from the community that were not available that should have been…, Unsupported, and devastated, Plaintiff states this indeed contributed to further ongoing emotional and physical strain and lasting harm and trauma. Trauma cannot be 'healed' – it always stays with the body and mind.

- This incident reflects systemic failures at Norton Children's Medical Group to provide equitable and compassionate care, especially for families experiencing financial or health crises.

- Plaintiff states this continues, to this day, to make Plaintiff feel as if not good enough or worthy of such basic needs, and experiences trauma every time and any time attending a food pantry.

- Food pantries are very limited in what the Plaintiff can gain as needed support as well because Plaintiff has been instructed by physicians to eat non-gmo, organic, and gluten free (out of medical necessity). The cost of gluten free foods as of 2023 was 180% to 540% more expensive than regular foods that are not gluten free adding even more excessive undue burden to the Plaintiff's already overwhelming and overflowing plate of negative excesses.

Dismissive and Inadequate Care by Dr. Reeves at Norton Infectious Disease and Dr. Murphy at Baptist Health Infectious Disease

Relevant Details:

Dr. Reeves (Infectious Disease, Norton):

- Refused to acknowledge the existence of mold-related illnesses beyond "allergies," despite Plaintiff presenting credible test results (e.g., positive Trichothecenes and Gliotoxin results).
- Plaintiff asked for further testing and was denied with Dr. Reeves citing, "… the Fungitell tests are positive … they are positive but that does not tell us anything, there are not any next steps that make sense with regard to testing.", so Plaintiff was again abandoned willfully and left to try to figure things out on his own.
- Plaintiff is exhausted from constantly trying to do the work that doctors are supposed to help with due to being willfully abandoned, willfully neglected medically, willfully endangered as well.
- Plaintiff is thankful for the experience with Dr. Reeves, however, that led to Dr. Reeves prescribing Remdesivir during acute episode of Covid in 2022 in August. Thank you Dr. Reeves.

- Dr. Reeves, to reiterate, stated there is "no mold illness syndrome," effectively dismissing Plaintiff's concerns without providing alternative diagnostic or treatment options also stated there is no real "Post Lyme Disease Syndrome" or "Post Viral Illness Syndrome". Plaintiff is uncertain if Dr. Reeves meant in the official listing that he could diagnose with per system restrictions, or in general, but believes Dr. Reeves meant he did not believe in those entities at the time of the visits.

Dr. Murphy (Baptist Health):

- Echoed similar statements, claiming mold exposure only causes allergies and disregarding documented evidence provided by Plaintiff.

- Offered no meaningful support or investigation into Plaintiff's worsening symptoms, forcing Plaintiff to abandon further attempts to seek care at Baptist Health or of any matter further after multiple repeat experiences going down that route Plaintiff had to attempt to get appropriate care in other ways.

- Dismissed Plaintiff's lab results as invalid although they are not invalid. Labs were all CLIA certified and 100% valid…and meaningful. Results provided in Exhibits.

Dr. Erin Murphy University of Louisville (Different Dr. Murphy) – Former Plaintiff PCP – Internal Medicine

- Wrote the referral for Plaintiff to see the other Dr. Murphy at Baptist (unsure if related to one another). Dr. Erin Murphy thought perhaps they would treat Plaintiff at Infectious Disease. She stated if they find reason or cause, they might treat the patient. Unfortunately, when patient was dismissed, and later asked Dr. Erin Murphy about treatment through her, she declined.

- Dr. Murphy strongly advocated for Plaintiff in other areas but behavior was far reserved in this area leading Plaintiff to question overall motives of many physicians in general – after all – with so many negative experiences, the Plaintiff believes that any reasonable person would form or arrive at the same conclusions.

Dr. Abigail Stocker University of Louisville GI Motility & Gastroenterology

- Dr. Stocker's office was instrumental in providing orders for many of the required mold and CIRS lab tests for mold illness, and I am so grateful and thankful for her and her staff, however, after getting the results, and asking for other testing, it seemed almost as if someone had come down hard on her or reprimanded her for helping or assisting the Plaintiff with testing. Plaintiff does not know this with certainty as it is only through experience that Plaintiff believes that this may have happened. It is being presented here simply for context to the court.

  Ever since around that time, Dr. Stocker's office has been less helpful than before causing the Plaintiff further distress and again more feelings of worthlessness or not good enough to be helped or too high of a cost to treat this chronically ill person appropriately.

Impact of Systemic Dismissiveness:

- These repeated dismissals by Dr. Reeves and Dr. Murphy created significant barriers to accessing proper diagnosis and treatment for mold-related illness and potential systemic fungal infections.

- Their unwillingness to engage with or explore emerging medical conditions (e.g., Chronic Inflammatory Response Syndrome or fungal infections) exacerbated Plaintiff's health issues, leading to increased suffering and financial burden.

- The overall experiences of these examples and dozens of others, has led to extreme feelings of distress and despair for Plaintiff whose health has declined a great deal more, the Plaintiff asserts, than if Plaintiff would have been able to receive appropriate timely therapies and treatments and if insurance would have covered these medically necessary treatments instead of Plaintiff having to shoulder many thousands of dollars of costs to try to survive – literally.

- There is certainly no shortage of other examples for Plaintiff or Plaintiff's Child. The Court may request additional examples upon request.
- This systemic neglect reflects a broader issue within healthcare institutions failing to adequately address complex or emerging medical conditions.
- Chronic Inflammatory Response Syndrome is only one form of how this neglect and dismissiveness has impacted Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child.
- Plaintiff needs assistance from Assistants and the Court, and requests, please, for the remedies for relief to be granted. The Plaintiff is no longer able to maintain the heavy burden of juggling all things noted in this document and more including sudden loss of housing safety with little time to address changes, continuing deprivation of federal rights, refusals of reimbursements due to the Plaintiff, and so many more things not even yet noted.

DOJ Findings and Broader Implications

Breonna Taylor and DOJ Mental Health Report:

- Plaintiff's experiences of systemic neglect and discrimination reflect broader patterns of institutional failures documented in Louisville, KY already including:
  - The Department of Justice's findings on the lack of adequate mental health resources in Louisville, leading to systemic harm for vulnerable populations.
  - The tragic death of Breonna Taylor, which underscores the systemic disregard for marginalized individuals and communities in Louisville, particularly in interactions with government agencies.
- These findings highlight a systemic culture of neglect, inefficiency, and discrimination that has directly impacted Plaintiff's and Plaintiff's child's ability to access necessary care and support in any ways in which they have tried, and the Plaintiff has been relentlessly trying to, as much as health will allow, try to provide the best life possible surrounding the circumstances, for his child. Unfortunately, both have been let down or turned away at nearly every attempt.

Illegal Caps on Medical Expense Deductions

- Kentucky while previously not considering any medical expenses despite submissions spanning years, has recently imposed arbitrary caps on medical expense deductions that are in direct violation of federal law, and still continues to deny the vast majority of allowable medical expense deductions. A number of the arbitrary caps are listed below including:
    - A monthly cap of $158.xx for prescription expenses.
    - A one-time gas/travel reimbursement of $306.xx, despite the Plaintiff having documented over 5,000 miles of travel for medical purposes.
    - A cap of $22.14 per month for a vision insurance plan (VSP), which fails to account for the Plaintiff's documented vision-related medical needs, including conditions requiring advanced treatment and coverage.
    - The Plaintiff is also not able to find a way to get Medicaid to fulfill its obligations in terms of following federal law as the entire system seems to be working together in conspiracy to deny federal benefits Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child are entitled to under federal law.
    - Additionally, DCBS, and CHFS refuse to identify the charges they have counted on a spreadsheet containing all the required backup, and detailed line by line items, by month by day, maps and mileages, copies of the federal laws, the guidebook for medical expense deductions and more. From the evidence in the exhibits, it is clear that CHFS willfully and with intention has maliciously harmed the Plaintiff and Child time and time again, incident after incident, without concern, remorse, any type of reaction that any reasonable person would expect to be humane treatment of one human to another.

- These caps disregard federal mandates of law for accurate and reasonable medical expense deductions under SNAP and other assistance programs.

These actions result in:

- The Plaintiff and Child have both been irreparably harmed in ways that are not possible to recover from by the actions of the Defendants.
- Economic harm, forcing Plaintiff to bear unreasonable out-of-pocket costs, and to suffer greatly.
- Violation of federal law, which mandates states to allow deductions for verified medical expenses without arbitrary limitations and without causing excess burden on the participant.
- The Plaintiff even, as directed by former counsel, Lisa Hinkle of McBrayer Firm, provided the state with an Affidavit stating all expenses were real and valid. The state, even with that, continues to deny the vast majority of expenses.
- Defendants stated to Lisa Hinkle, prior to the hearing that most recently took place, that no medical expenses would be allowed, which Lisa Hinkle relayed on in email to Plaintiff. This was prior to the hearing thus indicating that no fair hearing could take place.
- The exhibits shall show that the Defendants picked and chose only select expenses to highlight during the hearing that most recently took place that Plaintiff was unable to attend due to PTSD.

Waiver Program Violations

- The Kentucky Medicaid Waiver HCBS 1915(c) program is violating federal law and Plaintiff's rights by:
  - Limiting participants to addressing only one issue at a time, resulting in severe delays in accessing critical care and services.

- Imposing a false annual cap of $2,500 per participant, which is not compliant with federal Medicaid regulations that require coverage for necessary services without arbitrary limits.

- Plaintiff most recently received an email from Sibal K., case worker at Access ADHC, stating to Plaintiff that he only had a couple of hundred dollars left before hitting the capped limit, so most needs would not be able to be accommodated that are medically necessary.

- Plaintiff notified Sibal K., et. al. from Access ADHC of their inclusion in this case, after receiving Sibal's communication. Plaintiff provided a listing of the legal violations that could be included along with what the penalties for those violations are, but of course, the court shall decide those details, and the Plaintiff simply wishes to note that the communication was made. The email Sibal sent along with the Plaintiff's notice shall be included in the exhibits section. Aiding and abetting and collusion was not included in the letter, but those and other criminal conduct or activities are very relevant and valid.

These violations:

- Delay medically necessary care, exacerbating Plaintiff's health conditions leading to irrecoverable health situations such as furthering brain atrophy, such as exacerbating long covid damage from microclots, etc.....

- Cause further economic harm, as Plaintiff is unable to access services that should be covered under the waiver program.

- The Plaintiff had to use a great deal of the lumpsum backpay from disability to pay for services that are medically necessary that the Medicaid Waiver HCBS 1915(c) should cover, and still has to pay today as the medically necessary goods and services continue to be denied. It is as if the agencies involved and individuals' wish for the Plaintiff to cease to exist.

- Reflect systemic neglect and abuse of authority, prioritizing cost-cutting over the well-being, healthcare, or the life of disabled individuals and special needs children. This too has led to severe irreparable physical and emotional harm for both the Plaintiff and the Plaintiff's Child.

Waiver program violations and illegal medical expense deduction caps, both, highlight blatant violations of federal law and discrimination against disabled individuals. These practices impose severe financial and health-related burdens on the Plaintiff, further supporting the need for immediate judicial intervention and relief.

1. Defendants have:

   - Refused to provide necessary medical care and testing, including experimental treatments, advanced imaging, second opinion services covered, nutritional testing, diagnostic testing, access to higher institute of medicine, and life-sustaining medications and services, all of which are essential to the Plaintiff's quality of life and survival.

   - Denied access to federally mandated benefits, including medical expense deductions and reimbursement for travel related to medical care., in violation of IRS guidelines https://www.irs.gov/publications/p502 and federal Medicaid law. https://www.ecfr.gov/current/title-7/subtitle-B/chapter-II/subchapter-C/part-273#p-273.9(d)(3)

   - Caps on medical expense deductions in violation of federal law (e.g., $158/month for prescriptions and $306 for medical travel). [See Exhibits]

   - Mismanagement and delays in Medicaid Waiver program services, including false annual caps of $2,500. Access ADHC aka Access Adult Health Day Care Center, LLC. On one form the cap (illegal cap) is listed at $3,500. Either way, the cap on waiver medically necessary goods and services is not legal. The Plaintiff continues to be harmed detrimentally and without any concern or regard from the state. The Plaintiff's Child is harmed as well by the Plaintiff being harmed.

     1. 42 CFR § 441.302(c)(2) requires that Home and Community-Based Services (HCBS) Waivers are based on person-centered planning and must address the specific assessed needs of individuals to avoid institutionalization and/or remain independent in the community.

2. Olmstead v. L.C. (1999), which enforces the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and mandates that states provide community-based services to individuals with disabilities when such services are appropriate, reasonable, and do not impose an undue burden.

3. Failing to meet Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child's needs directly violates Plaintiff's and Plaintiff's Child's rights under Olmstead because it could lead to unnecessary institutionalization if continuing harm caused by the Defendants' actions across multiple systems does not cease.

Letters from multiple healthcare providers have been provided repeatedly to CHFS, and they have not impacted the ways in which Defendants continue to treat Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child despite clearly illustrating the following:

1 The medical necessity of exceeding the capped amount.

2 The health risks or costs of failing to provide the services.

3 How the services will prevent a major decline or institutionalization.

4. Under 42 CFR § 441.302(e):

The Medicaid agency must assure that the average per capita Medicaid expenditures under the waiver program will not exceed 100 percent of the average per capita Medicaid expenditures that would have been made for the level of care provided in a hospital, nursing facility, or intermediate care facility for individuals with intellectual disabilities."

- Disallowed Plaintiff to know information such as provider directory (accurate), dental providers, formularies, even with the formulary, Medicaid refuses to cover some things listed even as preferred medications on the formulary causing the Plaintiff further financial and emotional harm along with physical harm.

- Subjected Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child to retaliation, including false narratives in Child Protective Services (CPS) reports, misrepresentations of truth, misdiagnoses, and refusal to correct falsified medical records.

- Created an unsafe living environment, exposing Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child to gang-related violence and systemic neglect in federally funded housing, and that neglect and discrimination system-wide against Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child continues with questions asked, and answers refused or complete silence from agencies required to respond such as Louisville Metro Housing Authority.

- Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child were sitting in their apartment this Summer in 2024, when they heard what seemed like gunshots, but Child thought there were fireworks.

- Shortly afterward, the Plaintiff and Child learned that a perpetrator of that murder, had pulled up, to a car with a man and woman sitting in a parked car….shot and killed the man, and the woman was also injured by gunshot wounds.

- The murder occurred within 200 feet of the apartment complex where they live, and in broad daylight.

- There have been other instances where six police vehicles and many police have been standing outside their building where they live on multiple occasions (Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child's Apartment Building), and this has had zero explanation as to why – but something had to be going on…

- Maintenance has little regard or concern for tenants that live at Station Jtown.

    - There are often large cockroach infestations in hallways and within apartments.

    - Water issues often occur leading to inconveniences for many hours.

    - Valet Trash is supposed to be collected daily, and tenants pay $25 per month for trash removal, but there have been several days, and a minimum, for several weeks, that trash sits outside in cans in the hallways and on the ground, and attracts bugs, food rots and maggots are present, and crime goes up in areas like that.

    - Maintenance gets angry if any request is put in.
    - When first moving in, Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child had to ask some 20+ times in writing to get management to address literally anything. Then had the audacity to ask Plaintiff to remove one star review noted after management asked for a review to be left.

        1 Costs are not transparent and change monthly greatly

2 Repairs are not made on any kind of timely basis

3 Plaintiff has a disabled placard, and before moving in, was assured that a disabled spot would be labeled in front of building L where Plaintiff lives, however, the spot does still not exist, despite multiple communications with management.

4 The last communication re disability spot was months ago, and Plaintiff was told they were waiting for a stencil/template to come in. Plaintiff wants to make clear that this is another direct violation of the ADA.

- Plaintiff, on Monday 12/2/2024, missed a housing inspection by LMHA (that was a follow up inspection request) due to a complaint Plaintiff had to make in order to get Station Jtown to spray for bugs. Plaintiff was not home because Child had to go to Emergency Room for Bad Infection and Cyclical Vomiting issues. Plaintiff immediately communicated to LMHA, despite Plaintiff also being very ill with an infection, however to date, as of 2024-12-08, Plaintiff has heard nothing. More refusal of agencies to communicate – showing further neglect, discrimination, willful abandonment, neglect, and endangerment.
- On 12/04/2024, Plaintiff came home with Child in afternoon, to find two envelopes stuck in the door jamb between the door and the jamb.
  1 One document was about an even tat the apartment complex, at Station Jtown, called Merry Grinchmas with a picture of the Grinch on the envelope.
  2 The other was a letter about non-renewal of lease with no reason given. It was almost as if it were someone's idea of a cruel joke about taking away housing stability.
  3 Plaintiff and Child have been through too much, and have a great deal of PTSD from the many wrongful situations.

- Station Jtown, a Vida-Management, Inc. company at 9601 Balsam Way, is the location of the current address of the Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child. Plaintiff's Child has Autism and other conditions leading to special needs – the overall environment here with the violence, the police presence that is unexplained, the constant insect infestation, and dirty conditions due to trash not being removed, lack of transparency, and failures to uphold the ADA, have contributed significantly to harm – especially now taking away any stability Plaintiff and Child had hoped for just in time for Christmas.

- Providers of healthcare, have been completely dismissive of Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child's symptoms of real disease and symptoms and environmental hazard created illness causing real harm, systemically, and without any accountability.

- Harms continue even to this day by providers not even taking serious and potentially deadly infections seriously for Plaintiff and Child.

- Retaliation and harassment, including false CPS allegations, refusal to correct falsified records – Norton, University of Louisville Physicians, Baptist Health, and others, and threats by providers such as Dr. Knuckles.

- Falsified records and obstructed the Plaintiff's ability to correct errors, including malicious accusations of Munchausen's by Proxy and Munchausen's by Proxy leading to further harm that continues and is ongoing.

- DCBS, specifically Lucinda Lawrence at CHFS – DCBS in KY continues to deny repeatedly many lines of medical mileage, and other eligible expenses on a monthly basis that are legally allowable to be deducted. While Lisa Hinkle, albeit temporarily, was the counsel for the Plaintiff, Lucinda met with Lisa and Lisa stated in email that prior to the hearing that was scheduled which I had to bypass due to too much PTSD, Anxiety, Stress, and chance of triggering a CFS/ME crash or narcolepsy with cataplexy attack, that DCBS had already, prior to the hearing, decided that they were not going to allow any of the medical expenses.

- Defendants' actions leading Plaintiff to the brink of ongoing severe CFS/ME is severe consequence of severe harm inflicted by Defendants. Patients such as Plaintiff sometimes crash, and never recover from lower baseline.

- DCBS falsely claims that only 'select' expenses were submitted to them which they have listed on exhibits for the hearing noted in the former point, however, the exhibits they sent are also ironic because:

    1. They were received AFTER the hearing by 2 days, after the hearing took place – which is not very helpful.

2. They include a copy of the federal law, which further strengthens that they are aware of the law violations. I have sent it to them many times within Excel files and PDF files via fax, upload through KyNect.gov and through email.
3. They mention things that seem to be listed to try to embarrass the Plaintiff, but the Plaintiff refuses to accept that their attempts to do so will lead to their seemingly desired effect on the Plaintiff.

- Engaged in deliberate breaches of good faith, contractual obligations, and fiduciary responsibilities to Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child.
- Refused to calculate medical expense deductions properly, knowingly, willfully, and with the understanding that this will cause harm to the Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child.
- Refuse to elaborate on how they arrive at SNAP medical deduction calculations nor identify specifics of what they state they have considered.
- Refuse to accurately account for shelter and utility expenses as well among others.
- Continue to place undue burden on Plaintiff and Child and cause a situation of non-stop involuntary servitude and violations of other federal laws and constitutional rights without concern or regard for the consequences of their actions on Plaintiff and Child.

- The above list is not a fully comprehensive list, and so, the case should not be limited to only what is listed. The Plaintiff suffers from extreme fatigue, short term memory issues, PTSD, Narcolepsy with cataplexy, and much more. The Plaintiff often writes things down to help with memory issues, which may be helpful in the course of this case.

2. Plaintiff's Whistleblower Status:
Plaintiff has filed whistleblower complaints with federal agencies, including DOJ, HUD, HHS, CMS, and USDA-FNS, which have gone unanswered, leaving Plaintiff vulnerable to continued harm. Plaintiff also submitted the same whistleblower complaints to the FBI, local Jefferson County Sheriff's Department, and Louisville Metro Police Department. The complete lack of response from all organizations contacted have caused Plaintiff to question just how deep the corruption and discrimination issues penetrate the local, state, and federal government. Plaintiff requests assurances of safety precautions and Whistleblower Rights to be immediately in force and retroactively with written confirmation of all things throughout this document from the court.

3. Plaintiff has an active ADA OCR case (federal investigation) addressing systemic violations of the Olmstead Act, which underscores the severity and credibility of the Plaintiff's claims.

4. Violated federal Medicaid law, which mandates coverage of services provided out-of-state when such services are unavailable within the state.

    - Plaintiff has been denied access to treatment by Dr. Vaughn, who is the only provider in the U.S. currently treating long COVID-related microclots and employing specialized triple anticoagulation therapy essential to Plaintiff's care.

Educational Neglect and Failure to Address Special Needs.

Systemic Neglect by Agencies Over Many Years

Widespread Federal Law Violations and Broader Systemic Issues

---

LEGAL ARGUMENT

Plaintiff satisfies the criteria for emergency relief:

1. Likelihood of Success: The evidence demonstrates clear violations of federal law, constitutional amendments (1st, 4th, 5th, 8th, 9th, 13th, and 14th), and civil rights protections, and all other mentioned above.

2. Irreparable Harm: Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child face escalating threats to health, safety, and well-being. The harm caused is severe, permanent, and irreparable.

3. Balance of Equities: The requested relief imposes no undue burden on Defendants and ensures compliance with existing laws.

4. Public Interest: Granting relief reinforces accountability, protects vulnerable populations, and upholds federal and constitutional law.

RELIEF REQUESTED

Plaintiff respectfully requests that this Court:

1. Immediate Medical Access and Lifetime Medical Coverages:

This fund shall also cover private rideshare services and gratuities, ensuring independence and reducing reliance on state programs. Plaintiff is in need of immediate assistance for this service to help relieve the burden if involuntary servitude and lack of due process that is an on-going detrimental consequence of behavior of the Defendants' toward the Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child for trying to exercise their rights under federal law.

2. Appointed Medical Provider or True Multidisciplinary Team

- Physician Appointment: The Court shall appoint or approve a physician to oversee and manage the Plaintiff's medical care, with the authority to prescribe all medications and treatments. This includes higher-dose stimulant medications starting at 120mg of Adderall per day or equivalent, titrated as necessary, without punitive tracking or reporting to regulatory agencies, and effective immediately as a physician with familiarity with Plaintiff's conditions and unique genetic makeup is not available to Plaintiff presently and this represents an urgent need. The physician must specialize in chronic illnesses, post-viral syndromes, and neuropsychiatric conditions along with familiarity with Long Covid, CFS/ME, mold exposure aka Chronic Inflammatory Response Syndrome CIRS, Mast Cell Activation Syndrome, and Lyme Disease and co-infections among others. The provider or team must openly communicate and must respond to plaintiff and plaintiff's child's needs urgently.

3. Mold / Mycotoxins Remedy Relief

Owner Accountability:

Request the Court to hold Jerry Kerchik, owner of 2321 Glenmary Ave Apt. 2, Louisville, KY 40204 accountable for neglecting his duty as a property owner, and PMOFL (Property Management of Louisville) accountable, for not making required requested repairs while knowledgeable of hazards posed to tenants including:

5. Aiding and Abetting Accountability

3. Any action or inaction that willfully deprives Plaintiff of federally protected rights under the guise of legal authority.

  Require all parties found to have participated in aiding and abetting to take immediate corrective actions, including the reversal of harmful policies, rectification of false records, and compliance with federally mandated protections.

- Impose Sanctions for Non-Compliance:

  Authorize penalties for any continued violations or refusals to comply with the Court's orders, including fines, suspension of licenses, or other Court-determined remedies.

6. Conspiracy Against Rights

- Plaintiff respectfully requests the Court to recognize and enforce accountability under 18 U.S.C. § 241 (Conspiracy Against Rights) for individuals or entities who conspired to deprive Plaintiff of federally protected rights.

- This includes, but is not limited to:

  1. Collusion between state agencies, healthcare providers, or other entities to deny Plaintiff access to medical care, benefits, or services.

1. Coordination among state agencies, healthcare providers, or other entities to delay or obstruct Plaintiff's access to federally mandated benefits, medical treatments, or due process protections.

2. Actions taken to suppress or distort evidence, including falsification of medical records, denial of essential tests or treatments, and refusal to correct errors or provide transparency.

3. Collusion to perpetuate systemic failures that prevent Plaintiff from securing justice or accessing basic rights guaranteed under federal law.

Plaintiff requests full prosecution and penalties for all parties, individuals, entities, and federal agencies found to have participated in such conspiracies, including fines, imprisonment, and mandatory corrective actions to prevent future harm

8. Conspiracy to Commit Offense or to Defraud the United States (18 U.S.C. § 371)

Plaintiff requests the Court to investigate and hold accountable any individuals or entities involved in conspiracies to defraud the United States by mismanaging Medicaid funds, those designated for waiver programs, and other. This includes, but is not limited to:

1. Collusion among state officials and healthcare providers to divert funds away from intended recipients.

2. Coordinated efforts to obstruct justice by falsifying records or intentionally delaying services to eligible participants.

9. Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO) (18 U.S.C. §§ 1961-1968):

Plaintiff urges the Court to examine whether the mismanagement of Medicaid waiver funds constitutes a pattern of racketeering activity under RICO. Specifically:

- Engaging in fraudulent schemes to embezzle funds allocated for the Michelle P. Waiver and other programs.
- Operating enterprises that systematically deprive eligible individuals of services through financial misconduct

Plaintiff requests a formal investigation into the allocation and utilization of federal Medicaid funds in Kentucky, focusing on:

- Tracing the flow of money from federal allocations to state disbursements and eventual use in waiver programs.
- Identifying discrepancies between allocated funds and services provided to eligible participants.
- Ensuring transparency in how funds are managed to prevent fraud and abuse.

10. Supplementary Request for Compliance Oversight and Enforcement Mechanism

Plaintiff respectfully requests the Court to establish a clear system to ensure compliance with all directives of this injunction, specifically addressing denials of necessary medical care, testing, and services, as follows:

- Reporting Mechanism for Violations:

1. Create a formal reporting process through which Plaintiff can submit documented instances of non-compliance, denials, or delays by healthcare providers, government entities, or other parties bound by this injunction.

2. Reports should be reviewed by a designated independent compliance officer or Court-appointed special master.

- Mandatory Compliance with Plaintiff's Medical Decisions:

1. Direct all healthcare providers, institutions, and related entities to comply fully and promptly with Plaintiff's requested medical requests, including but not limited to testing, treatment, medications, and follow-up care.

2. Denials of such requests must be documented and justified in writing within 24 hours, with clear evidence that the request poses a serious and immediate risk to Plaintiff's health.

2. Require immediate corrective action for all documented violations.

- Plaintiff's Right to Enforcement Assistance:

1. Grant Plaintiff the authority to request direct enforcement from the Court in cases of non-compliance or obstruction, ensuring timely resolution of disputes without additional burden on Plaintiff or Plaintiff's Child.

11. Food Security and Nutritional Needs

- Permanent Food Security: Provide comprehensive food security for the Plaintiff and child, including:

    1. Coverage for gluten-free, organic, and non-GMO foods at 100%.

    2. Grocery and meal delivery services (e.g., Amazon Fresh, Walmart+, Whole Foods) to accommodate the Plaintiff's mobility challenges and dietary requirements.

- Prepared Meal Exemption: Permit the use of SNAP benefits for hot and prepared foods, addressing the Plaintiff's inability to prepare meals due to severe health constraints-and consider amending this rule for everyone on SNAP – it does not make sense.

12. Housing Relief Requested:

Plaintiff respectfully requests immediate and permanent housing relief to address ongoing harm and ensure long-term stability and safety for Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child. Specifically, Plaintiff seeks the following:

A. Grant for Safe and Permanent Housing:

- Plaintiff requests a grant sufficient to purchase a home outright, free of any repayment obligations, to provide stability and security for Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child.

- Plaintiff requests a grant sufficient to cover the full cost of purchasing a home to provide stability and security for Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child that:

    - Is owned outright by Plaintiff, with Plaintiff's name on the title, and only the plaintiff's name on the title.

    - Upon Plaintiff's passing, ownership of the home would transfer to Plaintiff's child. If the child is under the legal age at the time, a legally designated guardian or trust, selected by Plaintiff, will oversee the home until the child reaches legal age.

- The home must meet the following criteria:

- Be located within close proximity to Plaintiff's child's school in Lyndon, KY, or other areas depending on situational changes in the interim.
- Be free of mold and environmental toxins, with inspection by a Plaintiff-selected mold and mycotoxin environmental toxins specialist as well as traditional home inspection specialist covered at 100%.
- Be situated in a safe and secure area, ideally on the edge of city and country, away from high-crime neighborhoods and farm chemical drift.
- Adequately sized and equipped to accommodate Plaintiff's physical limitations, medical needs, and disability requirements, including but not limited to accessibility features such as grab bars, ramps, and other modifications as needed.
- Comparable in value to other homes in the region that meet these criteria, as determined by an independent appraisal or market analysis, ensuring the home is of appropriate quality and not undervalued.

B. Ongoing Housing Costs Covered:

- Plaintiff requests permanent coverage of all costs associated with the home to ensure stability and safety of Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child, including but not limited to:
  - Property taxes
  - Utilities (e.g., water, electricity, gas, internet, trash collection)
  - Homeowner's insurance
  - Maintenance and repairs
- These costs should be covered in perpetuity, ensuring Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child have a stable and secure living environment without undue financial strain.

- Maintenance and Future Costs: All maintenance, utilities, property taxes, and insurance shall be covered to ensure that the Plaintiff and child are not burdened with additional costs that exacerbate financial or health hardships.

C. Relocation Assistance:

Plaintiff seeks full coverage of all relocation expenses, including but not limited to:

- Moving services and associated fees covered at 100%.
- Travel expenses for Plaintiff and Plaintiff's family covered at 100%.
- Temporary lodging during the transition period, and meals to be covered at 100%, if necessary during moving / relocation.
- Transportation and relocation of personal belongings from:
  - Plaintiff's current apartment to the new home.
  - Plaintiff's current storage units to the new home.
  - Plaintiff's parents' home in Shepherdsville, KY, including but not limited to a piano, deep freezer, barnwood bed, and other personal items.
- Relocation must occur without delay, with Defendants ensuring immediate availability of suitable housing to address the current unsafe living environment.

D. Permanent Waiver of Housing Reviews:

- Plaintiff requests a permanent waiver from any ongoing government housing reviews or recertifications, as these processes impose undue administrative burdens and exacerbate Plaintiff's health conditions.
- Once housing is secured, Plaintiff requests protection from unnecessary scrutiny or re-evaluation of any kind that could jeopardize long-term stability, however, that would not be an action taken anyway due to house being titled and deeded only in name of Plaintiff.

E. Housing Choice and Independence:

- Plaintiff requests the ability to choose the home that best suits the needs of Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child, with input from medical and environmental specialists to ensure it meets all health and safety standards.

- The home should ideally be located on a property that offers a balance of proximity to healthcare and schools while providing a quieter environment on the edge of city and country living, offering peace of mind after years of instability, abuse, and systemic harm.

- Ownership and Transfer: The house shall be owned outright by the Plaintiff, with the Plaintiff's name on the title. Upon the Plaintiff's passing, ownership shall transfer directly to the Plaintiff's child. If the child is a minor at that time, ownership shall be managed through a trust with a trustee selected by the Plaintiff.

- Relocation and Storage Needs: Defendants shall cover all costs associated with relocating the Plaintiff and child, including:

  - Transporting belongings from the Plaintiff's current residence.
  - Moving items from the Plaintiff's storage units and parents' home (e.g., piano, barnwood bed, and deep freeze).
  - Ensuring that the housing is free of mold and environmental toxins, inspected by a specialist chosen by the Plaintiff.

F. HUD and LMHA Accountability:

- Defendants, including HUD and LMHA, must provide immediate responses to Plaintiff's communications regarding housing concerns and ensure full compliance with federal housing laws, including the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) and ADA accessibility requirements.

- HUD and LMHA must address past failures, including lost applications and delayed processing, and take corrective action to prevent further harm to Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child.

G. Transportation Assistance:

- Plaintiff requests a reliable and safe vehicle, owned outright, funded through a grant sufficient to cover the full cost of the vehicle. The vehicle must:
  - Meet the Plaintiff's transportation needs, including adequate space for medical equipment, mobility aids, or other necessary items.
  - Be suitable for ensuring Plaintiff's independence and access to medical care, therapy, and community activities.
  - Provide safe and reliable transportation for Plaintiff's child and caregivers, as needed.
- Plaintiff currently owns a 2006 Honda CR-V with over 226,000 miles, which has required extensive and costly repairs over the past five years, including three air conditioning system replacements. The vehicle's age and condition make it unreliable and unsafe for the Plaintiff's critical transportation needs.
- Plaintiff relies heavily on a vehicle for frequent medical appointments, grocery shopping, and ensuring their child's needs are met, particularly in areas where public transportation is unavailable or impractical, and disabilities involved and rare conditions make public transportation not an option.
- All maintenance, insurance, and registration costs for the vehicle to be covered to ensure continued reliability and usage without financial strain on Plaintiff.
- In the event of the Plaintiff passing, the vehicle's title shall go into Plaintiff's child's name if 16 or older (able to drive), or if prior to then, the vehicle would go into a trust until child becomes 16.
- Private Transportation for Child: Provide safe, reliable private transportation for the Plaintiff's child to and from school.    Appoint an independent compliance officer to review Plaintiff's medical record and ensure it is accurate, consistent, and free of defamatory or inaccurate remarks across all institutions and systems, and that the accurate record once complete review has been conducted is made available to all patient's medical providers current, past, and present as well as those in the future.

4. Systemwide Reform Deadline:

   Impose a strict timeline for Epic and MyChart to implement these changes. Should they fail, mandate development of alternative software or a federally monitored platform to ensure comprehensive and effective communication between patients and providers.

23. Accountability:

- Prosecute responsible individuals and agencies for criminal violations (Color of Law offenses, willful endangerment, malicious intent to harm, FCRA, HIPAA, and other crimes committed etc.) to the fullest extent of the law.

  Maximum compensatory and punitive damages for ongoing harm, both immediate (pre-compensatory damages) and long-term, with amounts requested not to preclude further damages as the case progresses.

24. Federal Accountability and Oversight

Plaintiff requests that the Court mandate the FBI to establish clear, accessible procedures for whistleblower submissions, including acknowledgment and response timelines, along with other agencies that did not respond nor acknowledge in any way the submissions of the Plaintiff, the whistleblower.

Federal Oversight Investigation:
Petition the Court to initiate a formal review of why whistleblower letters regarding systemic violations were ignored by federal, state, and local law enforcement, including the FBI, and many other agencies, entities, and individuals. Plaintiff shall receive a copy of the report.

25. Advocacy and Broader Justice:

- Commitment to Systemic Change: The Plaintiff seeks not only relief for himself and his child but also systemic change to protect others suffering from chronic illnesses, post-viral syndromes, and systemic neglect. The Plaintiff's case is rooted in ensuring broader justice for the disabled community and advocating for better standards of care and accountability – especially those in rare or not well understood illness.

26. Open-Ended Relief:

- Evidence Submission Clarification:
  Pending Evidence Submission: Due to the extensive nature of this case and the Plaintiff's cognitive and physical limitations, and emotional limits, evidence will be submitted in stages as it becomes organized and available.

  The Plaintiff requests immediate protection while additional documentation is compiled, and acknowledgement of receipt of this document from the court please.

- Permit amendments to this motion to include additional violations, necessary remedies, or parties as evidence emerges.

- Extend whistleblower protections to include safeguarding against retaliation or punitive actions related to evidence gathering and case filing.

- Ensure transparency and accountability for all entities involved, with mandated reporting of any retaliatory incidents.

- Highlight the harm caused by systemic failures in addressing these basic needs and request immediate corrective measures.

30. Request for Judicial Oversight:

- Request the Court to designate a special master or independent administrator to oversee compliance with Court orders, particularly concerning evidence submission and accommodation requests.

31. Refusal to Apply Medical Expense Deductions:

- The Defendants denied all medical expense deductions from SNAP calculations until a few months ago and have since arbitrarily capped these deductions, in violation of 7 CFR § 273.9(d)(3), which mandates that all verified medical expenses over $35 be deducted for eligible individuals.

  Recent caps include:
  1. $158.xx for prescriptions.
  2. $22.13 for VSP (Vision Service Plan).
  3. A one-time transportation reimbursement of approximately $30x.xx in July 2024.

- Failure to Retroactively Correct Benefits:

1. The Defendants have failed to adjust benefits retroactively to account for these unlawful caps and deductions, exacerbating Plaintiff's financial instability and food insecurity.

- Refusal to Follow Federal Law:
  1. Despite being provided with clear legal documentation of federal Medicaid and SNAP regulations, the Defendants have repeatedly refused to comply, violating the Supremacy Clause of the U.S. Constitution and 7 CFR § 273.9(d)(3).

---

32. Additional Relief Requested:
Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court:

- Order Immediate Compliance with Federal SNAP Regulations:

- Require the Defendants to fully account for and apply all medical expenses over $35 in SNAP calculations, as mandated by 7 CFR § 273.9(d)(3), without arbitrary caps or exclusions.

- Mandate Retroactive Adjustment of Benefits:

  1. Direct the Defendants to recalculate and reimburse SNAP benefits retroactively to June 30, 2022, the documented date of disability onset, to correct for the unlawful denial of medical expense deductions with assistants of Plaintiff from above support request ensuring that all expenses are included that could possibly be included dating back to June 30, 2022.

- Provide Emergency Food Support:

  1. Order immediate emergency SNAP benefits to address the ongoing food insecurity caused by these systemic violations.

- Enforce Oversight:

1. Appoint an independent monitor to ensure the Defendants' compliance with federal law regarding SNAP and medical expense deductions along with following all other federal and state level laws with further criminal and civil violations to be added if the court's order is violated.

33. Request for Maximum Compensatory and Punitive Damages

- To the Honorable Court:

The Plaintiff, John R. Fouts, respectfully submits this detailed request for maximum compensatory and punitive damages, reflecting the profound and far-reaching harm inflicted upon the Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child due to the Defendants' willful, malicious, and egregiously negligent actions and inactions. These damages are sought as just relief for the irreparable harm already caused, as well as to deter such conduct in the future.

- Compensatory Damages:

The Plaintiff seeks compensatory damages to address the measurable and tangible harms endured, including but not limited to:

1. Physical and Emotional Harm:

1. Severe and permanent health deterioration due to delays, denials, and obstructions of critical medical care, testing, and treatments, including experimental therapies that could have significantly improved Plaintiff's quality of life.

2. Exacerbation of PTSD, severe anxiety, and depression caused by Defendants' harassment, systemic retaliation, and refusal to comply with federal mandates, resulting in long-term emotional and mental trauma.

2. Financial Losses:

3. Out-of-pocket medical expenses, including medications, therapies, travel, and testing, amounting to tens of thousands of dollars. These expenses were unjustly denied reimbursement despite clear federal law mandating coverage.

4. Additional financial burdens imposed through systemic barriers, such as the refusal to approve medically necessary care, the capping of medical expense deductions, and the denial of services essential to daily living.

5. Loss of income potential due to forced overburden and the Plaintiff's inability to pursue gainful employment while managing systemic harm and rare, debilitating medical conditions, and the healthcare needs of Plaintiff's special needs child

3. Harm to Plaintiff's Child:

6. Emotional and psychological harm caused to Plaintiff's child, including additional PTSD and trauma, due to systemic discrimination, retaliatory actions, and the unsafe and unstable living conditions created by Defendants.

7. Negative impacts on the child's education and daily well-being caused by disruptions, lack of resources, and the failure to ensure adequate accommodations and security for the family.

4. Loss of Time and Relationships:

8. Invaluable time and opportunities to bond with and care for Plaintiff's child have been irretrievably lost due to the Defendants' imposition of relentless and unnecessary, unlawful, administrative burdens, forcing the Plaintiff into what can only be described as involuntary servitude.
9. Permanent damage to the Plaintiff's reputation and relationships due to false narratives and systemic harassment.

5. Financial Devastation and Bankruptcy:

10. The Plaintiff was forced to file for bankruptcy in late 2022, which was finalized in the first half of 2023, as a direct result of the overwhelming financial burdens imposed by the Defendants' systemic violations, including the denial of mandated benefits, medical coverages, and critical support services. The Plaintiff's financial ruin is emblematic of the Defendants' failure to uphold their legal and ethical obligations, further exacerbating the Plaintiff's health and well-being, and many other parties and bad actors also contributed to similar behaviors.

11. This bankruptcy underscores the Defendants' significant role in creating a situation where the Plaintiff was left with no other recourse but to surrender assets and creditworthiness to survive.

34. Punitive Damages:

The Plaintiff further requests maximum punitive damages due to the Defendants' reckless disregard for human dignity and the fundamental rights of the Plaintiff and Plaintiff's child. The following actions justify punitive relief:

a. Willful Endangerment and Malicious Intent:

1. Defendants acted with clear knowledge of the harm their actions and inactions would cause, including denying life-saving medical care, essential services, and critical benefits while imposing excessive burdens on the Plaintiff.

2. Persistent refusal to correct known errors, including falsified CPS reports and medical records, with the intent to harm the Plaintiff's reputation and deny access to essential resources, repeatedly, despite the Plaintiff going far above and beyond legal requirements at the request of the Defendants', which still continues today.

b. Obstruction and Harassment:

3. Defendants knowingly created barriers to accessing mandated benefits, repeatedly denied lawful requests, and engaged in retaliatory practices aimed at silencing the Plaintiff's whistleblowing efforts.

4. Actions such as multiple unauthorized credit checks, failure to process legitimate requests for services, and refusal to investigate reported violations exemplify the Defendants' intentional disregard for federal law and human decency.

c. Systemic Discrimination and Color of Law Violations:

5. Discrimination based on the Plaintiff's disability status, rare medical conditions, and familial circumstances was compounded by the Defendants' violations of the ADA, Olmstead Act, and multiple constitutional amendments, including the 1st, 4th, 5th, 8th, 9th, 13th, and 14th.

6. Color of Law violations demonstrate a flagrant abuse of power by state and federal actors, inflicting immense harm under the guise of authority repeatedly.

d. Intentional Infliction of Emotional Distress:

7. The Defendants' actions have caused incalculable emotional pain, creating a hostile environment where the Plaintiff and child live in constant fear of further harm, retaliation, or neglect.

8. Failure to address urgent safety concerns, including unsafe housing and transportation issues, has further endangered the Plaintiff and child.

e. Magnitude of Damages Requested:

9. The Plaintiff requests:

i. Compensatory Damages: To cover all measurable financial, physical, and emotional losses, estimated to range between $10 million to $50 million or more for the immediate and ongoing harm caused.

ii. Punitive Damages: To deter future misconduct and hold Defendants accountable for their heinous and egregious actions, estimated to range between $100 million to $500 million or more, considering the systemic nature and broad scope of violations.

- Compounding Hardships and Emotional Toll:

In addition to the systemic violations and injustices outlined, the Plaintiff endured compounding personal and familial challenges that exacerbated the harm inflicted by the Defendants' actions:

1. Homeschooling Due to Bullying:

1. The Plaintiff was forced to remove his child from Bloom Elementary School on February 22, 2022, due to relentless bullying by students, teachers, and administrators.
2. Despite the Plaintiff's efforts, including escalating the issue to the superintendent's office and engaging in multiple meetings, the bullying continued, making the school environment unsafe.

3. The Plaintiff took on the responsibility of homeschooling his child to provide a safe and stable learning environment, further burdening his already overwhelming responsibilities.

2. Environmental Toxicity:

    1. During the same period, the Plaintiff lived in a mold-infested and environmentally toxic apartment at 2321 Glenmary Avenue, Apt. 2, in Louisville, KY. Despite repeated efforts, the city, property management company, and property owner failed to address these serious issues, which contributed to the Plaintiff's deteriorating health and his child's health challenges.

3. Ex-Wife's Mental Health Challenges:

    1. Compounding the stress, the Plaintiff's ex-wife was frequently hospitalized for mental health issues and often failed to adhere to agreed custody arrangements.

    2. She regularly refused to pick up the Plaintiff's child during her assigned weeks or provide financial support for the child's care. The Plaintiff was left to shoulder the full responsibility for his child's medical care, education, and well-being, often at the expense of his own health and financial stability.

4. Long COVID Diagnosis in Plaintiff's Child:

    1. The Plaintiff's child was diagnosed with Long COVID by Dr. Mahajan at Norton Children's Pediatrics in Louisville, KY. Managing this diagnosis required numerous medical appointments, treatments, and care coordination, all of which fell solely to the Plaintiff due to his ex-wife's neglect of her responsibilities.

- Medicare and Financial Planning Challenges:

    1. The Plaintiff, now on Medicare, as of 12/1/2024, due to disability, has been unable to adequately research and choose a suitable Medicare plan or supplementary insurance due to the unrelenting demands of addressing these systemic failures and caring for his child.

2. Additionally, the Plaintiff urgently needs to establish trusts to protect his limited resources from Medicaid clawback policies but has been unable to secure legal assistance, due to the breadth and depth of his case.

- Unaddressed Healthcare Needs:

1. The Plaintiff's own critical healthcare needs remain neglected due to the constant administrative burden imposed by the Defendants' failures.

2. Essential tasks, such as updating medical expense spreadsheets and responding to government agencies, consume time and energy that should be devoted to healing and recovery, and time that should be spent with Plaintiff's child.

- Profound Loss of Time with Child:

1. The Plaintiff has been deprived of precious time with his child, a devastating consequence of the systemic failures and neglect outlined, this is time that cannot ever be recovered.

2. The Plaintiff's heart remains broken completely due to the time and opportunities lost, all while striving to provide the stability his child so desperately needs.

REQUEST FOR COMPENSATORY AND PUNITIVE DAMAGES

The Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court consider these extraordinary hardships in determining maximum compensatory and punitive damages.

Emergency Preliminary Injunction, Permanent Restraining and Protective Orders, and Punitive and Compensatory Damages

The Plaintiff seeks accountability for the Defendants' actions, which have irreparably harmed the Plaintiff and his child, and asks the Court to ensure justice is served to prevent such injustices from continuing or affecting others.

Formal Communication Request:

Plaintiff formally requests that all communications regarding this case be conducted in written form via fax or email for speed, documentation, and to accommodate Plaintiff's PTSD and to allow sufficient time to fully understand and respond to the communication accurately.

    - Violation of Due Process
    - Systemic malicious intent across multiple agencies, entities, individuals, and even legal counsel.

- This led to further involuntary servitude of Plaintiff in terms of needing to do any administrative work that counsel should have done, thus causing Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child even more harm in damage to mental health, obscuring any hope the Plaintiff or Plaintiff's Child may have had, causing instability for Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child and undue hardship and pain and suffering.

- In addition to this, Lisa Hinkle refused to answer questions with regard to the scope of her representation to the Plaintiff, and many other questions remain without answers, contributing to the ongoing pattern of neglect and treatment of the Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child as if their lives and physical and emotional health have no merit or inherent value. This repeat pattern of malevolence must be stopped immediately, and retribution must be paid.

- Lisa Hinkle also refused to answer the question if she had any conflict of interest with the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

  - Plaintiff contacted every member of the Bar Counsel in an email to report Lisa Hinkle's actions and inactions that led to harm.

  - Not one member of the Bar Counsel, nor Lisa Hinkle, has been in contact with the Plaintiff in any way.

  - It almost seems that they believe they are completely protected or shielded by an unseen force. This concerns the Plaintiff that big money or power is likely protecting these individuals, and the Plaintiff has no such shield. The Plaintiff is completely vulnerable.

  - Pairing this with the other items can lead the reasonable person to the general conclusion that the Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child are clearly not safe from harm, and need protection urgently.

- Educational Mandate for Providers:

  Require healthcare providers at Norton, Baptist Health, University of Louisville Hospital, University of Louisville Physicians Group, University of Kentucky and similar institutions and individual offices to receive training on mold-related illnesses and emerging medical conditions to prevent harm caused by dismissive attitudes. Educational And Other Protections for Jackie A. Fouts (Child of Plaintiff)

1. Recognition of Name and Identity:

   - Jackie A. Fouts or Jaqquelyn A. Fouts (full middle name Alana) must be recognized in all records, systems, and interactions. This includes cost-free updates and reissuance of identification documents such as:

     - Social Security Administration (SSA) cards
     - Passports
     - Driver's licenses (or state IDs)
     - School records
     - Insurance forms
     - Other unlisted may be added at a future date

   - Updates must be implemented immediately, with 100% compliance legally mandated.

2. Medical Record Software Updates:

- Systems such as Epic and MyChart must display Jackie A. Fouts or Jaqquelyn A. Fouts as the primary name.
- A secondary field may include "Jack A. Fouts" solely for insurance purposes, ensuring dignity and respect by eliminating misgendering or improper naming.
- Preferred pronouns must be included in all such systems to protect Jackie and others who are in this category.

3. Legally Binding Enforcement:
   - Clear, enforceable language must ensure all systems, records, and communications adopt these aliases as authorized identifiers for Jackie without ambiguity.
   - Any failure to comply shall be rectified immediately at no cost to Jackie or the Plaintiff.

4. Immediate Access to Services for Plaintiff's Child

   Plaintiff respectfully requests the Court to mandate immediate access to the Michelle P. Waiver or equivalent services for Plaintiff's child, Jackie A. Fouts aka Jaqquelyn and Jack A. Fouts. This includes expediting Jackie's enrollment into the waiver program immediately and providing comprehensive services for autism spectrum disorder (level 2) and related needs with Jackie as an active participant with access directly and immediately.

   Given the current wait list in Kentucky, which spans 7 to 9 years, this request is critical to ensure Jackie receives necessary care and support during formative years, minimizing long-term harm and ensuring equitable treatment.

   Parental Authority and Access to Medical Records

   Plaintiff requests that the Court affirm Plaintiff's and Jackie's mother's authority to make medical decisions for Jackie until Jackie reaches the age of 18. This includes unrestricted access to Jackie's medical records and the ability to manage care and advocate effectively for necessary services and access to all systems and test results among other things and is not limited to only those listed.

Comprehensive Care for Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child

1. Immediate and Inclusive Access to Testing:
    - All standard and specialized tests, including but not limited to Next-Generation Sequencing (NGS), parasitology, advanced genetic sequencing, and other cutting-edge methodologies, must be immediately available.
    - This includes both clinical and research-level testing, with results provided directly to the Plaintiff and/or child without delay or provider review barriers.
2. Testing Facilities and Research Institutions Compliance:
    - All institutions must comply fully and without exception, providing necessary results, procedures, or services requested by the Plaintiff or child. This applies regardless of experimental or clinical designation and extends for life.
3. Prescriptions and Medications:
    - Brand-name medications must be used unless otherwise determined by the Plaintiff.
    - Multiple brands of the same medication must be allowed for trial to determine the most effective option for life of Plaintiff and child.
    - Any unavailable medication may be sourced from alternative providers without penalty true for life of Plaintiff and child.
    - All medications must be covered at 100%, effective immediately, and for life of Plaintiff and child.

- Also centralize and keep accurate and current results of all testing, xrays, imaging, medical records and more across all systems in one place for ease of patients (Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child) and allow access to providers that Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child can control access to.

- Also order cease and desist to Kentucky's many agencies and entities in violation of the Violence Against Women Act

4. Accountability for Law Enforcement Agencies

Investigation into Law Enforcement Failures:

Request that the Court mandate an independent investigation into why the Sheriff's Department and Police Department failed to respond to whistleblower allegations and what systemic changes are needed to prevent future inaction.

Enhanced Whistleblower Protections:

Require law enforcement agencies to implement clear protocols for handling whistleblower letters, including mandatory response timelines and documentation.

Respectfully, the Plaintiff would like to ask of the court as well please, to ask Law Enforcement to acknowledge previous receipt of the Whistleblower document sent and received as evidenced by the Delivery of Certificate documents in the Exhibits.

Legal and Procedural Safeguards

1. Prohibition of Retaliation:
   - Federal, state, or any other entity is prohibited from retaliating against the Plaintiff or child in any form, including indirect or covert means.

2. Legally Binding Whistleblower Protections Immediately In Effect:

   - Comprehensive whistleblower protections, including legally binding guarantees against retaliation, must be enforced immediately.

- Retaliation continues with the latest example being a notice I received from Station Jtown (A Vida-Management Property) stating my lease would not be renewed with no explanation given. Letter was stuck in my door jamb on 12/4/2024 along with a Grinch Who Stole Christmas Coat Drive notice.

- Oversight and real-time updates on all whistleblower cases must be provided to the Plaintiff.

3. Hold Harmless Clause for Providers:

   - Providers, institutions, and individuals offering care must be protected from any negative legal, financial, or reputational consequences related to treatments, medications, or procedures for the Plaintiff and child.

   - These protections must not infringe on the Plaintiff's or child's rights.

Oversight and Accountability

1. Independent Audits:

   - A non-Kentucky-based independent third-party auditor must conduct random reviews of case handling by all implicated entities to ensure compliance and identify systemic failures.

2. Mandated Correction of False Narratives:

   - False narratives in CPS, medical, and other records must be corrected due to identified misconduct and legal violations.

   - Documentation of corrections and destruction of false records must be provided in legally binding evidentiary documentation.

Maximum and fullest extent of the law, both criminally and civilly, to ensure accountability for their actions. This measure is essential not only to deliver justice for the Plaintiff and his child but also to serve as a deterrent against future violations of federal law, constitutional protections, and civil rights. The Plaintiff also reiterates the request for maximum prosecution to the fullest extent of the law to ensure justice is served.

Reservation of Rights

The Plaintiff reserves the right to amend or supplement this filing to address additional claims, evidence, or responsible parties as new information becomes available, via discovery or other means, or circumstances evolve.

CONCLUSION

The Plaintiff seeks this relief not solely for personal redress but also to advocate for systemic accountability and to protect other vulnerable individuals who may face similar injustices. These damages are critical to restoring dignity, health, and stability to the Plaintiff's life and the life of Plaintiff's child, while ensuring that no other families endure the catastrophic harm caused by the Defendants' actions.

CLERK, U.S. DISTRICT COURT
NORTH DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

Plaintiff(s):

John R. Fouts, MBA, and Jackie A. Fouts (aka Jaqquelyn A. Fouts, legal name Jack A. Fouts, "Plaintiff's Child", J.A.F., JAF)

BY FAX

STATEMENT OF VENUE

Subject: Request for Emergency Preliminary Injunction, Emergency Protective Order, and Relocation of Case to the Northern District of California

Plaintiff's Statement of Venue

Plaintiff, John R. Fouts, MBA, and co-plaintiff Jackie A. Fouts (hereafter referred to as "Plaintiff's Child", "Co-Plaintiff" , or "Jackie"), respectfully submit this urgent request for an Emergency Preliminary Inunction and Permanent Protective Order to the United States District Court, Northern District of California to ensure impartial, fair, and just adjudication of constitutional, civil, and federal violations, involving ongoing systemic retaliation and medical neglect. This case involves violations of constitutional rights, federal civil rights laws, criminal law, tort violations, and systemic neglect, with extensive irreparable harm to both myself and my child (Co-Plaintiff). The violations span multiple areas, including housing, healthcare, food security, and procedural fairness, as outlined in the accompanying Emergency Preliminary Injunction and Protective Order. The request for change of venue is being made due to inability have an unbiased and impartial experience. The Western District Court of Kentucky is not suitable because of the following:

Plaintiff's Role as a Whistleblower and Lack of Federal Response:

- Plaintiff, a whistleblower, provided evidence of systemic discrimination and federal rights violations to numerous agencies, including federal and state entities. Despite documented receipt of these submissions, no agency, including local law enforcement, has responded or taken action.

- The lack of response exacerbates the harm to Plaintiff and Jackie, heightening the risks of retaliation, intimidation, and further discrimination

- Despite this ongoing investigation, systemic violations persist, necessitating immediate court intervention to address the urgent and emergent harm to Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child.

Defendants' Knowing and Intentional Violations of Federal Laws:

- Defendants have knowingly and willfully refused to comply with federal laws, including but not limited to the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), Olmstead Act, Rehabilitation Act, Fair Housing Act, and constitutional protections.

  Kentucky's legal and administrative systems have demonstrated systemic bias, retaliation, and noncompliance with federal laws, making it impossible to achieve a fair and impartial hearing within the state. Additionally:

1. Systemic Discrimination and Retaliation:
   - Plaintiff's Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) benefits were wrongfully terminated without justification, depriving Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child of any essential food security.

Motion for Emergency Preliminary Injunction, Protective Order, and Jurisdictional Transfer

- Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child face imminent homelessness due to unlawful lease termination and the refusal of agencies such as HUD and LMHA to provide assistance or answer questions.

2. Environmental Neglect and Health Risks:
   - Mold and mycotoxin exposure in current and past housing have caused severe health consequences, exacerbated by negligence from property management and ownership entities.
3. Violation of Communication Rights:
   - Despite formal requests for written communication due to Plaintiff's PTSD and related conditions, agencies and individuals repeatedly attempt unauthorized phone communication, disregarding ADA accommodations.
   - In addition, there are violations of HIPAA, VAWA, and FCRA as outlined in the EPO and Injunction document. As an example, Commonwealth of KY checked Equifax Workforce Solutions regarding Plaintiff 19 times in 22 months, CMS checked 10 times in 22 months for a total of 29 times in 22 months compared to SSA checking 1 time in the same time-frame. Plaintiff was not notified of these checks, nor of the violation, but discovered when receiving an unexpected denial of SNAP/ESAP completely just before Thanksgiving.
4. Ongoing Physical and Emotional Harm:
   - Plaintiff suffers from Complex Regional Pain Syndrome (CRPS), alongside multiple chronic health conditions. Plaintiff's Child shares overlapping health issues and has been additionally diagnosed with Autism Spectrum Disorder Level II and ADHD, among other conditions. The lack of appropriate care in Kentucky has left both in a severely deteriorated state.
   - Medical Neglect and Malpractice:
     Plaintiff suffers from Complex Regional Pain Syndrome (CRPS/RSD), Small Fiber Neuropathy, Sjogrens Disease, other autoimmune issues, and progressive disease conditions with CRPS triggered by malpractice during a spine surgery 15 years ago. The doctor involved had no malpractice insurance, nor did the hospital, leaving Plaintiff with a small, inadequate settlement after small amount split between 33 participants in class action lawsuit.

- Defendants continue to obstruct access to essential care, worsening Plaintiff's condition including denial of care and treatment for confirmed Long Covid and Microclots and Triple Anticoagulent therapy provided by Dr. Jordan Vaughn in Alabama – the ONLY treating physician with that therapy and these conditions in the United States. Kentucky denies all treatment, all medically necessary with multiple letters from the doctor care, and even with a letter of attestation from the doctor that he is the only treating physician in the United States for that condition under violation of Federal Medicaid Law. This places both Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff in danger and in the path of imminent harm. Plaintiff already has a higher risk than average for stroke and heart attack as can be confirmed via medical records.

5. Failure of Federal Oversight and Protection:
   - Whistleblower submissions to federal agencies, including the DOJ and USDA, have gone unanswered, leaving Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child further endangered by systemic failures.
   - Involuntary Servitude and Exhaustion:
     - Plaintiff has been forced into a state of involuntary servitude by the sheer volume of administrative burdens and systemic obstacles imposed by Defendants. This has caused significant physical, mental, and emotional exhaustion, preventing Plaintiff from addressing other critical needs, and has stolen time that can never be recovered that should have been able to have been spent with Co-Plaintiff (Child).

6. Defendants' actions under Color of Law have included obstructing federally entitled benefits, withdrawing hearing requests without consent, and engaging in procedural misconduct, failed to recognize medical expense deductions incurred by Plaintiff and for Plaintiff's Child by disallowing allowable medical expense deductions when calculating SNAP benefits repeatedly, and more.

7. These deliberate violations have caused significant, permanent, and severe irreparable harm to Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child.

8. Plaintiffs, acting as relators under the False Claims Act, assert that Defendants knowingly engaged in fraudulent practices involving federally funded programs, including but not limited to Medicaid and SNAP. Plaintiffs will provide material evidence of these claims to the United States Department of Justice as required under 31 U.S.C. § 3730(b).

Professional Misconduct and Failure to Advocate

- Lisa Hinkle's Neglect of Professional Obligations
  - Plaintiff alleges that Lisa Hinkle, acting as Plaintiff's legal counsel, consistently failed to uphold her professional responsibilities, resulting in further harm to Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff. Specific instances of misconduct include:
    1. Failure to Define Scope of Representation:
    2. Despite multiple requests, Ms. Hinkle failed to clarify the scope of her representation, leaving Plaintiff uncertain about her role and responsibilities.
- Repeated Communication Failures:
    1. Ms. Hinkle frequently ignored Plaintiff's communications for days to weeks, delaying critical progress in addressing Plaintiff's needs.
    2. She often requested documents and information Plaintiff had already provided, creating unnecessary stress and duplicative effort for a client already experiencing significant mental and physical challenges.
- Imposing Unnecessary Burdens:
    1. Ms. Hinkle required Plaintiff to file an affidavit for medical expense deductions and notified Plaintiff at a hearing to be prepared to detail and provide explanations for each item on a large medical expense spreadsheet with backup, tasks that were both unnecessary and beyond Plaintiff's capacity given his disabilities.
- Exacerbating Emotional Distress:

1. When Plaintiff expressed his inability to attend a hearing due to PTSD and anxiety, Ms. Hinkle responded by calling him a "failure," compounding Plaintiff's mental and emotional distress.

- Alignment with State Interests

1. Ms. Hinkle's conduct aligned more closely with the interests of the state than with her duties as Plaintiff's advocate.
2. Her refusal to address critical issues, such as filing an Emergency Protective Order, and her dismissive attitude toward Plaintiff's valid concerns suggest a conflict of interest or professional neglect.

- Impact on Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff

  - Ms. Hinkle's failures directly contributed to delays in resolving critical issues, exacerbating the systemic harm and retaliation faced by Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff.
  - Her actions undermined Plaintiff's ability to navigate a system already stacked against him, worsening the barriers to justice and access to essential resources.

- Housing and Food Insecurity:

Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff face imminent housing termination without viable relocation options. Plaintiff received letter of lease termination without reason given on December 4, 2024, stuck in the jamb of front door when returning with Co-Plaintiff in afternoon – along with the lease non-renewal agreement was a letter about a Grinchmas event happening at Station Jtown as if some sick and twisted joke about the extreme uncertainty now associated with the Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff in regard to housing security. Food insecurity, worsened by Defendants' denial of federally mandated SNAP medical expense deductions, further threatens their health and stability.

Co-Plaintiff's Safety Concerns

Motion for Emergency Preliminary Injunction, Protective Order, and Jurisdictional Transfer

Co-Plaintiff's safety must be a priority throughout the motion. Integrate statements such as:

Co-Plaintiff has endured significant endangerment due to Defendants' systemic failures, including severe bullying at school, denial of appropriate medical care, and retaliatory actions stemming from false accusations and defamation of Plaintiff. These failures have caused irreparable harm to Co-Plaintiff's mental and physical health.

- Bullying and Education: Co-Plaintiff was previously peed on at school with teachers and administrators doing little to address this. Also in a separate incident during COVID mask mandates, a child took of a mask and spat in Co-Plaintiff's face, and Plaintiff was made out as someone in the wrong due to trying to protect child from such abuses at school at JCPS (Jefferson County Public Schools) at Bloom Elementary in Louisville, KY where Principal is Dr. Jack Jacobs, Administrator, Jessica Whitmer, Fifth Grade Teachers, Jonathan Kempf, Crystal Walts-Paulin, and Jamie-Craven, along with the Superintendent's Office, and Dr. Marty Pollio acting in his official capacity as Superintendent of JCPS are all implicated in allowing bullying to occur and causing permanent and lasting traums for Co-Plaintiff.
- Medical Neglect and Malpractice: Medical neglect and malpractice have affected both Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff at an alarmingly high rate. Complex health conditions are hard enough to contend with. Records have been falsified by physicians at Norton Healthcare, Inc., and at Baptist Health in Louisville, including a physician at Norton Children's Psychiatric ER that Co-Plaintiff never even saw, writing a RX for a medication for a condition that Co-Plaintiff was not ever diagnosed with. Depakote was the name of the medication, and it has severe health consequences for some.
    - Plaintiff refused to administer this medication to Co-Plaintiff, and later found out that this was marked as a demerit against Plaintiff after discovering there had been a 2 years long CPS investigation opened against Plaintiff without cause or substantiation.
    - The CPS report is full of false narratives, false statements, false allegations about Plaintiff making up Co-Plaintiff's medical conditions when there is medical objective evidence and testing confirming Co-Plaintiff's diagnoses. Plaintiff has not been allowed to amend, correct, add an addendum, or in any way refute the information in the report as it was closed without substantiation, however, some authorities and other special groups remain with access to the file. Plaintiff requests immediate termination of falsified records, and false narratives. Dr. Sheridan Langford, one of Co-Plaintiff's former physicians, was one of the members who advocated for a CPS case it would appear from the documentation. Dr. Langford, because she is unfamiliar with mycotoxin illness, dismissed Co-Plaintiff and Plaintiff and Plaintiff was even listed as Munchausens by Proxy which is a very damaging statement when it is a completely false statement.

  - Dr. Melissa Knuckles in Dermatology, also accused Plaintiff of Munchausen's by stating things like Plaintiff does not have Small Fiber Neuropathy, when, again, there is objective medical test data that is gold standard showing Dr. Knuckles was wrong. Plaintiff reported to the Kentucky Medical Licensure Board, but they would take no action.

- Personal Safety Concerns: Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff both have valid concerns for our immediate safety. Plaintiff has procedures such as infusions where product is not seen prior to being injected through IV into Plaintiff's body. Plaintiff is very vulnerable in terms of safety and so is Co-Plaintiff due to nature of the entire situation.
- Advocacy Challenges: Plaintiff has exhausted all avenues for obtaining advocacy assistance, both locally and nationally. Despite these efforts, no organization has provided the comprehensive support necessary to address the systemic abuse and neglect faced by Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff.

Urgency of Relief

Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child are at immediate risk of further harm due to the lack of stable housing, adequate food access, and medical care. Plaintiff respectfully requests:

Immediate Emergency Protective Order and Injunction Request

Motion for Emergency Preliminary Injunction, Protective Order, and Jurisdictional Transfer

- Immediate issuance of an Emergency Protective Order (EPO) to halt ongoing attacks and safeguard Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child.
    - Comprehensive protection for Plaintiff, Co-Plaintiff, Plaintiff's ex-wife, and extended family members against further retaliation, harassment, or harm.
    - Mandated protection against all Defendants and affiliates.
- Full access to medical care, laboratory testing, and treatment, both within and outside Kentucky, at no cost, and as outlined more fully in the included Injunction / Protective Order document..
- Court-authorized funding to retain qualified attorneys for representation in this case and related matters.
- Approval of emergency monetary relief to address immediate needs, including housing relocation, food, and medical expenses, legal fees, or associated fees with the case, travel compensation and more.
    - Initial compensatory relief of $10M–$50M or more if deemed appropriate by the Court to address immediate needs, with final damages estimated at $100M–$500M, or as deemed appropriate by the Court.
- Detailed information is available in the Injunction and EPO document accompanying this motion document for more complete areas of relief.

Access to Medical Care Without Restriction or Retaliation:

- Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court ensure that all treatments, therapies, laboratory testing, and associated care for both Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff are covered at 100%, without exception, regardless of location.
- Should current insurance providers or funding mechanisms fail to meet these requirements, as has been the case in an ongoing repetitive pattern of violation of federal law, Plaintiff requests that the Defendants or a designated entity, with court mandatory oversight, be ordered to cover all uncovered expenses promptly to prevent further severe harm and/or ANY delay in care.

The definition of promptly must be defined, and must be reasonable pertaining to the Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child (Co-Plaintiff) needs. The Plaintiff would like to ask the court to mandate a directive stating reimbursement must occur directly within 48 hours in this case.

- Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff must have the ability to order their own laboratory testing, as detailed in the Emergency Injunction and Protective Order document, without reliance on gatekeepers who refuse care, and as outlined and specified at a detailed level in the Injunction and Protective Order document.

- Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff also must be able to see specialists associated with related medical conditions or new symptomology without resistance from insurance, gatekeeping physicians, or other obstacles, hurdles or restriction. Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff must be able to access care that they need.

- Plaintiff requires access to all medically relevant treatments as noted by Plaintiff with medical literature backup even if from research or academic publications or researchers, as patient has been trapped in a vicious cycle not able to get care necessary for treatment, including Intravenous Immunoglobulin (IVIG), and which can cost $41,796 per month if needed 4 to 5 times per month per AmeriPharma Specialty Care (ameripharmaspecialtycare.com/ivig/cost-of-ivig-treatment/).

- Average cost for infusion, is noted as presently $9,720 per infusion, amounting to millions of dollars over a lifetime. As an example, if Plaintiff lives 10 more years, and commences weekly IVIG once more, the cost could be around $10k * 52 weeks = $520,000 per year or higher as costs are always rising. 10 years would result in $5,520,000.00 in this example. Plaintiff wishes to emphasize that it was not a choice to become ill and deal with complex chronic health challenges for him or for Co-Plaintiff.

- The state has provided false information on IVIG, coverage in writing, repeatedly, further obstructing access to critical care on many occasions. Obstruction to Critical Care and Obstruction of Justice has been common practice in Kentucky with regard to the Defendants' behavior and treatment of Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff.

- Plaintiff seeks the Court's assistance because other avenues of resolution have been exhausted, and Defendants continue to engage in unlawful and harmful acts without accountability nor consequence.

Motion for Emergency Preliminary Injunction, Protective Order, and Jurisdictional Transfer

Assertion of Parental Duty To Protect Co-Plaintiff From Hostile Environment Or Unnecessary Scrutiny

- Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court shield Co-Plaintiff, a transgender minor with autism spectrum disorder (Level II) and significant mental health challenges, from any requirement to testify or appear in court. Co-Plaintiff's well-being and safety must be prioritized to avoid undue emotional distress or further harm.
- Plaintiff asserts his duty as a parent to protect Co-Plaintiff from any exposure to hostile environments or unnecessary scrutiny.

Proximity to Danger and Insecurity:

- Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff reside in a dangerous area where a recent murder occurred approximately a few hundred feet from their home. This highlights the ongoing risks to their safety and underscores the need for immediate relocation assistance to a secure environment.
- The Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff both heard the shots that led to the death of the victim and injury of another, but did not see anything, but leading to lasting trauma and memory of event each time they approach their current home.

Impact of Systemic Failures and Broader Context:

- The Plaintiff resides in Louisville, Kentucky, a city with a documented history of systemic issues, including the tragic Breonna Taylor case and the recent DOJ findings of mental health discrimination within the city.
- These examples illustrate the broader context of discrimination and neglect that Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff have experienced.

Request Respectfully the Court To Facilitate Immediate Access to Counsel

- Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court authorize and facilitate immediate access to legal counsel with expertise in constitutional law, civil rights violations, disability rights, medical malpractice, defamation of character, Color of Law and Whistleblower claims, along with relevant criminal violations.
- Plaintiff seeks attorneys capable of managing the scope and complexity of this case to ensure fair and effective representation for both Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff.

- Plaintiff respectfully urges this Court to recognize the urgency of this case and its profound impact on both Plaintiff and Co-Plaintiff, whose health, safety, and futures are at risk. The systemic failures outlined in this filing must not only be corrected for their sake but to set a precedent that ensures no one else endures such harm.

ADA Accommodation Request for Written Communication

Plaintiff respectfully requests that all communications from the Court and Defendants be conducted in writing to accommodate Plaintiff's disabilities. This request is made pursuant to the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) and is critical for the following reasons:

1. Clarity and Accessibility: Written communication ensures accuracy and provides a reliable reference for Plaintiff, who experiences severe cognitive and physical fatigue from Long Covid with Microclots and Chronic Fatigue Syndrome along with Brain Atrophy Advanced for age and gender of Plaintiff and other memory related issues.
2. Time to Process Information: Plaintiff requires sufficient time to review and respond to correspondence due to disabilities, including Complex PTSD and severe chronic pain from Complex Regional Pain Syndrome (CRPS) also known as Reflex Sympathetic Dystrophy (RSD) and Small Fiber Neuropathy among many others.
3. Permissible Communication Methods: Plaintiff requests all communication be conducted via the following methods due to disabilities protected under the ADA:
    - Mail (Registered Certified Mail)
    - Fax (Secure Fax)
    - Secure email
    - Cloud-based services or other secure electronic means also meeting security requirements.

Motion for Emergency Preliminary Injunction, Protective Order, and Jurisdictional Transfer

Plaintiff respectfully requests the Court to mandate these accommodations with a written directive issued to all Defendants and ensure compliance from all parties to minimize additional stress and confusion.

Related Federal Actions and Investigations

Plaintiff's case is currently under formal federal investigation by the Office for Civil Rights (OCR) of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) for violations of the Olmstead Act. This investigation, titled:

OCR No. 24-585169

"Fouts vs. Kentucky HCBS-A&D Medicaid Waivers Program Case ", is being conducted under the oversight of Investigators James Toews and Amelia Colomb. Plaintiff was notified of Amelia Colomb replacing Avni Jagarlapudi this week.

While this investigation addresses critical violations related to community integration and disability rights, it is narrowly focused on the *Olmstead Act and does not address broader systemic issues, such as:

- Past, and On-Going Denial of Medically Necessary Services: Systemic failures by state agencies to provide appropriate care for Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child, resulting in severe and permanent irreparable harm.
- Past, and On-Going Housing and Food Insecurity: Retaliatory actions, including SNAP termination and lease terminations, exacerbated by discriminatory practices by HUD, LMHA, and state agencies, violations associated with Color of Law Doctrine, Section 1915(c) of the Social Security Act, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, and others both listed and unlisted. The Plaintiff reserves the right to amend or add to the listing after receiving proper legal counsel guidance.
- Constitutional Violations: Infringements of Plaintiff's and Plaintiff's Child's First, Fourth, Fifth, Eighth, Ninth, Thirteenth, and Fourteenth Amendment rights.

The ongoing federal investigation underscores the credibility of Plaintiff's claims and highlights the necessity for comprehensive judicial intervention to address the full scope of systemic failures.

Motion for Emergency Preliminary Injunction, Protective Order, and Jurisdictional Transfer

Plaintiff respectfully requests the Court to take judicial notice of this investigation as evidence of the underlying discrimination, neglect, and violations cited herein.

Conspiracy and RICO Allegations

Plaintiff alleges that Defendants, including individuals, agencies, and entities acting in their official capacities, have engaged in a coordinated conspiracy and pattern of racketeering activity in violation of federal laws, including the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO). These actions include, but are not limited to:

1. Systemic Retaliation and Obstruction:
    - Termination of SNAP benefits without justification, and continuously failing willfully endangering Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child
    - Unexpected Lease terminations and failure to address unsafe housing conditions repeatedly.
    - Repeated denial of medically necessary care and access to testing.
2. Falsification of Records:
    - Creation of false CPS reports to discredit Plaintiff and obstruct medical care for Plaintiff's Child.
    - Tampering with evidence and misrepresenting events to deny federally protected rights.
3. Fraudulent Use of Federal Funds:
    - Misallocation of Medicaid, SNAP, and housing assistance funds.
    - Obstruction of access to these benefits through discriminatory practices and systemic negligence.
4. Pattern of Racketeering Activity:
    - Multiple instances of fraud, retaliation, and obstruction conducted over several years, demonstrating a coordinated effort to harm Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child.

Motion for Emergency Preliminary Injunction, Protective Order, and Jurisdictional Transfer

Plaintiff respectfully requests the Court to investigate these allegations under both conspiracy statutes and RICO provisions and hold all parties accountable to the fullest extent of the law, including criminal prosecution where applicable.

- Mandate that all Defendants and affiliates cease any form of contact, harassment, or retaliation against these protected parties.
- Enforce criminal prosecution for violations of the EPO to the fullest extent of the law.

Qui Tam (Whistleblower) Allegations

Plaintiff has filed whistleblower claims under the False Claims Act (FCA), asserting systemic fraud and misuse of federal funds by multiple Defendants. These claims include, but are not limited to:

- The wrongful diversion and misuse of federal Medicaid, SNAP, and housing assistance funds.
- False reporting or failure to comply with federal requirements for programs intended to serve individuals with disabilities and low-income families.

As a qui tam relator, Plaintiff brings these allegations in the public interest, seeking accountability and redress for violations that have deprived Plaintiff, Plaintiff's Child, and similarly situated individuals of their federally protected rights and benefits.

While this motion does not encompass the full qui tam filing, these allegations further substantiate the need for the Court's immediate intervention. Plaintiff respectfully requests this Court to take judicial notice of the related claims and ensure any federal inquiries incorporate these findings as part of broader systemic accountability.

Compensatory and Punitive Damages

Initial damages of $10M to $50M to help with immediate needs as outlined above or more of the Court deems appropriate.

This case seeks $100M to $500M or more, as deemed appropriate by the Court, in compensatory and punitive damages.

Motion for Emergency Preliminary Injunction, Protective Order, and Jurisdictional Transfer

These damages reflect the significant harm and trauma endured by Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child, the systemic failures at play, and the need to deter similar actions in the future.

Plaintiff would also like to express that Plaintiff wishes the court to prosecute Defendants to the fullest extent of the law for all violations.

Right to Amend or Add

Plaintiff respectfully reserves the right to amend or supplement this filing to include additional defendants, claims, or relief requests as necessary based on the ongoing discovery of information.

Conclusion

Plaintiff, John R. Fouts, MBA, and Plaintiff's child respectfully request that this case remain in the Northern District of California to ensure impartial adjudication of civil, criminal, tort, and constitutional rights violations, as well as systemic neglect, malicious intent, willful endangerment, and retaliation for whistleblower activities. Details of these claims are outlined in the Emergency Preliminary Injunction and Permanent Protective Order, submitted concurrently.

This case represents an urgent and compelling need for the Court's intervention to prevent further harm and ensure justice for both Plaintiff and Plaintiff's Child. The systemic failures and violations documented herein and in the accompanying filings warrant swift action and maximum accountability for all Defendants.

Plaintiff has dedicated his life to helping others, both professionally and personally. His early career as a Retail Store Manager at Bridgepointe, Goodwill, and Easter Seals was focused on fostering opportunities for individuals in need. Later, as Office Manager for the American Red Cross, Plaintiff oversaw Health, Volunteer, and Youth Services, managing critical programs such as first aid and CPR certification, the CNA training program, and volunteer development. At Mercer HR Consulting, Plaintiff's contributions to the Business Process Development Team included writing innovative, robust code that served the organization for over a decade—an extraordinary achievement in the technology industry.

Motion for Emergency Preliminary Injunction, Protective Order, and Jurisdictional Transfer

Driven by his entrepreneurial spirit, Plaintiff founded a vineyard and winery, creating local jobs, attracting tourism dollars, and reinvesting in global communities by purchasing livestock through WorldVision to support families in developing nations.

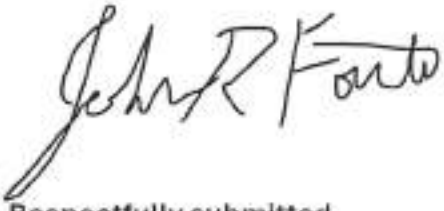
Even as illness necessitated reinvention, Plaintiff continued to focus on supporting others. He founded SFNLife.org and the associated YouTube channel, @sfn-life, to provide resources and encouragement to individuals battling similar complex health conditions. When engaging in the resale trade, Plaintiff donated 10% of eBay sales to charities like the Sjögren's Foundation and the Power of Pain Foundation, furthering his mission of making a positive impact.

Plaintiff has always sought to prevent suffering and to contribute meaningfully to his community and beyond. However, the systemic discrimination, involuntary servitude, and neglect inflicted by Defendants have left Plaintiff unable to fully carry out this purpose. This filing represents Plaintiff's continued effort to fight not just for himself and Co-Plaintiff but for all individuals facing similar injustices.

Plaintiff has endured years of systemic abuse, retaliation, and involuntary servitude, which have left him physically, mentally, and emotionally depleted. Despite these challenges, Plaintiff continues to try to fight for the safety, health, and dignity of Co-Plaintiff. Plaintiff respectfully requests the Court's understanding and support in addressing these urgent matters, and stands ready to provide additional information as required and as physically and mentally able.

Plaintiff is respectfully requesting, from the honorable Northern District Court of California, immediately effective (within 24 hours from time of submission),Issue and enforcement of Emergency Preliminary Injunction and Permanent Protective Order.

Date: December 12, 2024



Respectfully submitted,

John R. Fouts, MBA

Re: Urgent Filing Emergency Preliminary Injunction & Protective and Restraining Orders

Case Title: John R. Fouts, MBA, and Jackie Fouts v. Commonwealth of Kentucky, et al.

Dear Clerk of Court,

I am submitting this filing to initiate an urgent civil case in the United States District Court for the Northern District of California. This case represents not only an effort to protect my rights and those of my child but also an urgent call to address broader systemic violations that affect millions of vulnerable individuals.

There are many days when I feel like I am barely holding on to my life, yet I am driven to stand up against these injustices. I feel compelled to represent those who, like myself, have no resources or safety nets—particularly disabled individuals under the age of 65 and those suffering from misunderstood or poorly understood complex chronic illnesses. This includes my brothers and sisters facing conditions such as Long COVID with microclots, Myalgic Encephalomyelitis/Chronic Fatigue Syndrome (CFS/ME), Small Fiber Neuropathy

(a painfully debilitating condition often described as "burning alive"), Post-Viral Illness Syndromes, Post-Lyme Disease Syndrome, and others.

Our rights must stand, and our government must uphold them. I believe in the power of good over evil, right over wrong, and justice over injustice. Yet, my experiences with various authorities and agencies receiving federal funding to assist vulnerable populations have not reflected these ideals or the values upon which this country was built.

The urgency of this filing cannot be overstated. Without immediate court intervention through an emergency injunction, permanent protective order, and restraining order, severe and irreparable harm will continue to affect not only my family but also set a precedent for the diminishment of rights for others.

This is an opportunity for the court to uphold justice, protect the most vulnerable, and steer the course in a new direction—mitigating harm already inflicted and preventing future harm from escalating.

Nature of the Emergency

The situation I face is urgent and requires immediate attention due to:

1. Ongoing Irreparable Harm:
   - Severe and permanent harm has already occurred, including [briefly summarize key harms here, e.g., denial of housing stability, medical care, or violations of fundamental rights].
   - Without the court's intervention, this harm will continue and worsen.
2. Threats to Life, Safety, and Rights:
   - The physical, emotional, and financial toll has left me and my child in a precarious situation, with no other recourse but to seek this court's protection.
   - I am attempting to represent the countless others who face similar abuses but lack the resources or ability to advocate for themselves.
3. Systemic Implications:
   - This case represents a broader pattern of systemic injustice, where vulnerable populations—especially those with disabilities and complex medical conditions—are left without support or recourse.

Cover: Urgent Filing Emergency Preliminary Injunction & Protective and Restraining Orders - A2

Requested Relief

I respectfully request that the court:

1. Grant the Motion for Emergency Preliminary Injunction:
   - To prevent immediate and irreparable harm to myself, my child, and others similarly situated.

2. Issue a Permanent Protective Order and Restraining Order:
   - To uphold the laws of the land and ensure that the rights of myself and my child are protected from further violations.

3. Expedite the Court's Review:
   - Given the urgency and nature of this filing, I request expedited consideration and relief to address the immediate harm and prevent further damages.

Conclusion

I am standing before this court not only to protect myself and my child but to ensure that others who lack resources, safety nets, and support do not endure similar injustices. This case is an opportunity for the court to uphold justice, safeguard the rights of vulnerable individuals, and reaffirm the principles of fairness and equity upon which this nation was founded.

Thank you for your time and immediate attention to this urgent matter. I respectfully await the court's intervention and guidance.

Sincerely,

John R. Fouts, MBA

APPLICATION TO PROCEED IN DISTRICT COURT WITHOUT PREPAYING FEES OR COSTS
(Short Form)

I am a plaintiff or petitioner in this case and declare that I am unable to pay the costs of these proceedings and that I am entitled to the relief requested.

In support of this application, I answer the following questions under penalty of perjury.

1. If incarcerated. I am being held at: NA - Not Applicable .

2. If not incarcerated. If I am employed, my employer's name and address are:

NA - Disabled -- I urgently request a court hearing within 24–48 hours due to severe housing, healthcare, and food security challenges. My lease is not being renewed in retaliation for requesting reasonable accommodations, and Medicaid refuses to cover critical medical expenses. Immediate court intervention is need to prevent irreparable harm.

My gross pay or wages are: $ 0.00 , and my take-home pay or wages are: $ 0.00 per (specify pay period) NA - Not Applicable .

3. Other Income. In the past 12 months, I have received income from the following sources (check all that apply):

(a) Business, profession, or other self-employment	☐ Yes	☑ No
(b) Rent payments, interest, or dividends	☐ Yes	☑ No
(c) Pension, annuity, or life insurance payments	☐ Yes	☑ No
(d) Disability, or worker's compensation payments	☑ Yes	☐ No
(e) Gifts, or inheritances	☐ Yes	☑ No
(f) Any other sources	☑ Yes	☐ No

If you answered "Yes" to any question above, describe below or on separate pages each source of money and state the amount that you received and what you expect to receive in the future.

John R. Fouts SSDI - ($2014 began April 2024, reduced to $1,839 in November 2024 due to Medicare premium).
J.A.F. (Child) - ($1007 per month began in April 2024).
Lump Sum one time backpay payment $22,386 (rec'd May 2024 - retroactive to June 30, 2022 date of disability onset)
One time SSI payment for self $1374 April 2024
One time grant from RSDSA ($500) for support related to Complex Regional Pain Syndrome
KTAP: small monthly payments [2023' - exact amounts unavailable but can be provided if required. SSI for child $943 prior to SSDI approval and before that last year was $771. $500 in Feb and $300 in March were withdrawals from ABLE accounts. $100 in May was repayment from Ex-Wife. SNAP amounts variable but most were $13 per month for me and JAF and 2 or 3 were $41. One I believe was $125 (that was related to Summerr-EBT for my child). My dad pays for my $275/mo storage unit. My mom pays $60 - $80 variably for my monthly phone bill.

4. Amount of money that I have in cash or in a checking or savings account: $ 646.00 .

5. Any automobile, real estate, stock, bond, security, trust, jewelry, art work, or other financial instrument or thing of value that I own, including any item of value held in someone else's name (describe the property and its approximate value):

I took part of lump sum from one time payment of backpay for SSDI and invested it in 2 accounts - one for me and one for J.A.F. both on Coinbase. The account I set up for me has about $10400 in it as of today (which is a gain of around 70%). The account I set up for Jackie has around $2500 in it (and has had a gain of about 50%). I have a GroundFloor investment account that has about $150 in it. My vehicle is a 2006 Honda CR-V EX Sport Model with about 226,000 miles on it and I'm afraid has little value. KBB states it may be worth about $2500 but I think I would have a very hard time getting that - the car has some major problems including an AC system that has had to be replaced 3 times in 5 years and that is a very expensive item ($1500 approximately or more - up to $2500) in quotes. So little to no value for the vehicle.

6. Any housing, transportation, utilities, or loan payments, or other regular monthly expenses (describe and provide the amount of the monthly expense):

Rent and community fees range from $200 to $250 monthly with a housing choice voucher. Utilities average $100 to $275. Medical expenses, often uncovered by Medicaid, are around $1,150 monthly. Food costs range from $1,200 to $1,800 due to medically necessary gluten-free and non-toxic diets. Gas is $200 to $350, car maintenance $50 to $100, car insurance $95, and renters insurance $13 monthly. Life insurance is $14.50, vision/dental plans $94.45, and laptop payments $200 monthly. Printer ink, fax service, supplies, and administrative equipment add $200 monthly. My father helps pay for a storage unit at around $275 per month, and my mother pays for my phone bill which is around $60 to $80 per month and is somewhat variable.

7. Names (or, if under 18, initials only) of all persons who are dependent on me for support, my relationship with each person, and how much I contribute to their support:

Minor's Initials: J.A.F.
Relationship: Daughter (transgender M2F - Same Initials J.A.F.)
Contribution to Support: I contribute significantly to J.A.F.'s support, covering a majority of her medical, dietary, and daily living expenses, along with school needs, supplies, which far exceed her portion of SSDI and any other limited resources. While we have a 50/50 split custody agreement on paper, I am the primary caregiver and handle most of her needs, including her medical treatments and specialized dietary requirements by vast overwhelming majority.

8. Any debts or financial obligations (describe the amounts owed and to whom they are payable):

Other Debts Owed:
Laptop financing: Approximately $200 monthly. Credit card: Approximately $500. Medical expenses: Approximately $1,150 per month (unreimbursed). Monthly rent, utilities, and other bills as detailed earlier. Urgent Request for Court Hearing: I urgently request a court hearing due to immediate and severe challenges with housing, healthcare, and food security. My current landlord has issued a non-renewal of my lease without explanation, which I believe is retaliation for requesting basic lease obligations to be met. This places me and my child, who requires specialized care, at imminent risk of losing stable housing. Combined with ongoing Medicaid refusals to cover necessary medical expenses and food insecurity due to state mismanagement of SNAP benefits, this situation requires immediate attn to prevent irrepair. harm

Declaration: I declare under penalty of perjury that the above information is true and understand that a false statement may result in a dismissal of my claims.

Jack Update - This time I actually am able to give you some time to read this!

John Fouts <fouts.john@gmail.com> Mon, Oct 4, 2021 at 12:20 AM
To: "Sanchez, Jamie M." <jamie.sanchez@jefferson.kyschools.us>

Ms. Sanchez,

I am worried about Jack - a lot. Last Friday when I picked him up - he was extremely dysregulated - more than I have ever seen him. So much that I almost took him to the crisis center over the weekend - not this weekend - when I dropped him off at his mom's - but the last one - after I picked him up after he had been with his mom for a week.

I took him camping instead - which was very challenging physically for me - but it helped him to be in nature, and I ALWAYS want what is best for Jack no matter what - and he knows that.

He was behaving in a way similar to how Anna would behave when she was having a mental BPD crisis. I had not ever seen him like that....she was my ex gf that ended up committing suicide.

Jack has also been worrying me saying things like he never feels like he does a good job, and that he doesn't care if he lives, and things along those lines. It is deeply concerning to me. When I ask him why, he says he does not know why, but I told him that he may not want to talk about it, and may not fully know why, but that only he knows his own thoughts and that I'd like it if he would share them so I could help him better.

When I asked him what was wrong, he basically said he didn't want to talk about it. I could tell he was not very well rested at all from the week - he had big purple areas from tiredness and allergies under his eyes....he does not ever get enough rest over there seemingly. I know it is because it is hard to get everything squeezed in during the night hours - but Jack's rest needs to be priority number one for more than one reason - it can make neuropathy symptoms much worse and lead to further depression and anxiety which leads to more sleep problems which leads to making pain worse vicious cycle.

When we got to the Gorge, where I took him, because it is his favorite place he has ever been, I really needed his help - but he would not listen to anything - and was screaming about taking a step - but I had to get the tent set up and stuff like that - and I got frustrated and told him I really needed his help or we might have to just drive home. I was far too tired to drive home then, but I really felt like we might have to do that if he did not stop screaming - well - of course - that just made things worse - and then I felt awful for saying that.

I wrote to 7 County Svcs over the weekend since I could not call them to schedule an appointment since it was not their normal business hours. I wrote:

"I am trying to establish therapy for my son, Jack A .Fouts - same address as my address listed above. I got Jack set up for in-school therapy last year, and his therapist is really great. The only thing is, she is very limited in ways she can help because she must only talk about school related topics with Jack. She suggested that outside of school therapy either weekly or every other week would be great to help Jack be able to hit on the rest of the areas in life in which he may need a little therapy help.

I am divorced. After 13 years of marriage (and after the latter part of many of those years - me [Jack's dad], developing chronic health problems, Jack's mother decided she wanted to divorce me). Really, all-in-all, I feel much better off not being around a woman who did not love me and did not treat me very well (for years).

Jack, I do not think, has fully processed all of that. Separation in 2017, divorce final in 2018.... Jack is also now learning that his mother does not treat him (in ways that I believe a mother should treat her son - or in ways he thinks a mother should treat her son). Around Jack, I try to remain very neutral and Switzerland-like, unless there is something major that happens - like recently I've learned she has been gaslighting him quite a bit.... I can always tell when something has happened - but cannot always get him to talk to me about it. I realize this is normal (the not always being willing to talk about it part)....but things have been escalating and I am not sure how best to help Jack outside of trying to get him into therapy STAT. I have actually been trying for months, but therapists have extensive wait lists, do not see children, do not take Caresource (our insurance), or don't return calls or emails for appointments - so it has been a challenge in and of itself just to get something scheduled.

Jack is a wonderful, caring, sensitive, kind, empathetic, energetic kid. There have been many changes in the last few years - especially since COVID.....Jack, right after mastering his multiplication tables, in 3rd grade, had to not go back to school for the rest of his 3rd grade year due to COVID, and for all of his 4th grade year he did NTI. I know teachers tried their hardest, but a solid brunt of the work for helping kids learn was placed upon parents who were trying to work full time. My ex-wife will not take Jack to doctors appointments, uses my parents as her babysitters - even for her date nights, does not listen to Jack when he talks to her even if Jack begs her - it is right back down to facebook on her phone or whatever app, she is uninvolved with his school activities in major part as well. I have taken care of Jack's 504 plan every year - she doesn't even want to look at it generally.

When Jack was a younger child, he was bullied by a teacher...yes a teacher...who told him ... in front of the class ... when he was in Kindergarten....that Jack was the reason for all the problems the class had....when I went in to meet with the Principal at his old school....they said....well....the teacher has been here for 28 years....doesn't deny she said that.....but she has tenure here....so we cannot really do anything about it....I about bit my tongue off trying to hold in words.... they told me that year....that Jack could be switched to a different classroom away from all the people he knew for the last 3 weeks of that school year if I wanted, but that was all they would offer. At that time, I thought Jack was going to still be at that school for I did not know how long, and fearing some kind of retaliation that would impact Jack, I decided to tough it out with him....unfortunately, he was also then bullied on the bus by a kid who kept damaging his property - backpack, papers, toys, and hurting Jack, and the bus monitor would not do anything about it....I again had to try to resolve the situation politically....the solution ended up being good in that case as the counselor at that school helped me find a 5th grade buddy for Jack to sit next to in Kindergarten and 1st Grade (first part of first grade year)....

Back to third grade...at the end of third grade, Jack was borderline about being in the gifted and talented program....now, however, he is really struggling - as I am sure many children are - to get back on track with learning.

So this year, Jack came out very upset from school several days in a row, and I knew something was wrong - finally I got him to tell me some of the things - and he is being bullied again - this time by one of his previous good friends who started treating him differently, and has now started recruiting other kids to bully Jack.

When Jack told me, I immediately went to the school (this is not the same school as the old school) with the concerns. I talked to his 3 teachers who have him for big parts of 5th grade. I talked to the school therapist that he sees, and the school administrators, and Jack said he would talk to them more openly if I went to a meeting with him - so this week coming up - one morning - I have a meeting with all of the afore-mentioned with Jack to be by his side and show him he has support and my solidarity. His mother won't be coming to the meeting.

In addition to the bullying, the situation Jack has going on with his mom, he also is struggling with complex medical illness. He has had Gastroparesis since birth (dx at 3 years old)....he later got an adhd diagnosis, and about 8 months ago, he started developing migraines, sudden onset fatigue, bone-breaking type pain, burning foot pain, and inability to wear shoes for long periods of time and socks due to burning pain. I understood what I was seeing because I suffer from small fiber neuropathy - thank goodness I knew though...I personally went for years before I was officially diagnosed.....the cause is still unknown for both Jack and for me.

I am sure Jack will want to talk about things regarding he and I as well as the above. The last time I picked him up from school on a Friday, not this past Friday, but the one before, he was totally dysregulated. I haven't quite seen him so far off in a bad place emotionally. I need him to be able to get the help he needs. He said he felt like he didn't matter, and that he wasn't valuable at all, and he said he felt he wasn't worth anything. I kept asking him if there was anything I could do differently that would help him feel better, and he said he didn't know....and then he talked more about the bullying and about situations with his mom. We have 50/50 custody. He is with me one week, then with her the next. I pick him up every day from school, even during her weeks, and then when she gets off work, she picks him up from my house on her weeks. So he is with me about 1.5 hours each day on her weeks due to that time overlap. I treasure all the time I get to spend with him.

How soon can we get him in to see someone to talk to? If there are any therapists on board that understand chronic pain or invisible illness that would be ideal for Jack.

Jack's date of birth is 4/26/2011. The therapy request I am putting in is for him not for me. I recently started seeing another therapist myself."

So Jack called me tonight - Sunday night - and when I answered the phone all I heard was his mom pretty loudly and frustratedly semi-yelling saying that he needs to not just grab her phone to call me. Jack was too scared to talk for fear of her yelling at him further. They had me on speaker. I asked if Jack could call me back in a minute after they talked about the phone situation, and she said no - if Jack wants to talk - he needs to talk right now. I then said can Jack take the phone in the other room to talk to me - I didn't hear an answer but then Jack said that he was in the other room and that his mom said it was okay.

I told him that he needed to listen to his mom about not grabbing the phone, I told him I know it is hard to listen when someone is yelling at you. He said that she had been yelling at him a lot this weekend, and that has been making it harder for him. He said he used his words and told her that it would be a lot easier for him to do things if she was not yelling at him as much. I told him that he did the right thing, and that it takes time for peoples' behaviors to change. I told him goodnight and to have happy dreams and that I would see him tomorrow after school.

I think the bullying compounded with the home situation is especially making it a challenge right now for Jack. I can only control what happens here - and I know that I make mistakes too with Jack - but I try to address the mistakes that I make with him. I tried to talk to his mom with him when I dropped him off about some things for him - but she would only talk about herself - she would not hear anything. You may want to ask Jack if he believes it is affecting his school performance so you can delve more into that area - if he will talk about it. Hopefully I will get something set up with 7 County Svcs tomorrow too.

Thanks for alerting Ms. Sanchez. I had planned to already talk to her but you saved me a step.

I cannot get him to do anything I ask when he is like that...so his defiance at times blocks communication.

I think it has to do with grief right now, but this week has been particularly challenging in some ways.

In other ways, he has shown growth by leaps and bounds. As an example, he created his own youtube channel and is featuring some of his minecraft creations.

He also has been creating his own variations of things like olive oil and natural items to try to help my Neuropathy. So his sweetness has brought tears to my eyes this week too. I love Jack very much, and could not ask for a better kid. I just do not know how to help him as much as I feel like he needs sometimes. That is where I am thinking therapy will really help.

Thanks for helping out. I also think the nti is hard for all the kids.

John

Hi John,

Thank you for this info, it sure is helpful to get a back story and understand a bit about what you all are working on. It suns like it can get really tough and you also are going through your own process. I know Jack knows you are there and love him, sometimes frustrations show up the most with people who we are closest to. It sounds like honing in on noticing frustrations and finding ways to articulate or cope is a good focus tomorrow. Also, maybe you and I can talk about bit more about some strategies to help with increasing cooperative behavior. I have some ideas and can send some links to suggestions as well.
Look forward to talking tomorrow!

Take care,
Jamie

Yes that would be great. I did want to mention this....

I think I told you before that Jack (years ago)...used to start hitting his head against the wall when he would get upset....

Well...I had to get on him a number of times today and ask him not to be so disrespectful toward me. It is like he does not hear me. Two minutes after I tell him not to act in a certain way, he does the same thing. Tonight he was arguing with me about a bath mat at one point. I told him to get in the shower and I would get it after he got in. He kept telling me no that he would not get in the shower until I got the bath mat - all day long it was things like that. I do pick and choose my battles, but I have learned with Jack, that if you let an inch slip, a mile is gone....

He says he does not treat his mother in the ways he treats me. I ask him why he treats me without respect at times, and he says he does not know or just grunts. Tonight, when after the bath mat incident I told him I needed him to do what I ask when I ask instead of arguing with me, and that I am the parent and he is the child, he started hitting his head on his hand really hard. I told him it was okay to feel upset but not to try to hurt himself like that. I have not seen that behavior for a couple of years.

Earlier in the day, he asked me if I thought that he was dealing with grief still. I told him that he probably was, but that only he would know for sure if he was having feelings that were normal for him, or feelings that were different and felt like they were not his normal feelings.

Anyway - I wanted to give you some background - and this morning - he had asked he really was liking talking to you - not in those words - I cannot remember his exact words - but he was concerned that he might not get to talk to you - so Thursday at 1pm is great. That is perfect. Thanks for being accommodating.

I have not set up the outside therapy yet, but do plan to do so.

Ms. Sanchez,

Hope you are having a good week. I did not know that there was no school this Friday until Ms. Hamilton mentioned it during one of Jack's sessions this morning.

Jack seemed concerned that he might not be able to speak with you this week. Is there any way that you could meet with him on a different day prior to Friday?

Please let me know.

He must be gaining a benefit already from talking to you because after we learned about no school on Friday - you were the first thing he mentioned (he said but what about Ms. Sanchez?).

Ms. Sanchez,

This is something I have hesitated to bring up in the past for Jack, but it has happened again this morning, and I need some guidance. Jack sometimes gaslights me... I have made 'enough' excuses in my mind for that behavior, and it is time for that behavior to stop. I do find that it happens more often after he has spent time with my mother - and she gaslights regularly (many times per day)...Jack is my child, and I love him whole-heartedly and then some. How can I help him stop gaslighting?

By the way, Happy New Year - hope this year is better than last year for everyone.

Hi John,

I definitely see how this can be a learned behavior. I would like to talk more when we meet about specific examples so we can figure out how to best address, as this can look different depending on the situation. I agree that setting limits around the behavior that is not useful for you or him is a great idea. Can we talk more Friday?

Happy New Year to you too!

Ms. Sanchez

There are patterns of 'emotional abuse' that occurred between my mom's parents and her, and other circumstances that occurred in my mother's life, that led to her becoming the way that she is sometimes....don't worry I am going somewhere with this information....her father died in 2017....she has 2 brothers...one died a week after her father died...her other brother is much younger and has 8 children, and also his grandchildren to take care of - I think some of his grandchildren are even living with him now too - I cannot keep up....my mom is the one that takes care of her mom for whatever reason, despite my uncle living within a few miles of my grandma's house in Sellersburg, and my mom living in Shepherdsville... My mom's deceased brother, was a heavy alcoholic unfortunately, and it affected his children. I do not know directly about his situation with his parents, but I presume he was also abused a lot... My living uncle on that side seems to have come out the best (probably because his 2 older siblings protected him - again - I do not know that for sure)...Ever since my mom has been around my grandma and taking care of her a lot, you can see a lot of my mother's old patterns coming back... Looking back on my childhood, and everything endured, I understand now how much my sister (and me) were both emotionally abused (and neglected), but there were many extenuating circumstances with our family situation, and that complicates things a great deal as well...and I know my parents were trying their hardest to make right choices when there were many very difficult decisions to make...my mother was in therapy for many years, and I wish she would go back. I feel strongly like Jack has learned some things from her, and I don't like that he is around her as much as he is sometimes, but I cannot control anything that I cannot control (like my ex-wife using my parents as her babysitters for when she goes out on dates, and she has no one else that will watch Jack for free (of course) during his school weeks with her. I tried to talk to my ex about my concerns before, and all it did was start an argument (and she was arguing right in front of Jack), and said something like what do you expect me to do - pay for someone to watch him? And I was thinking well that is an option...argh...or I told her that I could have him here anytime too during her weeks. I still have a great deal of trouble accepting that my son's time with me is half of what it used to be - that hits my heart hard, so anytime that I can, I like to have him (in addition to my weeks with him - that is how I came to have him on her Fridays during the school year). Jack will often yell very angrily or say mean words or do something in anger, and then immediately deny that he said that or did that, or was angry, or lie about it. While I realize some of these, are behaviors, that are behaviors that are normal for children to go through while they are learning, I see a clear pattern here... It happened this morning....he was very mean to me - I don't remember his exact words - but he denied ever saying them like less than 2 or 3 minutes after he said them... I can give you more background when we talk later. I will try to write them down if they occur so there is something less abstract. Thanks for helping Jack, and helping me help Jack. I am trying to end any cycles or patterns of dysfunction. It is my intent for Jack to have the best life that he can have. Talk to you soon, and thank you again.

John

Thanks Ms. Sanchez. I always try my best to validate Jack's feelings - sometimes I fail. Sometimes he SCREAMS and I tell him I need him to not scream so loudly - if I lived in my own home, it would not be a big deal, but I have 3 other neighbors adjacent to my apartment (touching walls), and the one upstairs regularly called the police when my ex-girlfriend would become upset and cry LOUDLY.

I don't want Jack to have an experience of having the police come because my neighbor upstairs calls the police. She hasn't called them when Jack has been upset yet - but with Anna, she called pretty much every time.

I try to make nice, and I recently printed something out for her, so maybe continuing to offer kind gestures will prevent that from happening. I was thinking the only time I can think that Jack would say I don't want him to do something is when he screams or hits a wall that is a neighbor's wall that is shared.

Anyway, thank you, as always for your professional guidance.

Ms. Sanchez,

Yesterday morning when Jack came to my house, his mother dropped him off late for school. I told him I was glad to see him and that I loved him and missed him when he got to my house and I tried to hug him, but he kind of pushed me out of the way and hung his head really low, and did not say anything at all to me. I took that as meaning that he was stressed out about getting to my house late, so I told him to just get ready for school, and he seemed to do a very good job of that and I praised him highly for doing such a wonderful job.

I really wish his mom would drop him off on time. It is my understanding that this also happens (she runs late), during her weeks when my parents help Jack with school because she does not have another solution, but I am not there so I do not know for sure.

Anyway, things through the therapy session appointment time went very well, and after Jack gave me privacy, after we started talking, we had our portion of his appointment together, and things were still well after that. Then I had to write an email to my boss, and he was okay with that and then we went to the grocery store, which he had suggested, so I could get gluten free bread, so we could have BLTs together for lunch, which I thought was very kind and loving.

This is when, however, I started getting an 'attitude' from Jack and I need help from you because whenever I say 'anything' to him about it, he starts crying and says he doesn't want to exist anymore, and says that everything he does makes me upset (which I told him I am sorry he feels that way, and that most of the time I am not upset with him, but I do get upset with some of his behaviors sometimes), but they do not seem to change.

Here are specifics...at the grocery store, when we got there, I had less than an hour because I have 1 hour for lunch, and I went to Valu-Market which is close to my house, but still that meant that we had to go there, get what we needed (bacon, bread, tomatoes, and we got Cheese Puffs too), and get out. Jack asked if he could push the cart which was fine with me and I am glad that he gets to do that. I like to let him have more responsibilities and is a very responsible child, but he kept lagging far behind with the cart not on purpose, so I said Jack I need you to at least keep up with me please, or I am going to need to push the cart, and when I said that he started to go faster than me (which he denies), but he was ahead of me slightly, and moving faster than me, so I said Jack, please do not have that kind of attitude with me, I need you to keep up with me and stay at the same pace because we only have a short time because I am on my lunch break and I only get 1 hour for lunch. Then he started crying, and I told him let's just get our groceries, go home and make lunch because I thought that he was hungry and that might be why. I was trying to just go on and basically do my job after lunch. He kept saying he did not speed up faster than me at lunch, but he did and he denies it.

Anyway, last night was patchy with more incidents like that, and then I thought after he went to sleep and got rest, that things would get better. He asked if he could sleep in my room because he was scared, and I said okay. Before he went to sleep, even though it was late, I had gotten out a new manual washing machine as a solution, and we both, I think, really enjoyed putting that together as a team and I felt for sure then that things would be okay in the morning, and I even told Jack that I had to work after he went to bed to get stuff listed, and that I would need a little extra rest in the morning. In the back of my mind, I am thinking that his new medicine may be causing some unwanted side effects. I also notice that he was looking a bit puffy, which I can usually see in him before he has an episode of Gastroparesis vomiting. Thankfully so far today, he has not had that.

Anyway, this morning around 6:30, keep in mind, he went to bed at 10:30, and I worked until 1:30 am, because I was not able to before that, he started moving around, which is fine - and really - I think he woke up because the neighbors above me were being loud first this morning, but I kept asking him (after maybe 20 minutes of him moving non-stop to please try to stop moving, and he said that he was trying, and I gave him many opportunities to get comfortable, and I know that sometimes he itches and I think that is potentially neuropathic so it concerns me - but that is besides the point...).. anyway, finally I said Jack please get up and go to the bathroom because I know that he does not always know when he needs to go. But he refused to go try despite me asking several times, then I asked him to stop moving again, and he couldn't, so then I said please either you go to your room to try to rest some more, or I am going to have to go to the other room to rest, but he did not stop moving and stayed on my bed for a little bit longer. By this point, I had grown frustrated, and I raised my voice because I got about 5 hours of sleep which is less than a normal night of sleep. Jack says that when I raise my voice it scares him to death. I am reading this with him so I can make sure that I get in what he has to say too.

So....after I was frustrated, and asked him 5 or 6 times to stop moving, he went out in the hall, and laid on the floor, and kept saying how his neck was hurting. Jack said his neck felt like how it feels if you were just in a car accident...he did not say that until now though - earlier this morning he just said his neck hurt. And I don't know that he necessarily understands what that truly feels like - I had cervical root lesions from my accident, and Jack has indeed been in a car accident but even though his mother had that accident, she would not make time to take him to the doctor to be seen, so I did because he had mentioned that his neck hurt back then which was about 2 years ago. At the doctor back then Jack said his neck didn't hurt, so there wasn't anything to do since Jack denied his neck hurting then. Okay back to now...

SO this morning, Jack was upset and crying and I asked him to come into my room so I would not have to shout so I could talk to him, and he did not do anything, did not come into my room, and did not respond this was after 20 minutes of crying loudly. I am sensitive to loud cries and screams at my apartment because my neighbors called the police at least 5 times when Anna had been upset, but despite me asking Jack nicely again, first several times, and then every time I would ask, he would say 'what?" and then I would tell him again to come into my room so I could talk to him without shouting, he would say what again or talk over me and I told him this was disrespectful, and I had a mean tone of voice which I was not trying to...but I got very little rest and I was trying my best to set boundaries like we have discussed even though they were and continue to be ignored....so I told Jack to go to his room to calm down, and at first he did not want to, but then I told him he needed to, in order to calm down so we could talk...I was still trying to talk to him, but I was in a barely awake state, and very groggy, and I should have just left, but I worry him being afraid, so I tried to stay and talk to him. He screamed at me and pinched me so hard on my arm that he broke my skin, but he didn't mean to, he was just angry. And I told him that if he kept it up that I would spank him, but I have not spanked him since we lived at my parents' house in 2017, and I only did then because my ex-wife told me that I had to even if I was not there when she was having trouble with him for one reason or another...I refused to do so the times that I was not there because I did not know what had happened between them. But in the past, when he was younger, at the guidance of a Psychologist (Pediatric), sometimes there were times when they said to spank him so I had but not very often, they also suggested the 'safe-hands' hold which had to be used some but not much also in the past to help both parents and Jack not get injured from angry outbursts.

Anyway - no spanking happened - and I told Jack that I should not have said that, and Jack said that when I had spanked him in the past several years ago, that he felt like he had been run over by a bulldozer (as an expression). And he says he felt heart-broken. Obviously, neither one of us wants to feel heart-broken. I told Jack I was going back to lay down, and that I wanted him to write a letter of apology of me to me, and he did, and then things were good for a while again...until....

He asked me to cut his toenails which I was happy to do, but I needed him to sit in a way in which I could cut them...I asked him to sit in front of my lap or on my lap so I could be at the right angle to cut the toenails on his left foot. He did not comply. He moved to a different position first which was an okay thing, but it did not work at that angle, so I asked him again, and he again did not comply, but moved to another different position still not a workable one... so I asked him again, and again, and again, and again, and none of those times, did he do it. Finally the next time, he did sit in front of me, but complained that it was not possible for him to sit with his leg in front of him because his foot would touch his other leg. I told him that it had to be the way that it was at the angle it was so that I could cut his toenails without cutting his toe accidentally, so he finally let me cut them. But he started crying again. I cut his toenails, and then I told him I needed him to do what I asked him to do when I asked him to do it, or that is 'having an attitude'. He said after that, that he feels that I am upset with him all the time, and I said no...it is only at times like what just happened that I get upset....to which he said he wished he did not exist... And later said maybe I should not have had a child, and then gave me a note that says he feels heartbroken all the time but that he just tries to hide it which makes me feel very sad because I don't want him to feel heartbroken.

So you asked for some specifics of what we deal with at times, here are a few from the last 16 hours. I have little precious energy - I have begged Jack to not make me have to argue with him or fight with him because of the 'energy crisis' that I have due to small fiber neuropathy (Dr. Oaklander at Mass General puts it in a good way - that people like me feel like they have the flu all the time and extreme burning pain too), but anyway, I haven't been able to come up with a good solution.

I ask Jack if he treats his mom like that, and he says no. I told him that is because she lets him do whatever he wants and doesn't provide discipline boundaries. I really don't know what to do - I need him to not have the attitude he has at times, and I need to try to not ever be upset at all ever with him because otherwise he makes statements like he does not want to exist. What can we do - we both want to have peaceful encounters. I cannot speak for how Jack feels about me but I love Jack very much.

Please give me some ideas or something when you can. I understand you are very busy too but I don't know what I am supposed to do here and need guidance.

Ms. Sanchez - I am not sure what time Jack's school day ends tomorrow - it has been ending super early (like at 11 am)...since it doesn't start until 9 am...that leaves little time for guided learning to take place, and is a whole other area of concern for me. I want to make sure Jack learns what he needs to learn to stay competitive with the other students.

I have had limited opportunity to talk with Jack about things, and he did say that he was not sure why he has been so angry with me. I told him I thought that was good that he recognized that he felt angry, and that if he wants to talk about it, I told him I would listen to him and be calm while he tells me what he needs to tell me or wants to tell me with regard to his feelings.

For my own part of the equation - I am trying very hard to survive - it is hard to live like you are burning alive - I have been like this (my physical body) for over 10 years now, and it is every second of every minute of every hour of every day - and it certainly is not easy. I refuse to go back on opiates. I have asked for anxiety medication to help but doctors are very reluctant to prescribe that for me, but very happy to prescribe opiates (which I do not want - and which are very addictive in nature - not that I ever had a problem with that though)...one of the main reasons why I stopped taking opiates was because of the way people treat you like a criminal even if you are a legitimate patient who uses them as prescribed for extremely difficult conditions. I have two of the 'most painful conditions humans can experience'. Too bad I could not win the lottery instead. Jack knows how much I suffer (as best as he can know without experiencing the pain directly).

Please let me know your availability and I will let you know as soon as I can if the time will work. I have some unscheduled work meeting tomorrow also - so that is also up in the air at the moment.

John

Anyway, last night was patchy with more incidents like that, and then I thought after he went to sleep and got rest, that things would get better. He asked if he could sleep in my room because he was scared, and I said okay. Before he went to sleep, even though it was late, I had gotten out a new manual washing machine as a solution, and we both, I think, really enjoyed putting that together as a team and I felt for sure then that things would be okay in the morning, and I even told Jack that I had to work after he went to bed to get stuff listed, and that I would need a little extra rest in the morning. In the back of my mind, I am thinking that his new medicine may be causing some unwanted side effects. I also notice that he was looking a bit puffy, which I can usually see in him before he has an episode of Gastroparesis vomiting. Thankfully so far today, he has not had that.

Anyway, this morning around 6:30, keep in mind, he went to bed at 10:30, and I worked until 1:30 am, because I was not able to before that, he started moving around, which is fine - and really - I think he woke up because the neighbors above me were being loud first this morning, but I kept asking him (after maybe 20 minutes of him moving non-stop to please try to stop moving, and he said that he was trying, and I gave him many opportunities to get comfortable, and I know that sometimes he itches and I think that is potentially neuropathic so it concerns me - but that is besides the point...).. anyway, finally I said Jack please get up and go to the bathroom because I know that he does not always know when he needs to go. But he refused to go try despite me asking several times, then I asked him to stop moving again, and he couldn't, so then I said please either you go to your room to try to rest some more, or I am going to have to go to the other room to rest, but he did not stop moving and stayed on my bed for a little bit longer. By this point, I had grown frustrated, and I raised my voice because I got about 5 hours of sleep which is less than a solid normal night of sleep. Jack says that when I raise my voice it scares him to death. I am reading this with him so I can make sure that I get in what he has to say too.

So....after I was frustrated, and asked him 5 or 6 times to stop moving, he went out in the hall, and laid on the floor, and kept saying how his neck was hurting. Jack said his neck felt like how it feels if you were just in a car accident...he did not say that until now though - earlier this morning he just said his neck hurt. And I don't know that he necessarily understands what that truly feels like - I had cervical root lesions from my accident, and Jack has indeed been in a car accident but even though his mother had that accident, she would not make time to take him to the doctor to be seen, so I did because he had mentioned that his neck hurt back then which was about 2 years ago. At the doctor back then Jack said his neck didn't hurt, so there wasn't anything to do since Jack denied his neck hurting then. Okay back to now...

SO this morning, Jack was upset and crying and I asked him to come into my room so I would not have to shout so I could talk to him, and he did not do anything, did not come into my room, and did not respond this was after 20 minutes of crying loudly. I am sensitive to loud cries and screams at my apartment because my neighbors called the police at least 5 times when Anna had been upset, but despite me asking Jack nicely again, first several times, and then every time I would ask, he would say 'what?" and then I would tell him again to come into my room so I could talk to him without shouting, he would say what again or talk over me and I told him this was disrespectful, and I had a mean tone of voice which I was not trying to...but I got very little rest and I was trying my best to set boundaries like we have discussed even though they were and continue to be ignored...so I told Jack to go to his room to calm down, and at first he did not want to, but then I told him he needed to, in order to calm down so we could talk...I was still trying to talk to him, but I was in a barely awake state, and very groggy, and I should have just left, but I worry him being afraid, so I tried to stay and talk to him. He screamed at me and pinched me so hard on my arm that he broke my skin, but he didn't mean to, he was just angry. And I told him that if he kept it up that I would spank him, but I have not spanked him since we lived at my parents' house in 2017, and I only did then because my ex-wife told me that I had to even if I was not there when she was having trouble with him for one reason or another...I refused to do so the times that I was not there because I did not know what had happened between them. But in the past, when he was younger, at the guidance of a Psychologist (Pediatric), sometimes there were times when they said to spank him so I had but not very often, they also suggested the 'safe-hands' hold which had to be used some but not much also in the past to help both parents and Jack not get injured from angry outbursts.

Anyway - no spanking happened - and I told Jack that I should not have said that, and Jack said that when I had spanked him in the past several years ago, that he felt like he had been run over by a bulldozer (as an expression). And he says he felt heart-broken. Obviously, neither one of us wants to feel heart-broken. I told Jack I was going back to lay down, and that I wanted him to write a letter of apology of me to me, and he did, and then things were good for a while again...until....

He asked me to cut his toenails which I was happy to do, but I needed him to sit in a way in which I could cut them...I asked him to sit in front of my lap or on my lap so I could be at the right angle to cut the toenails on his left foot. He did not comply. He moved to a different position first which was an okay thing, but it did not work at that angle, so I asked him again, and he again did not comply, but moved to another different position still not a workable one... so I asked him again, and again, and again, and again, and none of those times, did he do it. Finally the next time, he did sit in front of me, but complained that it was not possible for him to sit with his leg in front of him because his foot would touch his other leg. I told him that it had to be the way that it was at the angle it was so that I could cut his toenails without cutting his toe accidentally, so he finally let me cut them. But he started crying again. I cut his toenails, and then I told him I needed him to do what I asked him to do when I asked him to do it, or that is 'having an attitude'. He said after that, that he feels that I am upset with him all the time, and I said no...it is only at times like what just happened that I get upset....to which he said he wished he did not exist... And later said maybe I should not have had a child, and then gave me a note that says he feels heartbroken all the time but that he just tries to hide it which makes me feel very sad because I don't want him to feel heartbroken.

So you asked for some specifics of what we deal with at times, here are a few from the last 16 hours. I have little precious energy - I have begged Jack to not make me have to argue with him or fight with him because of the 'energy crisis' that I have due to small fiber neuropathy (Dr. Oaklander at Mass General puts it in a good way - that people like me feel like they have the flu all the time and extreme burning pain too), but anyway, I haven't been able to come up with a good solution.

I ask Jack if he treats his mom like that, and he says no. I told him that is because she lets him do whatever he wants and doesn't provide discipline boundaries. I really don't know what to do - I need him to not have the attitude he has at times, and I need to try to not ever be upset at all ever with him because otherwise he makes statements like he does not want to exist. What can we do - we both want to have peaceful encounters. I cannot speak for how Jack feels about me but I love Jack very much.

Please give me some ideas or something when you can. I understand you are very busy too but I don't know what I am supposed to do here and need guidance.

Lindsay (my ex) / Jack's mom - cusses in front of him apparently very often - but I do not. I have said a bad word twice in the last 3 years in front of him...he did hear my ex g/f that committed suicide sometimes curse when she was dysregulated, but he understood she was in a crisis. He asked me to talk to his Mom and ask her to stop so I am trying but I don't think it will go over very well. She told him he 'will' use those words when he gets older and that it doesn't matter if he hears them now (according to Jack).

I also do not like the word 'stupid', and I treat it as if it were a cuss word too because it can be used in a way that is really demeaning toward others. (My boss actually did the same thing with her kids [they are in their 20s now])...Jack said his mom says it very often, and he asked her not to say it in front of him, and apparently she told him that she will not stop using it and went as far as to tell him that he can use it too whenever he wants. I do not know first hand - but that is what Jack told me and I don't think he would make it up.

Ask me about animals too please on Friday to jog my memory - also a coparenting issue thing. I know you say that I cannot control anything outside of myself and that I cannot really help Jack when he is not with me, but I believe this area of large dissonances to be part of what is disturbing Jack at a deeper level.

Jamie,

Jack won't be with me again until Friday - so let's wait until then. I hope your training was productive. Seems like training sessions are hit or miss (at least that has been my experience for sessions I have attended regarding training {I am certain on different topics than what yours covered today!}).

I want to make sure Jack learns what he needs to learn to stay competitive with the other students.

I refuse to go back on opiates. I have asked for anxiety medication to help but doctors are very reluctant to prescribe that for me, but very happy to prescribe opiates (which I do not want - and which are very addictive in nature - not that I ever had a problem with that though)...one of the main reasons why I stopped taking opiates was because of the way people treat you like a criminal even if you are a legitimate patient who uses them as prescribed for extremely difficult conditions. I have two of the 'most painful conditions humans can experience'. Too bad I could not win the lottery instead. Jack knows how much I suffer (as best as he can know without experiencing the pain directly).

Ms. Sanchez,

Yesterday morning when Jack came to my house, his mother dropped him off late for school. I told him I was glad to see him and that I loved him and missed him when he got to my house and I tried to hug him, but he kind of pushed me out of the way and hung his head really low, and did not say anything at all to me. I took that as meaning that he was stressed out about getting to my house late, so I told him to just get ready for school, and he seemed to do a very good job of that and I praised him highly for doing such a wonderful job.

I really wish his mom would drop him off on time. It is my understanding that this also happens (she runs late), during her weeks when my parents help Jack with school because she does not have another solution, but I am not there so I do not know for sure.

Anyway, things through the therapy session appointment time went very well, and after Jack gave me privacy, after we started talking, we had our portion of his appointment together, and things were still well after that. Then I had to write an email to my boss, and he was okay with that and then we went to the grocery store, which he had suggested, so I could get gluten free bread, so we could have BLTs together for lunch, which I thought was very kind and loving.

This is when, however, I started getting an 'attitude' from Jack and I need help from you because whenever I say 'anything' to him about it, he starts crying and says he doesn't want to exist anymore, and says that everything he does makes me upset (which I told him I am sorry he feels that way, and that most of the time I am not upset with him, but I do get upset with some of his behaviors sometimes), but they do not seem to change.

Here are specifics...at the grocery store, when we got there, I had less than an hour because I have 1 hour for lunch, and I went to Valu-Market which is close to my house, but still that meant that we had to go there, get what we needed (bacon, bread, tomatoes, and we got Cheese Puffs too), and get out. Jack asked if he could push the cart which was fine with me and I am glad that he gets to do that. I like to let him have more responsibilities and is a very responsible child, but he kept lagging far behind with the cart not on purpose, so I said Jack I need you to at least keep up with me please, or I am going to need to push the cart, and when I said that he started to go faster than me (which he denies), but he was ahead of me slightly, and moving faster than me, so I said Jack, please do not have that kind of attitude with me, I need you to keep up with me and stay at the same pace because we only have a short time because I am on my lunch break and I only get 1 hour for lunch. Then he started crying, and I told him let's just get our groceries, go home and make lunch because I thought that he was hungry and that might be why. I was trying to just go on and basically do my job after lunch. He kept saying he did not speed up faster than me at lunch, but he did and he denies it.

Anyway, last night was patchy with more incidents like that, and then I thought after he went to sleep and got rest, that things would get better. He asked if he could sleep in my room because he was scared, and I said okay. Before he went to sleep, even though it was late, I had gotten out a new manual washing machine as a solution, and we both, I think, really enjoyed putting that together as a team and I felt for sure then that things would be okay in the morning, and I even told Jack that I had to work after he went to bed to get stuff listed, and that I would need a little extra rest in the morning. In the [illegible] of medical Efforts to Support JAF's Medicine may be causing some unwanted side effects. I also notice that he was looking a bit puffy, which I can usually see in him before he has an episode of Gastroparesis vomiting. Thankfully so far today, he has not had that.

Anyway, this morning around 6:30, keep in mind, he went to bed at 10:30, and I worked until 1:30 am, because I was not able to before that, he started moving around, which is fine - and really - I think he woke up because the neighbors above me were being loud first this morning, but I kept asking him (after maybe 20 minutes of him moving non-stop to please try to stop moving, and he said that he was trying, and I gave him many opportunities to get comfortable, and I know that sometimes he itches and I think that is potentially neuropathic so it concerns me - but that is besides the point...).. anyway, finally I said Jack please get up and go to the bathroom because I know that he does not always know when he needs to go. But he refused to go try despite me asking several times, then I asked him to stop moving again, and he couldn't, so then I said please either you go to your room to try to rest some more, or I am going to have to go to the other room to rest, but he did not stop moving and stayed on my bed for a little bit longer. I am sensitive to loud cries and screams at my apartment because my neighbors called the police at least 5 times when Anna had been upset, but despite me asking Jack nicely again, first several times, and then every time I would ask, he would say 'what?" and then I would tell him again to come into my room so I could talk to him without shouting, he would say what again or talk over me and I told him this was disrespectful, and I had a mean tone of voice which I was not trying to...but I got very little rest and I was trying my best to set boundaries like we have discussed even though they were and continue to be ignored....so I told Jack to go to his room to calm down, and at first he did not want to, but then I told him he needed to, in order to calm down so we could talk...I was still trying to talk to him, but I was in a barely awake state, and very groggy, and I should have just left, but I worry him being afraid, so I tried to stay and talk to him. Can we have a talk together tonight with Jack?

I need to go over some things with you - some behaviors he has been having - like if I ask him to do even one thing - he acts all distraught or like it is the end of the world and starts slouching and walking away with his head down or stomping his feet.....

I asked him to put his socks in his drawer and he acted like that - because he said that there was not room and I asked him to clean out the things that did not fit anymore.

I have really needed help this week. I asked Jack for help with many things but he kept telling me no. ... and I really needed the help... we need to talk about this together with him please....

We need to go over what his neurologist said but in person when I drop him off so we can all make sure we are on the same page.

I think he has an ear infection or something because he keeps telling me he cannot hear - but only seems to not be able to hear 'me'....still - I want to maybe have him see his ENT in person because it would be a good thing to do anyway - follow-up wise

---

We need him to be in therapy outside of school therapy too - Ms. Sanchez had advised me this a long time ago but I am trying to get it scheduled before the end of school so she can communicate with whoever it is...need to know how this can work on your weeks - don't know your schedule or availability

---

I called DooWop and asked them to ask Ellie to share what Jack needs to be doing each week on violin in Email so we can help him make sure he is covering everything

---

We need to discuss summer stuff - I think supplemental learning is of critical importance at this time - not sure of your thoughts...

Jack has ADHD. I learned about (Rejection Sensitivity Dysphoria) = RSD today.

I found it while I was looking up stuff for Reflex Sympathetic Dystrophy (which is one of the things that I have = RSD).

Apparently, the Rejection Sensitivity Dysphoria describes Jack's behavior almost to a tee. I wanted to mention it to you while it was on my mind as I think I see a lot of this in him.

Here is one video that talks about it, but there are many out there:

For therapy in school, will Jack need to sign up again, or will he still have the same time slot?

Ms. Sanchez,

I am still trying to determine, for sure, if Jack is going to be enrolled in regular school or the NTI school. Either way, he needs therapy. Will he need to sign up again with you, or is he still on your list? Will it be at the same time or a different time?

If he does Pathfinders School - will you still be the associated therapist?

I am waiting on answers from doctors still right now...

I need more time...

Ms. Sanchez,

I am still trying to determine, for sure, if Jack is going to be enrolled in regular school or the NTI school. Either way, he needs therapy. Will he need to sign up again with you, or is he still on your list? Will it be at the same time or a different time?

If he does Pathfinders School - will you still be the associated therapist?

I am waiting on answers from doctors still right now...

I need more time...

I tried to open the form but it said I had to request permission to be able to open it - so I requested permission. It was good to see you too! You looked far less stressed than over the computer :) You always seemed happy - just looked a bit stressed out at the end of the year last year. Glad you got a nice break. Hope your family is doing well.

Please see the attached. Hope you are doing okay. Jack said he sees you pretty often at school in the hallways :)

Please confirm receipt of the form. Thank you. Also - please let me know when Jack's scheduled therapy time will be - so I do not inadvertently schedule any appointments at the same time for him.

Jack Updates

Ms. Sanchez,

I am not sure where we left off or what you know of Jack's health conditions, but wanted to give you a quick update.

He does seem to have a small fiber neuropathy unfortunately. This tears me to shreds. His neurologist ordered genetic testing for me for Jack (it was luckily a saliva test kit). Jack has a genetic variant on SCN11A that is classified as a variant of unknown clinical significance by the genetics company, but Jack's doctor found a paper where a mouse model was done, and the exact same genetic variant was proven to cause a small fiber neuropathy. The variant needs to be reclassified as pathogenic but I am not worried with the reclassification - I am more worried about Jack.

So it causes his feet to burn and not to sweat right, it causes migraines, it causes (most likely) his gastroparesis, it causes fleeting vertigo and dizziness, and of course living with a painful condition causes anxiety and depression.

Jack continues to have more and more nightmares and to backslide in a lot of ways with anxiety. He now says he can no longer sit down on the toilet when he is pooping, because he is afraid. When I ask him of what, he says I would not understand - but I am trying to really non-judgmentally listen to him. Before, he would say he was afraid of the sensors only....and only on automatic toilets...now he is afraid of manual toilets...he also cannot be in the bathroom by himself any longer or he cannot go....he also told me he has trouble going to the bathroom if someone that is not family is beside him - that is probably the neuropathy.

I am very concerned that his anxiety will affect his school performance. I am also concerned that his ADHD could truly stem from the neuropathy issue as well....Adderall heps keep Norepinephrine at the presynapses longer....this is beneficial in terms of pain and also for attention but it keeps your mind also in fight or flight mode. Jack has had such a hard time paying attention and/or sitting still, that after I talked to his doctor, they suggested that he take a second med of Adderall (but immediate release) in the afternoon to help him be able to focus. I have not been able to send it in to school with him yet because I have not had his 504 plan meeting for this year yet....but I am concerned about that also....it seems to maybe be too much for him and there is no in between. That also makes me think that maybe the anxiety is just presenting as ADHD.....do you know of anyone that can help clear some of these issues up?

I am going to switch him away from his current doctor - it takes more than 10 calls and messages each month to get his Adderall refilled - one month it took 27 phone calls and one month I had to contact the Norton regional supervisor who oversees all regional primary care offices in the region - it is pretty ridiculous. The pharmacy we use also has problems and is very short staffed and mixes things up sometimes - so I hope to use a different, more organized pharmacy soon as well. I just want the best for Jack, and I don't want him to take medications he does not need. Is there any kind of testing that you can do at school, or observation? To see if he seems like he is doing okay on his current dosage of medicine? I am still at a place where I don't know if he would be better all the way off the medicine, or at a higher dosage....and I really don't have a good way to tell - especially when he is away from me for so many hours each day and all the time every other week. The anxiety bit though, is something that I know you can help with.

I am also hoping you can help Jack cope with his mother not listening. She just tunes him out even when he is directly talking to her - it breaks my heart.

Hi there,

Thanks for the update with Jack and I am sorry there are many things he seems to be struggling with.

Regarding medication, he can add a medication without a 504 plan meeting by bringing in a Dr note with instruction and labeled bottle to the office.

Can we find a time to talk via telephone to better address the concerns? I can talk Today at 2:30 or tomorrow between 11-12.

Thank you!

He told me what was going on - it is related to his group

John Fouts <fouts.john@gmail.com> Wed, Aug 25, 2021 at 7:52 PM
To: Jonathan Kempf <jonathan.kempf@jefferson.kyschools.us>

Mr. Kempf,

Jack told me that his group was giving him trouble. I wasn't there - but this is what he told me.

He said that they wouldn't let him help with anything, and they kept telling him he needed to find something to do.

He said that he was supposed to work with the design portion of the project, but then when he tried, they wouldn't let him.

He said he was measuring - and he wasn't done measuring - and they told him they were going to tell the teacher he wasn't doing anything.

He said they told him that they had already finished the measuring - but they hadn't told him that when he was still measuring or he would have stopped.

He said he had been holding in crying since this morning.

He told me all of these things right before he left to go back home with his Mom.

We have split custody.

I am picking Jack up from school on her weeks too right now - until she can pick him up from my house - on her weeks - so I am lucky that I get to see Jack every day right now for hte most part instead of only 50% of the time.

I am trying to look up some ideas for 504 plan additions specifically - for groups - because I know that ADHD can cause more problems for some children, the further along they get in school when other kids don't understand and that kind of thing.

I did tell Jack previously, yesterday, that you said there was plenty of time to finish everything, and that if he ever felt stressed out that he should come talk to you.

Again - I don't understand all that happened - or the whole dynamic - because I of course wasn't there... I do have some insight into groups and leadership, however, as my undergraduate degree is in Organizational Leadership & Supervision. Then MBA after that - not that I use it very often these days....

Jack was very upset tonight - would it be possible for you to talk to him privately tomorrow? Or to see if he might be more comfortable talking to Ms. Sanchez or something? He saw her throughout the year all year last year. His normal days with her are going to be on Mondays for his in-school therapy session. If either, or both of you could talk to him tomorrow, that would make him feel better I think.

By the way - I hope your child that was sick is doing much better!

John

Ms. Sanchez - Jack - Group Situation - Anxiety/ADHD

1 message

John Fouts <fouts.john@gmail.com> Thu, Aug 26, 2021 at 1:57 PM
To: "Sanchez, Jamie M." <jamie.sanchez@jefferson.kyschools.us>

Hi Jamie,

I hope it is okay to call you that. I call you Ms. Sanchez around Jack of course...

Yesterday after school, there was something clearly wrong - Jack was pretty mean to me - which is totally out of character for him - he even slammed a door in my face (car door)....so I knew something was wrong.....

I wrote to Mr. Kempf about it below...but he kind of ... I don't want to say brushed it off ... but kind of dismissed it as kids are learning to be in groups - which yes that is true....but it sounds like the kids were very exclusionary of Jack - and I don't feel like Jack is going to be over it anytime soon. Yesterday he kept telling me that he always failed at everything and that nobody ever likes him....I have tried to work with him and tell him to not use the words always or never...I also tried to get him to categorize and scale his feelings...he said he felt very angry and very sad - the most of each that he could.

I included what I wrote to Mr. Kempf that Jack had told me below. I am hoping that you can talk with Jack around issues like this and what he can do at school if a similar situation would develop.

I am not trying to occupy too much of anyone's time - but this issue - which some might think is little - is something that I know is very big to Jack.

Mr. Kempf said that Jack did not bring it to his attention or any of the other 5th grade teachers, and that Jack got full credit - which is great - but it still concerns me....

Jack was bullied a number of times in the past - including a teacher at an old school telling him that he was the cause of all of the class's problems. It wasn't right - I was put in a difficult situation at that time - it was in Bullitt County (not JCPS). That situation, along with a few others where he was bullied, have had a profound and lasting impact on his self esteem.

So when you see Jack - if you can work on anything around this - please let me know. I don't want Jack to think I am overstepping any boundaries either - I'm just concerned for his well-being and feelings of low self esteem and confidence. I want to help him build those up.

Mr. Kempf,

Jack told me that his group was giving him trouble. I wasn't there - but this is what he told me.

He said that they wouldn't let him help with anything, and they kept telling him he needed to find something to do.

He said that he was supposed to work with the design portion of the project, but then when he tried, they wouldn't let him.

He said he was measuring - and he wasn't done measuring - and they told him they were going to tell the teacher he wasn't doing anything.

He said they told him that they had already finished the measuring - but they hadn't told him that when he was still measuring or he would have stopped.

He said he had been holding in crying since this morning.

He told me all of these things right before he left to go back home with his Mom.

I do have some insight into groups and leadership, however, as my undergraduate degree is in Organizational Leadership & Supervision. Then MBA after that - not that I use it very often these days....

Jack was very upset tonight - would it be possible for you to talk to him privately tomorrow? Or to see if he might be more comfortable talking to Ms. Sanchez or something? He saw her throughout the year all year last year. His normal days with her are going to be on Mondays for his in-school therapy session. If either, or both of you could talk to him tomorrow, that would make him feel better I think.

By the way - I hope your child that was sick is doing much better!

Thank you for reaching out! He did not express anything of this to me or the other 5th grade teachers. One of the most important parts of the 5th grade experience is working with partners and/or groups. It does not always go well at the beginning of the year but will get progressively better throughout the year. Most of this grade level are not used to working with peers but we are actively using the Second Steps Program and team/class building exercises to work on social skills across the board. I assure you that Jack is not the only student struggling with not being used to any of this or working with others. It sounds like Jack's group was doing a lot of extra work like measuring that was not actually part of the PBL. Jack got full credit in my class on his project.

Thank you for your time,

Mr. Kempf,

Jack told me that his group was giving him trouble. I wasn't there - but this is what he told me.

He said that they wouldn't let him help with anything, and they kept telling him he needed to find something to do.

He said that he was supposed to work with the design portion of the project, but then when he tried, they wouldn't let him.

He said he was measuring - and he wasn't done measuring - and they told him they were going to tell the teacher he wasn't doing anything.

He said they told him that they had already finished the measuring - but they hadn't told him that when he was still measuring or he would have stopped.

He said he had been holding in crying since this morning.

He told me all of these things right before he left to go back home with his Mom.

We have split custody.

I am picking Jack up from school on her weeks too right now - until she can pick him up from my house - on her weeks - so I am lucky that I get to see Jack every day right now for hte most part instead of only 50% of the time.

I am trying to look up some ideas for 504 plan additions specifically - for groups - because I know that ADHD can cause more problems for some children, the further along they get in school when other kids don't understand and that kind of thing.

I did tell Jack previously, yesterday, that you said there was plenty of time to finish everything, and that if he ever felt stressed out that he should come talk to you.

Again - I don't understand all that happened - or the whole dynamic - because I of course wasn't there... I do have some insight into groups and leadership, however, as my undergraduate degree is in Organizational Leadership & Supervision. Then MBA after that - not that I use it very often these days....

Fear and Anxiety / Ways To Get Ready Faster

1 message

To: "Sanchez, Jamie M." <jamie.sanchez@jefferson.kyschools.us>

Hi Jamie.

Good morning! I am so not a morning person...

I am hoping you will see this before you see Jack, but if not, that will be okay too...

Jack has such anxiety and fear...and I don't know where it is coming from...and he doesn't want to ... or won't talk to me ... about where it is coming from....

I know some things though...he told me that he was afraid that a man with no face that kidnaps children that he saw on YouTube was going to kidnap him....and that is pretty scary as a thought...and what my recommended action is to Jack...is to watch YouTube kids and not YouTube...he also saw a commercial for IT once and saw Pennywise standing in a mirror....and he said his classmates in 3rd grade told him about Pennywise and his cousins talk to him about Freddy and Jason.

I'm also sick (chronic illness) and have to have IVIG now at least 2 x per 3 weeks probably will be more frequent soon.

He has not voiced this, but I don't know if my illness is a factor in his fear and anxiety or not...I think the IVIG has him worried...I mean honestly it scares me a bit too...but it is my best hope for any kind of relief right now....

He is too afraid to be in any room by himself he says. I don't mind going to the rooms with him except for when my feet are in more pain...I just want him to be able to feel better and safe and to be able to enjoy life with less anxiety.

We also, both of us, have trouble moving quickly, and getting up in the morning. 2 guys with foot pain .. you know .... he has been having trouble getting to sleep at night too... I think it is the same kind of insomnia that most others who suffer from neuropathy have. I believe that is what is going on at night...

Thank you for helping Jack. The fear and anxiety are some big issues right now. Delta variant fears also play a role, and his feet have started to hurt him worse possibly...so that fear of things getting worse could also be impacting him. He has started having some weird body wide pains that are also likely associated with his health conditions.

Call me or email if you have any questions.

John

p.s. I told Jack I would be asking you to help come up with ideas to help with overcoming fear and strategies on how to move faster or get ready sooner in mornings. It is important to keep in Indiana, however, the neuropathy issue especially for him...that alone can make it hard to get up and get going in the morning... thanks Jamie.

He does seem to have a small fiber neuropathy unfortunately. This tears me to shreds. His neurologist ordered genetic testing for me for Jack (it was luckily a saliva test kit). Jack has a genetic variant on SCN11A that is classified as a variant of unknown clinical significance by the genetics company, but Jack's doctor found a paper where a mouse model was done, and the exact same genetic variant was proven to cause a small fiber neuropathy. The variant needs to be reclassified as pathogenic but I am not worried with the reclassification - I am more worried about Jack.

So it causes his feet to burn and not to sweat right, it causes migraines, it causes (most likely) his gastroparesis, it causes fleeting vertigo and dizziness, and of course living with a painful condition causes anxiety and depression.

Jack continues to have more and more nightmares and to backslide in a lot of ways with anxiety. He now says he can no longer sit down on the toilet when he is pooping, because he is afraid. When I ask him of what, he says I would not understand - but I am trying to really non-judgmentally listen to him. Before, he would say he was afraid of the sensors only....and only on automatic toilets...now he is afraid of manual toilets...he also cannot be in the bathroom by himself any longer or he cannot go....he also told me he has trouble going to the bathroom if someone that is not family is beside him - that is probably the neuropathy.

I am very concerned that his anxiety will affect his school performance. I am also concerned that his ADHD could truly stem from the neuropathy issue as well....Adderall heps keep Norepinephrine at the presynapses longer....this is beneficial in terms of pain and also for attention but it keeps your mind also in fight or flight mode. Jack has had such a hard time paying attention and/or sitting still, that after I talked to his doctor, they suggested that he take a second med of Adderall (but immediate release) in the afternoon to help him be able to focus. I have not been able to send it in to school with him yet because I have not had his 504 plan meeting for this year yet....but I am concerned about that also....it seems to maybe be too much for him and there is no in between. That also makes me think that maybe the anxiety is just presenting as ADHD.....do you know of anyone that can help clear some of these issues up?

I am going to switch him away from his current doctor - it takes more than 10 calls and messages each month to get his Adderall refilled - one month it took 27 phone calls and one month I had to contact the Norton regional supervisor who oversees all regional primary care offices in the region - it is pretty ridiculous. The pharmacy we use also has problems and is very short staffed and mixes things up sometimes - so I hope to use a different, more organized pharmacy soon as well. I just want the best for Jack, and I don't want him to take medications he does not need. Is there any kind of testing that you can do at school, or observation? To see if he seems like he is doing okay on his current dosage of medicine? I am still at a place where I don't know if he would be better all the way off the medicine, or at a higher dosage....and I really don't have a good way to tell - especially when he is away from me for so many hours each day and all the time every other week. The anxiety bit though, is something that I know you can help with.

I am also hoping you can help Jack cope with his mother not listening. She just tunes him out even when he is directly talking to her - it breaks my heart.

Ms. Sanchez,

Jack has been dealing with some bullying for some time apparently now. He is pretty upset by it. I let Mr. Kempf know, but I don't know what has really been done to help Jack.

He used to be friends with Marquelle (not sure how to spell his name), but this year he said that Marquelle keeps kicking him and stuff and he doesn't know why. I am going to forward you the email I sent to Mr. Kempf that has all the detail in it. I meant to send before now.

Hi there,

Just wanted to respond before the long weekend. I did get your email and was able to see Jack this week. He seems to be doing really well at school. We agreed to work on Anxiety and did a little scale to see where to start. For the home things, it is most helpful for Jack to see an outside therapist so you all can work together on those things.

I am so happy to be working with him!

I hope you have a great weekend,

Jamie

Math Question - Yes I realize that about the rounding - but would be best for him to learn from you as kids learn better from their teachers than their parents - he always thinks I don't know anything - but I have no idea honestly where he gets that from.

At home it is a delicate situation - helping him without having him feel criticized in any way - he is so sensitive - it is hard to continue to have him learn if he feels he even made one error. I was similar when I was a child - probably where he gets it from.

Potential Bullying Situation - I only learned of all of these things today, but need you to intervene here as well. First - I am proud of Jack for 'having the balls' to tell me about this situation - I could tell it was not very easy for him. When I picked him up he told me his leg was hurting really badly. I asked him what happened - he said he hurt his leg on the stairs...then as I was driving toward O'Reilly to get a replacement Compressor for my Honda, he told me he thought he was being bullied. I asked him what he meant, and these are the things that he said:

He said that today (9/15/2021), he accidentally kicked Marquell (not sure if that is how to spell his name), while they were in Ms. Waltz-Pollen's class (I am not sure if that is how you spell her name either - I am actually incredibly tired right now - but this is very important and I need to relay the information. He said he apologized to Marquell. He said Marquell kicked him back really hard three times in the place where he had hurt his leg on the stairs. Jack said he then asked Marquell but not in any mean way if he seriously had to do that. He said Marquell said 'There is no way that could have hurt so bad'....and apparently he said Jack was lying about his leg hurting really bad and that there was no way that kicking it could have hurt him either when he kicked him really hard three times.

Jack said that he tried to move out of the way but there is nowhere for him to move his legs to get out of the way in that class setting. He said this has happened almost every day since they have been in that class.

He said Marquell kicks him in his legs each day really hard until Jack moves his legs but there is nowhere to move his legs to.

Jack said that Marquell also tries to slam Jack's computer shut in that classroom.

He also said that Marquell tries to stomp on Jack's feet when he is wearing shoes but even more when he is not wearing shoes - when he is wearing flip-flops and says that Jack is lying about his feet hurting.

Jack said that Marquell also makes fun of Jack for wearing flip flops to the other kids and tells him that his feet aren't hurting, calls him a liar and apparently tells the other kids that Jack should get in trouble for wearing flip flops because it is against the school rules.

Jack said he has tried hard not to say anything about any of these things because he was not sure if he was being bullied or not. I told him that these behaviors do represent bullying. He asked me to talk to you and to Ms. Waltz-Pollen about the situation. He asked me if there was any way that I could talk to you tonight because he is afraid of being hurt by Marquell even ore tomorrow.

He said it makes him really sad because Marquell was a good friend of his in 1st and 2nd grade. Jack said that he did honestly think that the pee incident was a pure accident in the bathroom.

I learned about all of these things tonight. Jack said he was really upset because at the end of the day Marquell received praise for having such a good day - but he had been hurting Jack during the day apparently. Jack said that it made him angry that he received praise when he had hurt him. I told him that if he did not say anything to you, that you would have no way to know that any of these things had been happening, and he said he realized that, but he was still upset. I told him that I would start by talking to you as you are his home room teacher.

I told him to do all he can to avoid Marquell until you have time to address the situation. I told Jac it sounds like he needs to be moved away from Marquell's group in Ms. Waltz-Pollen's class. He said Marquell is close to him in the line position, but Jack said he doesn't want to lose his position in line because he likes who is directly in front of and behind him.

Jack said he is afraid of getting hurt each day he goes to school because of how Marquell has been hurting him.

What do you believe to be the best way to handle all of this? Jack asked me with urgency to talk to you tonight - I told him the best I could do was send an email to outline all of this information so you would have it handy. I don't want Jack to be made fun of for wearing flip flops, I don't want him to be kicked repeatedly, I don't want him to be called a liar, I don't want his feet to get stomped on, and I don't want him to be told over and over again that his feet must really not hurt him and that he isn't telling the truth - all of those things are obviously bad for a child.

Please let me know how you intervene, and what the resulting actions are. I'm sorry for having to write this lengthy email but want you to have the facts as Jack relayed them to me.

Jack may have told me other things in addition but I think I probably covered 95% of what he said earlier today. I am very proud of Jack for standing up for himself, and I told him he was doing the right thing by telling me these things happened so I could talk to you about them. I also told him he could have gone to you directly.

John

I told him I can see how if he was rounding that the right numbers were on the page but when we round there are additional steps. So I guess I need to understand your methodology so I can be consistent with what we practice at home. See attached image please.

Also, he said he needs help with geometry but that is a very broad topic. Cab you tell me where you all are with that?

He also said you all are working with exponents and the order of operations.

And finally, he told me that you were telling the class that 0.1 is not really said as 'zero point one', which is right, but when I said oh ok Jack well we can say that as 'one-tenth', he said no that isn't how Mr. Kempf says we are supposed to say it. Again, just for the sake of consistency, please let me know how numbers like that are being referred to please. I promise I won't bug you every day! Just need to make sure I am on the same page as you in terms of how you are teaching the kids Math, so I don't confuse Jack.

I was in Engineering school for a few years and was doing Multivariate Calculus and Differential Equations and more there for a while. I am hoping to extend some of my love of Math to Jack..especially because he is very intrigued by science and Astronomy.

What do you believe to be the best way to handle all of this? Jack asked me with urgency to talk to you tonight - I told him the best I could do was send an email to outline all of this information so you would have it handy. I don't want Jack to be made fun of for wearing flip flops, I don't want him to be kicked repeatedly, I don't want him to be called a liar, I don't want his feet to get stomped on, and I don't want him to be told over and over again that his feet must really not hurt him and that he isn't telling the truth - all of those things are obviously bad for a child.

Please let me know how you intervene, and what the resulting actions are. I'm sorry for having to write this lengthy email but want you to have the facts as Jack relayed them to me.

Jack may have told me other things in addition but I think I probably covered 95% of what he said earlier today. I am very proud of Jack for standing up for himself, and I told him he was doing the right thing by telling me these things happened so I could talk to you about them. I also told him he could have gone to you directly.

Hi there,
I did get the email before I met with Jack. We talked about it, he said it has stopped now due to seats being rearranged. We talked about letting adults know when this happens. School is expected to be a safe environment, so we strongly encourage kids to be assertive and then ask for help. The goal this week is for Jack to ask for help if something becomes problem that is not resolved by direct communication.

I hope this helps-we talked about scaling problems as well to emphasize appropriate solutions to different types of situations, Jack seemed really aware of appropriate responses. We set a goal to let the teacher know when somthing is not going well.

Hope this helps!
Jamie

Ms. Sanchez,

Jack has been dealing with some bullying for some time apparently now. He is pretty upset by it. I let Mr. Kempf know, but I don't know what has really been done to help Jack.

He used to be friends with Marquelle (not sure how to spell his name), but this year he said that Marquelle keeps kicking him and stuff and he doesn't know why. I am going to forward you the email I sent to Mr. Kempf that has all the detail in it. I meant to send before now.

Thank you - this is really great - I talked with Jack quite a bit last week about appropriate times to go to the teacher - he seemed a little confused at first - but it is good to know that he understands better regarding scaling. Thanks for all you do.

Mr. Kempf,

Can you please talk to Jack? Jack often does not speak to Ms. Sanchez about things in depth - sometimes he does - but not often - I forwarded her the same email right before she met with him and I am sure she had no time to read my email before-hand.

I thought that you did receive my email last week because Jack said that Ms. W-P moved the entire classroom seating arrangement the first day after I sent the email, but I thought I'd better follow up when I had not heard anything back directly from you.

Jack was legitimately worried and concerned about his safety.

It would seem that Marquelle does not believe that Jack has foot problems and so keeps trying to hurt him to 'prove' whether he does or not (at least what it seems like from how Jack described it to me). Please talk to Jack about it in private. I have been talking to Jack about speaking up also. Jack is also upset because they used to be friends and he doesn't know why he is treating him that way.

I figured when I had not heard anything, that my email must have gotten buried or something. Thank you for the practice math books - they have come in handy when I have been able to work with him in the evening.

Ms. Sanchez said she did get my email before she talked to Jack today and they talked about it some. She said Jack said that had not happened since Ms. W-P moved the seating arrangement last week. If you could speak to Jack in brief about just re-iterating that it is okay for him to go and talk to you about things like that, that would be ideal. Thanks for all you do.

He said he apologized to Marquell. He said Marquell kicked him back really hard three times in the place where he had hurt his leg on the stairs. Jack said he then asked Marquell but not in any mean way if he seriously had to do that. He said Marquell said 'There is no way that could have hurt so bad'....and apparently he said Jack was lying about his leg hurting really bad and that there was no way that kicking it could have hurt him either when he kicked him really hard three times.

He also said that Marquell tries to stomp on Jack's feet when he is wearing shoes but even more when he is not wearing shoes - when he is wearing flip-flops and says that Jack is lying about his feet hurting.

Jack said that Marquell also makes fun of Jack for wearing flip flops to the other kids and tells him that his feet aren't hurting, calls him a liar and apparently tells the other kids that Jack should get in trouble for wearing flip flops because it is against the school rules.

Jack said he has tried hard not to say anything about any of these things because he was not sure if he was being bullied or not. I told him that these behaviors do represent bullying. He asked me to talk to you and to Ms. Waltz-Pollen about the situation. He asked me if there was any way that I could talk to you tonight because he is afraid of being hurt by Marquell even ore tomorrow.

He said it makes him really sad because Marquell was a good friend of his in 1st and 2nd grade. Jack said that he did honestly think that the pee incident was a pure accident in the bathroom.

I learned about all of these things tonight. Jack said he was really upset because at the end of the day Marquell received praise for having such a good day - but he had been hurting Jack during the day apparently. Jack said that it made him angry that he received praise when he had hurt him. I told him to do all he can to avoid Marquell until you have time to address the situation. I told Jac it sounds like he needs to be moved away from Marquell's group in Ms. Waltz-Pollen's class. He said Marquell is close to him in the line position, but Jack said he doesn't want to lose his position in line because he likes who is directly in front of and behind him.

Jack said he is afraid of getting hurt each day he goes to school because of how Marquell has been hurting him.

What do you believe to be the best way to handle all of this? I do have a question. I think Jack does know what he needs to practice more, but last night he was showing me some of his work and how you all have been learning in class. He seems to understand some things, but not others, and I am trying to help him fill in the gaps.

See the attached photo. I did not want to be critical of him in any way because he is very srnsitive...but he said that 'the teacher said this was all right'. I told him I can see how if he was rounding that the right numbers were on the page but when we round there are additional steps. So I guess I need to understand your methodology so I can be consistent with what we practice at home. See attached image please.

Also, he said he needs help with geometry but that is a very broad topic. Cab you tell me where you all are with that?

He also said you all are working with exponents and the order of operations.

And finally, he told me that you were telling the class that 0.1 is not really said as 'zero point one', which is right, but when I said oh ok Jack well we can say that as 'one-tenth', he said no that isn't how Mr. Kempf says we are supposed to say it. Again, just for the sake of consistency, please let me know how numbers like that are being referred to please. I promise I won't bug you every day! Just need to make sure I am on the same page as you in terms of how you are teaching the kids Math, so I don't confuse Jack.

I was in Engineering school for a few years and was doing Multivariate Calculus and Differential Equations and more there for a while. I am hoping to extend some of my love of Math to Jack..especially because he is very intrigued by science and Astronomy.

Jack has not said anything to me at all nor has he seemed distressed. The other student and Jack sit very far away from each other, are far apart in line, and don't interact very often.
I will talk to Jack during wellness tomorrow but he generally does not seem to want to talk about anything. I will remind him that if something is happening in another class he needs to talk to the adult in charge right when it occurs.

Jack said he is afraid of getting hurt each day he goes to school because of how Marquell has been hurting him.

What do you believe to be the best way to handle all of this? Jack asked me with urgency to talk to you tonight - I told him the best I could do was send an email to outline all of this information so you would have it handy. I don't want Jack to be made fun of for wearing flip flops, I don't want him to be kicked repeatedly, I don't want him to be called a liar, I don't want his feet to get stomped on, and I don't want him to be told over and over again that his feet must really not hurt him and that he isn't telling the truth - all of those things are obviously bad for a child.

Please let me know how you intervene, and what the resulting actions are. I'm sorry for having to write this lengthy email but want you to have the facts as Jack relayed them to me.

Jack may have told me other things in addition but I think I probably covered 95% of what he said earlier today. I am very proud of Jack for standing up for himself, and I told him he was doing the right thing by telling me these things happened so I could talk to you about them. I also told him he could have gone to you directly.

Hi Mr. Kempf.

Thanks for sending those workbooks home with Jack. Is it OK for me to keep them here for a bit, or do you want me to make some copies of some pages and get them back to you quickly? Lmk please. Look at that...I am up to snuff on my texting acronyms (nor really).

I do have a question. I think Jack does know what he needs to practice more, but last night he was showing me some of his work and how you all have been learning in class. He seems to understand some things, but not others, and I am trying to help him fill in the gaps.

See the attached photo. I did not want to be critical of him in any way because he is very srnsitive...but he said that 'the teacher said this was all right'. I told him I can see how if he was rounding that the right numbers were on the page but when we round there are additional steps. So I guess I need to understand your methodology so I can be consistent with what we practice at home. See attached image please.

Also, he said he needs help with geometry but that is a very broad topic. Cab you tell me where you all are with that?

He also said you all are working with exponents and the order of operations.

And finally, he told me that you were telling the class that 0.1 is not really said as 'zero point one', which is right, but when I said oh ok Jack well we can say that as 'one-tenth', he said no that isn't how Mr. Kempf says we are supposed to say it. Again, just for the sake of consistency, please let me know how numbers like that are being referred to please. I promise I won't bug you every day! Just need to make sure I am on the same page as you in terms of how you are teaching the kids Math, so I don't confuse Jack.

I was in Engineering school for a few years and was doing Multivariate Calculus and Differential Equations and more there for a while. I am hoping to extend some of my love of Math to Jack..especially because he is very intrigued by science and Astronomy.

Thank you for agreeing to talk to him.

Please re-read the email I sent to you last week, this afternoon, after kids go home when you have more attention to devote to it. It was not about anything happening in 'your' classroom - it apparently has all taken place in Ms. W-P's class.

Still, you are his home-room teacher, and are supposed to be the initial point of contact - at least that is my understanding. Should I have started with the other teacher?

I assure you that Jack would not have brought it to my attention if he did not feel distressed.

Thank you again for agreeing to talk to him tomorrow.

I figured when I had not heard anything, that my email must have gotten buried or something. Thank you for the practice math books - they have come in handy when I have been able to work with him in the evening.

Ms. Sanchez said she did get my email before she talked to Jack today and they talked about it some. She said Jack said that had not happened since Ms. W-P moved the seating arrangement last week. If you could speak to Jack in brief about just re-iterating that it is okay for him to go and talk to you about things like that, that would be ideal. Thanks for all you do.

when I was a child - probably where he gets it from.

Potential Bullying Situation - I only learned of all of these things today, but need you to intervene here as well. First - I am proud of Jack for 'having the balls' to tell me about this situation - I could tell it was not very easy for him. When I picked him up he told me his leg was hurting really badly. I asked him what happened - he said he hurt his leg on the stairs...then as I was driving toward O'Reilly to get a replacement Compressor for my Honda, he told me he thought he was being bullied. I asked him what he meant, and these are the things that he said:

He said that today (9/15/2021), he accidentally kicked Marquell (not sure if that is how to spell his name), while they were in Ms. Waltz-Pollen's class (I am not sure if that is how you spell her name either - I am actually incredibly tired right now - but this is very important and I need to relay the information. He said he apologized to Marquell. He said Marquell kicked him back really hard three times in the place where he had hurt his leg on the stairs. Jack said he then asked Marquell but not in any mean way if he seriously had to do that. He said Marquell said 'There is no way that could have hurt so bad'....and apparently he said Jack was lying about his leg hurting really bad and that there was no way that kicking it could have hurt him either when he kicked him really hard three times.

Jack said that he tried to move out of the way but there is nowhere for him to move his legs to get out of the way in that class setting. He said this has happened almost every day since they have been in that class.

He said Marquell kicks him in his legs each day really hard until Jack moves his legs but there is nowhere to move his legs to.

Jack said that Marquell also tries to slam Jack's computer shut in that classroom.

He also said that Marquell tries to stomp on Jack's feet when he is wearing shoes but even more when he is not wearing shoes - when he is wearing flip-flops and says that Jack is lying about his feet hurting.

Jack said that Marquell also makes fun of Jack for wearing flip flops to the other kids and tells him that his feet aren't hurting, calls him a liar and apparently tells the other kids that Jack should get in trouble for wearing flip flops because it is against the school rules.

Jack said he has tried hard not to say anything about any of these things because he was not sure if he was being bullied or not. I told him that these behaviors do represent bullying. He asked me to talk to you and to Ms. Waltz-Pollen about the situation. He asked me if there was any way that I could talk to you tonight because he is afraid of being hurt by Marquell even ore tomorrow.

He said it makes him really sad because Marquell was a good friend of his in 1st and 2nd grade. Jack said that he did honestly think that the pee incident was a pure accident in the bathroom.

I learned about all of these things tonight. Jack said he was really upset because at the end of the day Marquell received praise for having such a good day - but he had been hurting Jack during the day apparently. Jack said that it made him angry that he received praise when he had hurt him. I told him that if he did not say anything to you, that you would have no way to know that any of these things had been happening, and he said he realized that, but he was still upset. I told him that I would start by talking to you as you are his home room teacher.

I told him to do all he can to avoid Marquell until you have time to address the situation. I told Jac it sounds like he needs to be moved away from Marquell's group in Ms. Waltz-Pollen's class. He said Marquell is close to him in the line position, but Jack said he doesn't want to lose his position in line because he likes who is directly in front of and behind him.

Jack said he is afraid of getting hurt each day he goes to school because of how Marquell has been hurting him.

What do you believe to be the best way to handle all of this? Jack asked me with urgency to talk to you tonight - I told him the best I could do was send an email to outline all of this information so you would have it handy. I read it already. I was saying that Jack needs to contact the adult where and when something is occurring. I will make sure he knows to tell Mrs. Walts-Paulin immediately. Please convey to Jack that he needs to address situations immediately and with the adult in charge at the time. I will talk to the whole class again about talking to teachers right away. I speak to both 5th grade teachers every day about students.
Are you saying Jack doesn't want to talk to Ms. Sanchez?

Mr. Kempf,

Can you please talk to Jack? Jack often does not speak to Ms. Sanchez about things in depth - sometimes he does - but not often - I forwarded her the same email right before she met with him and I am sure she had no time to read my email before-hand.

I thought that you did receive my email last week because Jack said that Ms. W-P moved the entire classroom seating arrangement the first day after I sent the email, but I thought I'd better follow up when I had not heard anything back directly from you.

Jack was legitimately worried and concerned about his safety.

It would seem that Marquelle does not believe that Jack has foot problems and so keeps trying to hurt him to 'prove' whether he does or not (at least what it seems like from how Jack described it to me). Please talk to Jack about it in private. I have been talking to Jack about speaking up also. Jack is also upset because they used to be friends and he doesn't know why he is treating him that way.

I do have a question. I think Jack does know what he needs to practice more, but last night he was showing me some of his work and how you all have been learning in class. He seems to understand some things, but not others, and I am trying to help him fill in the gaps.

See the attached photo. I did not want to be critical of him in any way because he is very srnsitive...but he said that 'the teacher said this was all right'. I told him I can see how if he was rounding that the right numbers were on the page but when we round there are additional steps. So I guess I need to understand your methodology so I can be consistent with what we practice at home. See attached image please.

Also, he said he needs help with geometry but that is a very broad topic. Cab you tell me where you all are with that?

He also said you all are working with exponents and the order of operations.

And finally, he told me that you were telling the class that 0.1 is not really said as 'zero point one', which is right, but when I said oh ok Jack well we can say that as 'one-tenth', he said no that isn't how Mr. Kempf says we are supposed to say it. Again, just for the sake of consistency, please let me know how numbers like that are being referred to please. I promise I won't bug you every day! Just need to make sure I am on the same page as you in terms of how you are teaching the kids Math, so I don't confuse Jack.

I was in Engineering school for a few years and was doing Multivariate Calculus and Differential Equations and more there for a while. I am hoping to extend some of my love of Math to Jack..especially because he is very intrigued by science and Astronomy.

Thanks for clarifying what you meant. I will tell him that he needs to talk to the teacher immediately too where things happen - it took him some time to get up his nerves is all the reason why he took so long before - plus he was hoping it would stop but it kept continuing.

He likes talking to Ms. Sanchez but does not always open up immediately - he has a good working relationship with her because he has worked with her for most of the 4th grade year too in addition to this year. She is one of his favorite people at Bloom.

Mr. Kempf,

Can you please talk to Jack? Jack often does not speak to Ms. Sanchez about things in depth - sometimes he does - but not often - I forwarded her the same email right before she met with him and I am sure she had no time to read my email before-hand.

I thought that you did receive my email last week because Jack said that Ms. W-P moved the entire classroom seating arrangement the first day after I sent the email, but I thought I'd better follow up when I had not heard anything back directly from you.

Jack was legitimately worried and concerned about his safety.

It would seem that Marquelle does not believe that Jack has foot problems and so keeps trying to hurt him to 'prove' whether he does or not (at least what it seems like from how Jack described it to me). Please talk to Jack about it in private. I have been talking to Jack about speaking up also. Jack is also upset because they used to be friends and he doesn't know why he is treating him that way.

I figured when I had not heard anything, that my email must have gotten buried or something. Thank you for the practice math books - they have come in handy when I have been able to work with him in the evening.

Ms. Sanchez said she did get my email before she talked to Jack today and they talked about it some. She said Jack said that had not happened since Ms. W-P moved the seating arrangement last week. If you could speak to Jack in brief about just re-iterating that it is okay for him to go and talk to you about things like that, that would be ideal. Thanks for all you do.

First - I am proud of Jack for 'having the balls' to tell me about this situation - I could tell it was not very easy for him. When I picked him up he told me his leg was hurting really badly. I asked him what happened - he said he hurt his leg on the stairs...then as I was driving toward O'Reilly to get a replacement Compressor for my Honda, he told me he thought he was being bullied. I asked him what he meant, and these are the things that he said:

> He said that today (9/15/2021), he accidentally kicked Marquell (not sure if that is how to spell his name), while they were in Ms. Waltz-Pollen's class (I am not sure if that is how you spell her name either - I am actually incredibly tired right now - but this is very important and I need to relay the information. He said he apologized to Marquell. He said Marquell kicked him back really hard three times in the place where he had hurt his leg on the stairs. Jack said he then asked Marquell but not in any mean way if he seriously had to do that. He said Marquell said 'There is no way that could have hurt so bad'....and apparently he said Jack was lying about his leg hurting really bad and that there was no way that kicking it could have hurt him either when he kicked him really hard three times.
> Jack said that he tried to move out of the way but there is nowhere for him to move his legs to get out of the way in that class setting. He said this has happened almost every day since they have been in that class.
> He said Marquell kicks him in his legs each day really hard until Jack moves his legs but there is nowhere to move his legs to.
> Jack said that Marquell also tries to steal Jack's computer time in that classroom.

He also said that Marquell tries to stomp on Jack's feet when he is wearing shoes but even more when he is not wearing shoes - when he is wearing flip-flops and says that Jack is lying about his feet hurting.

Jack said that Marquell also makes fun of Jack for wearing flip flops to the other kids and tells him that his feet aren't hurting, calls him a liar and apparently tells the other kids that Jack should get in trouble for wearing flip flops because it is against the school rules.

Jack said he has tried hard not to say anything about any of these things because he was not sure if he was being bullied or not. I told him that these behaviors do represent bullying. He asked me to talk to you and to Ms. Waltz-Pollen about the situation. He asked me if there was any way that I could talk to you tonight because he is afraid of being hurt by Marquell even ore tomorrow.

He said it makes him really sad because Marquell was a good friend of his in 1st and 2nd grade. Jack said that he did honestly think that the pee incident was a pure accident in the bathroom.

I learned about all of these things tonight. Jack said he was really upset because at the end of the day Marquell received praise for having such a good day - but he had been hurting Jack during the day apparently. Jack said that it made him angry that he received praise when he had hurt him. I told him that if he did not say anything to you, that you would have no way to know that any of these things had been happening, and he said he realized that, but he was still upset. I told him that I would start by talking to you as you are his home room teacher.

I told him to do all he can to avoid Marquell until you have time to address the situation. I told Jac it sounds like he needs to be moved away from Marquell's group in Ms. Waltz-Pollen's class. He said Marquell is close to him in the line position, but Jack said he doesn't want to lose his position in line because he likes who is directly in front of and behind him.

Jack said he is afraid of getting hurt each day he goes to school because of how Marquell has been hurting him.

What do you believe to be the best way to handle all of this? Jack asked me with urgency to talk to you tonight - I told him the best I could do was send an email to outline all of this information so you would have it handy. I don't want Jack to be made fun of for wearing flip flops, I don't want him to be kicked repeatedly, I don't want him to be called a liar, I don't want his feet to get stomped on, and I don't want him to be told over and over again that his feet must really not hurt him and that he isn't telling the truth - all of those things are obviously bad for a child.

Please let me know how you intervene, and what the resulting actions are. I'm sorry for having to write this lengthy email but want you to have the facts as Jack relayed them to me.

Jack may have told me other things in addition but I think I probably covered 95% of what he said earlier today. I am very proud of Jack for standing up for himself, and I told him he was doing the right thing by telling me these things happened so I could talk to you about them. I also told him he could have gone to you directly.

Hi Mr. Kempf.

Thanks for sending those workbooks home with Jack. Is it OK for me to keep them here for a bit, or do you want me to make some copies of some pages and get them back to you quickly? Lmk please. Look at that...I am up to snuff on my texting acronyms (nor really).

Jack Is Being Bullied In Multiple Areas - I need help to make sure he has a positive experience at Bloom - 2021-09-27

1 message

John Fouts <fouts.john@gmail.com> Mon, Sep 27, 2021 at 10:17 PM
To: Jack Jacobs <jack.jacobs2@jefferson.kyschools.us>

Dr. Jacobs,

I am Jack's dad as you know. Jack is having a tough year. He is being bullied in many places at school and in multiple ways. I've reported what I have learned previously, but as far as I know, little change has taken place, and Jack is continuing to have negative experiences.

These experiences have led to increased anxiety, depression, fearfulness, feelings of rejection - also Jack says it makes him feel so stressed out that he can barely finish work on time - he reports he feels this very often because of the bullying, but not all of the time.

I've reported this to Mr. Kempf in the past, and the email was missed by him for days, so I re-sent it. I was hopeful that things would begin to change. The JCPS bullying outline notes that the first step is to tell the home room teacher. Mr. Kempf was not under the impression that he should be the first contact if a large part of the bullying was taking place in a class other than in his classroom because Jack says the student (Marquell) is all the way on the other side of the classroom in Mr. Kempf's classroom. .

I read over the JCPS guide to bullying and process flow - and I am at the point now in that flow where I need to involve you as a school administrator. I need your help so Jack does not have a negative experience at school, please. This is what has been going on. I will also forward you the other email previously sent to Mr. Kempf.

What has been happening...these are a few of the things. These are all reported by Jack as things that have happened, and of course I fully believe him because I have witnessed changes in his emotional lability due to circumstances surrounding many of these issues. When I asked Jack why he has held it together at school, he has said because he is scared that either the teacher won't believe him, or he is afraid that the bullying will get worse if he says anything, or he just doesn't know how to express what has been going on to everyone because it has been happening in so many areas and so often. So here are some examples specifically.

* Marquell has thrown a pencil at Jack's eye or toward his face

* When Jack tries to drum to a beat in music class, Marquell purposefully and with intent, drums really loudly to drown out Jack and tries to make it seem like Jack is the one who is doing the loud drumming, and Marquell quickly hides his hands behind his back. Jack says if he does tell the teacher (Mx Lewis), that Marquell quickly makes up a lie or excuse like 'I wasn't even drumming at all'. Jack says he felt like the music teacher did not know who to believe, so he felt it wasn't pertinent or helpful to say anything else about what was happening
* Jack says that Marquell in Art class - has for example - purposefully spilled water on his own project and then tried to tell the teacher that Jack did it - but when Jack tried to tell Ms Sexton what happened - he felt like she did not know who to believe - so again - he felt like if he brought the bullying behavior of Marquell toward Jack to the attention of the teacher, that there was no point.

* Jack, in Ms. WP's class, was experiencing Marquell kicking him repeatedly in the shin, and saying that he (Marquell) needed more leg room when Jack had nowhere to put his feet. Jack says he accidentally kicked him one time - and apologized to him for the accident, and then Marquell kicked him really hard on purpose. Jack also reports that Marquell stomped on his feet a bunch because he did not believe that Jack was hurting. Jack also says that Marquell tries to get him in trouble for wearing flip-flops because he does not believe that Jack is allowed to wear flip flops - or that Jack has foot pain bad enough to wear flip flops - so it is as if he stomps on Jack's feet to try to see how badly Jack reacts to the pain - which is also physically bullying. Jack has said that after bringing this to the attention of Ms. WP - that the stomping has stopped at least - because they moved him to the other side of the table.

* Jack says that when Jack is trying to talk, Marquell keeps saying "I don't care" over and over again until Jack stops and then looks away from him to pretend like he never acted like that. Then if Jack tries to talk to others, Marquell somewhere between sometimes and often according Jack, does the same thing to get others to not hear anything that Jack says.

* Jack says if Marquell 'wants' to do something, then he will act normally.

* Jack has said that Elliot Homm has also now joined the bullying team. He says Marquell and Elliot Homm call him an idiot, call people in his family an idiot, and call Jack an idiot because of how big his letters are when he is trying to spell words. Jack says that this is something that continues to happen in Ms. WP's class.

* Jack says in the lunchroom, Marquell is the one that that basically exhibits many of the above behaviors and tries to get other people not to listen to him talk at all at lunch. Jack says this happens sometime. I have told Jack that it is not ok for this to ever happen and to tell an adult.

Jack says he is always afraid of what is going to happen on Tuesdays because he has Music and Art on Tuesdays - and it makes him feel sad because these are normally two of his favorite subjects - but instead he feels sad and anxious now because the bullying behaviors continue and now Elliott Homm started bullying Jack says shortly a few weeks after school started.

The JCPS website says some signs of being bullied include:

- Withdrawal or loss of interest in hobbies or friends (Jack says he has lost interest in art and music (a lot but not all) because of his fearfulness of what is going to happen to him next - and whether or not the teacher will believe him.
- Exhibiting nervous or fearful behavior about attending school (kind of the same as above. I cannot 'always' get Jack to talk to me to let me know what is going on...but he opens up to me quite a bit because he knows I will always try my best to make him feel safe and protected wherever he is.)
- Sleeplessness and Nightmares
- Jack feels his grades are slipping because of some of the bullying situation

I am sure there is more to all of this that Jack cannot remember, but I want to have the situation properly addressed, and it is not being addressed in a way in which the bullying behaviors have stopped - which is what I need to happen so Jack can feel safe and return to a feeling of normalcy at Bloom. Jack says that he does not often tell the teachers everything because they either don't know who to believe, because he is afraid they won't believe him, or because he just has anxiety talking to authority figures a lot of the time. I've spoken to Ms. Sanchez about this too.

I told Jack that I would see if a meeting could be arranged in which Ms. WP, Ms. Craven, and Mr. Kempf would attend, with Jack and me so Jack would be more comfortable telling everyone what is going on - but then I learned that there were also issues in Ms. Sexton and Mx Lewis's class. Now Jack is telling me that other things also happen in the lunchroom - but he said he is too upset to talk about it right now - and he will have to wait to tell me until he is ready....so I don't even know what to put about that.

Today I spoke with Ms. Sanchez and asked if she could sit in on a meeting like that too - and she said she could as long as it was a day she was there which is typically Monday or Thursday - or I think she said or every other Wednesday.

Here is the JCPS protocol:

Protocol for Reporting

We encourage all reporters to:

- Communicate your concern with the classroom teacher. [We have done this]
- Communicate your concern with a school administrator. [We are doing this with this email]
- Request a face-to-face meeting with the school to discuss concerns/events/allegations. [We are doing this via this email]
- Submit a Tipline report via phone or online.

- This report will give notice to the assistant superintendent's office [We are doing this to ensure that actions are taken that will protect Jack from further harm from the bullying].
- The report is still investigated at the school level.

If the school needs assistance or resources, then we support. We speak with students, school staff, and families to get concerns addressed and handled.

Thank you for your time listening to these very serious concerns that are affecting Jack in numerous ways adversely. I would most definitely appreciate your help in coordinating a meeting with the main 3 teachers, and also providing some kind of communication to the other teachers in special areas and in the lunchroom so Jack does not experience ongoing negative situations this year. It makes Jack sad that Marquell is treating him in these ways because Jack used to be good friends with him.

I will forward you the other email sent previously so you have a full picture.

John and Jack Fouts (Jack was here tonight helping me write this email and telling me about things that are going on in more detail).

Here is the email history of the bullying stuff prior to the other email I sent to you today. Bullying needs to be taken seriously please and addressed promptly. Jack said that Elliott Homm is now bullying him with Marquell and trying to recruit others to join in the bullying efforts.

I read it already. I was saying that Jack needs to contact the adult where and when something is occurring. I will make sure he knows to tell Mrs. Walts-Paulin immediately. Please convey to Jack that he needs to address situations immediately and with the adult in charge at the time. I will talk to the whole class again about talking to teachers right away. I speak to both 5th grade teachers every day about students.
Are you saying Jack doesn't want to talk to Ms. Sanchez?

First - I am proud of Jack for 'having the balls' to tell me about this situation - I could tell it was not very easy for him. When I picked him up he told me his leg was hurting really badly. I asked him what happened - he said he hurt his leg on the stairs...then as I was driving toward O'Reilly to get a replacement Compressor for my Honda, he told me he thought he was being bullied. I asked him what he meant, and these are the things that he said:
> He said that today (9/15/2021), he accidentally kicked Marquell (not sure if that is how to spell his name), while they were in Ms. Waltz-Pollen's class (I am not sure if that is how you spell her name either - I am actually incredibly tired right now - but this is very important and I need to relay the information. He said he apologized to Marquell. He said Marquell kicked him back really hard three times in the place where he had hurt his leg on the stairs. Jack said he then asked Marquell but not in any mean way if he seriously had to do that. He said Marquell said 'There is no way that could have hurt so bad'....and apparently he said Jack was lying about his leg hurting really bad and that there was no way that kicking it could have hurt him either when he kicked him really hard three times.
> Jack said that he tried to move out of the way but there is nowhere for him to move his legs to get out of the way in that class setting. He said this has happened almost every day since they have been in that class.

He said Marquell kicks him in his legs each day really hard until Jack moves his legs but there is nowhere to move his legs to.

Jack said that Marquell also tries to slam Jack's computer shut in that classroom.

He also said that Marquell tries to stomp on Jack's feet when he is wearing shoes but even more when he is not wearing shoes - when he is wearing flip-flops and says that Jack is lying about his feet hurting.

Jack said that Marquell also makes fun of Jack for wearing flip flops to the other kids and tells him that his feet aren't hurting, calls him a liar and apparently tells the other kids that Jack should get in trouble for wearing flip flops because it is against the school rules.

Jack said he has tried hard not to say anything about any of these things because he was not sure if he was being bullied or not. I told him that these behaviors do represent bullying. He asked me to talk to you and to Ms. Waltz-Pollen about the situation. He asked me if there was any way that I could talk to you tonight because he is afraid of being hurt by Marquell even ore tomorrow.

He said it makes him really sad because Marquell was a good friend of his in 1st and 2nd grade. Jack said that he did honestly think that the pee incident was a pure accident in the bathroom.

I learned about all of these things tonight. Jack said he was really upset because at the end of the day Marquell received praise for having such a good day - but he had been hurting Jack during the day apparently. Jack said that it made him angry that he received praise when he had hurt him. I told him that if he did not say anything to you, that you would have no way to know that any of these things had been happening, and he said he realized that, but he was still upset. I told him that I would start by talking to you as you are his home room teacher.

I told him to do all he can to avoid Marquell until you have time to address the situation. I told Jac it sounds like he needs to be moved away from Marquell's group in Ms. Waltz-Pollen's class. He said Marquell is close to him in the line position, but Jack said he doesn't want to lose his position in line because he likes who is directly in front of and behind him.

Jack said he is afraid of getting hurt each day he goes to school because of how Marquell has been hurting him.

What do you believe to be the best way to handle all of this? Jack asked me with urgency to talk to you tonight - I told him the best I could do was send an email to outline all of this information so you would have it handy. I don't want Jack to be made fun of for wearing flip flops, I don't want him to be kicked repeatedly, I don't want him to be called a liar, I don't want his feet to get stomped on, and I don't want him to be told over and over again that his feet must really not hurt him and that he isn't telling the truth - all of those things are obviously bad for a child.

Please let me know how you intervene, and what the resulting actions are. I'm sorry for having to write this lengthy email but want you to have the facts as Jack relayed them to me.

Jack may have told me other things in addition but I think I probably covered 95% of what he said earlier today. I am very proud of Jack for standing up for himself, and I told him he was doing the right thing by telling me these things happened so I could talk to you about them. I also told him he could have gone to you directly.

Like 3.26 rounded to the tenths place should be 3.3 not 3.36.
I will work with him tomorrow!

Hi there,

I have received your emails. Myself, the admin team, the teachers, and our MHP are here to help J out.

For now, I've asked the 5th grade team to keep the other boys away from J and keep a close eye on this.

Ms. Whitmer, Ms. Wright, and I have meetings and trainings for 5th graders regarding bullying every year...and we will continue with this support this year for both students who are or might one day be either victim or bully.

The team will also continue to support J in different ways.

5th grade teachers and Ms. Sanchez, please separately discuss a date and time that works for you all and then one of you can share with John (Cc Ms. Whitmer, Ms. Wright, and myself).

Cheers,
Jack

Dr. Jacobs,

I am Jack's dad as you know. Jack is having a tough year. He is being bullied in many places at school and in multiple ways. I've reported what I have learned previously, but as far as I know, little change has taken place, and Jack is continuing to have negative experiences.

These experiences have led to increased anxiety, depression, fearfulness, feelings of rejection - also Jack says it makes him feel so stressed out that he can barely finish work on time - he reports he feels this very often because of the bullying, but not all of the time.

I've reported this to Mr. Kempf in the past, and the email was missed by him for days, so I re-sent it. I was hopeful that things would begin to change. The JCPS bullying outline notes that the first step is to tell the home room teacher. Mr. Kempf was not under the impression that he should be the first contact if a large part of the bullying was taking place in a class other than in his classroom because Jack says the student (Marquell) is all the way on the other side of the classroom in Mr. Kempf's classroom. .

I read over the JCPS guide to bullying and process flow - and I am at the point now in that flow where I need to involve you as a school administrator. I need your help so Jack does not have a negative experience at school, please. This is what has been going on. I will also forward you the other email previously sent to Mr. Kempf.

What has been happening...these are a few of the things. These are all reported by Jack as things that have happened, and of course I fully believe him because I have witnessed changes in his emotional lability due to circumstances surrounding many of these issues. When I asked Jack why he has held it together at school, he has said because he is scared that either the teacher won't believe him, or he is afraid that the bullying will get worse if he says anything, or he just doesn't know how to express what has been going on to everyone because it has been happening in so many areas and so often. So here are some examples specifically.

* Marquell has thrown a pencil at Jack's eye or toward his face

* When Jack tries to drum to a beat in music class, Marquell purposefully and with intent, drums really loudly to drown out Jack and tries to make it seem like Jack is the one who is doing the loud drumming, and Marquell quickly hides his hands behind his back. Jack says if he does tell the teacher (Mx Lewis), that Marquell quickly makes up a lie or excuse like 'I wasn't even drumming at all'. Jack says he felt like the music teacher did not know who to believe, so he felt it wasn't pertinent or helpful to say anything else about what was happening
* Jack says that Marquell in Art class - has for example - purposefully spilled water on his own project and then tried to tell the teacher that Jack did it - but when Jack tried to tell Ms Sexton what happened - he felt like she did not know who to believe - so again - he felt like if he brought the bullying behavior of Marquell toward Jack to the attention of the teacher, that there was no point.

* Jack, in Ms. WP's class, was experiencing Marquell kicking him repeatedly in the shin, and saying that he (Marquell) needed more leg room when Jack had nowhere to put his feet. Jack says he accidentally kicked him one time - and apologized to him for the accident, and then Marquell kicked him really hard on purpose. Jack also reports that Marquell stomped on his feet a bunch because he did not believe that Jack was hurting. Jack also says that Marquell tries to get him in trouble for wearing flip-flops because he does not believe that Jack is allowed to wear flip flops - or that Jack has foot pain bad enough to wear flip flops - so it is as if he stomps on Jack's feet to try to see how badly Jack reacts to the pain - which is also physically bullying. Jack has said that after bringing this to the attention of Ms. WP - that the stomping has stopped at least - because they moved him to the other side of the table.

* Jack says that when Jack is trying to talk, Marquell keeps saying "I don't care" over and over again until Jack stops and then looks away from him to pretend like he never acted like that. Then if Jack tries to talk to others, Marquell somewhere between sometimes and often according Jack, does the same thing to get others to not hear anything that Jack says.

* Jack says if Marquell 'wants' to do something, then he will act normally.

* Jack has said that Elliot Homm has also now joined the bullying team. He says Marquell and Elliot Homm call him an idiot, call people in his family an idiot, and call Jack an idiot because of how big his letters are when he is trying to spell words. Jack says that this is something that continues to happen in Ms. WP's class.

* Jack says in the lunchroom, Marquell is the one that that basically exhibits many of the above behaviors and tries to get other people not to listen to him talk at all at lunch. Jack says this happens sometime. I have told Jack that it is not ok for this to ever happen and to tell an adult.

Jack says he is always afraid of what is going to happen on Tuesdays because he has Music and Art on Tuesdays - and it makes him feel sad because these are normally two of his favorite subjects - but instead he feels sad and anxious now because the bullying behaviors continue and now Elliott Homm started bullying Jack says shortly a few weeks after school started.

The JCPS website says some signs of being bullied include:

- Withdrawal or loss of interest in hobbies or friends (Jack says he has lost interest in art and music (a lot but not all) because of his fearfulness of what is going to happen to him next - and whether or not the teacher will believe him.
- Exhibiting nervous or fearful behavior about attending school (kind of the same as above. I cannot 'always' get Jack to talk to me to let me know what is going on...but he opens up to me quite a bit because he knows I will always try my best to make him feel safe and protected wherever he is.)
- Sleeplessness and Nightmares
- Jack feels his grades are slipping because of some of the bullying situation

I am sure there is more to all of this that Jack cannot remember, but I want to have the situation properly addressed, and it is not being addressed in a way in which the bullying behaviors have stopped - which is what I need to happen so Jack can feel safe and return to a feeling of normalcy at Bloom. Jack says that he does not often tell the teachers everything because they either don't know who to believe, because he is afraid they won't believe him, or because he just has anxiety talking to authority figures a lot of the time. I've spoken to Ms. Sanchez about this too.

I told Jack that I would see if a meeting could be arranged in which Ms. WP, Ms. Craven, and Mr. Kempf would attend, with Jack and me so Jack would be more comfortable telling everyone what is going on - but then I learned that there were also issues in Ms. Sexton and Mx Lewis's class. Now Jack is telling me that other things also happen in the lunchroom - but he said he is too upset to talk about it right now - and he will have to wait to tell me until he is ready....so I don't even know what to put about that.

Today I spoke with Ms. Sanchez and asked if she could sit in on a meeting like that too - and she said she could as long as it was a day she was there which is typically Monday or Thursday - or I think she said or every other Wednesday.

Here is the JCPS protocol:

Protocol for Reporting

We encourage all reporters to:

- Communicate your concern with the classroom teacher. [We have done this]
- Communicate your concern with a school administrator. [We are doing this with this email]
- Request a face-to-face meeting with the school to discuss concerns/events/allegations. [We are doing this via this email]

- Submit a Tipline report via phone or online.
  - This report will give notice to the assistant superintendent's office [We are doing this to ensure that actions are taken that will protect Jack from further harm from the bullying].
  - The report is still investigated at the school level.

If the school needs assistance or resources, then we support. We speak with students, school staff, and families to get concerns addressed and handled.

Thank you for your time listening to these very serious concerns that are affecting Jack in numerous ways adversely. I would most definitely appreciate your help in coordinating a meeting with the main 3 teachers, and also providing some kind of communication to the other teachers in special areas and in the lunchroom so Jack does not experience ongoing negative situations this year. It makes Jack sad that Marquell is treating him in these ways because Jack used to be good friends with him.

I will forward you the other email sent previously so you have a full picture.

John and Jack Fouts (Jack was here tonight helping me write this email and telling me about things that are going on in more detail).

Thank you for helping to address the issues Jack has experienced, cohesively, as a team. Is there any way that you all can communicate with Mx Lewis and Ms. Sexton to see if arrangements can be made so Jack does not end up next to the other students in those 2 classes?

I would prefer for all of you to be there, so Thursday Oct. 7 would be the best in that case - but I don't know if Ms. Sanchez is available then. Are you available on the 7th at 8:30 a.m. Ms. Sanchez? I want you to be there so that Jack can feel comfortable and at ease as well - and I know he trusts you too.

He says Marquell and Elliot Homm call him an idiot, call people in his family an idiot, and call Jack an idiot because of how big his letters are when he is trying to spell words. Jack says that this is something that continues to happen in Ms. WP's class.

* Jack says in the lunchroom, Marquell is the one that that basically exhibits many of the above behaviors and tries to get other people not to listen to him talk at all at lunch. Jack says this happens sometime. I have told Jack that it is not ok for this to ever happen and to tell an adult.

Jack says he is always afraid of what is going to happen on Tuesdays because he has Music and Art on Tuesdays - and it makes him feel sad because these are normally two of his favorite subjects - but instead he feels sad and anxious now because the bullying behaviors continue and now Elliott Homm started bullying Jack says shortly a few weeks after school started.

The JCPS website says some signs of being bullied include:

- Withdrawal or loss of interest in hobbies or friends (Jack says he has lost interest in art and music (a lot but not all) because of his fearfulness of what is going to happen to him next - and whether or not the teacher will believe him.
- Exhibiting nervous or fearful behavior about attending school (kind of the same as above. I cannot 'always' get Jack to talk to me to let me know what is going on...but he opens up to me quite a bit because he knows I will always try my best to make him feel safe and protected wherever he is.)
- Sleeplessness and Nightmares
- Jack feels his grades are slipping because of some of the bullying situation

I am sure there is more to all of this that Jack cannot remember, but I want to have the situation properly addressed, and it is not being addressed in a way in which the bullying behaviors have stopped - which is what I need to happen so Jack can feel safe and return to a feeling of normalcy at Bloom. Jack says that he does not often tell the teachers everything because they either don't know who to believe, because he is afraid they won't believe him, or because he just has anxiety talking to authority figures a lot of the time. I've spoken to Ms. Sanchez about this too.

I told Jack that I would see if a meeting could be arranged in which Ms. WP, Ms. Craven, and Mr. Kempf would attend, with Jack and me so Jack would be more comfortable telling everyone what is going on - but then I learned that there were also issues in Ms. Sexton and Mx Lewis's class. Now Jack is telling me that other things also happen in the lunchroom - but he said he is too upset to talk about it right now - and he will have to wait to tell me until he is ready....so I don't even know what to put about that.

Today I spoke with Ms. Sanchez and asked if she could sit in on a meeting like that too - and she said she could as long as it was a day she was there which is typically Monday or Thursday - or I think she said or every other Wednesday.

Here is the JCPS protocol:

Protocol for Reporting

We encourage all reporters to:

- Communicate your concern with the classroom teacher. [We have done this]
- Communicate your concern with a school administrator. [We are doing this with this email]
- Request a face-to-face meeting with the school to discuss concerns/events/allegations. [We are doing this via this email]
- Submit a Tipline report via phone or online.
  - This report will give notice to the assistant superintendent's office [We are doing this to ensure that actions are taken that will protect Jack from further harm from the bullying].
  - The report is still investigated at the school level.

If the school needs assistance or resources, then we support. We speak with students, school staff, and families to get concerns addressed and handled.

Thank you for your time listening to these very serious concerns that are affecting Jack in numerous ways adversely. I would most definitely appreciate your help in coordinating a meeting with the main 3 teachers, and also providing some kind of communication to the other teachers in special areas and in the lunchroom so Jack does not experience ongoing negative situations this year. It makes Jack sad that Marquell is treating him in these ways because Jack used to be good friends with him.

I will forward you the other email sent previously so you have a full picture.

John and Jack Fouts (Jack was here tonight helping me write this email and telling me about things that are going on in more detail).

Hi John,

I read your email and hear your concern. I am happy to hear you reached out to 7 CO, calling them may be more efficient, I am not sure how quickly they respond to email, but if they do that's great too!

If you are ever concerned about Jack being dysregulated to an extreme (appears he may hurt himself or others, says things about hurting himself or others, or saying things like he doesn't want to live), It is very important that you get more support with that immediately. Peace Hospital or The Brook-both are open 24 hours a day and you can take him at any time.

When we meet at school, We do mindfulness, we do a check in about the highs and lows of the past week. Sometimes we use a timeline activity to identify those if they are hard to notice. Then we work on our "focus" of the day. Most of the time it is emotion regulation, emotional awareness, problem solving, peer relationships, etc. We definitely address any worries or situations at school or even at home as Jack identifies issues. I am always a part of team and will advocate for Jack as long as he is ok with me sharing anything he shares with me.

I will meet with him today and look forward to supporting on Thursday in our larger meeting.

Take care and talk soon!

Jamie

Subject: Jack Update - This time I actually am able to give you some time to read this!

Ms. Sanchez,

I am worried about Jack - a lot. Last Friday when I picked him up - he was extremely dysregulated - more than I have ever seen him. So much that I almost took him to the crisis center over the weekend - not this weekend - when I dropped him off at his mom's - but the last one - after I picked him up after he had been with his mom for a week.

I took him camping instead - which was very challenging physically for me - but it helped him to be in nature, and I ALWAYS want what is best for Jack no matter what - and he knows that.

He was behaving in a way similar to how Anna would behave when she was having a mental BPD crisis. I had not ever seen him like that....she was my ex gf that ended up committing suicide.

Jack has also been worrying me saying things like he never feels like he does a good job, and that he doesn't care if he lives, and things along those lines. It is deeply concerning to me. When I ask him why, he says he does not know why, but I told him that he may not want to talk about it, and may not fully know why, but that only he knows his own thoughts and that I'd like it if he would share them so I could help him better.

When I asked him what was wrong, he basically said he didn't want to talk about it. I could tell he was not very well rested at all from the week - he had big purple areas from tiredness and allergies under his eyes....he does not ever get enough rest over there seemingly. I know it is because it is hard to get everything squeezed in during the night hours - but Jack's rest needs to be priority number one for more than one reason - it can make neuropathy symptoms much worse and lead to further depression and anxiety which leads to more sleep problems which leads to making pain worse vicious cycle.

When we got to the Gorge, where I took him, because it is his favorite place he has ever been, I really needed his help - but he would not listen to anything - and was screaming about taking a step - but I had to get the tent set up and stuff like that - and I got frustrated and told him I really needed his help or we might have to just drive home. I was far too tired to drive home then, but I really felt like we might have to do that if he did not stop screaming - well - of course - that just made things worse - and then I felt awful for saying that.

I wrote to 7 County Svcs over the weekend since I could not call them to schedule an appointment since it was not their normal business hours. I wrote:

"I am trying to establish therapy for my son, Jack A .Fouts - same address as my address listed above. I got Jack set up for in-school therapy last year, and his therapist is really great. The only thing is, she is very limited in ways she can help because she must only talk about school related topics with Jack. She suggested that outside of school therapy either weekly or every other week would be great to help Jack be able to hit on the rest of the areas in life in which he may need a little therapy help.

I am divorced. After 13 years of marriage (and after the latter part of many of those years - me [Jack's dad], developing chronic health problems, Jack's mother decided she wanted to divorce me). Really, all-in-all, I feel much better off not being around a woman who did not love me and did not treat me very well (for years).

Jack, I do not think, has fully processed all of that. Separation in 2017, divorce final in 2018.... Jack is also now learning that his mother does not treat him (in ways that I believe a mother should treat her son - or in ways he thinks a mother should treat her son). Around Jack, I try to remain very neutral and Switzerland-like, unless there is something major that happens - like recently I've learned she has been gaslighting him quite a bit.... I can always tell when something has happened - but cannot always get him to talk to me about it. I realize this is normal (the not always being willing to talk about it part)....but things have been escalating and I am not sure how best to help Jack outside of trying to get him into therapy STAT. I have actually been trying for months, but therapists have extensive wait lists, do not see children, do not take Caresource (our insurance), or don't return calls or emails for appointments - so it has been a challenge in and of itself just to get something scheduled.

Jack is a wonderful, caring, sensitive, kind, empathetic, energetic kid. There have been many changes in the last few years - especially since COVID.....Jack, right after mastering his multiplication tables, in 3rd grade, had to not go back to school for the rest of his 3rd grade year due to COVID, and for all of his 4th grade year he did NTI. I know teachers tried their hardest, but a solid brunt of the work for helping kids learn was placed upon parents who were trying to work full time. My ex-wife will not take Jack to doctors appointments, uses my parents as her babysitters - even for her date nights, does not listen to Jack when he talks to her even if Jack begs her - it is right back down to facebook on her phone or whatever app, she is uninvolved with his school activities in major part as well. I have taken care of Jack's 504 plan every year - she doesn't even want to look at it generally.

When Jack was a younger child, he was bullied by a teacher...yes a teacher...who told him ... in front of the class ... when he was in Kindergarten....that Jack was the reason for all the problems the class had....when I went in to meet with the Principal at his old school....they said....well....the teacher has been here for 28 years....doesn't deny she said that.....but she has tenure here....so we cannot really do anything about it....I about bit my tongue off trying to hold in words.... they told me that year....that Jack could be switched to a different classroom away from all the people he knew for the last 3 weeks of that school year if I wanted, but that was all they would offer. At that time, I thought Jack was going to still be at that school for I did not know how long, and fearing some kind of retaliation that would impact Jack, I decided to tough it out with him....unfortunately, he was also then bullied on the bus by a kid who kept damaging his property - backpack, papers, toys, and hurting Jack, and the bus monitor would not do anything about it....I again had to try to resolve the situation politically....the solution ended up being good in that case as the counselor at that school helped me find a 5th grade buddy for Jack to sit next to in Kindergarten and 1st Grade (first part of first grade year)....

Back to third grade...at the end of third grade, Jack was borderline about being in the gifted and talented program....now, however, he is really struggling - as I am sure many children are - to get back on track with learning.

So this year, Jack came out very upset from school several days in a row, and I knew something was wrong - finally I got him to tell me some of the things - and he is being bullied again - this time by one of his previous good friends who started treating him differently, and has now started recruiting other kids to bully Jack.

When Jack told me, I immediately went to the school (this is not the same school as the old school) with the concerns. I talked to his 3 teachers who have him for big parts of 5th grade. I talked to the school therapist that he sees, and the school administrators, and Jack said he would talk to them more openly if I went to a meeting with him - so this week coming up - one morning - I have a meeting with all of the afore-mentioned with Jack to be by his side and show him he has support and my solidarity. His mother won't be coming to the meeting.

In addition to the bullying, the situation Jack has going on with his mom, he also is struggling with complex medical illness. He has had Gastroparesis since birth (dx at 3 years old)....he later got an adhd diagnosis, and about 8 months ago, he started developing migraines, sudden onset fatigue, bone-breaking type pain, burning foot pain, and inability to wear shoes for long periods of time and socks due to burning pain. I understood what I was seeing because I suffer from small fiber neuropathy - thank goodness I knew though...I personally went for years before I was officially diagnosed.....the cause is still unknown for both Jack and for me.

I am sure Jack will want to talk about things regarding he and I as well as the above. The last time I picked him up from school on a Friday, not this past Friday, but the one before, he was totally dysregulated. I haven't quite seen him so far off in a bad place emotionally. I need him to be able to get the help he needs. He said he felt like he didn't matter, and that he wasn't valuable at all, and he said he felt he wasn't worth anything. I kept asking him if there was anything I could do differently that would help him feel better, and he said he didn't know....and then he talked more about the bullying and about situations with his mom. We have 50/50 custody. He is with me one week, then with her the next. I pick him up every day from school, even during her weeks, and then when she gets off work, she picks him up from my house on her weeks. So he is with me about 1.5 hours each day on her weeks due to that time overlap. I treasure all the time I get to spend with him.

How soon can we get him in to see someone to talk to? If there are any therapists on board that understand chronic pain or invisible illness that would be ideal for Jack.

Jack's date of birth is 4/26/2011. The therapy request I am putting in is for him not for me. I recently started seeing another therapist myself."

So Jack called me tonight - Sunday night - and when I answered the phone all I heard was his mom pretty loudly and frustratedly semi-yelling saying that he needs to not just grab her phone to call me. Jack was too scared to talk for fear of her yelling at him further. They had me on speaker. I asked if Jack could call me back in a minute after they talked about the phone situation, and she said no - if Jack wants to talk - he needs to talk right now. I then said can Jack take the phone in the other room to talk to me - I didn't hear an answer but then Jack said that he was in the other room and that his mom said it was okay.

I told him that he needed to listen to his mom about not grabbing the phone, I told him I know it is hard to listen when someone is yelling at you. He said that she had been yelling at him a lot this weekend, and that has been making it harder for him. He said he used his words and told her that it would be a lot easier for him to do things if she was not yelling at him as much. I told him that he did the right thing, and that it takes time for peoples' behaviors to change. I told him goodnight and to have happy dreams and that I would see him tomorrow after school.

I think the bullying compounded with the home situation is especially making it a challenge right now for Jack. I can only control what happens here - and I know that I make mistakes too with Jack - but I try to address the mistakes that I make with him. I tried to talk to his mom with him when I dropped him off about some things for him - but she would only talk about herself - she would not hear anything. You may want to ask Jack if he believes it is affecting his school performance so you can delve more into that area - if he will talk about it. Hopefully I will get something set up with 7 County Svcs tomorrow too.

Ms. Sanchez,

No one has confirmed the meeting on Thursday at 8:30 a.m. with me, so I guess I will write to Ms. Whitmer to confirm that time?

Anyway - I was able to get Jack's initial evaluation set up at 7 County Services. They said he has to be evaluated again for services because he was last evaluated in 2018.

His appointment is on Oct. 25 via Zoom - that is the only way they are doing things - and I need to be there with him they said - which I figured of course - and is no big deal. I try to always be there for him. His appointment is at 10 a.m. that day.

I wanted to let you know that I got him scheduled finally. Not for lack of trying certainly for an earlier date and time.

John

Mr. Fouts,
After reading through this email, Mr. Kempf, Mrs. Craven and I have come together to discuss steps to help with this situation.

Mr. Kempf has already changed the seating arrangement. He moved students to accomodate Jack not being near any of the students mentioned in your email. Mr. Kempf also looked at all 3 fifth grade classrooms to ensure that this seating arrangement would work in each of our classrooms.

We would like to set the meeting for the week immediately following Fall Break. Mrs. Craven will be out until Oct. 7th. We could schedule a meeting for 8:30am either Monday (Oct. 4th), without Mrs. Craven, or Thursday (Oct. 7th), with Mrs. Craven.

Hi there,

I have received your emails. Myself, the admin team, the teachers, and our MHP are here to help J out.

For now, I've asked the 5th grade team to keep the other boys away from J and keep a close eye on this.

Ms. Whitmer, Ms. Wright, and I have meetings and trainings for 5th graders regarding bullying every year...and we will continue with this support this year for both students who are or might one day be either victim or bully.

The team will also continue to support J in different ways.

5th grade teachers and Ms. Sanchez, please separately discuss a date and time that works for you all and then one of you can share with John (Cc Ms. Whitmer, Ms. Wright, and myself).

Cheers,
Jack

Dr. Jacobs,

I am Jack's dad as you know. Jack is having a tough year. He is being bullied in many places at school and in multiple ways. I've reported what I have learned previously, but as far as I know, little change has taken place, and Jack is continuing to have negative experiences.

These experiences have led to increased anxiety, depression, fearfulness, feelings of rejection - also Jack says it makes him feel so stressed out that he can barely finish work on time - he reports he feels this very often because of the bullying, but not all of the time.

I've reported this to Mr. Kempf in the past, and the email was missed by him for days, so I re-sent it. I was hopeful that things would begin to change. The JCPS bullying outline notes that the first step is to tell the home room teacher. Mr. Kempf was not under the impression that he should be the first contact if a large part of the bullying was taking place in a class other than in his classroom because Jack says the student (Marquell) is all the way on the other side of the classroom in Mr. Kempf's classroom. .

I read over the JCPS guide to bullying and process flow - and I am at the point now in that flow where I need to involve you as a school administrator. I need your help so Jack does not have a negative experience at school, please. This is what has been going on. I will also forward you the other email previously sent to Mr. Kempf.

What has been happening...these are a few of the things. These are all reported by Jack as things that have happened, and of course I fully believe him because I have witnessed changes in his emotional lability due to circumstances surrounding many of these issues. When I asked Jack why he has held it together at school, he has said because he is scared that either the teacher won't believe him, or he is afraid that the bullying will get worse if he says anything, or he just doesn't know how to express what has been going on to everyone because it has been happening in so many areas and so often. So here are some examples specifically.

* Marquell has thrown a pencil at Jack's eye or toward his face

* When Jack tries to drum to a beat in music class, Marquell purposefully and with intent, drums really loudly to drown out Jack and tries to make it seem like Jack is the one who is doing the loud drumming, and Marquell quickly hides his hands behind his back. Jack says if he does tell the teacher (Mx Lewis), that Marquell quickly makes up a lie or excuse like 'I wasn't even drumming at all'. Jack says he felt like the music teacher did not know who to believe, so he felt it wasn't pertinent or helpful to say anything else about what was happening
* Jack says that Marquell in Art class - has for example - purposefully spilled water on his own project and then tried to tell the teacher that Jack did it - but when Jack tried to tell Ms Sexton what happened - he felt like she did not know who to believe - so again - he felt like if he brought the bullying behavior of Marquell toward Jack to the attention of the teacher, that there was no point.

* Jack, in Ms. WP's class, was experiencing Marquell kicking him repeatedly in the shin, and saying that he (Marquell) needed more leg room when Jack had nowhere to put his feet. Jack says he accidentally kicked him one time - and apologized to him for the accident, and then Marquell kicked him really hard on purpose. Jack also reports that Marquell stomped on his feet a bunch because he did not believe that Jack was hurting. Jack also says that Marquell tries to get him in trouble for wearing flip-flops because he does not believe that Jack is allowed to wear flip flops - or that Jack has foot pain bad enough to wear flip flops - so it is as if he stomps on Jack's feet to try to see how badly Jack reacts to the pain - which is also physically bullying. Jack has said that after bringing this to the attention of Ms. WP - that the stomping has stopped at least - because they moved him to the other side of the table.

* Jack says that when Jack is trying to talk, Marquell keeps saying "I don't care" over and over again until Jack stops and then looks away from him to pretend like he never acted like that. Then if Jack tries to talk to others, Marquell somewhere between sometimes and often according Jack, does the same thing to get others to not hear anything that Jack says.

* Jack says if Marquell 'wants' to do something, then he will act normally.

* Jack has said that Elliot Homm has also now joined the bullying team. He says Marquell and Elliot Homm call him an idiot, call people in his family an idiot, and call Jack an idiot because of how big his letters are when he is trying to spell words. Jack says that this is something that continues to happen in Ms. WP's class.

* Jack says in the lunchroom, Marquell is the one that that basically exhibits many of the above behaviors and tries to get other people not to listen to him talk at all at lunch. Jack says this happens sometime. I have told Jack that it is not ok for this to ever happen and to tell an adult.

Jack says he is always afraid of what is going to happen on Tuesdays because he has Music and Art on Tuesdays - and it makes him feel sad because these are normally two of his favorite subjects - but instead he feels sad and anxious now because the bullying behaviors continue and now Elliott Homm started bullying Jack says shortly a few weeks after school started.

The JCPS website says some signs of being bullied include:

- Withdrawal or loss of interest in hobbies or friends (Jack says he has lost interest in art and music (a lot but not all) because of his fearfulness of what is going to happen to him next - and whether or not the teacher will believe him.
- Exhibiting nervous or fearful behavior about attending school (kind of the same as above. I cannot 'always' get Jack to talk to me to let me know what is going on...but he opens up to me quite a bit because he knows I will always try my best to make him feel safe and protected wherever he is.)
- Sleeplessness and Nightmares

- Jack feels his grades are slipping because of some of the bullying situation

I am sure there is more to all of this that Jack cannot remember, but I want to have the situation properly addressed, and it is not being addressed in a way in which the bullying behaviors have stopped - which is what I need to happen so Jack can feel safe and return to a feeling of normalcy at Bloom. Jack says that he does not often tell the teachers everything because they either don't know who to believe, because he is afraid they won't believe him, or because he just has anxiety talking to authority figures a lot of the time. I've spoken to Ms. Sanchez about this too.

I told Jack that I would see if a meeting could be arranged in which Ms. WP, Ms. Craven, and Mr. Kempf would attend, with Jack and me so Jack would be more comfortable telling everyone what is going on - but then I learned that there were also issues in Ms. Sexton and Mx Lewis's class. Now Jack is telling me that other things also happen in the lunchroom - but he said he is too upset to talk about it right now - and he will have to wait to tell me until he is ready....so I don't even know what to put about that.

Today I spoke with Ms. Sanchez and asked if she could sit in on a meeting like that too - and she said she could as long as it was a day she was there which is typically Monday or Thursday - or I think she said or every other Wednesday.

Here is the JCPS protocol:

Protocol for Reporting

We encourage all reporters to:

- Communicate your concern with the classroom teacher. [We have done this]
- Communicate your concern with a school administrator. [We are doing this with this email]
- Request a face-to-face meeting with the school to discuss concerns/events/allegations. [We are doing this via this email]
- Submit a Tipline report via phone or online.
  - This report will give notice to the assistant superintendent's office [We are doing this to ensure that actions are taken that will protect Jack from further harm from the bullying].
  - The report is still investigated at the school level.

If the school needs assistance or resources, then we support. We speak with students, school staff, and families to get concerns addressed and handled.

Thank you for your time listening to these very serious concerns that are affecting Jack in numerous ways adversely. I would most definitely appreciate your help in coordinating a meeting with the main 3 teachers, and also providing some kind of communication to the other teachers in special areas and in the lunchroom so Jack does not experience ongoing negative situations this year. It makes Jack sad that Marquell is treating him in these ways because Jack used to be good friends with him.

I will forward you the other email sent previously so you have a full picture.

John and Jack Fouts (Jack was here tonight helping me write this email and telling me about things that are going on in more detail).

Is it possible for you to check on Jack today? Good News and Bad News - 2021-10-05

Jamie,

First, there is good news and bad news. Also, by the way, I know you are busy, and will try not to bother you too much. I am just concerned about Jack and I know you know more than probably anyone else about Jack at school at this point.

Good news, Jack said that he did not experience any type of bullying behavior being directed at him yesterday! I am hoping he has another good school day today.

He said though that someone else in his class is being bullied now. I told him that if he sees or observes someone being bullied, that he should still tell an adult at that time. I was happy to hear he had a day free of bullying though. I could tell it made a very positive difference for the day!

Now the bad news...I need some advice please. Jack said he enjoyed talking with you at your meeting with him. He said you had asked him if everything was OK at home, and he said he told you he did not feel like talking about it.

When his mom came, Jack showed us his work on the political project he was doing. He also wanted to show her a marble run that he worked for over an hour building, but she just said 'we need to go'...when he told her that.

I convinced her to look at his marble run eventually.

So she stayed a few more minutes to look at it, but Jack was already upset because of her disinterest.

Then we went outside to go to her car and Jack was angry mainly because he was upset she was not interested in what he had worked so hard on.

She got there around 6, by this time it was like 6:45. She was complaining about how late it was (I am doing her a favor by picking Jack up from school each day on her days. I love getting to see Jack...it would be nice to get a thank you rather than a complaint from her...you know?...anyway...this upset Jack because he said everything was always his fault and that it was his fault they were late)

She sounded really frustrated and said 'we need to go' again to Jack. Jack got angry and threw his stuff in her car and then started banging his head hard on her car.

I asked him what was wrong, and what he needed to calm down.

He said he was upset because his mom was yelling at him. I told him self harming behavior is never ok and it is my job to keep him safe.

His mom said, 'you need to respect me and we need to go'. Jack said he was afraid of her yelling, and said she yells at him often.

I told his mom that we needed to talk because Jack is having a hard time.

She said, in response, 'tomorrow, I just want Jack to come outside to my car when I get here'.

Jack told her he feels like she doesn't love him because of the way that she talks to him and that he feels like she hates him.

Her response? 'Jack, you cannot just grab my phone when you want to call daddy'.

It is like she cannot hear his desperate attempts to connect with her.

It is my belief, that this in part, is what is leading to some of the self harming behavior we are seeing.

I have him set up for therapy. I asked her to go. She said she could not go.

I told her you thought it would be a good idea for us to be there for Jack. She said she would not go because of her job and because she felt attacked by what Jack said to her about how he felt.

I am afraid his emotions are going to be shut down completely if I cannot get her to listen to what he is saying.

I don't know what I can do, because I can only control my own thoughts and actions.

Do you have any ideas for how Jack might be able to get her to 'hear' him? I don't know what else I can do, but my attempts to talk to her for Jack on his behalf have also failed.

Any advice is appreciated.

John

I am so glad you were able to get an appointment. Yes, I believe there is a meeting at 8:30 on Thursday and would plan to be here then unless you hear differently.

Thanks!

Ms. Sanchez,

No one has confirmed the meeting on Thursday at 8:30 a.m. with me, so I guess I will write to Ms. Whitmer to confirm that time?

Anyway - I was able to get Jack's initial evaluation set up at 7 County Services. They said he has to be evaluated again for services because he was last evaluated in 2018.

His appointment is on Oct. 25 via Zoom - that is the only way they are doing things - and I need to be there with him they said - which I figured of course - and is no big deal. I try to always be there for him. His appointment is at 10 a.m. that day.

I wanted to let you know that I got him scheduled finally. Not for lack of trying certainly for an earlier date and time.

Thank you for helping to address the issues Jack has experienced, cohesively, as a team. Is there any way that you all can communicate with Mx Lewis and Ms. Sexton to see if arrangements can be made so Jack does not end up next to the other students in those 2 classes?

I would prefer for all of you to be there, so Thursday Oct. 7 would be the best in that case - but I don't know if Ms. Sanchez is available then. Are you available on the 7th at 8:30 a.m. Ms. Sanchez? I want you to be there so that Jack can feel comfortable and at ease as well - and I know he trusts you too.

Hi there,

I have received your emails. Myself, the admin team, the teachers, and our MHP are here to help J out.

For now, I've asked the 5th grade team to keep the other boys away from J and keep a close eye on this.

Ms. Whitmer, Ms. Wright, and I have meetings and trainings for 5th graders regarding bullying every year...and we will continue with this support this year for both students who are or might one day be either victim or bully.

The team will also continue to support J in different ways.

5th grade teachers and Ms. Sanchez, please separately discuss a date and time that works for you all and then one of you can share with John (Cc Ms. Whitmer, Ms. Wright, and myself).

Cheers,
Jack

Dr. Jacobs,

I am Jack's dad as you know. Jack is having a tough year. He is being bullied in many places at school and in multiple ways. I've reported what I have learned previously, but as far as I know, little change has taken place, and Jack is continuing to have negative experiences.

These experiences have led to increased anxiety, depression, fearfulness, feelings of rejection - also Jack says it makes him feel so stressed out that he can barely finish work on time - he reports he feels this very often because of the bullying, but not all of the time.

I've reported this to Mr. Kempf in the past, and the email was missed by him for days, so I re-sent it. I was hopeful that things would begin to change. The JCPS bullying outline notes that the first step is to tell the home room teacher. Mr. Kempf was not under the impression that he should be the first contact if a large part of the bullying was taking place in a class other than in his classroom because Jack says the student (Marquell) is all the way on the other side of the classroom in Mr. Kempf's classroom. .

I read over the JCPS guide to bullying and process flow - and I am at the point now in that flow where I need to involve you as a school administrator. I need your help so Jack does not have a negative experience at school, please. This is what has been going on. I will also forward you the other email previously sent to Mr. Kempf.

What has been happening...these are a few of the things. These are all reported by Jack as things that have happened, and of course I fully believe him because I have witnessed changes in his emotional lability due to circumstances surrounding many of these issues. When I asked Jack why he has held it together at school, he has said because he is scared that either the teacher won't believe him, or he is afraid that the bullying will get worse if he says anything, or he just doesn't know how to express what has been going on to everyone because it has been happening in so many areas and so often. So here are some examples specifically.

* Marquell has thrown a pencil at Jack's eye or toward his face

* When Jack tries to drum to a beat in music class, Marquell purposefully and with intent, drums really loudly to drown out Jack and tries to make it seem like Jack is the one who is doing the loud drumming, and Marquell quickly hides his hands behind his back. Jack says if he does tell the teacher (Mx Lewis), that Marquell quickly makes up a lie or excuse like 'I wasn't even drumming at all'. Jack says he felt like the music teacher did not know who to believe, so he felt it wasn't pertinent or helpful to say anything else about what was happening
* Jack says that Marquell in Art class - has for example - purposefully spilled water on his own project and then tried to tell the teacher that Jack did it - but when Jack tried to tell Ms Sexton what happened - he felt like she did not know who to believe - so again - he felt like if he brought the bullying behavior of Marquell toward Jack to the attention of the teacher, that there was no point.

* Jack, in Ms. WP's class, was experiencing Marquell kicking him repeatedly in the shin, and saying that he (Marquell) needed more leg room when Jack had nowhere to put his feet. Jack says he accidentally kicked him one time - and apologized to him for the accident, and then Marquell kicked him really hard on purpose. Jack also reports that Marquell stomped on his feet a bunch because he did not believe that Jack was hurting. Jack also says that Marquell tries to get him in trouble for wearing flip-flops because he does not believe that Jack is allowed to wear flip flops - or that Jack has foot pain bad enough to wear flip flops - so it is as if he stomps on Jack's feet to try to see how badly Jack reacts to the pain - which is also physically bullying. Jack has said that after bringing this to the attention of Ms. WP - that the stomping has stopped at least - because they moved him to the other side of the table.

* Jack says that when Jack is trying to talk, Marquell keeps saying "I don't care" over and over again until Jack stops and then looks away from him to pretend like he never acted like that. Then if Jack tries to talk to others, Marquell somewhere between sometimes and often according Jack, does the same thing to get others to not hear anything that Jack says.

* Jack says if Marquell 'wants' to do something, then he will act normally.

* Jack has said that Elliot Homm has also now joined the bullying team. He says Marquell and Elliot Homm call him an idiot, call people in his family an idiot, and call Jack an idiot because of how big his letters are when he is trying to spell words. Jack says that this is something that continues to happen in Ms. WP's class.

* Jack says in the lunchroom, Marquell is the one that that basically exhibits many of the above behaviors and tries to get other people not to listen to him talk at all at lunch - Jack says this happens sometime. I have told Jack that it is not ok for this to ever happen and to tell an adult.

Jack says he is always afraid of what is going to happen on Tuesdays because he has Music and Art on Tuesdays - and it makes him feel sad because these are normally two of his favorite subjects - but instead he feels sad and anxious now because the bullying behaviors continue and now Elliott Homm started bullying Jack says shortly a few weeks after school started.

The JCPS website says some signs of being bullied include:

- Withdrawal or loss of interest in hobbies or friends (Jack says he has lost interest in art and music (a lot but not all) because of his fearfulness of what is going to happen to him next - and whether or not the teacher will believe him.
- Exhibiting nervous or fearful behavior about attending school (kind of the same as above. I cannot 'always' get Jack to talk to me to let me know what is going on...but he opens up to me quite a bit because he knows I will always try my best to make him feel safe and protected wherever he is.)
- Sleeplessness and Nightmares
- Jack feels his grades are slipping because of some of the bullying situation

I am sure there is more to all of this that Jack cannot remember, but I want to have the situation properly addressed, and it is not being addressed in a way in which the bullying behaviors have stopped - which is what I need to happen so Jack can feel safe and return to a feeling of normalcy at Bloom. Jack says that he does not often tell the teachers everything because they either don't know who to believe, because he is afraid they won't believe him, or because he just has anxiety talking to authority figures a lot of the time. I've spoken to Ms. Sanchez about this too.

I told Jack that I would see if a meeting could be arranged in which Ms. WP, Ms. Craven, and Mr. Kempf would attend, with Jack and me so Jack would be more comfortable telling everyone what is going on - but then I learned that there were also issues in Ms. Sexton and Mx Lewis's class. Now Jack is telling me that other things also happen in the lunchroom - but he said he is too upset to talk about it right now - and he will have to wait to tell me until he is ready....so I don't even know what to put about that.

Today I spoke with Ms. Sanchez and asked if she could sit in on a meeting like that too - and she said she could as long as it was a day she was there which is typically Monday or Thursday - or I think she said or every other Wednesday.

Here is the JCPS protocol:

Protocol for Reporting

We encourage all reporters to:

- Communicate your concern with the classroom teacher. [We have done this]
- Communicate your concern with a school administrator. [We are doing this with this email]
- Request a face-to-face meeting with the school to discuss concerns/events/allegations. [We are doing this via this email]
- Submit a Tipline report via phone or online.
  - This report will give notice to the assistant superintendent's office [We are doing this to ensure that actions are taken that will protect Jack from further harm from the bullying].
  - The report is still investigated at the school level.

If the school needs assistance or resources, then we support. We speak with students, school staff, and families to get concerns addressed and handled.

Thank you for your time listening to these very serious concerns that are affecting Jack in numerous ways adversely. I would most definitely appreciate your help in coordinating a meeting with the main 3 teachers, and also providing some kind of communication to the other teachers in special areas and in the lunchroom so Jack does not

Hello everyone. Last week I thought we were making good progress. I know up until the meeting last week, during last week only, that Jack was not bullied after the changes had been made, and I felt pretty good about the situation and the concerns discussed at the meeting we all attended (Ms. Whitmer - I copied you so there is a record of communication that is easier to follow).

Jack had a cyclical vomiting incident on Friday and had to stay home with his mom. On Monday, I had accidentally taken him to school in the morning as if school were in session - silly me! Jack's student led conference seemed to go very well, and he seemed to say that things were going okay.

On Tuesday, Jack ended up having a severe migraine that lasted 5 or 6 hours...they usually don't last that long. I know it was a true migraine because he had to hold pressure on his head, was nauseated, sensitive to light and sound etc... - usually if he says he has a migraine, he has one....sometimes he just gets bad headaches too though....

Anyway - when he went to school on Wed., he told me he did really well completing some exit slip assignments. I was glad to hear that...but I could tell something had happened because he exhibits different behaviors when things happen....

He would not tell me what happened - all he would say is that something small happened. Then something else happened again today...he was more dysregulated...and I could tell something was different again...tonight, 2021-10-14, he told me that Marquel had taken down his mask and tried to spit on him. I told him I thought that he was in a different place in line now far away from Marquel. He said he is, but he said there are a couple of times during the day when transitions between classrooms take place, where he has to pass Marquel because of the way the line is against the wall (is what he said). Because I am not at school, I cannot quite visualize what he is referring to, but I am assuming that the line must be long and in a wrapped form one way or another. So there is the spitting issue. This is not ever okay as it can spread germs, viruses, bacteria etc...for any kid to attempt to spit on other kids. Especially during a pandemic...

I found out today what the other incident was. Yesterday (2021-10-13), apparently Elliott Homm was calling Jack names. Jack said he called him stupid and some other things. These are the 2 children that were previously causing him problems. I need the issues to be addressed promptly.

I asked Jack if he told an adult. He said he did not tell an adult because he was in a transition area (for the Marquel situation). I am not sure where the Elliott H. situation took place.

It makes me upset and sad that Jack is continuing to have these kinds of experiences. I want him to have a positive year at Bloom. What are the steps that we can take to ensure that Jack does not experience further behaviors that are bullying behaviors that are directed at him? They have a major and profound impact on him. I asked Jack previously why he says everything is okay if things like this happen at school. Just like he said at the meeting, he said he did not know if an adult would believe him because they did not observe the behavior, so he chose not to say anything. I know that if these types of situations are not handled swiftly, that behaviors and attitudes and mental health issues can escalate. Jack has enough anxiety and depression to deal with based on his current medical conditions. Please advise.

I also have a question about Jack - if he needs to go to the bathroom at certain times - but that will be sent in a different email under separate cover.

Thanks for your time. I need to hear from you to know next steps please. Jack goes back to his mother's house tomorrow on Friday night, so the timing is not the greatest to handle this, but I pick Jack up from school every day - even on her weeks so if you think meeting again is best, I could meet in the afternoon next week more easily than in the a.m.

Dr. Jacobs,

I need for you to be aware of this...

I had filed a report previously about Jack being bullied and need to file the additional items below so they will be tied to the same original incident/case filing.

Please see Mr. Kempf's phrasing below in his response to the email I wrote with regard to the latest additional bullying that Jack has endured...

Mr. Kempf wrote: "Mr. Fouts, We are aware of your accusations..."

I am not making an accusation...

I am telling Jack's teacher what Jack told me happened to him, and I believe Jack. Jack feels okay being vulnerable enough to tell me because he knows I am a safe person.

This is the 2nd time, with 1 time being too many, that I have been written to in what seems like a condescending tone from Mr. Kempf....and I most definitely do not appreciate it.

Also, the first time I had written to Mr. Kempf about Jack being bullied at school, the email was ignored for many days, which was also most definitely not appreciated.

He said he missed it...the email...but other emails have been responded to both prior to, and after, the original email without being missed...that being said...for me to find out what Jack had gotten on his end of year assessment took me asking I believe 3 written times and one verbal before answered. I do not have the energy to have to ask things like that many times before getting an answer....

Jack is not the kind of kid to complain unless there is something really wrong going on.

Jack has not had any trouble until this year at Bloom with anyone.

I will protect my son in whatever ways possible always, and I need to be able to trust that he is safe at school from bodily harm and injury and from emotional and verbal abuse.

I do not feel that way right now about Bloom, and that makes me very sad.

Jack came to Bloom around Spring Break in 1st Grade and has been there ever since...again...he has not had any problems until this year, and it hurts Jack deeply because the main student bullying him, used to be one of his good friends...

Now he (Jack) seems to have a teacher that does not think bullying is a big deal at all....but it is!

It is my understanding that there is a zero tolerance policy for bullying at JCPS, but it certainly has not been our experience (Jack's or mine) for that to be the case, ever since Jack began experiencing issues this year.

Again....I am not making accusations...I am telling the people that are supposed to be Jack's protectors at school, what Jack told me happened, so the issues can be addressed, so Jack can feel safe and be safe at school.

John R. Fouts, MBA (Jack's dad).

Hello everyone. Last week I thought we were making good progress. I know up until the meeting last week, during last week only, that Jack was not bullied after the changes had been made, and I felt pretty good about the situation and the concerns discussed at the meeting we all attended (Ms. Whitmer - I copied you so there is a record of communication that is easier to follow).

Jack had a cyclical vomiting incident on Friday and had to stay home with his mom. On Monday, I had accidentally taken him to school in the morning as if school were in session - silly me! Jack's student led conference seemed to go very well, and he seemed to say that things were going okay.

On Tuesday, Jack ended up having a severe migraine that lasted 5 or 6 hours...they usually don't last that long. I know it was a true migraine because he had to hold pressure on his head, was nauseated, sensitive to light and sound etc... - usually if he says he has a migraine, he has one....sometimes he just gets bad headaches too though....

Anyway - when he went to school on Wed., he told me he did really well completing some exit slip assignments. I was glad to hear that...but I could tell something had happened because he exhibits different behaviors when things happen....

He would not tell me what happened - all he would say is that something small happened. Then something else happened again today...he was more dysregulated...and I could tell something was different again...tonight, 2021-10-14, he told me that Marquel had taken down his mask and tried to spit on him. I told him I thought that he was in a different place in line now far away from Marquel. He said he is, but he said there are a couple of times during the day when transitions between classrooms take place, where he has to pass Marquel because of the way the line is against the wall (is what he said). Because I am not at school, I cannot quite visualize what he is referring to, but I am assuming that the line must be long and in a wrapped form one way or another. So there is the spitting issue. This is not ever okay as it can spread germs, viruses, bacteria etc...for any kid to attempt to spit on other kids. Especially during a pandemic...

I found out today what the other incident was. Yesterday (2021-10-13), apparently Elliott Homm was calling Jack names. Jack said he called him stupid and some other things. These are the 2 children that were previously causing him problems. I need the issues to be addressed promptly.

I asked Jack if he told an adult. He said he did not tell an adult because he was in a transition area (for the Marquel situation). I am not sure where the Elliott H. situation took place.

It makes me upset and sad that Jack is continuing to have these kinds of experiences. I want him to have a positive year at Bloom. What are the steps that we can take to ensure that Jack does not experience further behaviors that are bullying behaviors that are directed at him? They have a major and profound impact on him. I asked Jack previously why he says everything is okay if things like this happen at school. Just like he said at the meeting, he said he did not know if an adult would believe him because they did not observe the behavior, so he chose not to say anything. I know that if these types of situations are not handled swiftly, that behaviors and attitudes and mental health issues can escalate. Jack has enough anxiety and depression to deal with based on his current medical conditions. Please advise.

I also have a question about Jack - if he needs to go to the bathroom at certain times - but that will be sent in a different email under separate cover.

Thanks for your time. I need to hear from you to know next steps please. Jack goes back to his mother's house tomorrow on Friday night, so the timing is not the greatest to handle this, but I pick Jack up from school every day - even on her weeks so if you think meeting again is best, I could meet in the afternoon next week more easily than in the a.m.

Hi John,

I am sorry to hear this report. I know the team will certainly follow up and on Monday when Jack and I meet we will discuss as well. Particularly, as you said, the importance of letting a staff person know immediately when this happens. It is never ok to spit or be rude to another classmate.

Warmly,

Jamie,

I was sorry to hear about it too, but also thankful that Jack felt safe enough to tell me. Thank you for talking to him about it this coming Monday. He goes back to his mom's house today after she gets off work for the week - I will try to remind him that he can talk to you, that you are a safe person too.

John

I am so glad that you knew me and knew Jack from therapy before this year.

I will do so. I already spoke to him before I had to leave for my appointment this morning. I will talk to him again this evening.

Part of his confusion, I think, was because it was a transition area, so he did not know which adult to go to.

I think part of it was also that he feels that telling an adult will not change any future outcomes. That is kind of the response I get out of him as far as how he 'feels' goes. Logical and emotional thinking are hard to differentiate and separate at times for children (and adults). I try to talk with him about all of the things he experiences, and offer guidance for him.

Thanks for the message.

I asked Jack if he told an adult. He said he did not tell an adult because he was in a transition area (for the Marquel situation). I am not sure where the Elliott H. situation took place.

It makes me upset and sad that Jack is continuing to have these kinds of experiences. I want him to have a positive year at Bloom. What are the steps that we can take to ensure that Jack does not experience further behaviors that are bullying behaviors that are directed at him? They have a major and profound impact on him. I asked Jack previously why he says everything is okay if things like this happen at school. Just like he said at the meeting, he said he did not know if an adult would believe him because they did not observe the behavior, so he chose not to say anything. I know that if these types of situations are not handled swiftly, that behaviors and attitudes and mental health issues can escalate. Jack has enough anxiety and depression to deal with based on his current medical conditions. Please advise.

I also have a question about Jack - if he needs to go to the bathroom at certain times - but that will be sent in a different email under separate cover.

Thanks for your time. I need to hear from you to know next steps please. Jack goes back to his mother's house tomorrow on Friday night, so the timing is not the greatest to handle this, but I pick Jack up from school every day - even on her weeks so if you think meeting again is best, I could meet in the afternoon next week more easily than in the a.m.

Hello everyone. Last week I thought we were making good progress. I know up until the meeting last week, during last week only, that Jack was not bullied after the changes had been made, and I felt pretty good about the situation and the concerns discussed at the meeting we all attended (Ms. Whitmer - I copied you so there is a record of communication that is easier to follow).

Jack had a cyclical vomiting incident on Friday and had to stay home with his mom. On Monday, I had accidentally taken him to school in the morning as if school were in session - silly me! Jack's student led conference seemed to go very well, and he seemed to say that things were going okay.

On Tuesday, Jack ended up having a severe migraine that lasted 5 or 6 hours...they usually don't last that long. I know it was a true migraine because he had to hold pressure on his head, was nauseated, sensitive to light and sound etc... - usually if he says he has a migraine, he has one....sometimes he just gets bad headaches too though....

Anyway - when he went to school on Wed., he told me he did really well completing some exit slip assignments. I was glad to hear that...but I could tell something had happened because he exhibits different behaviors when things happen....

He would not tell me what happened - all he would say is that something small happened. Then something else happened again today...he was more dysregulated...and I could tell something was different again...tonight, 2021-10-14, he told me that Marquel had taken down his mask and tried to spit on him. I told him I thought that he was in a different place in line now far away from Marquel. He said he is, but he said there are a couple of times during the day when transitions between classrooms take place, where he has to pass Marquel because of the way the line is against the wall (is what he said). Because I am not at school, I cannot quite visualize what he is referring to, but I am assuming that the line must be long and in a wrapped form one way or another. So there is the spitting issue. This is not ever okay as it can spread germs, viruses, bacteria etc...for any kid to attempt to spit on other kids. Especially during a pandemic...

I found out today what the other incident was. Yesterday (2021-10-13), apparently Elliott Homm was calling Jack names. Jack said he called him stupid and some other things. These are the 2 children that were previously causing him problems. I need the issues to be addressed promptly.

I asked Jack if he told an adult. He said he did not tell an adult because he was in a transition area (for the Marquel situation). I am not sure where the Elliott H. situation took place.

It makes me upset and sad that Jack is continuing to have these kinds of experiences. I want him to have a positive year at Bloom. Hi,

What he means by his email is that it is being investigated. I know that Ms. Whitmer and Ms. Wright are in fact investigating - sort of an extended investigation. I also know that eyes are on students in 5th grade in general. I know Mr. Kempf did not have a negative tone with his word choice and wasn't implying anything.

Regardless, we take reports seriously. I feel confident that things will improve ASAP. If you could talk to J about reaching out to me when he feels that something is wrong or when he feels that he need to talk to me. I see him a lot and almost every day (I am out Monday but that's rare for me).

Thank you.

Dr. Jacobs,

I need for you to be aware of this...

I had filed a report previously about Jack being bullied and need to file the additional items below so they will be tied to the same original incident/case filing.

Please see Mr. Kempf's phrasing below in his response to the email I wrote with regard to the latest additional bullying that Jack has endured...

Mr. Kempf wrote: "Mr. Fouts, We are aware of your accusations..."

I am not making an accusation...

I am telling Jack's teacher what Jack told me happened to him, and I believe Jack. Jack feels okay being vulnerable enough to tell me because he knows I am a safe person.

This is the 2nd time, with 1 time being too many, that I have been written to in what seems like a condescending tone from Mr. Kempf....and I most definitely do not appreciate it.

Also, the first time I had written to Mr. Kempf about Jack being bullied at school, the email was ignored for many days, which was also most definitely not appreciated.

He said he missed it...the email...but other emails have been responded to both prior to, and after, the original email without being missed...that being said...for me to find out what Jack had gotten on his end of year assessment took me asking I believe 3 written times and one verbal before answered. I do not have the energy to have to ask things like that many times before getting an answer....

Jack is not the kind of kid to complain unless there is something really wrong going on.

Jack has not had any trouble until this year at Bloom with anyone.

I will protect my son in whatever ways possible always, and I need to be able to trust that he is safe at school from bodily harm and injury and from emotional and verbal abuse.

I do not feel that way right now about Bloom, and that makes me very sad.

Jack came to Bloom around Spring Break in 1st Grade and has been there ever since...again...he has not had any problems until this year, and it hurts Jack deeply because the main student bullying him, used to be one of his good friends...

Now he (Jack) seems to have a teacher that does not think bullying is a big deal at all....but it is!

It is my understanding that there is a zero tolerance policy for bullying at JCPS, but it certainly has not been our experience (Jack's or mine) for that to be the case, ever since Jack began experiencing issues this year.

Again....I am not making accusations...I am telling the people that are supposed to be Jack's protectors at school, what Jack told me happened, so the issues can be addressed, so Jack can feel safe and be safe at school.

John R. Fouts, MBA (Jack's dad).

Dr. Jacobs,

Thank you for your email. I gave Mr. Kempf the benefit of the doubt the first time with choice of phrasing, words, etc...but there have been a number of times that his choice of words, or expressionism, has not been what I would have expected.

I like Mr. Kempf as a teacher - and I know Jack likes him as a teacher too. Importantly here also, Mr. Kempf is Jack's first male teacher, and I want him to have a positive experience.

I will say that I would like to believe that he (Mr. Kempf) meant for his messages to be as you stated.

I hope that you can understand how the message I noted could be interpreted in multiple ways, and how it came across the wrong way.

Before I took Jack to his mom's house on Friday for her week with him, I reiterated again, for Jack to go to the nearest adult and let him or her know what happens if something happens.

His general response was that he felt like the adult would not believe him, or things happen in areas where he is not sure who to talk to - like in the hallway between classes - so he is not sure which grown up to talk to, or he said he felt like when he has spoken up nothing has made a difference - because things are still happening.

I told him I could understand how he could feel the way he felt, and also told him that grown ups at Bloom know that they need to be keeping a close eye on the situation. Then he asked me why things still kept happening. I told him I am not there, so I do not have all the details, from things that happen at school....but I told him I would make sure that I had another discussion. I also recently learned, that Jack's mom, is in disbelief that he has neuropathic pain - which does not help matters. I wrote to Jack's neurologist, and asked her to provide a letter that I can show to his mother, to help with that particular part of the issue. I feel it is ridiculous that I need to do that, however, because she (his mom) could just log in to MyChart and see Jack's medical situation - but she won't - the situation is what it is.

Jack's medical conditions worsened about 9 months ago roughly now.....but this past week he had a really tough week with cyclic vomiting, and migrane and/or cluster headaches. Stress and emotional stress can be triggers. I believe that is what is happening. For Jack, I need him to have good days both at school and at home.

He is in a weakened emotional strength state right now from everything. I pick him up from school each day, even on the days that are his mom's weeks, until she comes to pick him up when she gets off work. This gives me a good opportunity to offer consistency in terms of allowing him to tell me if things are happening. I will talk to him on Monday, and let him know that he can come to you anytime as you noted. Thank you Dr. Jacobs.

John

Jack has a therapy appt (outside school) at 10 tomorrow -

It is my hope that he will be able to come in after that. He was with his mom all last week. I have been able to talk to him some over the weekend - but it has taken some time (as always) to adjust.

I need to know the following:

1.) Ms. Webb - I called Jack's doctor on Friday and they said they would fax you a doctor note that he went to the doctor's office.
2.) When is make up picture day?
3.) When is make up day for cogAT?
4.) Mr. Kempf - Jack said he needed more time for the math guiding question each day when there is one. I told him I would talk to you about that, and see what we need to do to make that happen.
5.) Jack's mom did not have Jack attend the virtual open house for Highland last week, or remind him about it - who can I contact at Highland to see if Jack and I can go over there either in person or virtually so he can see the school there? It is very important that Jack be able to feel that the transition to middle school is as smooth as it can possibly be.

Thanks all.

Jack should be able to be back at school tomorrow shortly after 11 barring any unforeseen circumstances (by tomorrow I mean Monday). He sees Ms. Sanchez on Mondays too so I will try to get the ongoing out of school therapy sessions scheduled for a day that is not Monday going forward - I took first available when I scheduled this appointment because I knew it was critical for Jack to start therapy out of school (in addition to in school) asap.

I did receive the fax on Friday. Make sure when you go to your appointment today to ask for an excuse note.
PTA has not announced a makeup picture day date. The PTA oversees that. They post messages on SchoolCNXT.
Ms. Whitmer will give the test once he returns to school. She is not at school today though.

Subject: Jack has a therapy appt (outside school) at 10 tomorrow -

CAUTION: This email originated from outside of JCPS. Do not click links or open attachments unless you recognize the sender and know the content is safe.

It is my hope that he will be able to come in after that. He was with his mom all last week. I have been able to talk to him some over the weekend - but it has taken some time (as always) to adjust.

I need to know the following:

1.) Ms. Webb - I called Jack's doctor on Friday and they said they would fax you a doctor note that he went to the doctor's office.
2.) When is make up picture day?
3.) When is make up day for cogAT?
4.) Mr. Kempf - Jack said he needed more time for the math guiding question each day when there is one. I told him I would talk to you about that, and see what we need to do to make that happen.
5.) Jack's mom did not have Jack attend the virtual open house for Highland last week, or remind him about it - who can I contact at Highland to see if Jack and I can go over there either in person or virtually so he can see the school there? It is very important that Jack be able to feel that the transition to middle school is as smooth as it can possibly be.

Thanks all.

Jack should be able to be back at school tomorrow shortly after 11 barring any unforeseen circumstances (by tomorrow I mean Monday). He sees Ms. Sanchez on Mondays too so I will try to get the ongoing out of school therapy sessions scheduled for a day that is not Monday going forward - I took first available when I scheduled this appointment because I knew it was critical for Jack to start therapy out of school (in addition to in school) asap.

Mr. Fouts,
The guiding question for each lesson is on the 5th grade website, in Google Classroom, displayed 3 places in the classroom all day, and I displayed on the Smartboard prior to lessons.
If Jack unable to write it at any time during the school day he may write it in his agenda before or after school.

Thank you for your time,

Jack Fouts - Follow-Up - 2021-10-25

Mr. Kempf,

Thank you - I appreciate your response. Jack ended up with another headache today - although I suspect this one may have been triggered by changes in barometric pressure - still working on identifying triggers here for him. Jack said he was having trouble writing the question down in time. I tried to log on (as a parent) and I am not able to see Jack's work - so I cannot see it on the 5th grade website - unless I am going to the wrong website which is quite possible - JCPS makes it hard, I feel, on parents.

Jack wanted to know which 3 places it was displayed, so he can make sure he checks all three that you mention. I would like to avoid before or after school changes to routine because I only have him every other week and have no control over whether or not there would be consistency during the other weeks when he is not with me with regard to his assignments and making sure he completes them.

I hope everything is going well with you and your family.

Mr. Fouts,

The guiding question is a one sentence question framing the days' lesson. I post paper copies of this question on either side of the Smartboard and about 5 feet behind Jack on the wall. The questions are also in the Google Classroom under assignments and posted with each corresponding exit slip. The questions are also on the 5th website which is linked in all of the 5th grade Google Classrooms and here https://sites.google.com/jefferson.kyschools.us/5thgradebloom2021-2022/home
I don't have a preference as to when he writes this sentence down. Most students find the 2-3 minutes I give them at the begining of class ample, as it takes most about 30 seconds. Jack is free to use any of his two WIN times, when he arrives in class in the morning, at the end of the day, at home, during partner work time in class, or even right before lunch. I do not need to know which of these times you decide on.

It was great to see Jack back today!!

Thank you for your time,

How often do acute appointments need to occur?

Lilly,

This may be a question with no answer really, but for how long do you recommend the acute appointments too?

Jack has therapy in school, outside of school with Lindsey Smith that he started this week, and on-going on a weekly basis as well. Should he have therapy with you on days when he does not see Lindsey or Ms. Sanchez at school? That would mean 3 days out of the week, barring illness issues, he would be seeing a therapist.

I can call to set up the appointment but need some guidance. Thanks for being there for Jack!!

When he meets with you, I don't even know where to begin....he seems like he is a completely different person altogether, these last 3 or 4 weeks. I don't know what happened, but it seems like there was some kind of a major trigger that caused something to change in him.

He has been self harming. I am barely able to help him with any work because if it needs any correction at all, he will begin to self harm...even with tremendous amounts of praise in between.

When he came back from his mom's this week, he keeps calling himself stupid, and an idiot, and dumb, and I keep telling him he is very smart, very talented, very creative, very artistic, very passionate, and to each he says no he is not and then grows extraordinarily angry and won't talk to me or is extremely defiant for many hours afterwards. I don't know what to do.

He needs help. His mom doesn't help him with his school work most of the time. And I don't know what happens over there, and I don't need to know, but Jack is acting totally differently and I'd like to know how to help him.

He is also now unwilling to be in a room on his own without me in it, because he says he is too scared. This makes it very difficult to get anything done around the house - as an example, I cannot go to the bathroom on my own now....he has to be right outside the door....or I cannot cook food and have him be in the other room (the bedroom which is right next door - or the living room), etc... This was not this way only a few weeks ago.

I'm just worried very much about him, and I don't know how to help the anxiety at the level that it has reached for him. The timing concerns me a lot because he is getting ready to head into middle school, which is arguably the toughest transition for many of us in life.

I love Jack very much, and always want him to have whatever he needs to be successful in his life.

John

Form For Information Release / Dates

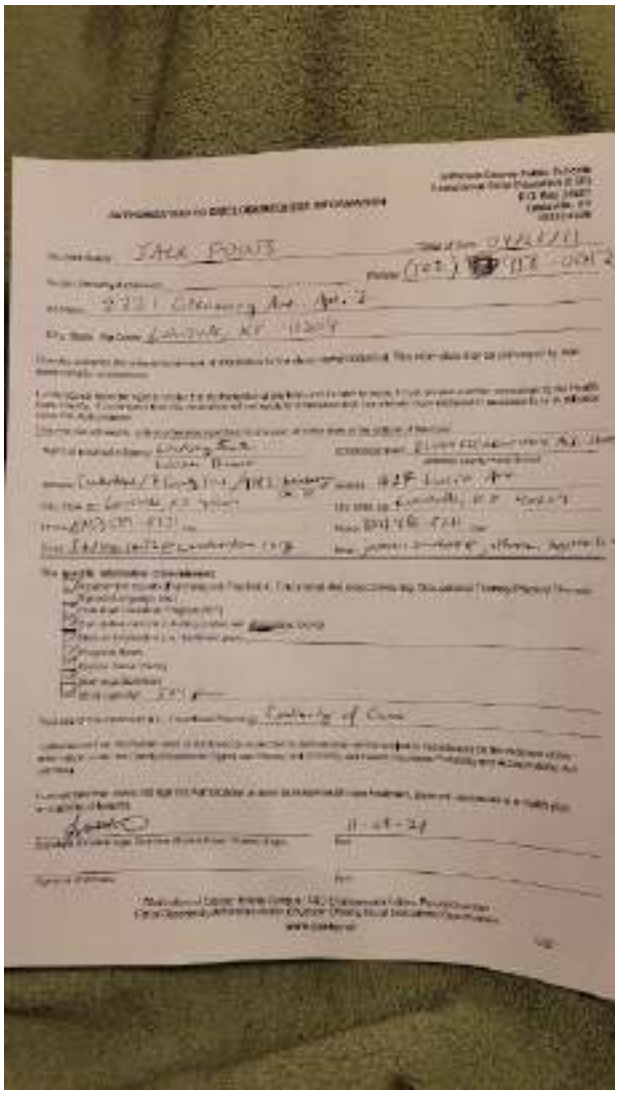
Ms. Sanchez,

Thank you for the quick call earlier. I truly appreciate your help. I am feeling a bit at a loss as to what is going on with Jack's current thought processes. That is where you therapy experts come in - right?

I've attached the medical information release form or whatever you call it.



Also, Jack's 1st acute therapy / crisis center appointment was on 2021-10-28. Also, his next, non-crisis center, out of school therapy appointment, is at 9 am this week on 2021-11-12.

The soonest I could get him on the schedule for an additional acute crisis center therapy appointment with Lillian Dumar (Lilly) was on the 16th, 2021-11-16 at 10 am, and then he will see Lindsey Smith again on 2021-11-17 at 9 am.

Special note: Jack's mom's name is Lindsay, so in order to make sure Jack doesn't get confused (and I don't get confused too), I am going to always say 'Lindsey The Therapist' when I talk about Lindsey Smith.

If you all need any other information, please let me know. Thank you

More Weirdness

Ms. Sanchez,

This has been my afternoon, since picking Jack up a few minutes ago.

He seemed happy when he left school.

I pointed out a teacher in the car rider line that I can never remember the name of, and he said it was Ms. Miller. I said I can never remember her name.

He said I'm going to tell her you said that. I said, that's fine Jack, I don't ask you to keep any secrets.

He said she helps people if they need help with their work, she pulls them out of class.

I asked if she had been helping him since he had been out so much lately, and he said no because he has not needed any help.

He said he wanted to play ball, and I told him I had some work I needed to finish up first, but that we could play ball right after that. He had a very sunken reaction.

I said, I need to go to the post office to mail a package, but if you do a good job of behaving appropriately, I will buy you a wireless mouse because I know you want one.

He screamed with jubilation, but it was so loud it hurt my ears. I told him I was glad he was so excited but that I needed him to not scream so loudly next time because it really hurt my ears.

Then he told me that he got a 100 on today's math exit slip. I told him great job! And I tried to give him 5 because usually that is what he likes. He refused to give me a hi 5. I said Jack, it is okay that you don't want to give me a high five, but I don't understand why you are upset with me or what is going on. He said he doesn't want to give me them anymore, at least not right now. I said that is okay.

Then we pulled over to take a picture of a pretty tree. I said I will miss Glenmary when we move away from this area, but I will always have good memories of it - won't you? He gave me silence.

He asked if he could play Minecraft while I worked, and I said sure thing - that would be great, but we won't be staying long because I have errands I have to run tonight....you have to understand Jamie....usually I have to put off all of my errands until every other week because many are simply not possible due to the way that things are...but I have so many backed up that I have to do some of them...

While we were pulled over, I saw a sticker on a car that said RRG Red River Gorge. I said that is a great sticker! I said you know what that stands for right? He said yes Red River Gorge. I said yep - I said around here - you could even just put RRG No Explanation Needed, and then he became very angry/hurt/withdrawn and put his head down.

I asked him what was wrong. He said that I didn't like his sticker idea. I said what sticker idea? He said his sticker idea of Red River Gorge saying RRG Red River Gorge. I said I think there was a miscommunication, that is what that sticker said already, I didn't know you were saying you wanted to make stickers that said that too. I think that is great also! He opened his door and got out.

By this time, I was so lost about his actions that I needed to sit there for a few minutes. I told him his actions kind of hurt me because I was just trying to talk to him and he acted angry at me for trying to talk to him. He said - I don't know how they could have. I don't see why. I don't understand.

I just sat there because I know when he is in that mood, he will not listen to anything.

He held the door open for me to go in the house but hasn't said another word to me since.

So, this is a perfect example, of the recent interactions that have been occurring that I do not understand. If you have any advice on how to help him, I am all ears.

John

Jack Is Still Struggling Emotionally

1 message

John Fouts <fouts.john@gmail.com> Mon, Nov 8, 2021 at 11:23 PM
To: Lindsay Fouts <lindsayfoutscpa@gmail.com>

I don't know what has happened, but to me, it seems that he is acting very differently - very emotionally labile.

liable to change; easily altered.
"persons whose blood pressure is more labile will carry an enhanced risk of heart attack"

- of or characterized by emotions that are easily aroused or freely expressed, and that tend to alter quickly and spontaneously; emotionally unstable.
  "mood seemed generally appropriate, but the patient was often labile"
- CHEMISTRY
  easily broken down or displaced.

I know you know the definition - but I put it in here to make sure I was using the word properly.

I think a lot of it is related to Elavil. I have already cut him back to 10 mg. I need to let Dr. Rogers know that. His blurred vision I think is from the Elavil. I highlighted below, in yellow, what I think he has experienced from Elavil. I also have definitely seen a major uptick in suicidal ideation from him, and that is greatly concerning to me.

https://www.rxlist.com/elavil-drug.htm#description

Elavil may cause serious side effects including:

- easy bruising or bleeding,
- persistent heartburn,
- shaking,
- mask-like facial expressions,
- muscle spasms,
- severe stomach pain,
- decreased sexual desire,
- enlarged or painful breasts,
- black stools,
- vomit that looks like coffee grounds,
- severe dizziness,
- fainting,
- seizures,
- eye pain, redness or swelling,
- vision changes,
- fever,
- muscle stiffness,
- severe confusion,
- sweating, and
- fast or irregular heartbeat

Get medical help right away, if you have any of the symptoms listed above.

The most common side effects of Elavil include:

- drowsiness,
- dizziness,
- dry mouth,
- blurred vision,
- constipation,
- weight gain, and
- difficulty urinating

Jack has shown the above that I highlighted in yellow, while he is here as well.

Suicidality and Antidepressant Drugs

Antidepressants increased the risk compared to placebo of suicidal thinking and behavior (suicidality) in children, adolescents , and young adults in short-term studies of major depressive disorder (MDD) and other psychiatric disorders. Anyone considering the use of amitriptyline hydrochloride tablets or any other antidepressant in a child, adolescent, or young adult must balance this risk with the clinical need. Short-term studies did not show an increase in the risk of suicidality with antidepressants compared to placebo in adults beyond age 24; there was a reduction in risk with antidepressants compared to placebo in adults aged 65 and older. Depression and certain other psychiatric disorders are themselves associated with increases in the risk of suicide. Patients of all ages who are started on antidepressant therapy should be monitored appropriately and observed closely for clinical worsening, suicidality, or unusual changes in behavior. Families and caregivers should be advised of the need for close observation and communication with the prescriber. Amitriptyline hydrochloride tablets are not approved for use in pediatric patients (see WARNINGS : Clinical Worsening and Suicide Risk, PATIENT INFORMATION, and PRECAUTIONS : Pediatric Use.)

https://www.alternativetomeds.com/blog/elavil-tapering/

Jack needs to stop the Elavil altogether! There is a potentially life threatening reaction that exists between Clonidine and Amitryptiline!

Also - Jack has shown all those signs - nausea - vomiting - Patients should be advised to seek medical help if they develop potential symptoms of a hypertensive crisis such as nausea, vomiting, sweating, flushing, dizziness, stiff neck, headache or palpitations.

I think that the Elavil is what has caused the change - I think the 20 mg was far too much for him - I think that he is trying to 'regain his balance' so to speak. After reading extensively on this topic.

I am going to ask his neurologist to stop the Elavil - I'm going to tell her we need a weaning off schedule. I took him down to 10 mg 3 days ago. I am hoping to get him off of it as quickly and safely as possible.

I don't think it was the right choice for him.

There is a new medication inhaler potentially for cyclic vomiting. It is in clinical trial stage right now - - fyi.

I tried to apply for Jack to apply to Noe and to Thomas Jefferson Middle. He said he wants to go to Thomas Jefferson after I showed him the videos from the orientations/open houses. I also drove him by each school - Highland, Noe, and Thomas Jefferson. I tried to apply, but contacted Ms. Whitmer when neither my login, nor the token that was on the letter, would work for the application process. I have not heard back yet.

I think Jack will be okay after he gets off of the Elavil but there may be an adjustment period of a month or so while his Serotonin and Dopamine levels return to their natural levels.

If you get a chance, check out CGRP therapy (Calcitonin Gene Related Peptide).

https://www.psychiatryadvisor.com/home/topics/mood-disorders/depressive-disorder/antidepressant-death-found-most-often-with-amitriptyline/

Jack has therapy with 7 County Svc this Friday from 9 to 10. There is no school that day.

Next week he has therapy on Monday with Ms. Sanchez, Tuesday with the regular out of school therapist, and on Wednesday with the acute crisis therapist. That will be good for him.

He saw Ms. Sanchez today.

Jack Would Like To See You Again - Feels A Need To

Lilly,

I told Jack I would ask if he could see you one more time. He said he really felt the need to and he felt like the amount of therapy he is getting from you, Ms. Sanchez at school, and from Lindsey Smith was the right amount. Can you see him at least one more time?

Is there a group for children his age that could be fitting and helpful?

I think I figured it out - I think it is mostly related to Elavil

Jamie,

Elavil is a Tri-Cyclic Antidepressant. I looked up the side effects and interactions of all of Jack's meds last night, and found that he 'should not' have been prescribed Elavil at all since he takes Clonidine. There is a MAJOR interaction between those meds and the professional rx guidance says to avoid that combination because it is so dangerous.

I am sure his doctor was weighing benefits/risks based on what she had seen, but it now makes total sense - even with timing.

That being said, Jack still does definitely need therapy. And yesterday he told me he felt like no one has loved him since he was 6. (That is the year we got divorced). I thought that might be helpful in some way for the things that you and he discuss when you meet with him.

I've asked his doctor to give me a weaning schedule for Elavil. The thing is - that may end up leading to him having more neuropathic pain again... I am trying to find a way to afford going to Mayo Clinic for him and me both. Also we are trying to go to the NIH if a study becomes available.

It is not my week with him. I sent a message to Mr. Kempf to ask him to let you know that you would be out, but Mr. Kempf has not responded as of yet - so I don't know if he did not get the message or has been too busy to respond or what. Thanks for letting me know.

Hi Mr. Kempf,

Jack really wanted to talk to Ms. Sanchez - last time he had the opportunity to do so - was on a Monday that she was not there prior to Thanksgiving break. She was out today also. No one let Jack know what was going on the last time - he said that no one came to get him for him to go there.

I'm asking that you let him know, please, so he understands, that she will be back soon.

Thank you.

Ms. Sanchez - About Jack - Please Read If Possible - Homeschool - Other

1 message

John Fouts <fouts.john@gmail.com> Mon, Dec 6, 2021 at 11:11 AM
To: "Sanchez, Jamie M." <jamie.sanchez@jefferson.kyschools.us>

Ms. Sanchez,

Jack has been having some crisis like moments. Yesterday, I called the Centerstone / 7 County Services Crisis Center because I did not know if it would help Jack, but thought that it might.

I had told him to 'hold on' for a second while I ordered pizza and then he kept digging through stuff, so I told him to hold on again but a little more firmly but in no way yelling or screaming...unfortunately, Jack has become VERY SENSITIVE to any kind of criticism or any kind of tone - even positive constructive criticism seems to send him into a crisis.

He has had a sensory processing 'meets the criteria for' section in his file since he was much younger. He has been telling me some things that make me think that it is greatly affecting him. He also has said things like he can smell colors before, and that kind of thing.

So - it is as if some of his sensory wires are crossed in his mind. He is experiencing some kind of synesthesia.

"Synesthesia means to blend the 5 senses. Examples or synesthesia are seeing sounds in colors or touching smells. Also, concepts such as letters or numbers may evoke the perception of color. This co-activation is called Ideasthesia."

There are over 80 types of it....I don't know if it could be prodromal stage of migraine or other migrainous type of situation, if it could be physically caused by something physical - like something going on in his brain or in his mind. It is very worrisome to me. I haven't had him describe that he has experiences like that specifically in the past. Also - when I picked him up

He also told me that sometimes he can only see pinks squares like the frames of a window but he cannot see or hear through them - to me, this sounds like pretty extreme dissociation - but I don't want to read more into it than what is there. Everyone dissociates to a degree often, so I am not sure what to make out of that or what or how to talk to Jack about that specifically.

Friday - he asked me if a desk was the same thing as a table. I told him that they were two different things, but he insisted they were the same, so I said okay Jack - you asked me if they were the same, I have told you the definitions as I know them of things that exist - but you seem to have a different definition and I was onliy answering your question. He had become very angry. When I told him hold on, and then he launched into an extreme screaming crisis for about an hour, I told him he needed to not be as loud or my neighbors might call the police - because they have before... I said if you don't stop screaming so loudly, you might need to go apologize to them so they understand what is happening and that you are ok. That made him scream even more - so it was not the right thing for me to say.

I just want to help him feel better. He told me yesterday that a rage room would help him - so I am looking into that.

He also told me late last night - that he wants to be homeschooled. I told him I would talk to him about that today - but thought you might want to ask him about that too. He had a great deal of trouble falling asleep. He does not have that trouble on Friday and Saturday nights - it is mainly on school nights - so that makes me think that a vast majority of what is going on is anxiety presenting as behavioral dysregulation. I am not an expert - that is my two cents as a parent - that loves my child very much - and wants to find a way for him to feel better and be as successful as he can be.

Please let me know if you have any questions later. Thank you.

There are times that I have to be out for personal reasons including illness, please know that if at all possible, I stick to the schedule we have set up When I am out, I email the teachers. If Jack is concerned, we will continue to encourage him to ask Mr. Kempf. I will never miss a scheduled time if it is avoidable.

I have included Mr. Kempf, Ms. Whitmer and Dr Jacobs here as well. If Jack ever has something that needs immediate attention he can let a teacher know and can talk with the school counselor or another member of the team. We never want Jack to feel he doesn't have someone to check in with.

Best to you,

Ms. Sanchez,

My subject line wasn't meant to be taken in a bad way. I'm really sorry. I can see how that would come across in totally the wrong way.

I completely understand.

All I ask is that Jack be notified if he won't be able to meet with you during a time when you would normally meet with him - because really, right now he needs as much opportunity to talk about things that are going on as he can get.

I talked to him on the phone briefly last night, and I asked if he got to meet with you on Monday. He said no one came to get him to go see you so he didn't get to talk to you.

Mr. Kempf - if Ms. Sanchez is out,please, could you notify Jack so he knows that he won't get to meet with her on any given day like that?

I can see how the subject line of my email may have been read incorrectly. I was very tired and having a very rough day yesterday healthwise myself - please know that I did not mean to have any kind of negative tone associated with my email - I was just very tired and direct.

I know and 100% understand that you will meet with Jack when you can.

I need to make sure he understands what is going on though on the days that you cannot meet with him.

I also wanted to avoid any confusion since for the month of December, and on Jan. 5th, Jack is meeting with Lindsey Smith (who he normally sees for outside of school therapy, at school....because that was the only time she could see him in December....he has on-going meetings with her scheduled through the end of March now outside of school - those meetings' physical location will be at Seven County Services Jan. 6 - the end of March).

I wanted to make sure that you remain preserved as his in-school therapist as he has established a connection with you.

Thank you 'all' for everything. It has been a challenging year for everyone I know. Again, please forgive my poor choice of words for the subject line. Thank you.

John

Jack is with his mom this week. He told her this morning that he was too upset to go into school today because of an incident that happened yesterday. I have very little information to go on. He and she called me this morning briefly after his therapy session, and he was too upset to talk about it. If he shares anything else I will let you all know, but I don't know that he is going to. I know that you all keep your eyes on the kids very well. Maybe, if possible, try to pay a little extra attention to what is happening in Jack's world assuming he can make it in to school tomorrow. I don't know what else I can ask you all to do. I know you already do a good job.

Ms. Craven - we still need to get a call scheduled - my work schedule has been a bit hectic.

Jack told me just now there was an incident at school yesterday at Bloom and he is feeling “intimidated “ about returning today.

I can’t get any further information from him yet.

Jack is non-binary (he/they)

I am having VPN issues with work this morning and headed into the office.

Hi John,

No worries, we are all here to support Jack. Meeting with Ms. Lindsay at school does not interfere with MHP services at school, so that should not be a problem.

Best to you all,

Jamie

Ms. Sanchez,

My subject line wasn't meant to be taken in a bad way. I'm really sorry. I can see how that would come across in totally the wrong way.

I completely understand.

All I ask is that Jack be notified if he won't be able to meet with you during a time when you would normally meet with him - because really, right now he needs as much opportunity to talk about things that are going on as he can get.

I talked to him on the phone briefly last night, and I asked if he got to meet with you on Monday. He said no one came to get him to go see you so he didn't get to talk to you.

Mr. Kempf - if Ms. Sanchez is out,please, could you notify Jack so he knows that he won't get to meet with her on any given day like that?

I can see how the subject line of my email may have been read incorrectly. I was very tired and having a very rough day yesterday healthwise myself - please know that I did not mean to have any kind of negative tone associated with my email - I was just very tired and direct.

I know and 100% understand that you will meet with Jack when you can.

I need to make sure he understands what is going on though on the days that you cannot meet with him.

I also wanted to avoid any confusion since for the month of December, and on Jan. 5th, Jack is meeting with Lindsey Smith (who he normally sees for outside of school therapy at school - because that was the only time she could see him in December....he has on-going meetings with her scheduled through the end of March now outside of school - those meetings' physical location will be at Seven County Services Jan. 6 - the end of March).

I wanted to make sure that you remain preserved as his in-school therapist as he has established a connection with you.

Thank you 'all' for everything. It has been a challenging year for everyone I know. Again, please forgive my poor choice of words for the subject line. Thank you.

John

Kim,

Please see below in red. Please note (in advance), that nothing at all is directed towards you. That being said, I do want to voice my frustrations with JCPS.

> Hello! Sorry it took me so long!

This had not been happening until very recently, and the year is more than half over.

2. Let me know if you are still struggling with getting them to notice when Jack turns in late assignments.

The teachers have stated that they are not notified when late assignments are turned in, and so it is easy to miss them unless the parent notifies them also that they are turned in.

In regards to anxiety, we will need an official diagnosis from a physician.

It is already diagnosed - I don't have time to go back and duplicate and triplicate efforts - nor energy.

I am attaching the health/medical questionnaire to this document. Do not rush to get this done.

Because of the issues Jack has had at school, and because of JCPS's extreme rigidity and inability to understand student health issues at the school level / teacher level, we have decided to take Jack out of public school and home school him. He has been bullied repeatedly. The school does not seem to take this very seriously. Dr. Jacobs recently, during a conversation at the door, stated that one kid calling another student idiot or stupid repeatedly is not bullying...well, I'm sorry, but that meets the definition of emotional and verbal bullying to a tee, and has deeply and profoundly impacted Jack's mental health adversely. I really like Dr. Jacobs but I have to draw the line there with regard to that statement.

Jack also has turned in several pieces of work that he did not get credit for despite working very hard on the assignments. I personally witnessed him turn in one or two of the assignments that he did not get credit for. This is not okay.

The only thing I would think he would need based on this diagnosis, since he already has a form completed for excused absences, is the ability to make up missed work which is a natural result of any absence.

Nope - even though we have multiple forms from multiple doctors on file for parent excused absences, Jack is being 'administratively bullied' by receiving notes that get sent home that say that doctors notes are not relevant for anxiety - and that anxiety is not an illness...and that any absence involving anxiety or tardy will be unexcused. When I talked to 2 of Jack's doctors, they were both not able to comprehend (just like me), why we were being treated this way. Again - I am very fired up about this because mental health is equivalent to physical health, and anxiety is listed as an 'illness' in the DSM-IV. I am extremely fed up with JCPS after this year, which makes me very sad, because the other years had been really good (based on the other school systems we have had experience with since Jack was a child - West Clark Community Schools and Bullitt County Schools). I cannot allow my son to get lost in the shuffle because the school values money and funds from student attendance records over the actual education of the student. That is a very sad state of affairs.

Now, Kim, I want to be crystal clear, and say that 'you' have 'always' been very helpful, and I am very grateful to you for that. You have always seemed like you actually do value the child and his or her education. I can tell by the way you speak passionately.

He may also need us to look at adding time with the Mental Health counselor at school.

He already sees Ms. Sanchez weekly (he has for over a year), and Lindsey Smith weekly. Ms. Sanchez in school and Lindsey Smith out of school.

School has not wanted to excuse his time seeing Lindsey Smith (who he sees on Wednesdays at 9 am until 10 am). Again, it is pretty ridiculous - it is a set/standing appointment with a set time. Jack has been afraid to talk about anything at therapy because of potential repercussions from the school. I understand where he is coming from.

I know that you already know that I would do anything for Jack, and so I want to let you know that I am scheduling him for the psychological evaluation (making the appointment this week) - finally got a call after being on a waiting list for months.

I do think it would be best to have a re-evaluation to address anxiety prior to middle school. We could either meet at Bloom toward the end of the year or we could meet with his new middle school prior to school starting in August.

Jack has too much anxiety to even walk through the doors at Bloom again unfortunately.

What I know right now, is that I am homeschooling Jack at least for the rest of this year. If middle school is anything like 5th grade, he will continue to be homeschooled. I don't know how to get teachers to adhere to 504 plan accommodations when they don't, or how to solve JCPS's IT issues with regard to some assignments, etc... I will get off of my soapbox now - nothing is directed towards you Kim - I am so frustrated with JCPS.

> 1. As far as division is concerned, I spoke with Ms. Whitmer and she indicated that there are retired teachers going into Jack's class to assist students who are struggling in particular areas of math. He should also be getting "tier 2 interventions" due to his most recent Math MAP score which was in the 23rd percentile. Between those two items, they should be able to get division on track.

I was not ever told that his MAP score was in the 23rd percentile - nothing came home - the teacher made no attempt to communicate that. At the parent teacher conference it was not brought up.

> To me, that seems very strange - I would think that would be something to work on. I have been asking for extra help for Jack for weeks, and haven't been able to get any set up for him at school.

> That effort would have been much better spent working with Jack than spinning my wheels. I only know that Jack has been struggling so much because, thankfully, Jack opens up to me (sometimes) - but I feel like I am in danger of losing him to a system of distrust that he has experienced in an educational context.

> Do not apologize for long emails!

Well, nice of you to say that, but I know I can be too wordy sometimes.

> I am here as a support for you! I hope you are doing well.

Thank you for that well wish too. I need that really bad lately. Having IVIG weekly is hard. Continuing to get sicker without knowing why is also really hard. I may be on the right track though after 12 years...of at least knowing more about what is wrong. Here's to hoping for that - right?

Thank you for all you have done to help Jack. I know you have worked hard to try to make sure he had things in place for his plan, and you advocated for him and for me during the 504 plan meeting that we had with you present - I will always be grateful for that. We may end up having Jack go back into the school system at some point. I'm hopeful he can get caught back up again with me teaching him.

Kim,

I'm sorry it has taken me so long to get in touch with you. Thank you for your responses. This week has been completely crazy with appointments.

I have more 504 questions and answers to your questions from above.

First - for question 1 - thank you for a step-by-step kind of direction - I need that these days! I'm exhausted pretty much all the time I feel like - so that is very helpful.

Regarding question 2 - I am not sure Jack was getting the extra time he was supposed to. I don't know if you said something to the school, but it seems like the extra time is available to him for the most part now. A few things had happened that sparked my question initially - like I had a call or email conversation with Ms. Walts-Paulin at one point in time, and she said that if Jack has a migraine, he should be able to work from home, that the kids are 5th graders now, and they need to learn and develop responsibility. So, while I agree with the responsibility part, I just need the teachers to know, that if a child has a migraine, the child is not capable of doing anything aside from laying in a quiet dark room until it goes away - which sometimes takes many hours.

Or if Jack is vomiting 15 or 20 times or more per hour due to Cyclical Vomiting Syndrome, he is also not capable of doing work that requires any level of concentration.

Ms. Craven and I talked on the phone the other day. I had a concern because Jack had a grade in reading that went from an A to a C. Ms. Craven said it was because he turned in some assignments late, and also because he was missing some assignments. For some of the assignments that she said were missing, however, I physically was present when Jack turned them in digitally. She did not receive them though she said, so I did not get anywhere with that. I did learn, however, that if a student turns in an assignment late online, that there is not a notification system for teachers - so the teacher will not know they turned it in, unless they are communicated to that the assignment has been turned in (even though the system notes it as turned in on the student side). As a parent, this is frustrating - it is one more thing to have to try to remember. I told Ms. Craven, after learning this, that it is no problem for me to let her know when Jack turns things in late (But I hope I can remember!!).

Jack is not as open about what is happening in Mr. Kempf's class, and I'm not sure why - so I don't know if he has had any situations with not getting the time he needs there - or in special areas.

My other 504 questions pertain to anxiety. Jack has anxiety that is THROUGH THE ROOF. Part of it has come from additional bullying he has had to endure at school from a different child. I have addressed that with the school this week. I still need to file the official bullying report online as directed by the Asst. Superintendent's office... I think Jack has a lot of anxiety due to other children not being nice at times, and has a high level of general anxiety to begin with.

Kim - it is often very difficult to get him to get out the door - or even in the car - to go to school. This makes him late sometimes, but it is due to anxiety. How can I get something added about anxiety to his 504 plan? It is also the reason why he has to work from home sometimes. Dr. Jacobs witnessed this first hand this week, when Jack came to school after an appointment, got to the front door, and refused to go in the doors - so I had him work from home so he could at least learn something...

What do other 504 plan people do for children that have intense levels of anxiety? I have a meeting with Jack's primary care doctor at 3:30 (an appointment with Jack), so I can have her write up something if she needs. If you have time to get back to me before then, that's great. If not, I totally understand (flying by the seat of my pants here right now)....I can always write a msg to her on MyChart. I do need some guidance, however.

Also - Jack needs some extra help to master division - he said all the other kids know more than him (which I do not think is 100% accurate), but I do know he feels far behind from the others - and even if this is only his perception, it would still benefit him to have some guidance from somewhere in addition to class. I am happy to try to help him here, but he doesn't like to listen to either of his parents try to help him out.

Are there resources in addition to normal classes for help? I know that there is soon going to be a short tutoring session available to some students, but I do not yet know the details. I wondered about other resources.

I am going to be in meetings or on calls the rest of the afternoon, so I wrote you this novel of an email instead of a call. I'm sorry it is so long.

Kim,

How are you? I don't know who else to ask about this because I have gotten to know you somewhat well. You know Jack's 504 situation. I have a couple of questions.

Question 1.)

Jack got a denial letter from TJ Middle School - with the stated reason of capacity. When Jack first came to JCPS, he was denied at Bloom but I fought and fought to get him in. Can I do the same for TJ Middle?

Question 2.)

Jack has a teacher that seemingly does not want to allow him to have more time to complete assignments when he has been ill for a long period of time. When Jack has a migraine (e.g.), it is not possible for him to do work at the same time at home....migraines incapacitate him (just like they do most who have them). How can I get extra time accommodations added specifically into his 504 plan?

Subject: Please respond so I know you got this message - Housing Choice Voucher

Lindsey,

I applied the standard traditional way for a housing choice voucher...and I am on a waiting list....that is 5.5 years long...

I contacted my local official...she referred me to a councilwoman. The councilwoman told me that if Seven County Services refers Jackie and me for the Housing Choice Voucher program, then odds are pretty good that we will be moved up higher on the list. I need to ask you to refer us please to the Housing Choice Voucher program...

As you know...after December...I have no rent...and no apartment due to no money...can you help please?

Lindsey,

To make sure I don't get confused (which seems to happen quite easily these days), could you please send me a schedule of all the appointments that we have scheduled so far? I know we have an on-going time slot but I know also that you have several days off in the coming weeks for the holidays, vacation, etc... so I want to make sure I don't make any unnecessary trips. I meant to ask this before too - is there a progress tracker or something in terms of how we are coming along on Jackie's therapy goals? And, if you have the hormone people's contact information (names / emails / what they specialize in / if there is hormone specific counseling etc...) that would be great too. Thanks for all you do.

Luckily that works.

Want to make sure that we maintain the 12 o'clock spot as often as we can. Jackie needs as much consistency as possible. Also, FYI...Jackie is starting ABA therapy tomorrow - first day of it is at her mom's house. Schedule for ABA is Tue, Wed, Thurs on mom's weeks from 4 to 7.... Tues, Wed, Thurs on my weeks from 3:30 to 7:30....they wanted to do 25 hours per week and said there would be no benefit if it were not at least 12 hours per week - so we are going to see what happens. Hopefully it will help.

Can you go on and set up the zoom link? And I will add it to my calendar.

Subject: This is kind of interesting...Jackie's PCP won't order GeneSight testing...

I know you both have mentioned this at some time during verbal conversation to see what meds work best for Jackie...

Jackie's provider stated she had no idea what GeneSight testing was, and so wouldn't order it....I told her the therapists have recommended it....she said she would consider it if perhaps you all talked to her about why it would be beneficial to see which medications would work best for Jackie based on Jackie's genetics...

I need each of you, separately, to please call Dr. Mahajan, to explain to her why it would be beneficial to know which medications would work best for Jackie.

I find this step to be a bit ridiculous, but she won't order it without hearing from you each...

Genesight testing link is above.

Dr. Mahajan can be reached at:

Address: 230 E Broadway, Louisville, KY 40202

Hours:
Open · Closes 5PM

Phone: (502) 629-8990

Please call ASAP as Dr. Mahajan is getting ready to go on maternity leave at any time.

Thank you.

Hi John,

After our discussion today, and discussing the situation with Theresa, I wanted to provide resources of places that provide a neuropsychological evaluation that can be provided for Jack that accepts Medicaid. I believe this would be the best next step for JAF's to better help them grow in their therapeutic journey, including staying with the current safety plan, and have a better understanding of a diagnosis, potential medication, and counseling. Below is the following psychiatrists that can provide a neuropsych evaluation.

Erica Cecil, Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner, Louisville, KY, 40207 | Psychology Today
Dr. Reisha Caudill, APRN , FNP-C, PMHNPBC, Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner, Louisville, KY, 40207 | Psychology Today
Hagan Health, Psychiatrist, Louisville, KY, 40207 | Psychology Today
Psychiatry - Norton Healthcare Louisville, Ky.

Secondly, due to JAF's increase in anger incidents the safety of all family members is a priority. If there is an incident that is increased intensity, JAF can not calm down, and the safety of both you and JAF is jeopardized, please do not hesitate to use any of these crisis lines:

502-589-8070 child's crisis line
walk in children crisis team management: 914 E Broadway 2nd Fl 40204
2225 W Broadway 40211

Lastly, in case of emergencies such as yourself being hurt in an incident, JAF hurting themselves. Please do not hesitate to call 911 to protect each individual

Please feel free to reach out anytime to either me or Theresa! We are here to support each of you on your therapeutic journeys.

Sincerely,

Just an FYI....and there are some very serious things we need to talk about all together in the private room for some time....he tried to hurt me again today...and did...he slammed me in a door on purpose....also....his/their suicidal ideation seems to be getting more intense and I don't know the best way to help.

I know I am really worried about Jack/ie for themselves, and also for my own safety when Jack/ie is angry.

I need to know what to do Lindsey.

Also - I am still waiting on you to send me the therapy goals for Jack/ie please.

Thank you Ms. Lindsey. I am still also working on getting Jack into ABA therapy. The written referral was made, it was passed on to the provider along with the neuropsychiatric evaluation and auditory processing disorder reports. I don't know what is the hold up at this time...but it is frustrating...

Hopefully we will be able to get him that kind of therapy soon too. I feel like he needs group therapy too. And I am working on getting him Occupational Therapy. He has been in need of all of these therapies for a long time....but I could not either get a referral for him....get insurance to cover it....get prior authorizations...etc..... I am grateful he is beginning to get some of the therapies he has needed.

Suicidal ideation continues to be a concern. He non-chalantly, this afternoon, told me he might kill himself if he had the chance. He told me that he has felt like that for a long time. I asked him if he could promise me that he would at least call me before he would do anything (it makes me incredibly nervous when he is with his mother because she is not as observant as I am), and he said if he was not in his right state of mind that he would not be able to promise anything. Then I asked if he could promise that he would try his hardest. He changed the subject. I tried to listen and hear what he was saying, but I don't know why he has felt that way for a long time. I'd like it if you could try to help me figure out ways to help him feel better. I have my own ideas of why he may feel that way, but I want him to be able to voice what makes him feel that way. Can that be a partial focus of therapy next week please for Jack?

Hello John!

No worries! I hope he feels better!

His tx plan will, most likely, not change a whole lot but we can definitely focus more on ensuring his needs are met when it comes to his ASD diagnosis. We can definitely add some goals though if the doctor recommended anything else, or from his report.

Thanks and hope you also have a restful day!

Lindsey,

We need to cancel the appointment for Jack in the a.m. He had a headache tonight and hasn't been feeling as his normal very energetic self. He said he feels like he needs to rest in the morning, and I am listening to him. We need to cancel the appointment for tomorrow.

Today, we got confirmation that Jack is on the autistic spectrum. Dr. David Charles at Meridian Health was the doctor who diagnosed him. Confirmation (continuation) of dx of ADHD as well. Is the neuropsychiatric report something that would be of value to you when working with Jack? I am worn out too and cannot really even think...

Hello John!

I have no problem with you guys coming in around 9:30 for your appointment. I do have a 10:00 though, and I cannot guarantee I can offer more than 30 minutes. On the slim chance my kiddo doesn't show at 10:00, I can see you guys for longer.

I hope your appointment goes well and just keep me posted if there are any changes. 😊

Thanks!

Lindsey,

Tomorrow - please see below:

Lindsey- I have 2 appointments on each side of Jack's appointment. Jack said he wants to see you in person - he says that is how he gets benefit the most out of the therapy sessions that he has with you. My eye appointment is scheduled for 8:20 in the morning, but it may be a lengthy one. I have been trying for over a year to get a proper pair of glasses and to find out what the hell is wrong with my eyes. I think I am close to getting an answer...as soon as we leave there, we will head your way. I think we (may) be able to make it there by 9:30. I was hoping we could shift to 9:30 to 10:30 for tomorrow. I have an 11am appointment that I have to be at home for near my computer until 1 and then Jack has a 3pm to 5pm appointment tomorrow with a new PCP.

We will be there as soon as we can. This is WELL beyond the 10 minute requirement so hopefully this is sufficient to be able to get you what you need in order to still see Jack and also know what is going on on our end.

Lindsey,

Tomorrow - please see below:

Lindsey- I have 2 appointments on each side of Jack's appointment. Jack said he wants to see you in person - he says that is how he gets benefit the most out of the therapy sessions that he has with you. My eye appointment is scheduled for 8:20 in the morning, but it may be a lengthy one. I have been trying for over a year to get a proper pair of glasses and to find out what the hell is wrong with my eyes. I think I am close to getting an answer...as soon as we leave there, we will head your way. I think we (may) be able to make it there by 9:30. I was hoping we could shift to 9:30 to 10:30 for tomorrow. I have an 11am appointment that I have to be at home for near my computer until 1 and then Jack has a 3pm to 5pm appointment tomorrow with a new PCP.

We will be there as soon as we can. This is WELL beyond the 10 minute requirement so hopefully this is sufficient to be able to get you what you need in order to still see Jack and also know what is going on on our end.

Lindsey,

We were having technical difficulties this morning getting Zoom to work. I emailed you about it - within 10 minutes of 9:00 a.m. I have a time stamped email that proves this.

When we finally were able to get into Zoom it was 9:15 or so, and I called Seven Counties because it said waiting for host to start the meeting.

They said that you rescheduled Jack for the following week and canceled his appointment for today. I said why? I said it is his time right now. They said that they talked to you and you said it was because you were not notified about us having trouble within the first 10 minutes.

... but we did ...

The week before, Jack only had a half hour with you, because you said you inadvertently had scheduled someone else in his regular spot in the morning.

2 out of the 5 weeks before that, you canceled your appointments with Jack at the last minute the morning of his appointments because you were not feeling well.

Jack needs a therapist that is going to see him during his scheduled times. What are our options here?

John

I understand being sick more than the average bear…first, I hope you are okay health wise.

I always have the best interest of Jack in mind…that is why I am protective papa bear like.

Jack has been very emotionally abusive toward me, extremely argumentative, and has even hit me several times this week.

I do not know if positive progression is occurring. I feel like many things have gotten worse. He also frequently lies and gas lights me.

I had told him that we would all discuss consequences at his appointment, but he didn't get to have his appointment.

He will not respect boundaries I set, or respect consequences, and he says he does not know what he did wrong when he does things like hit me because he is upset.

Sometimes he does things in angry rages and then says he has no memory of them. It is very unnerving at times.

Other times he is so sweet. His psychological evaluation is next week and the result are interpreted at an appointment later in June.

Can you offer suggestions that may help him until we have more information?

I also wanted to get your take on if you thought he could be on the autism spectrum?

And to ask you if you thought/felt that he is making progress?

Please let me know.

John

Hello John!

I consulted with my supervisor about this, and I am more than happy to provide a statement letter, which I will send in a separate email shortly here.

As for billing/cost, she (my supervisor) recommended you follow up with your insurance provider for co-pay information and what is specifically billed to your insurance, with regards to cost/future costs.

Let me know if you need anything else!

Thanks!

Hi Lindsey.

Can you please see the email from Kim Panter below? Can you please answer the therapy questions? I think Jack will likely be in therapy for the unforeseeable future. If we can get Kosair to help cover the cost of it, it will help us a great deal...

Can you please either respond to me, and I will forward to her, or if you respond to her directly, please cc me on the email? Thank you so much. She is with Kosair Charities.

Hi John,

Can you send me any additional bills you would like the committee to review? We are unable to look at back paying the balanced owed for therapy. But if his therapist sends a letter of recommendation, quote and number of sessions he attends we can look at future coverage.

Thanks,

Subject: Quick email - hoping you can address with Jack - he is with me but will not see this email...

Lindsey,

Jack is joining the meeting - I took the morning off to spend with him this morning, but his mom texted me last minute, and said he was going to stay home alone for 3 hours - I told her I had taken the morning off to spend with him, and also that it was not okay for him to spend 3 hours alone. He was trying to give his mom a hard time according to her. She has outpatient group therapy every morning from 9 - ?? - she usually picks him up at 3:00 from my house on her days.

Could you talk to him some about why it is not okay to spend time alone so much when he is so young?

I was looking up some state laws about leaving children at home alone, and this is what I found. I was going to send this to his mom, but don't want to upset her either. What are your thoughts? If the world wasn't so damn crazy, and if Jack didn't have a bunch of medical issues, and if Jack didn't have so much suicidal ideation, it would feel safer but still not safe at his age to me.

here are the state laws around here:

hese are the state laws around us (the below excerpts are from this site)

https://wehavekids.com/parenting/When-to-Allow-Your-Children-to-Stay-Home-Alone

Indiana - There is no minimum age law in this state. However, most law enforcement officials in this state think that leaving a child under the age of 10 is ill-advised. They suggest waiting until at least 12 years old.

Kentucky - There isn't a law regarding minimum age, however, Child Protective services said that if you leave a child under the age of 11 you may be investigated for child neglect.

Ohio (Revised) - There seems to be some disagreement regarding what is permissible and what is not in the state of Ohio. Some of the comments below, although unverified of actual credentials of the individual past their own word in the comments and unsure if any of them have passed the Ohio bar to accurately verify an interpretation of Ohio law, suggest that there is not a governing age to which parents can or cannot leave their child home alone. However, upon numerous calls to the official agencies, there seems to be also an inconsistency in responses. Some case workers say 18, others say it is up to parent discretion and/or the circumstances involving the case. So as parents be proactive in your rights to parent your own child. All I am doing is passing on the information, as inconsistent as it may be, to you the parent to make your own informed choices.

But according to this state's child endangerment and child neglect laws, as was cited by the case workers mentioning the age restriction, (ORC 2919.22(a) Endangering children.) parents are prohibited from leaving a child under the age of 18 unsupervised. If you leave your child who is under the age of 18 home alone then you are "violating a duty of care, protection, or support." Also refer to ORC 2151.05 Child without proper parental care. An individual case worker and prosecutor may or may not use this law against you.

Illinois - In this state if you leave your child home alone before the child reaches the age of 14, you will be charged with child neglect. Juvenile Court Act, 705 ILCS 405/2-3(1)(d)

Thanks for all you do.

John

Subject: Thank you

Lindsey,

I meant to respond sooner. I am always barely getting all the things done...

I am so tired all the time....

I talked to the therapist I regularly see today about your offering to meet with another person in the morning for parental guidance...

I'd like to, at least for now, keep it with you and Jack, and I can meet if he wants me in there, or I always like to be in there for the last 10 or 15 minutes because it helps me understand the continuity and flow of what we need to be working on at home and to see what progress is being made. So, since I have no idea who Kate is, and no relationship with her, would prefer to just keep doing things the way we have been doing them. I just worry a lot about Jack and his behaviors, and since I have had 2 friends that have committed suicide (one in 2006 - Seviren - on Thanksgiving Day), and one was a former lover, it is a super intense trigger anyway for me. Also, I think things were aggravated a lot because his mom (Jack's mom) checked herself in due to suicidal ideation over the weekend - she was released - and came to Jack's party tonight - but seemed to be pretty out of it still. I hope that, for Jack, she is okay too. See you in the morning.

Subject: Sorry for multiple messages but there has been a lot going on - I will probably send you a couple more with more information

I asked Jack today (again and again) to say yes and no instead of uh---/?? because I cannot always tell an uh-huh from an uh-uh when it is being mumbled under his breath and facing in the opposite direction. He kept giving me attitude and telling me he did not know what the word yes meant. That is not what he said...he said he does not know what the word yes is....

He also has continued with the 'potato' thing - saying potato frequently.

He also mentions killing himself multiple times daily - which I keep telling him is inappropriate - and he says if anyone ever corrects hm for anything or if anyone tries to talk to him then he feels like killing himself (talk to him about anything serious)....

I tried to take Jack to the Gorge (RRG) over the weekend. I don't have very much energy anymore Lindsey and it is hard to do anything - and I have talked at length with Jack about this...he does not understand.....we got to Frankfort...I stopped to get gas and things were going well...then Jack got out to wash the windows which I also thought was GREAT and I told him that....

Then I was getting gas...I walked to the passenger side door - opened it to get something - didn't notice Jack was right by me and accidentally shut his hand in part of the door - which I feel AWFUL about! He had to tell me I had done it because I didn't even notice for a second that it had happened. I opened the door immediately - within 1 or 2 seconds...Jack then shouted 'Get Away From Me' - holding his hand and acting like I hit him or something. I went to find out if he was okay but he kept shouting at me get away from me you hurt me - get away from me. By this point, the drivers at all surrounding pumps were staring at us. I told him to wait for just a minute - I ran over to the Kroger gas station pump attendant and told him what had happened and asked him if he had an ice pack....he said he didn't have one...I said can you call a manager? My son's hand is hurt - it got shut in a car door - and we need an ice pack for him...he said okay...so then I went back to Jack...of course Jack shouted get away from me constantly....I told him he had to keep ice on it. I remembered we had a cooler with an ice pack in it luckily...I got it out and asked Jack to put it on it and he kept screaming no - get away - you hurt me - you make me want to kill myself.....then he said he would kill himself if I said anything to him.....

I told him he had to keep the ice on it for 15 minutes or we would need to go to the hospital emergency room. He said if I took him to the emergency room he would kill himself.... I talked to him about how it was in appropriate for him to use the language of wanting to kill himself and that if he really felt that way then we needed to go to an acute crisis facility so he could talk to someone. He said if I took him there he would kill himself - he was screaming this whole time...he was saying that I hurt him and he wanted to kill himself..... I finally got him to calm down a little bit after parking for 45 minutes....you also have to realize...that I had wanted to leave for the Gorge around noon....but Jack wouldn't leave then...then later at night like at 7:30 we started to pack and finally left around 9:00....then we left....long story....anyway...at the Kroger after calming down....Jack told him me he did not feel safe with me. I told him if he did not feel safe, then we probably needed to go home....he also said that he thought I hit him all the time (but I do no such thing Lindsey)....I really had to bite my tongue about not telling him about his mother and the thing that happened in Colorado, but I did not say anything about it. Then he said I make him want to kill himself....and again - I told him if he felt that way we needed to go to home and go to an acute crisis center...

After talking and sitting some more maybe 15 minutes....he had calmed down...I was so emotionally drained I could not even speak really....I said let's go toward the Gorge, like our plan, and we can leave if we need to once we get there. It is peaceful there. We both find peace there.

I can tell you more when we see you.. as more goes along I will try to keep examples....

1. Yes! They are still a few weeks out for their waitlist, hopefully soon here they will open with you guys.
2. Hmm. I am really thinking it might be leaning towards him just saying “I don’t remember”. It’s also not too atypical for his age group to not have the best memory. Just have to reiterate whatever you said and encourage him to listen better and such.
3. Be very firm with him. He is pushing boundaries and that is typical. If he starts to physically harm himself, that is when I would contact for Crisis. I think he usually will make statements he doesn’t mean, since it gets a reaction out of you. Again, some of it is probably attention seeking and we just want to work on that to ensure there is more cohesion within the household.
4. If the hallucinations are scary in nature or if he says that they want to harm him in some way, I would not be too worried. I think they may be stressed related and possibly some attention seeking as well. He, again, is also at the age where he is figuring out who he is as an individual and sometimes will “reject” others, making the claims like the said of “nobody loves me”, etc. Just keep validating him and ignoring when it is attention seeking behavior.

Thanks!

Lindsey - I need to know answers - I need for this email to please not be responded to. I think I sent two others - several days ago - and neither of those were responded to - I don't know if it might be because you are waiting on answers or what...

1.) Is Care/Case management going to be available or not?

2.) Jack keeps saying he doesn't remember many things - like he is totally dissociated maybe 50 or 75% of the time.....sometimes....seemingly....I don't know if he really doesn't remember - or if he is just saying that and there is no way to tell a difference.

3.) Jack has been pretty consistently disobeying me. Today I asked him to please not disobey me - so he hit me with his computer....that is not okay....but if I say anything - then he goes into a crisis state....so I need help with that....

4.) Jack keeps saying he sees hallucinations. He says he thinks all parents murder their children. And he has voiced suicidal ideation again. I would not harm him at all - I think you know that I love him very much. He says he does not believe that I or his mother love him at all. He says that nothing makes him feel loved by anyone in the world. I need to know how to help him.

I had to stop and help Jack today during my work hours even though my boss made it very clear I needed to have something done by 4:30. Jack refused to respect that I kept asking him to let me work for an hour without interruption - it was constant interruption after I asked - non-stop....so now I missed the deadline - my boss is upset....I tried to talk to Jack - I told him that I did not mind helping him, but next time I need him to listen to me about not interrupting - and he then said that he was sorry that he existed and shouldn't exist.

I told him that was not a fair statement. He said why is that not a fair statement. I told him I would talk to you with him about this.

The tornado pic was taken by my neighbor when we used to live in Palmyra - Jack was still very young back then (2012) - he was born in 2011…

It was scary to think how close it was to us. It was the same day the tornadoes in the area leveled Henryville Elementary School in Clark Co. Indiana…. Jack later attended that elementary school when we moved to Memphis, IN.

Subject: Other Questions

Hi Lindsey.

Thanks for being patient with Jack during his session today, as always. He has a hard time understanding that I have to work because I work from home, and often wants me to do things like that - which I really do enjoy - doing the activities he created - and I also have work to do for my job at the same time.

Since Jack is out of public school, and doing homeschooling now, reports are not needed with as much urgency. However, that being said, I'd really like to have you type up something that I can put in his homeschool file to show that he is receiving therapy etc...

You mentioned before that you were kind of limited about what you could put into a letter. I'm looking for something like I asked about before - whatever you can provide.

I am trying to get Jack evaluated for Autism again - not at the Weisskopf Center. So many providers have suggested that they suspect autism, and I suspect that Jack is somewhere on that spectrum too - just as I suspected he had an auditory processing thing going on - which has now been validated by a qualified professional in that realm.

Also - want to mention that Jack has all these things going on in terms of sensory processing (except for the swings - he loves to swing)

It's as if the brain is working over time. When a child is overprocessing sensory input, you may see these signs:

- Afraid of loud noises like automatic hand dryers in a public bathroom, a firetruck driving down the street, or the vacuum cleaner
- Sensitive to different types of clothing, tags or seams in clothing, making dressing difficult
- Sensitive to different tastes or textures of foods that may result in them only eating a handful of foods
- Sensitive to smells and may complain of a variety of smells that others don't even notice
- Sensitive to bright lights in any environment, but may struggle in stores where there's lots of overhead fluorescent lighting
- Hates to get their hands messy or walk bare foot in the grass
- Scared of riding swings, roughhouse play, or going down a slide

- Avoids new situations and is overwhelmed in crowds
- Afraid of being bumped into or touched by others

I mentioned to you before that Jack was terrified of toilets flushing - and still is. He cannot go anywhere on his own - he is too scared - I don't know what to do about that. Do you have some other suggestions with regard to that - I've tried to slowly provide separation and distance but that doesn't work. I've tried a nightmare box - but that doesn't work. I've tried to get him to draw pictures of his fears and/or journal, and that doesn't work...what else can I try?

Subject: Auditory Processing Info

Dr. Julie Manche confirmed that Jack does have an auditory processing disorder. I don't have the formal report yet, as noted during Jack's session, but she said that his 'auditory closure' level was down in both ears. She said his main area of processing problems was in the area of degraded speech, and said that because he already has trouble with that as confirmed by the testing this time, that teachers wearing masks and talking, or any kind of speech that is degraded in any way could be a problem in terms of Jack receiving and understanding information.

She said that his auditory memory numbers were interesting too. She said when it came to numbers, that he was in the 95th percentile, which was excellent. She said with words, he was in the 63rd percentile which was average. She said when it came to sentences, he was in the 25th percentile. She said that this, to her, suggested that Jack may also have a language processing issue, but a different specialist would be needed to diagnose that. She said common themes along those lines involve getting the right words out, organizing thoughts, finding words, etc...

She suggested Jack would benefit greatly from Occupational Therapy. She also suggested that using a program called Hearbuilder (an auditory program) would help Jack a lot - so I will be buying a license for that shortly, and she said even a low level hearing aid might be helpful to him - but she did note that those cost around $5,000.

I'll pass along the formal evaluation results when I get it from Dr. Manche.

John

Subject: Maybe you can guide me a bit with some of Jack's behaviors that I see

Lindsey,

There are a few things that you may be able to help me with, in terms of Jack of course...

Yesterday, he kept saying he said things that he did not say...actually that has happened a number of times this week, but yesterday it happened maybe 15 or 20 times. If it happens 1 time or 2 times, or just a handful, I try to ignore it, but when it becomes a situation like yesterday, I feel like it needs to be addressed. If I ever try to talk to him about it, I either get extremely argumentative and disrespectful Jack, or I get complete emotional dysregulation Jack.

That part is also true for if I ever need to talk to him about things that are serious, or complicated, or if I ever need to re-direct how he is acting - then I either get extremely spiteful and argumentative Jack, or complete emotional dysregulation from him, so I feel like I can not ever say or do anything anymore. This all changed about 9.5 or 10 months ago (when this all started)... what am I supposed to do? A good example was yesterday, he was being downright rude and disrespectful to me at the glasses place I took him to....he bumped into a door, and I asked him if he was okay - and that made him very angry with me (that I asked if he was okay). Keep in mind though, that if I don't ask if he is okay, then he will tell me that he is mad at me because I did not ask if he was okay - and then tell me that I don't care about him. He made a very large huff/snarl, and then with his teeth clenched and a very angry tone told me that I did not need to ask if he was okay and I needed to just leave him alone. I told Jack very calmly that it was inappropriate the way that he was talking to me, and that he needed to change his behavior. The glasses place worker looked relieved that I was addressing this behavior. Then Jack kept arguing with me that he didn't respond in appropriately, and never huffed, and never had any tone....I told him I was not going to argue with him, but the behavior needed to be changed, and he needed to treat me differently. That made him more upset. I tried to re-focus his efforts to the glasses worker with limited success. This happens many, many, many times every week now. It is very exhausting emotionally for me - and I am already physically ill. I tried to explain to Jack that I want him to try to focus on positive energy and putting positive energy out into the world, and he seemed to understand, but needs practice.

Do you have any suggestions?

Finally, for now, and I don't remember if I already asked you for this - so if I did - I apologize for asking twice, but can you please put together the things that you said that you could, for school, and for me? I not only need it for school, but also for an upcoming evaluation that is being scheduled for Jack.

Thank you Lindsey.

John

Subject: Re: Thank You / Question on Friday Time

Lindsey,

I did not get a chance to speak with Jack until this evening about therapy tomorrow etc… it has been a whirlwind week of appointments. I feel strongly that he could benefit from your session this week, but he told me that 9:10 is the only time he has to get caught up on some work at school. Is there any way you can check in with him and ask him in the morning if he wants to meet, and if he does not, that is fine, but if he does, then you can?

Also - you said that all you can do is provide a statement letter that provides Jack's diagnosis and his treatment goals with Seven Counties. Can you please provide that to both the school, and to me?

Finally - found out today that we could get Jack scheduled for an evaluation. Have been on a long waiting list for months. We can finally get an appointment for that scheduled.

Jack is not sure when the time that he has to make up his work ends in the a.m. Hopefully you can touch base with him at some point tomorrow to see if he would like to meet (depending on when his make-up work time is over).

I also know for Home Hospital, you would need a medical professional to complete that paperwork. Unfortunately, therapists do not qualify in Kentucky to fill out those forms. With regards to your most recent email, all I can do is provide a statement letter that provides Jack's diagnosis and his treatment goals with Seven Counties. I cannot provide other statements regarding any limitations he may have due to this.

Hope this helps!

Lindsey,

Thank you so much for the quick summary breakdown, and for your quick response. Regarding Friday - that sounds good - at what time? If Jack is not at school, and working from home, I will need to know what time to have him join your session. He was not able to go to school to work in the classroom today because of too much overpowering anxiety. I had a brief meeting with Ms. Whitmer this morning. Jack told her some of the things that had been going on. Jack told me he was emotionally broken on Saturday. My heart breaks from that statement. We talked about potentially trying to see if Pathfinder School of Innovation would consider allowing Jack to apply even though they said they were not going to take anyone after the semester break - but this is an extenuating circumstance, I feel. Ms. Whitmer also mentioned Home Hospital as a potential option. I'm trying to keep you in the loop also. Anyway - please let me know what time on Friday in the event that Jack is at home instead of physically at Bloom. Thanks Lindsey.

Hello John!

Thank you for the updates! 😊

I know last week was really hard for Jack, and he was very hesitant to also speak to me about what was happening at school. I did consult with school staff as well when I was there on Friday, and they weren't entirely sure either. I had a feeling it was a peer concern, since I know sometimes that teacher don't always pick up on it.

As for an appointment with me, I think the best option would be to see him at school on Friday. I believe I can see him either first thing in the morning, or sometime in the afternoon. I would offer later on Wednesday, but it sounds like his EEG appointment is when I had some time available.

Let me know if this works for him. Hopefully, he can feel more comfortable talking about the concerns with school. I also will make sure to keep you in the loop after our sessions, and provide some updates as we go along 😊 I know recently, we have been working on his self-esteem and helping him understand the difference between positive and negative. I am also "challenging" him on being more aware of his choice of words and how to express himself appropriately, pretty much more healthy communication between himself and others.

Lindsey

Lindsey,

Hi. Happy Super Bowl Sunday (or well Monday now as it is after Midnight - Eric Clapton just went through my head...)... Jack has been having a really hard time. Last week after he saw you, he and Lindsay (his mom) called me. Jack said he was having an emotional breakdown and couldn't go to school - but he wouldn't talk to me or his mom about it.

Later, we found out that a kid at school has been giving him a hard time...again...but this time a different kid (a new kid) that sits at his table, and calls him names like stupid, and it is affecting Jack's self-esteem (as it would anyone's - especially at his age). In addition to this, I think Jack has some kind of a processing disorder potentially. I don't pat myself on the back too much, but when it comes to medical things, I have been spot on with an almost perfect track record. I am not saying that I am 100% certain on the processing, but Jack tells me things like people talk too fast for him to understand what they are saying a lot of the time...I don't know if that could be related to the ADHD, or if we are looking at a different animal. Do you have any suggestions?

Jack had his auditory processing evaluation last week. He did a great job there. He was only able to make it to school for 2 days of the week. On Friday, his mom dropped him off at my house unplanned an unexpectedly in the morning, and he did school from here because he was too upset and riddled with anxiety - and was not in a stable position to go to school. I was of course okay with him working from here, but I want him to get the help that he needs, and I am not sure what other kinds of help I need to be getting for him.

Also, I need to be kept in the loop, so I know what you all are working on in therapy. I talked to my own therapist about feeling very much left in the dark about what is going on, and my therapist told me that I should absolutely be kept in the loop about weekly happenings. Can you start sending me a basic one or two sentence summary of the sessions? So I have an idea of what Jack is working on during any given week? I think part of the problem is regarding such very different environments and lack of continuity in his life.

Jack also has had quite an attitude and then acts like he has no idea that the has been rude, or how much he has misbehaved at times. Don't get me wrong here, Jack is a great kid, but there are a lot of times when I am not able to run errands, or go to the store, or leave my house because he makes it so it isn't possible - and if I can get him to talk about it, he says he acts like that because he didn't want to go... I need help here. I feel like he is behind his peers emotionally and socially as well, and I want to get him caught up as much as I can. I love Jack with all of my heart, and am deeply concerned about his well-being as he seems like a completely different child than he was say 9 or 10 months ago....lots of regression - forgetting how to spell words, forgetting how to punctuate sentences. I am even concerned he may have some kind of a deeper physiological thing going on. He has an EEG on Wed. to investigate that. I just don't want him to have to experience the cruelties of the world. I want him to be protected from such negative and adversarial entities as much as I can possibly protect him from being hurt.

Please answer my questions from above as soon as you can, and let me know when you are able to meet with Jack since he has a conflict of schedule this Wed. at the regularly scheduled time. He has art therapy on Thursday at noon, and he has a neurology appt on Wed. at 3:20 pm as well. His neurologist is going to interpret the EEG for us during that visit.

Hello John!

I believe I can see him around 9:10 or so on Friday. I will keep you posted if something comes up, or I need to see him later if he is physically not at the school.

I would follow up with the Pathfinder School regarding possible enrollment. I am not entirely sure what their protocol is for situations like Jack's. I also know for Home Hospital, you would need a medical professional to complete that paperwork. Unfortunately, therapists do not qualify in Kentucky to fill out those forms. With regards to your most recent email, all I can do is provide a statement letter that provides Jack's diagnosis and his treatment goals with Seven Counties. I cannot provide other statements regarding any limitations he may have due to this.

Hope this helps!

Thanks!

Can you put together a note for Bloom about how much anxiety is affecting Jack? He had to work from home today because of anxiety, and they refuse to excuse the absence even with a parent note stating that anxiety is not an illness.... but it is.....!!

In addition to this, I think Jack has some kind of a processing disorder potentially. I don't pat myself on the back too much, but when it comes to medical things, I have been spot on with an almost perfect track record. I am not saying that I am 100% certain on the processing, but Jack tells me things like people talk too fast for him to understand what they are saying a lot of the time...I don't know if that could be related to the ADHD, or if we are looking at a different animal. Do you have any suggestions?

Jack had his auditory processing evaluation last week. He did a great job there. He was only able to make it to school for 2 days of the week. On Friday, his mom dropped him off at my house unplanned an unexpectedly in the morning, and he did school from here because he was too upset and riddled with anxiety - and was not in a stable position to go to school. I was of course okay with him working from here, but I want him to get the help that he needs, and I am not sure what other kinds of help I need to be getting for him.

Also, I need to be kept in the loop, so I know what you all are working on in therapy. I talked to my own therapist about feeling very much left in the dark about what is going on, and my therapist told me that I should absolutely be kept in the loop about weekly happenings. Can you start sending me a basic one or two sentence summary of the sessions? So I have an idea of what Jack is working on during any given week? I think part of the problem is regarding such very different environments and lack of continuity in his life.

Jack also has had quite an attitude and then acts like he has no idea that the has been rude, or how much he has misbehaved at times. Don't get me wrong here, Jack is a great kid, but there are a lot of times when I am not able to run errands, or go to the store, or leave my house because he makes it so it isn't possible - and if I can get him to talk about it, he says he acts like that because he didn't want to go... I need help here. I feel like he is behind his peers emotionally and socially as well, and I want to get him caught up as much as I can. I love Jack with all of my heart, and am deeply concerned about his well-being as he seems like a completely different child than he was say 9 or 10 months ago....lots of regression - forgetting how to spell words, forgetting how to punctuate sentences. I am even concerned he may have some kind of a deeper physiological thing going on. He has an EEG on Wed. to investigate that. I just don't want him to have to experience the cruelties of the world. I want him to be protected from such negative and adversarial entities as much as I can possibly protect him from being hurt.

Please answer my questions from above as soon as you can, and let me know when you are able to meet with Jack since he has a conflict of schedule this Wed. at the regularly scheduled time. He has art therapy on Thursday at noon, and he has a neurology appt on Wed. at 3:20 pm as well. His neurologist is going to interpret the EEG for us during that visit.

Hello John!

Thank you for the updates! 😊

I know last week was really hard for Jack, and he was very hesitant to also speak to me about what was happening at school. I did consult with school staff as well when I was there on Friday, and they weren't entirely sure either. I had a feeling it was a peer concern, since I know sometimes that teacher don't always pick up on it.

As for an appointment with me, I think the best option would be to see him at school on Friday. I believe I can see him either first thing in the morning, or sometime in the afternoon. I would offer later on Wednesday, but it sounds like his EEG appointment is when I had some time available.

Let me know if this works for him. Hopefully, he can feel more comfortable talking about the concerns with school. I also will make sure to keep you in the loop after our sessions, and provide some updates as we go along 😊 I know recently, we have been working on his self-esteem and helping him understand the difference between positive and negative. I am also "challenging" him on being more aware of his choice of words and how to express himself appropriately, pretty much more healthy communication between himself and others.

Regards,
Lindsey

Lindsey,

Hi. Happy Super Bowl Sunday (or well Monday now as it is after Midnight - Eric Clapton just went through my head...)... Jack has been having a really hard time. Last week after he saw you, he and Lindsay (his mom) called me. Jack said he was having an emotional breakdown and couldn't go to school - but he wouldn't talk to me or his mom about it.

Later, we found out that a kid at school has been giving him a hard time...again...but this time a different kid (a new kid) that sits at his table, and calls him names like stupid, and it is affecting Jack's self-esteem (as it would anyone's - especially at his age). Jack told me just now there was an incident at school yesterday at Bloom and he is feeling "intimidated " about returning today.

I can't get any further information from him yet.

Jack is non-binary (he/they)

I am having VPN issues with work this morning and headed into the office.

Jack is with his mom this week. He told her this morning that he was too upset to go into school today because of an incident that happened yesterday. I have very little information to go on. He and she called me this morning briefly after his therapy session, and he was too upset to talk about it. If he shares anything else I will let you all know, but I don't know that he is going to. I know that you all keep your eyes on the kids very well. Maybe, if possible, try to pay a little extra attention to what is happening in Jack's world assuming he can make it in to school tomorrow. I don't know what else I can ask you all to do. I know you already do a good job.

Ms. Craven - we still need to get a call scheduled - my work schedule has been a bit hectic.

Jack told me just now there was an incident at school yesterday at Bloom and he is feeling “intimidated “ about returning today.

I can’t get any further information from him yet.

Jack is non-binary (he/they)

Hi - please call me John.

Mr. Fouts makes me seem like I'm a really old man to me. Maybe that is because I just turned Forty-Three! Please mark down that you will be seeing him on Friday at school, and thank you for being able to make that happen. He was out yesterday and had to leave a little early on Monday (at 2:45pm on Monday) - out Tuesday - he had a migraine that started this off on Monday afternoon, then yesterday was too exhausted from the migraine and puking the day before. Today he has another migraine - this one is probably being triggered by the weather, but he told me he 'really' needs therapy this week. So I don't know if something may have happened at school too? Maybe you can find out from him. If school is canceled on Friday due to inclement weather, would you still be able to meet with him via Teleheath?

Also, what time on Friday? Thanks Lindsey.

John

Lindsey,

Jack has voiced how much he needs therapy and needs to talk to you this week. Please respond to my earlier email asking when you can meet with Jack this week.

If the meeting you are having has been on the calendar for months, could you have notified us a little sooner than the day before that meeting? I understand how things creep up, but Jack is in need of talking to someone again pretty badly. I told him I would reach out to you again today since I had not heard back from you.

Thanks for sending the note for school for last week.

John

Lindsey,

Jack has voiced how much he needs therapy and needs to talk to you this week. Please respond to my earlier email asking when you can meet with Jack this week.

If the meeting you are having has been on the calendar for months, could you have notified us a little sooner than the day before that meeting? I understand how things creep up, but Jack is in need of talking to someone again pretty badly. I told him I would reach out to you again today since I had not heard back from you.

Thanks for sending the note for school for last week.

John

On 1/26/2022 - Jack was with his mom, but had therapy with Lindsey Smith in the morning on that date. I've asked her to send you a note (Lindsey Smith from Seven County Services) to excuse Jack for the late arrival on that date.

On 1/28/2022 - Jack, again with his mom, but they had trouble getting in due to snow. The attendance report says absent unexcused, but Jack was present - he was just late due to inclement weather.....for the early dismissal - it says unexcused - but I have provided you with a doctor's note from his Dermatologist - Dr. Todd (Ms. Todd's cousin)....please mark as excused as the doctor's excuse note has been provided.

Thank you.

Subject: Please send a note to Bloom for Jack's therapy session last Wednesday

Lindsey,

Bloom has Jack's late arrival from last Wednesday counted as an unexcused tardy because he apparently does not have a note from your office to notify Bloom that he had an appointment. Can you please send a note to Ms. Webb for his appointment that took place on Jan. 26? Thanks!

Lindsey,

That is perfect. Thank you. I hope that you are feeling better. I live sick - so I know how it goes. I don't know if Jack has brought it up, or if it bothers him at all, but sometimes I cannot do very many things with him because I get IVIG infusions 2 days every 3 weeks (8 hours long outpatient with slow IV drip in my arm of IgG from 1,000 to 60,000 donors in each bottle). Somehow it helps people with auto-immune mediated (suspected) peripheral neuropathies. They are not quite sure how. The recovery has been brutal a few times in the past - with Aseptic Meningitis (one of the side effects). I also have to get Copper and Iron infusions once per week - those are 6 hours per day and have to be done at the 'other' Norton Cancer center. Insurance won't cover IVIG at downtown and won't cover Copper and Iron at Brownsboro. It is so upsetting sometimes. Plus the IVIG is billed out at $15,000.00 per day so the 1st day I have it in January - I will immediately, again, hit my out of pocket maximum of $6,500. I still owe $5,000 from this year... I don't know how I am supposed to survive that kind of situation each year. There is no aid available because I earn too much money but I don't earn 'THAT' much money, and because IVIG is being technically used off-label because the FDA has only approved for 'some' PIDDs and for GBS and CIDP. It may bother Jack sometime, and he may tell you I didn't play with him because I didn't feel like it - if that is the case - it is because I had one of those procedures - and technically I am supposed to rest on the days afterward - but I always try to do things with Jack outside each day.

Jack has been having 'episodes'. We were at the crisis center yesterday because - when I picked him up from school...he was fine at first - although I could tell he was very tired because he had kind of an attitude when he threw his backpack in the car toward me. He said he felt pukey - so I tried to ignore any perceived hostility (perceived by me)....I told Jack I had snacks and drinks in the car. So he turned around and started to get them, and the box they were in fell down, and then he flew off the handle and started SCREAMING. I was calm and said I needed him to try to not do that when we are in the car and I am driving unless something very wrong is happening that might mean we were in danger. I pulled over - waited for about 20 minutes and it didn't stop Then I told him I thought we needed to go to the crisis center. He told me he didn't want to TALK to ME in his words I said you don't have to talk to me Jack, but I need to find out what is going on that has made your behavior change 180 degrees so you are acting like a completely different person. I don't recognize who this person is that has all of these behaviors Then he told me he felt like he wanted to go to the crisis center I drove down there and then he was very angry with me for driving him to the crisis center and he said he never remembered anything that had happened (like he dissociated). I really am wondering if there is something physically very seriously wrong Lindsey. I 'do' believe there is definitely emotional trauma that therapy can help with too - but something is not right right now. I am even wondering if he is being abused at school or something.

I know that for a while, he had opened up tenderly to me about how he felt like his mother didn't love him. And he had asked me to talk to her with him. It seems like too much of a coincidence to me that everything seemed to 'hit the fan' after he tried to talk to her, she refused to listen to him - and then I hear about names he has been called when there at her house. I make mistakes too of course - just like all parents do - but I do not and would not call any child names ever - or any grown up for that matter. I know that the name calling that has taken place when he is there has had a very profound impact on him. She called Jack and also me both compulsive liars. That is when I had to write to his neurologist to ask her to write a letter that I could give to Jack's mother 'proving' that he was having health problems. I shouldn't have to do things like that. As stated in the afore-mentioned - I make plenty of mistakes too that I am sure also have an impact on Jack that is not always positive.

I need to find someone in town that does OT for Jack - he is having hand / overall sensory system / and proprioception and spatial issues.

I need to find someone in town that does PT for Jack - he is having carpal tunnel like pain.

I need to find someone in town to do a neuro-psych eval in full. My therapist gave me the name of someone he recommended for Jack. He said the waiting list might be long but it would be worth it.

Jack told me about the Rage Room - and I told him I thought that was a great idea for him - so I am looking into seeing about taking him there.

I need to get a copy of the eval that Centerstone did a few years ago when Jack saw Matt Lowry there. Can you pull that for me? I can sign a records release if you can please fax it to (502) 996-8246. That is my personal fax number that only goes to me. It's sole purpose is for medical records.

I need to find someone that specializes in auditory processing and other processing-type disorders. I have felt for a long time that Jack might have Auditory Processing. Do you know of anyone in town - specifically trained in this area of expertise?

Jack told me he wanted to be home schooled a few days ago. I told him he would need to 'allow' me to teach him if that were the case and that I would have to find a way to make it work. Other options are 'Pathfinders School of Innovation' and 'Home Hospital'. Looking into/exploring all of the above. Will do whatever Jack needs - he is who and what I am most concerned about in this world.

Please confirm you received this email. Please send former eval from Centerstone for Jack if possible. Please confirm Jack has been scheduled for 9 am at your office from Jan. 6 until the end of March on Wednesday mornings.

Oh - last question - looking for small group therapy for Jack for peers or support groups for depression for children his age. And for anxiety. Do you know of any?

John

Lindsey,

I waited on hold for 14 minutes trying to reach you. It is my understanding that you are meeting with Jack on Friday mornings in December at 9 or 9:30 am, and that Jack has an appointment on Wed. Jan 5th at some time in the morning at your office downtown.

Can you please confirm times?

I also want to schedule Jack out through the end of March for appts. Any morning appts at 9 are preferred, or at 1pm are preferred per Jack, and school schedule.

Appointments outside these times are also ok.

John

Hello John!

I appreciate the information on what transpired the last few days, and being updated on other stressors that could be impacting him.

I will make sure to keep checking with him on any destructive behaviors, to ensure his safety. For medical records, you just have to call our front desk staff at 502-589-8731 and request medical records. They will get your information and ensure you get your documentation 😊

As for other specialists, I don't necessarily have a list of resources I can offer, but I know that I can reach out to some of my contacts and see if I can get you a few names. If anything, I think a good place to start would be to look at places like U of L, or Norton's, etc. I will also try and see if there are any small groups for his age group that focuses on anxiety/depression. I am part of a network which always has new information every day, so I will keep you posted 😊

I do now have him down, starting from Jan 6th to March, to meet with me on Wednesdays at 9:00.

Thanks!
Lindsey

Lindsey,

That is perfect. Thank you. I hope that you are feeling better. I live sick - so I know how it goes. I don't know if Jack has brought it up, or if it bothers him at all, but sometimes I cannot do very many things with him because I get IVIG infusions 2 days every 3 weeks (8 hours long outpatient with slow IV drip in my arm of IgG from 1,000 to 60,000 donors in each bottle). Somehow it helps people with auto-immune mediated (suspected) peripheral neuropathies. They are not quite sure how. The recovery has been brutal a few times in the past - with Aseptic Meningitis (one of the side effects). I also have to get Copper and Iron infusions once per week - those are 6 hours per day and have to be done at the 'other' Norton Cancer center. Insurance won't cover IVIG at downtown and won't cover Copper and Iron at Brownsboro. It is so upsetting sometimes. Plus the IVIG is billed out at $15,000.00 per day so the 1st day I have it in January - I will immediately, again, hit my out of pocket maximum of $6,500. I still owe $5,000 from this year... I don't know how I am supposed to survive that kind of situation each year. There is no aid available because I earn too much money but I don't earn 'THAT' much money, and because IVIG is being technically used off-label because the FDA has only approved for 'some' PIDDs and for GBS and CIDP. It may bother Jack sometime, and he may tell you I didn't play with him because I didn't feel like it - if that is the case - it is because I had one of those procedures - and technically I am supposed to rest on the days afterward - but I always try to do things with Jack outside each day.

Jack has been having 'episodes'. We were at the crisis center yesterday because - when I picked him up from school...he was fine at first - although I could tell he was very tired because he had kind of an attitude when he threw his backpack in the car toward me. He said he felt pukey - so I tried to ignore any perceived hostility (perceived by me)....I told Jack I had snacks and drinks in the car. So he turned around and started to get them, and the box they were in fell down, and then he flew off the handle and started SCREAMING. I was calm and said I needed him to try to not do that when we are in the car and I am driving unless something very wrong is happening that might mean we were in danger. I pulled over - waited for about 20 minutes and it didn't stop Then I told him I thought we needed to go to the crisis center. He told me he didn't want to TALK to ME in his words I said you don't have to talk to me Jack, but I need to find out what is going on that has made your behavior change 180 degrees so you are acting like a completely different person. I don't recognize who this person is that has all of these behaviors Then he told me he felt like he wanted to go to the crisis center I drove down there and then he was very angry with me for driving him to the crisis center and he said he never remembered anything that had happened (like he dissociated). I really am wondering if there is something physically very seriously wrong Lindsey. I 'do' believe there is definitely emotional trauma that therapy can help with too - but something is not right right now. I am even wondering if he is being abused at school or something.

I know that for a while, he had opened up tenderly to me about how he felt like his mother didn't love him. And he had asked me to talk to her with him. It seems like too much of a coincidence to me that everything seemed to 'hit the fan' after he tried to talk to her, she refused to listen to him - and then I hear about names he has been called when there at her house. I make mistakes too of course - just like all parents do - but I do not and would not call any child names ever - or any grown up for that matter. I know that the name calling that has taken place when he is there has had a very profound impact on him. She called Jack and also me both compulsive liars. That is when I had to write to his neurologist to ask her to write a letter that I could give to Jack's mother 'proving' that he was having health problems. I shouldn't have to do things like that. As stated in the afore-mentioned - I make plenty of mistakes too that I am sure also have an impact on Jack that is not always positive.

I need to find someone in town that does OT for Jack - he is having hand / overall sensory system / and proprioception and spatial issues.

I need to find someone in town that does PT for Jack - he is having carpal tunnel like pain.

I need to find someone in town to do a neuro-psych eval in full. My therapist gave me the name of someone he recommended for Jack. He said the waiting list might be long but it would be worth it.

Jack told me about the Rage Room - and I told him I thought that was a great idea for him - so I am looking into seeing about taking him there.

I need to get a copy of the eval that Centerstone did a few years ago when Jack saw Matt Lowry there. Can you pull that for me? I can sign a records release if you can please fax it to (502) 996-8246. That is my personal fax number that only goes to me. It's sole purpose is for medical records.

I need to find someone that specializes in auditory processing and other processing-type disorders. I have felt for a long time that Jack might have Auditory Processing. Do you know of anyone in town - specifically trained in this area of expertise?

Jack told me he wanted to be home schooled a few days ago. I told him he would need to 'allow' me to teach him if that were the case and that I would have to find a way to make it work. Other options are 'Pathfinders School of Innovation' and 'Home Hospital'. Looking into/exploring all of the above. Will do whatever Jack needs - he is who and what I am most concerned about in this world.

Please confirm you received this email. Please send former eval from Centerstone for Jack if possible. Please confirm Jack has been scheduled for 9 am at your office from Jan. 6 until the end of March on Wednesday mornings.

Oh - last question - looking for small group therapy for Jack for peers or support groups for depression for children his age. And for anxiety. Do you know of any?

John

I apologize for the late response! I have actually been sick this past week (not COVID, thank goodness!), and had to play a bit of catch up 😊

That is correct! I had no other available times in the office to offer, since I am fully booked until the end of December. I figured I can try and squeeze him at school, since I have all of Fridays dedicated to going to Bloom. As for appointments through March, I can do every Wednesday @ 9:00 am, and make sure he has that spot.

Thanks for your patience!
Lindsey

Lindsey,

I waited on hold for 14 minutes trying to reach you. It is my understanding that you are meeting with Jack on Friday mornings in December at 9 or 9:30 am, and that Jack has an appointment on Wed. Jan 5th at some time in the morning at your office downtown.

Can you please confirm times?

I also want to schedule Jack out through the end of March for appts. Any morning appts at 9 are preferred, or at 1pm are preferred per Jack, and school schedule.

Appointments outside these times are also ok.

Hello John!

I have a list of recommended services here in Louisville that handles psychological testing and other forms of testing, which is attached to this email. They also accept your guys' insurance, which is always a plus 😊 I would recommend here, but I know the waitlist is very long and your guys' insurance won't necessarily be covered. I know the wait time for the other psychological testing in the community tends to be about 4-8 weeks, possibly a bit longer.

I know I have had a lot of kiddos go through Witten and Edelson and have always said positive things about it.

Hope this helps!
Lindsey

Hi Lindsey.

Good to meet with you this morning. I think Jack benefits from each therapy session he has - I am grateful for therapists in the world.

Because Jack has made such a divergent path from his norm in the last 3 to 5 weeks, I think it is probably a good idea to have some kind of evaluation done to make sure that there is not something being missed somewhere along the lines. How does that work, and how much time is needed for something like that, and when could it be done, and what assessments would be given?

There should already be a form for release on file at L.E.T. but if I need to fill out a separate one that is okay. We had finally gotten Jackie approved for ABA but then before we even had our first session, the ABA therapist decided she could not take on another client.

We had 2 sessions with a speech therapist but she is on maternity leave until March.

We are on a waiting list for Occupational Therapy and have been for months.

Jackie sees a talk therapist at Seven County Services named Lindsey Smith (ROI on file already for L.E.T.) but if you need one specifically for your name - I understand - just let me know.

I have my own fax number for medical records or whatever (502) 996-8246.

Thank you Akhilah.

John

p.s. I would love to see a therapy plan with goals that we could measure progress toward.

Jackie also is dealing with Long Covid symptoms specifically of fatigue, shortness of breath, and short term memory loss. Other concerns are those of autism spectrum disorder level 2, adhd, suicidal ideation, no ability to have consequences for actions, extreme regression in many areas, and I don't know why, and more. Goals I would like for Jackie to have are to reduce levels of anxiety and fears (e.g. I cannot even go to the bathroom on my own without Jackie right next to me because Jackie has such fears) - an example is a fear of Slender Man...Jackie is no longer able to sleep in Jackie's own room although Jackie did from ages 6 to 10...just a couple examples there. Jackie used to know about people's bubbles and not to get into them and not to interpret conversations constantly, but somehow Jackie has not been using these skills - and I am not exactly certain as to what is going on. I want Jackie to learn how to create happiness from within, to be a self-sufficient adult as much as possible one day, and to be able to receive and give love with as much robustness as possible for Jackie and for those in Jackie's life both now and in the future. Jackie is a very creative and artistic child with a unique way of communicating. It is not always easy to get out of Jackie what Jackie needs or wants - so communicating clearly and effectively should be a goal (as it should be for all of us!)...just saying all humans could probably use help in that area.

I'll sit in for 15 or 20 minutes maybe of the first session - Jackie is always saying that Jackie needs all the time and I don't want to interfere with Jackie's needs. You seemed very nice and kind in the short time I got to meet you. Looking forward to seeing you soon for Jackie.

Hi John,

I wanted to respond to your email from the 23rd and assist with a couple of the questions that you provided for me! First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

Jackie has become more and more and more defiant and resentful with contempt toward me because I am the only one that takes Jackie to appointments....and I don't know what to do to fix the problem...

Jackie said the Portland office looked 'too fancy'..

Also of note, for some reason this week, Jackie has had extreme sensitivity issues...to light...sound...light touch...'grease on Jackie's fingers'...even after washing hands repeatedly...all as reported by Jackie.

I cced Dani on this email bc I wanted to ask her a few questions too.

Dani....

Did you get a chance to talk with Jackie about how transition of therapists work? I think Jackie is angry with me partly because she won't be able to see you anymore after next time. How do I handle that anger?

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Good afternoon, John!

It was really great to meet with J today :)

I just wanted to be sure you had a bit more info on my end, so that you are able to see what works best for you and J moving forward with their transitioning from Dani.

I believe that you all have been originally meeting during the day on Thursdays. I am taking clients during the day at our new Portland location (1215 Portland Ave, Louisville, KY 40203). However, I am only seeing clients during the week after 5:30 pm at the Frankfort Ave location. I have included my current availability below...

Available Times/ Days:
Thursdays - 5:30 pm (biweekly available), 6:30 pm, and 8:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Fridays - 6:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available), and 7:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Saturdays - 9:30 am (weekly), 10:30 am (biweekly available), 11:30 am (weekly)

If any of this works, you are more than welcome to call/txt me at 502-512-8522 and we can chat about it! You are welcome to text me at the number as well. Also, if any of the times would work moving forward, we could talk about transitioning sooner if that is something you are looking to do, or me sitting in on the last session with Dani before transitioning.

If none of this works, that is okay as well, I respect whatever decision it is that you make.

Hope to hear from you! Thanks for letting me meet J today, they are an awesome kid!

Dani and Akhilah,

Thanks for writing. Jackie is hoping to see you in person tomorrow Dani - it would be better for Jackie - Jackie voiced today how much she 'hates to be with me' because it is her mother's week and she is 'stuck' with me for school while her mom is at work on her mom's weeks. We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Regarding the number of appointments - there are already too many - Jackie has to come with me to mine as well because there is not care available aside from me taking care of Jackie.

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.

I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.

Hi Akhilah!

Happy Saturday! There are a lot of concerns - I've listed a few here... Jackie has several physical health ailments that are similar to those that I have. Jackie also is dealing with Long Covid symptoms specifically of fatigue, shortness of breath, and short term memory loss. Other concerns are those of autism spectrum disorder level 2, adhd, suicidal ideation, no ability to have consequences for actions, extreme regression in many areas, and I don't know why, and more. Goals I would like for Jackie to have are to reduce levels of anxiety and fears (e.g. I cannot even go to the bathroom on my own without Jackie right next to me because Jackie has such fears) - an example is a fear of Slender Man...Jackie is no longer able to sleep in Jackie's own room although Jackie did from ages 6 to 10...just a couple examples there. Jackie used to know about people's bubbles and not to get into them and not to interpret conversations constantly, but somehow Jackie has not been using these skills - and I am not exactly certain as to what is going on. I want Jackie to learn how to create happiness from within, to be a self-sufficient adult as much as possible one day, and to be able to receive and give love with as much robustness as possible for Jackie and for those in Jackie's life both now and in the future. Jackie is a very creative and artistic child with a unique way of communicating. It is not always easy to get out of Jackie what Jackie needs or wants - so communicating clearly and effectively should be a goal (as it should be for all of us!)...just saying all humans could probably use help in that area.

I'll sit in for 15 or 20 minutes maybe of the first session - Jackie is always saying that Jackie needs all the time and I don't want to interfere with Jackie's needs. You seemed very nice and kind in the short time I got to meet you. Looking forward to seeing you soon for Jackie.

Hi John,

I wanted to respond to your email from the 23rd and assist with a couple of the questions that you provided for me! First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

Jackie wants to do 7:30 every other week (on my weeks only since Jackie's mom won't take Jackie anywhere per Jackie's own words)...until a regular weekly daytime appointment becomes available.

Is there a plan now or at any time in the future for a therapist to be able to travel to a client's home? Jackie has become more and more and more defiant and resentful with contempt toward me because I am the only one that takes Jackie to appointments....and I don't know what to do to fix the problem...

Jackie said the Portland office looked 'too fancy'..

Also of note, for some reason this week, Jackie has had extreme sensitivity issues...to light...sound...light touch...'grease on Jackie's fingers'...even after washing hands repeatedly...all as reported by Jackie.

I cced Dani on this email bc I wanted to ask her a few questions too.

Dani....

Did you get a chance to talk with Jackie about how transition of therapists work? I think Jackie is angry with me partly because she won't be able to see you anymore after next time. How do I handle that anger?

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

I totally understand and hear your concerns. Here is a short video link to the Portland location and a few pics if you'd like to check it out! Everyone really seems to enjoy this space.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Dani and Akhilah,

Thanks for writing. Jackie is hoping to see you in person tomorrow Dani - it would be better for Jackie - Jackie voiced today how much she 'hates to be with me' because it is her mother's week and she is 'stuck' with me for school while her mom is at work on her mom's weeks. We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Regarding the number of appointments - there are already too many - Jackie has to come with me to mine as well because there is not care available aside from me taking care of Jackie.

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

Hi John,

I wanted to reach out and provide a plan of transition after I leave December 2nd, and some recommendations that I have that can be done in the future for JaF!

First, JaF will be meeting Akhilah tomorrow via zoom with me so that we can get to know them and see if they enjoy talking with them and working with them before my last day on December 2nd. I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

Secondly, after discussing JaF in supervision, I have a list of recommendations that I think would increase JaF's therapeutic growth in the future. My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.

Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

However, I would caution against having too many appointments to where JaF can become overstimulated, and could result in more angered outbursts at home.

I look forward to my last sessions with JaF, and will see you tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer

Hi John,

I wanted to respond to your email from the 23rd and assist with a couple of the questions that you provided for me! First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Dani and Akhilah,

Thanks for writing. Jackie is hoping to see you in person tomorrow Dani - it would be better for Jackie - Jackie voiced today how much she 'hates to be with me' because it is her mother's week and she is 'stuck' with me for school while her mom is at work on her mom's weeks. We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Regarding the number of appointments - there are already too many - Jackie has to come with me to mine as well because there is not care available aside from me taking care of Jackie.

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

Hi John,

I wanted to reach out and provide a plan of transition after I leave December 2nd, and some recommendations that I have that can be done in the future for JaF!

First, JaF will be meeting Akhilah tomorrow via zoom with me so that we can get to know them and see if they enjoy talking with them and working with them before my last day on December 2nd. I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

Secondly, after discussing JaF in supervision, I have a list of recommendations that I think would increase JaF's therapeutic growth in the future. My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.

Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

However, I would caution against having too many appointments to where JaF can become overstimulated, and could result in more angered outbursts at home.

I look forward to my last sessions with JaF, and will see you tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer

The place looks cool. Jackie takes nighttime meds at 5:30 that help Jackie wind down, so I don't think an evening spot would be helpful. The problem with Saturday is that Jackie has alternating Saturdays with me and Jackie's mom...and she does not like to bring Jackie to any appointments...and I feel strongly that Jackie needs weekly appointments. Let me talk to Jackie and get that perspective and get back to you.

I totally understand and hear your concerns. Here is a short video link to the Portland location and a few pics if you'd like to check it out! Everyone really seems to enjoy this space.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Dani and Akhilah,

Thanks for writing. Jackie is hoping to see you in person tomorrow Dani - it would be better for Jackie - Jackie voiced today how much she 'hates to be with me' because it is her mother's week and she is 'stuck' with me for school while her mom is at work on her mom's weeks. We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Regarding the number of appointments - there are already too many - Jackie has to come with me to mine as well because there is not care available aside from me taking care of Jackie.

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

Hi John,

I wanted to reach out and provide a plan of transition after I leave December 2nd, and some recommendations that I have that can be done in the future for JaF!

First, JaF will be meeting Akhilah tomorrow via zoom with me so that we can get to know them and see if they enjoy talking with them and working with them before my last day on December 2nd. I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

Secondly, after discussing JaF in supervision, I have a list of recommendations that I think would increase JaF's therapeutic growth in the future. My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.

Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

However, I would caution against having too many appointments to where JaF can become overstimulated, and could result in more angered outbursts at home.

I look forward to my last sessions with JaF, and will see you tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer

Hi John,

I wanted to respond to your email from the 23rd and assist with a couple of the questions that you provided for me! First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

Is there a plan now or at any time in the future for a therapist to be able to travel to a client's home? Jackie has become more and more and more defiant and resentful with contempt toward me because I am the only one that takes Jackie to appointments....and I don't know what to do to fix the problem...

Jackie said the Portland office looked 'too fancy'..

Also of note, for some reason this week, Jackie has had extreme sensitivity issues...to light...sound...light touch...'grease on Jackie's fingers'...even after washing hands repeatedly...all as reported by Jackie.

I cced Dani on this email bc I wanted to ask her a few questions too.

Dani....

Did you get a chance to talk with Jackie about how transition of therapists work? I think Jackie is angry with me partly because she won't be able to see you anymore after next time. How do I handle that anger?

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Dani and Akhilah,

Thanks for writing. Jackie is hoping to see you in person tomorrow Dani - it would be better for Jackie - Jackie voiced today how much she 'hates to be with me' because it is her mother's week and she is 'stuck' with me for school while her mom is at work on her mom's weeks. We need a solution but don't have one. It shouldn't be my responsibility to figure out a solution for Jackie's mother's weeks for Jackie - but alas - it falls on my shoulders...and I have no solution...

Regarding the number of appointments - there are already too many - Jackie has to come with me to mine as well because there is not care available aside from me taking care of Jackie.

Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

ABA was supposed to start this week....but the therapist decided it wasn't going to work out at the last minute so we are on a waiting list again....ABA has to be 'at a minimum' 12 hours per week. Jackie's mom would only commit to 9, and I have 12 for Jackie....they wanted us to do 25 hours per week but it was not feasible...

Thanks for the recommendations! Let me know if it can be in person tomorrow please, and thanks for everything as always!!

Hi John,

I wanted to reach out and provide a plan of transition after I leave December 2nd, and some recommendations that I have that can be done in the future for JaF!

First, JaF will be meeting Akhilah tomorrow via zoom with me so that we can get to know them and see if they enjoy talking with them and working with them before my last day on December 2nd. I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

Secondly, after discussing JaF in supervision, I have a list of recommendations that I think would increase JaF's therapeutic growth in the future. My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.

Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

However, I would caution against having too many appointments to where JaF can become overstimulated, and could result in more angered outbursts at home.

I look forward to my last sessions with JaF, and will see you tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer

Hey, John! Great seeing you all today :)

I just wanted to send a follow up email to the conversation we had at the end of Ja's session. I would officially meet with Ja on 12/8 at 7:30pm in the Frankfort Ave Office location. Here is a calendar of the remaining time for this year, and days we would have for next year. I don't anticipate anything will change, but I will keep you updated if I need to cancel for any reason (medical reasons, etc.).

I have made note of everything you mentioned in your last few emails, as well as will I be going over the notes from you and Dani's past sessions so I can get a little more familiar with Ja and how I will be able to better assist in our sessions.

Please let me know if you have any further questions, and we can definitely talk more next week!

Hi John,

I wanted to respond to your email from the 23rd and assist with a couple of the questions that you provided for me! First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

Is there a plan now or at any time in the future for a therapist to be able to travel to a client's home? Jackie has become more and more and more defiant and resentful with contempt toward me because I am the only one that takes Jackie to appointments....and I don't know what to do to fix the problem...

Jackie said the Portland office looked 'too fancy'..

Also of note, for some reason this week, Jackie has had extreme sensitivity issues...to light...sound...light touch...'grease on Jackie's fingers'...even after washing hands repeatedly...all as reported by Jackie.

I cced Dani on this email bc I wanted to ask her a few questions too.

Dani....

Did you get a chance to talk with Jackie about how transition of therapists work? I think Jackie is angry with me partly because she won't be able to see you anymore after next time. How do I handle that anger?

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

Thank you - I understand everything that you said. Part of the issue is that Jackie has such anger, and I don't know where it stems from, and I don't think Jackie really knows either. Today, on the ride to Bardstown and back for me for TMS....Jackie admitted that Jackie just takes Jackie's anger out on me (and not on anyone else). I told Jackie I appreciated that that was possible - to voice that out loud - and that I was proud of Jackie for realizing and acknowledging this. I also told Jackie that it is hard on me to absorb that negative energy (because it really is - it did not used to be)...before I got really sick it was not a big issue...but now...it is...so it is something that we need to work on...

Have not heard from Akhilah at all - I am concerned about the lack of communication - each time she is supposed to communicate, it seems that she doesn't. I am still waiting on her to get back to me from that email on Nov. 17th....it is 13 days later today - the holidays were in there...but still....it is concerning to me...I need to know if the every other week at 7:30pm is still going to work for her??? Can you find out since she has not communicated that? Can you find out please if she does not want to deal with Jackie or something? I want to make sure it is going to be a good fit.

First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
> For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

I cced Dani on this email bc I wanted to ask her a few questions too.

Dani....

Did you get a chance to talk with Jackie about how transition of therapists work? I think Jackie is angry with me partly because she won't be able to see you anymore after next time. How do I handle that anger?

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Good afternoon, John!

It was really great to meet with J today :)

I just wanted to be sure you had a bit more info on my end, so that you are able to see what works best for you and J moving forward with their transitioning from Dani.

I believe that you all have been originally meeting during the day on Thursdays. I am taking clients during the day at our new Portland location (1215 Portland Ave, Louisville, KY 40203). However, I am only seeing clients during the week after 5:30 pm at the Frankfort Ave location. I have included my current availability below...

Available Times/ Days:
Thursdays - 5:30 pm (biweekly available), 6:30 pm, and 8:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Fridays - 6:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available), and 7:30 pm (weekly/ biweekly available)
Saturdays - 9:30 am (weekly), 10:30 am (biweekly available), 11:30 am (weekly)

If any of this works, you are more than welcome to call/txt me at 502-512-8522 and we can chat about it! You are welcome to text me at the number as well. Also, if any of the times would work moving forward, we could talk about transitioning sooner if that is something you are looking to do, or me sitting in on the last session with Dani before transitioning.

If none of this works, that is okay as well, I respect whatever decision it is that you make.

Hope to hear from you! Thanks for letting me meet J today, they are an awesome kid!

Hi John,

I wanted to reach out and provide a plan of transition after I leave December 2nd, and some recommendations that I have that can be done in the future for JaF!

First, JaF will be meeting Akhilah tomorrow via zoom with me so that we can get to know them and see if they enjoy talking with them and working with them before my last day on December 2nd. I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

Secondly, after discussing JaF in supervision, I have a list of recommendations that I think would increase JaF's therapeutic growth in the future. My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.
Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

However, I would caution against having too many appointments to where JaF can become overstimulated, and could result in more angered outbursts at home.

I look forward to my last sessions with JaF, and will see you tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer

Dani and Akhilah,

Thanks for writing. Jackie is hoping to see you in person tomorrow Dani - it would be better for Jackie - Jackie voiced today how much she 'hates to be with me' because it is her mother's week and she is 'stuck' with me for school while her mom is at work on her mom's weeks. Akhilah - I am hoping maybe Jackie can meet with you while in person with Dani tomorrow - please let me know Dani.

Regarding OT - this is already in progress - we are on a waiting list and trying to get it set up right next to speech therapy and at the same place (Kids Center).

No worries about the letter John, we can take care of it on our end.
No, Medicaid cant cover these sessions with Dani because she is a student and doesn't have a license yet. We were doing them pro bono at this time.
I thought we could try and get more covered by Critically Loved, if they were willing to.

Thanks

Thanks Dani, these are great resources!
Im also thinking of asking Critically Loved for another 5 sessions of expressive therapy.
Would you all consider writing letters explaining why JaF would benefit from more expressive therapies? This would include where he was at before therapy, what progress he has made and what things we need to work on.
This can be in letter format to the board of Critically Loved.
We can also include any assessments or diagnosis we have received too from other mental health providers.

Thanks Team!

Hi John,

After our discussion today, and discussing the situation with Theresa, I wanted to provide resources of places that provide a neuropsychological evaluation that can be provided for Jack that accepts Medicaid. I believe this would be the best next step for JAF's to better help them grow in their therapeutic journey, including staying with the current safety plan, and have a better understanding of a diagnosis, potential medication, and counseling. Below is the following psychiatrists that can provide a neuropsych evaluation.

Erica Cecil, Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner, Louisville, KY, 40207 | Psychology Today
Dr. Reisha Caudill, APRN , FNP-C, PMHNPBC, Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner, Louisville, KY, 40207 | Psychology Today
Hagan Health, Psychiatrist, Louisville, KY, 40207 | Psychology Today
Psychiatry - Norton Healthcare Louisville, Ky.
Bridgehaven

Secondly, due to JAF's increase in anger incidents the safety of all family members is a priority. If there is an incident that is increased intensity, JAF can not calm down, and the safety of both you and JAF is jeopardized, please do not hesitate to use any of these crisis lines:

502-589-8070 child's crisis line
walk in children crisis team management: 914 E Broadway 2nd Fl 40204
2225 W Broadway 40211

Lastly, in case of emergencies such as yourself being hurt in an incident, JAF hurting themselves. Please do not hesitate to call 911 to protect each individual

Please feel free to reach out anytime to either me or Theresa! We are here to support each of you on your therapeutic journeys.

Sincerely,

Hi John,

After our discussion today, and discussing the situation with Theresa, I wanted to provide resources of places that provide a neuropsychological evaluation that can be provided for Jack that accepts Medicaid. I believe this would be the best next step for JAF's to better help them grow in their therapeutic journey, including staying with the current safety plan, and have a better understanding of a diagnosis, potential medication, and counseling. Below is the following psychiatrists that can provide a neuropsych evaluation.

Erica Cecil, Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner, Louisville, KY, 40207 | Psychology Today
Dr. Reisha Caudill, APRN , FNP-C, PMHNPBC, Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner, Louisville, KY, 40207 | Psychology Today
Hagan Health, Psychiatrist, Louisville, KY, 40207 | Psychology Today
Psychiatry - Norton Healthcare Louisville, Ky.
Bridgehaven

Secondly, due to JAF's increase in anger incidents the safety of all family members is a priority. If there is an incident that is increased intensity, JAF can not calm down, and the safety of both you and JAF is jeopardized, please do not hesitate to use any of these crisis lines:

502-589-8070 child's crisis line
walk in children crisis team management: 914 E Broadway 2nd Fl 40204
2225 W Broadway 40211

Lastly, in case of emergencies such as yourself being hurt in an incident, JAF hurting themselves. Please do not hesitate to call 911 to protect each individual

Please feel free to reach out anytime to either me or Theresa! We are here to support each of you on your therapeutic journeys.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer

I would like for Jack/ie to remain at LET. Jack/ie needs to not miss any weeks of sessions if that is at all a possibility during this time of transition. I just want to tell you thank you for working with Jack/ie very well, and while I wish you the very best in your life and endeavors, it also makes me sad that Jack/ie will not be able to continue with such a good therapist and fit.

Subject: Transition plan for client

Hello John,

I am reaching out to all client families today to inform them that I am now in my midterm of internship, meaning that I have 9 weeks left at LET (meaning 9 individual sessions left or 4 or 5 bi weekly appointments). Due to all the upcoming holidays, breaks, and events I am reaching out to start creating a plan of transition for each client. I would like to know if you would like to continue services with LET after my leaving. Secondly, due to there not being any more interns, all clients will have to have to be seen by a licensed therapist and use insurance or private rates if wanting to stay at LET. They will be placed on a waiting list and have priority over new and incoming clients.I will also be contacting the therapist for availability in the end of October to November. Please let me know what you would like for Jack!

Sincerely,

Danielle Creamer

Subject: Re: Shift in schedule.

Hi Dani.

I have IVIG on Mondays (think 8 hour IV appointment - with IV stuck in my arm). Sometimes I have side effects for a few days. Most of the time not too bad, but sometimes not so good. Also, I have art therapy myself on Tuesdays from 1 to 2pm. I don't feel like it would be fair on Jack to have him do art therapy on Tuesday from 11 to 12 then us eat lunch then have him go back to the art therapy building, and sit there for an hour while I do art therapy. I think it would be hard on him.

Fridays are not generally good because they are transition days and we are always struggling to get everything done that we need to do.

Also we have Physical Therapy appointments for both of us that have been added to our calendars that make it harder to schedule.

Wednesdays Jack has talk therapy from 12pm to 1pm and I have standing appointments with social workers that are trying to help me find some kind of resource to help us in terms of housing and assistance with utilities from 2pm to 3pm.

Right now, the spot Jack has with you is really the best thing for us - can we please keep that spot?

I'm also trying to get Jack scheduled for ABA therapy and Occupational Therapy - so it is hard to get things scheduled - please confirm that we can keep Jack's spot where it is with you (if possible at all). Thanks Dani

However, if I run across a resource for this I will send it your way.

I want to get Jack involved in something aiming toward his dreams and goals - he wants to be a gaming creator and a person that does walkthroughs on YouTube and gets paid and gets sponsorships. I gave him a "My Personal Mission Statement" assignment last week as part of his homeschool. Anything we can do to encourage that direction. He also wants to get flight lessons - which I have not figured out yet of course...in terms of money...and not sure of other implications...

I also want him to be able to do something where he can have the potential to earn a trophy. He has voiced many times that he feels terrible because he has not ever won a trophy. I don't know where that comes from.

Also - for therapy - he keeps saying how much people have made fun of him for his bad handwriting. I don't think his handwriting is bad. He needs to practice some, but I don't think it is bad really at all.

He also refuses to read out loud quite often and won't say why.

So extra things to work on in therapy - in addition to - recognizing tones that are there and not there, knowing where the line is between imagination and reality, recognizing social cues, facial expressions, meanings thereof, etc...

Thanks Dani!!

Key Home Warranty Benefits

PAID CONTENT

SAVINGS, CONVENIENCE, AND MORE

The average annual cost for home repairs is $3,000, according to Homelight.com. Setting aside 1-3% of your home's value for repairs and maintenance is a good rule of thumb. An American Home Shield® warranty helps protect your money with coverage for the major parts of the covered home appliances and systems you rely on most.

With an AHS® home warranty, you can choose a plan that suits your budget and needs. Once your coverage begins, you can start a service request and pay your service fee at the click of a button. You'll have peace of mind knowing a Pro is ready to help.

Plus, you'll save $136* or more when you use your AARP member benefit. This discount can be combined with any valid statewide promotional offer for additional savings.

Early Access: $100 Uber/Uber Eats for $90

TIME FOR SPRING CLEANING!

Hello, spring allergies. There's not much you can do about everything blooming outside. But you can reduce allergens lurking inside your own house. Here's how to cut down on common culprits like dust, dander, and fragrances – for a clean indoors.

GET RID OF DUST

Clean furniture, ceiling fans, and blinds with a microfiber cloth, which traps dust instead of brushing it into the air. Vacuum sofas, mattresses, and curtains, using a high-efficiency particulate air (HEPA) filter.

IMPROVE AIR FILTRATION

Make sure air filters in central air conditioners or other units are fresh. HEPA filters will do the most efficient job. Reduce mold by using exhaust fans in high-moisture areas, like bathrooms.

PREVENT PET DANDER AND POLLEN

Brush and bathe pets regularly to reduce dander and shedding. Wash pets' toys and bedding. After walks or time outside, wipe off pets' paws with a damp cloth.

PAY ATTENTION TO YOUR LAUNDRY DETERGENT

Some detergents contain fragrances and dyes that can cause irritation for sensitive skin. A hypoallergenic detergent, like all® free clear, removes 99% of seasonal allergens* from fabrics.

Jackie also is dealing with Long Covid symptoms specifically of fatigue, shortness of breath, and short term memory loss. Other concerns are those of autism spectrum disorder level 2, adhd, suicidal ideation, no ability to have consequences for actions, extreme regression in many areas, and I don't know why, and more. Goals I would like for Jackie to have are to reduce levels of anxiety and fears (e.g. I cannot even go to the bathroom on my own without Jackie right next to me because Jackie has such fears) - an example is a fear of Slender Man...Jackie is no longer able to sleep in Jackie's own room although Jackie did from ages 6 to 10...just a couple examples there. Jackie used to know about people's bubbles and not to get into them and not to interpret conversations constantly, but somehow Jackie has not been using these skills - and I am not exactly certain as to what is going on. I want Jackie to learn how to create happiness from within, to be a self-sufficient adult as much as possible one day, and to be able to receive and give love with as much robustness as possible for Jackie and for those in Jackie's life both now and in the future. Jackie is a very creative and artistic child with a unique way of communicating. It is not always easy to get out of Jackie what Jackie needs or wants - so communicating clearly and effectively should be a goal (as it should be for all of us!)...just saying all humans could probably use help in that area.

I'll sit in for 15 or 20 minutes maybe of the first session - Jackie is always saying that Jackie needs all the time and I don't want to interfere with Jackie's needs. You seemed very nice and kind in the short time I got to meet you. Looking forward to seeing you soon for Jackie.

Here is a calendar of the remaining time for this year, and days we would have for next year. I don't anticipate anything will change, but I will keep you updated if I need to cancel for any reason (medical reasons, etc.).

I have made note of everything you mentioned in your last few emails, as well as will I be going over the notes from you and Dani's past sessions so I can get a little more familiar with Ja and how I will be able to better assist in our sessions.

Please let me know if you have any further questions, and we can definitely talk more next week!

First, I did talk about the transition with JaF and that we cannot be "angry" with someone if they have no control over the situation and stated that you had nothing to do with my leaving or JaF. JaF replied and stated that "I will miss you", and therefore I think some of the anger about the transition is the thought of leaving and being sad about the loss. JaF also has became resistive and avoidant in talking about "hard emotions", so often it is a dance to pull some of these things out. However, it takes time and continuation to see improvement.
> For helping with change, I have a lot of resources that can be beneficial for JaF and help them process adjustment and change. That I will attach at the end of the email. Provide an open conversation about change and how JaF has done this before with moving from different states, starting homeschool, and even working with me after meeting with T for a while. Encourage their resiliency and how they can overcome this obstacle. Stating facts to JaF about the situation is also very important. I provided JaF that my internship is ending and that I am planning to stay in Lexington due to being close to home. For the anger, explain that with change can come anger and we can be angry about the situation, however, we can not be angry forever or take this anger out on the ones we love. Talk about ways to transform the anger whether it be through art, building, and something they enjoy.

For the Phoenix school, the last email with the links at the bottom has the contact information for the school when you click on the page so that they can assist you any way they can! For counseling services, I assume there are counselors on staff, however, I would ask this directly with the school administration.

For anger, JaF hinted about being angry about being taken to appointments consistently, which is kind of what we had discussed at their session on Tuesday. Providing a structure so that you do not have dual roles of teacher and dad. I think the school would provide JaF the opportunity to have space to interact with friends, and teachers, and learn. In return, it would give you a break so that you can go to appointments and not have the dual role of teacher. However, diving deeper to find the root of anger would take more time in therapy and sessions. Oftentimes, it is like taking a wall down a brick at a time, rather than bulldozing it down.

For empathy, I would not go to the conclusion that JaF has lost empathy. Due to JaF being neurodivergent, JaF reponse to social situations can be different than other individuals. JaF could potentially not have known how to react in that situation, and that then led to the response of running away. Next time this shows up, discuss your emotions attached to this situation and explore how JaF would react in a certain situation and how they would feel. I have attached an article that is very helpful in discussing Autism and empathy. I am also attaching how to increase empathy in the home.

Is there a plan now or at any time in the future for a therapist to be able to travel to a client's home? Jackie has become more and more and more defiant and resentful with contempt toward me because I am the only one that takes Jackie to appointments....and I don't know what to do to fix the problem...

Jackie said the Portland office looked 'too fancy'..

Also of note, for some reason this week, Jackie has had extreme sensitivity issues...to light...sound...light touch...'grease on Jackie's fingers'...even after washing hands repeatedly...all as reported by Jackie.

I cced Dani on this email bc I wanted to ask her a few questions too.

Dani....

Did you get a chance to talk with Jackie about how transition of therapists work? I think Jackie is angry with me partly because she won't be able to see you anymore after next time. How do I handle that anger?

How am I to handle the anger and resentment Jackie has toward me because I am the parent that actually takes care of Jackie?

Do you have a contact at The Phoenix School that I can reach our to? And do you know if in school therapy is offered, or if there are any hybrid home and school portions of programs there? The Novak Center Infectious Disease doctor told us Jackue needs to focus more on rest and less on school, but I have already lessened the school stuff in large majority and from Jackie I usually only get complaints, hate, how much Jackie says Jackie does not want to be anywhere near me, etc...and I need to protect my own mental health which is fragile already from living in burning alive pain for almost 14 years now...and because I am sensitive in general.

We're you able to find out if the surface anger was more deeply rooted and tied to something else?

I told Jackie earlier today that it is a hard day for me because in 2006, one of my best friends hung himself on Nov. 23rd. To that, Jackie replied, 'what would you do if I ran away and never had to see you again...'....I mean I feel like Jackie has list empathy too and it deeply concerns me.

As far as keeping the same time, I am able to do 11:30 am on Saturday, as I know them and Dani have been meeting during the day around the time. I could not do this during the week, though, as I work another full time job during the day.

With regards to remaining at the Frankfort location, I unfortunately only could do that on Thursdays at 7:30 pm as I have now transitioned all of my clients to this location minus this day/time (Thursdays at 7:30).

If you would be interested in maybe taking the Saturday 11:30 am - 12:20 pm slot, I could definitely write you all in and plan to meet with you all and Dani at your last session in a December! If not, I totally understand if this won't work out. No pressure at all. If need be, LET could place you on the waitlist until another time slot opens up? Or you and Dani could discuss referral info.

Let me know what your thoughts are :)

Hi Akhilah,

Thanks for listing out your times. I am glad that you were able to meet Jackie. Jackie seemed to like you - so that is a good start/sign. This might seem like a very weird question, but do you have any pictures of the 1215 Portland Ave location? I ask for multiple reasons - but here are a couple - Jackie has a lot of trouble with transitions and transitioning therapists - and - locations - might be a bit too much at once for Jackie. Jackie has grown to love the Frankfort Ave location, but there is no way I can accommodate the times you are available there. I really need to keep the time slot that we have for Jackie - is that time available at Portland? We have so many appointments that it is very difficult to make any changes. And with adding in 12 hours of ABA therapy in addition to so many others, it is just a large challenge...and Jackie's mother doesn't take Jackie to appointments - so my weeks are very hectic.... and I have a major energy deficit (Chronic Fatigue Syndrome) and Complex Regional Pain Syndrome and Small Fiber Polyneuropathy and etc....basically it is also hard for me to get around...and I have been having even a harder time as the days go by and weeks go by....so basically - need to know mainly if can keep same time slot if at the Portland location?

John (Jackie's dad)

p.s. I think it is important that you sit in on the last session with Jackie if at all possible.

Hope to hear from you! Thanks for letting me meet J today, they are an awesome kid!

> > First, JaF will be meeting Akhilah tomorrow via zoom with me so that we can get to know them and see if they enjoy talking with them and working with them before my last day on December 2nd. I have attached Akhilah's information in cc'ing them if you have questions for them before the session tomorrow. If JaF enjoys their rapport with Akhilah, then JaF will be transitioned to their caseload. Please feel free to contact Akhilah, or Akhilah feel free to contact John so that you can go ahead and start scheduling after December 2nd!

Secondly, after discussing JaF in supervision, I have a list of recommendations that I think would increase JaF's therapeutic growth in the future. My first recommendation is to potentially see an occupational therapist. However, I know we had discussed them seeing an ABA a couple times a week, so this should help enormously. So this can be placed on hold, and see what the ABA's referral can also be.
Another suggestion to increase social skills, and assist them with growth in the environment outside of the home is getting involved in clubs such as technology clubs, specialty programs for kids with autism, and even going to specialized public schooling. I have found a school called the Phoneix school in which assists children in middle school and high school with learning differences, but providing a smaller class size with other similar students to provide that 1:1 individualized teaching style. I will be attaching links to my recommendations below. Even later in life they have programs such as the college of living or day programs that JaF can attend when they become 18 to increase their social growth.
Lastly, I would look later into family therapy for you and JaF to attend, many of the autism specialty programs offered have parent classes and different therapies provided to help the family unit to assist in their child's growth! As well, 7 counties provide family therapy, and this might be another avenue to look into due to you and JaF connection with their talk therapist there.

However, I would caution against having too many appointments to where JaF can become overstimulated, and could result in more angered outbursts at home.

I look forward to my last sessions with JaF, and will see you tomorrow.

Sincerely,
Danielle Creamer
